DRY AGENTS RAID STE. GENEVIEVE AS CROWDS JEER

St. Louis Prohibition Officers Invade 12 Saloons and Poolrooms, Armed With Search Warrants.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo., April 30.—Taunted by Ste. Genevieve townspeople, who jeered them derisively as they worked, a squadron of prohibition agents from St. Louis tonight raided 12 saloons and poolrooms, seized liquor in eight of them and made 10 arrests.

The agents, traveling in eight automobiles, descended upon the town just as its citizens issued forth from their dinners for Saturday evening strolls down the main street. Twelve search warrants were served, but in four cases the places were without liquor as far as the raiders could determine.

Ste. Genevieve, which is 71 miles south from St. Louis, has been taking its liquor in the open. None of its bars is screened and any passerby can see from the sidewalk who is drinking and what is being drunk.

Crowds Gather Quickly.

The arrest of sheriff Donze of Ste. Genevieve County last week on a charge of operating a still was a mild sensation compared to the excitement caused by the appearance of the agents tonight. In front of every dispensary of hard drinks crowds gathered quickly.

Stinging epithets were hurled at the Federal men as they read search warrants and smashed bottles, and boos and hisses greeted their every movement. In a few cases some of the exasperated agents rushed the crowds only to find that their tormenters had judiciously withdrawn.

Sheriff Donze's uncle, Lawrence, was arrested in his saloon where agents found his 17-year-old daughter behind the bar. A thousand quarts of homebrew, 22 gallons of whisky and 20 gallons of wine were seized.

Kicks Bottle Through Hole.

When agents entered the bar of J. B. Caldwell, he cannily kicked a bottle from behind the bar. It fell through a hole in the floor and was smashed on a rock below, which was just under the hole. There were nine pints of wine of pepsin in the basement, however, and Caldwell was taken to St. Louis with the other prisoners.

As the saloon of F. X. Siebert was being raided his assistant, Leo Klein, rushed in and shouted "Get rid of everything, the prohibition agents are here!" He was arrested, along with Kein.

The other prisoners identified themselves as Roy Sickles, Manuel Godier, Edwin Sexauer, Tom and Ed Schwendt ,brothers, Jack Maurice and Lawrence Huck.

REED WILL LEAVE HOSPITAL

Higher, Wider and Stronger Levees Only Feasible Safeguard Against Future Disaster He Says in Memphis.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 30.—Desolation wrought by "the most dangerous flood our country has ever known in its history" was pictured tonight in a radio address by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who had just completed a week's survey of the swollen Mississippi River from Memphis to New Orleans.

Before he faced the microphone Hoover joined with Major-Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of the army engineers, in a statement to the effect that stronger, wider and higher levees afforded the only hope for relief from future floods. Reforestation, flood control works in the upper reaches of the river and other ideas for control were held to be unfeasible.

Ruin to 200,000 persons, 6,000,000 acres flooded, $200,000,000 damage, thousands still clinging to their homes where upper floors remain dry, more thousands needing to be removed in boats and established in great camps on higher ground, and yet other thousands, camped on broken levees—these were some of the points stressed by Hoover over the radio.

Struggle Still Going On.

"In the mile of river below Vicksburg, which has not yet been reached by the crest of the flood the battle to control from breaks in the levees is still on," he said. "The question in the mind of every man in the district tonight is, 'Will the levees hold against the approaching a creste?

He pictured thousands of men "strung mile upon mile work in long strings, like ants, piling the levees higher and higher," and added that while important levees have been held "what the result of the fight may be no one knows."

"But if our engineers should fail in their work at any section the forces of relief are mobilized for instant action," he said.

"I am confident that we shall have little loss of life even if the worst comes, yet we would have much destitution and suffering if breaks come."

He listed the homeless as follows:

Three thousand each in Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee; 20,000 or 30,000 in Missouri; 150,000 in Mississippi and 160,000 in Arkansa.

6,000,000 Acres Inundated.

"Six millions of acres of land have already been flooded," he continued. "More than $200,000,000 of damage has already been done. The cattle and the mules have been drowned by the thousands and the seed has been swept away. The land in the flooded districts will be under water for a month or six weeks. The camps must be maintained for that time. Immediately the land is drained, planting must be done again."

Hoover appealed to the nation for help.

"Even if the flood is not extended by the breaking of more levees, the calamity is an appalling one. These hundreds of thousand must not alone receive food, clothing, shelter and medical attention, but they must be re-started in life again. Houses, furniture, implements, seed, food for animals must be found after the crisis is passed.

"The people of the South are giving and giving again. They are not rich. Many vilages and towns have had their population doubled by destitute refugees. Their resources are exhausted with this, first week.

"They have already given more than any of our northern neighbors ever will be called upon to give."

Praises the Red Cross.

He praised the American Red Cross, for which an appeal for a $5,000,000 relief fund has been made and for which additional money will be asked by President Coolidge after Hoover reports to him next Monday morning in Washington.

"Efficient organization to meet all these difficult problems is moving apace," he said.

"The Red Cross has by quick action spread its net of support and protection over the flooded areas in support of the local communities. Looking even further forward, upon my recommendation, the Governors of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas have already appointed commissions of relief and reconstruction under leadership of independent and able citizens.

"These commissions are not only undertaking to coordinate the state with the national agencies in emergency questions but are at once organizing in every town and county to determine the need and the method of reconstruction. Our

UNIDENTIFIED WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO RUN BY BOY

Lee Jones, 19, Says Victim, About 55 Years Old, Stepped From Curb at Eighteenth and Cass Av.

TELLS POLICE SHE WALKED INTO FENDER

Youth Held for the Coroner After Pedestrian Succumbs to Internal Injuries and Crushed Chest.

An unidentified woman, about 55 years old, was struck by an automobile and killed at Eighteenth street and Cass avenue at 5 p. m. yesterday.

The driver, Lee Jones, 19, of 1922 Cass avenue, said he was going north in Eighteenth street, about to turn east, when the woman stepped from the southeast curb and walked into the side of his right front fender. He was arrested for the Coroner and held at Carr Street Police Station in default of bond.

The woman died of internal injuries and a crushed chest. She was 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighed about 110 pounds, had gray hair and wore a brown suit, black straw hat and glasses.

Unlighted Truck Injures Boy and Then Speeds Away.

Everett Smock, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smock, 1110 North Twenty-second street, was run down in front of his home at 7:30 o'clock last night by a motor truck which did not stop after the accident.

Witnesses said the truck was unlighted and was driven by a man who appeared to be a Negro. The boy was badly cut about the head and body.

Fergus Sweeney, 22, of 638 Tower Grove avenue, suffered skull fracture last night when he lost control of his automobile and crashed into a telephone pole in front of 8748 North Broadway. Physicians said he was suffering with acute alcoholism.

Dennis T. Murphy, 59, of 17 Southmoor Park, St. Louis County, suffered possible skull fracture when struck by an automobile as he stepped from behind a parked machine on Lindell boulevard near Boyle avenue.

Sylvia Berenbaum, 4, 1319 Hamilton avenue, was cut and bruised when struck by an automobile at Gamble street and Elliot avenue.

POEM CAUSES EDITOR'S ARREST

New York Obscenity Law Invoked Against "Daily Worker."

NEW YORK, April 30. — Bert Miller, general manager of the Daily Worker, newspaper, and William F. Dunne, one of its editors, were held in $500 bail each today by Magistrate Tolleris in Essex Market Court for trial in special session, charged with having distributed obscene printed matter. The charge grew out of the appearance of a bit of free verse entitled "America" in the March 12 issue of the paper, which is said to have characterized the United States as a country ruled by the newly rich to whom the worker must "take off his hat."

SOVIET REFUSES PASSAGE TO AMERICAN ADMIRAL

M. L. Bristol Said to Have Asked for Visa for Overland Trip to China.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 30.—Permission to traverse Russia on his way to China has been refused to Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, who is slated to succeed Rear Admiral Clarence S. Williams, commander of the American fleet in Chinese waters, the Associated Press is advised.

The grounds for this attitude by the Soviet Government were stated to be Washington's refusal to permit former Finance Commissioner Gregory Sokolnikoff, George Piatakoff, economic commissioner, and Mme. Kollontay, Soviet Ambassador to Mexico, to enter the United States.

Rear Admiral Bristol, who is high commissioner to Turkey and commander of the United States naval forces in Turkish waters, is said to have asked for a visa for himself and his wife, explaining that Mrs. Bristol was unable to stand a long Pacific voyage. The Soviet Government agreed to grant a visa for Mrs. Bristol should she desire to proceed alone.

Admiral Bristol is believed to be at Constantinople, but will soon return to the United States.

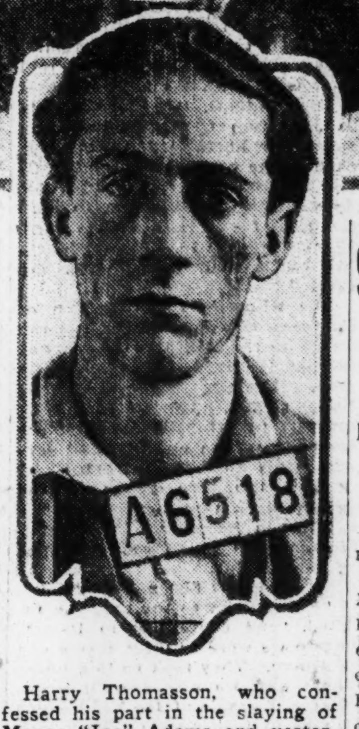
U. S. WARSHIP ON SHOALS

Super-Dreadnought Stranded in the East River.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Efforts to pull the steel nose of the super dreadnought Colorado off the shoals in the East River, where it has been stranded since early today, were abandoned tonight until flood-tide tomorrow morning. A fleet of 18 tugs worked for 12 hours to release the ship today. During the night 2000 tons of oil, together with ammunition and supplies, will be unloaded from the dreadnought, to lessen the vessel's draft.

The ship's 16-inch guns may be removed if she does not float at flood-tide tomorrow, Navy officials indicated.



Harry Thomasson, who confessed his part in the slaying of Mayor "Joe" Adams and yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment.

TO SCATTER GRAIN FOR STARVING QUAIL MAROONED IN FLOOD

Memphis Izaak Walton Leaguers Send Ten Bushels of Wheat to Arkansas.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 30. — While the Red Cross dispatched rations to the homeless human refugees of the flood, the Memphis chapter of the Izaak Walton League today sent ten bushels of wheat to Forest City, Ark., to feed quail marooned on railway embankments there, it was announced by Daniel Wolf, president of the chapter.

Thousands of covies of the birds are reported starving on high points in the flooded districts of Arkansas and Mississippi.

"When the waters rise the quails seek higher levels," Wolf explained. "The highest points in vast Arkansas areas are the railroad roadbeds. When trains come along the birds fly up to settle again when the cars have passed. There is absolutely no food for them, unless it is taken to them and scattered. We will send food for them."

91 MEN ENTOMBED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Eleven Known Dead and 15 Injured in Accident at Shaft at Everettsville, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 30.—Ninety-one men are thought to have lost their lives in a terrific explosion late today in the Everettsville mine of the New England Fuel & Transportation Co. The list of known dead had reached 11 late tonight. Eight bodies were removed from the mine, two men were killed at the tipple outside, while another died in a hospital shortly before midnight.

While the fate of 80 men still entombed in the workings remained unknown, rescue crews, which have penetrated the debris-strewn mine, said conditions were such that none of them could have survived.

Of the 15 known injured, several were reported by hospital authorities to be in a critical condition, Harold Davis, 18 years old, of Fairmont, a check weighman on the tipple, was so badly injured when the explosion blew off the front of the office in which he was working, that he died later in a hospital.

Among the identified dead were Jim Morrison and Robert Peters, Negro, whose body was discovered 250 feet down the main entry of the mine.

Witnesses said a Negro had given warning of the impending blast. Running from the mine he shouted that the mine was full of smoke. Then came a roar and a flash. The Negro was clear of the mine mouth and escaped injury. He could not be found tonight.

Manuel Porpo was the first man to come from the workings. He was unharmed, and soon led rescue workers back into the mine.

The mouth of the mine and the main passageway apparently were not badly damaged. The ventilating system was operating.

HARRY THOMASSON SAYS HE 'TALKED' BECAUSE BIRGER KILLED BROTHER

Elmo Thomasson Died in "Shady Rest" Fire—Decoy Note Clew to Crime's Solution.

SAYS GANG LEADER PAID $50 FOR "JOB"

No Emotion Shown When Thomasson, a Convicted Robber of 19, Tells Court His Story.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Distpatch.

BENTON, Ill., April 30.—"My brother, Elmo, and I killed Joe Adams, but Charley Birger made us do it," said Harry Thomasson in the Circuit Courtroom here today.

Harry Thomasson was snitching on the Birger gang and talking himself into a life term in the penitentiary, yet he spoke in a matter-of-fact tone.

"Birger promised us $50 for every shot that hit Joe Adams," he went on, quietly. "We each got $50 after we killed him and Ray Hyland got $50 for driving the car."

Circuit Judge Charles H. Miller interrupted the recital of how Adams, 300-pound Mayor of West City, Ill., was assassinated at the front door of his home, Sunday, Dec. 12, last, by asking:

"Why are you so insistent on pleading guilty of murder?"

Why He Has Confessed.

Thomasson did not flinch before the gravity of the Judge's voice and the tense silence of the small group of court attaches, and spectators in the room. He had put his head in the noose and was at the mercy of the court, yet he stood straight and answered steadily:

"Because Charley Birger, Art Newman, Connie Ritter and Freddie Wooten blew up Shady Rest cabin and killed my brother."

Thus it was that the 19-year-old prisoner had come from the reformatory at Pontiac to have revenge. A mere boy, yet a gangster, a gunman and a convict, he explained to the Judge the matter of getting even for his brother's murder. Elmo Thomasson had been silenced, but Harry was there in court to tell what he knew about the Birger gang. He was insistent. The Judge, State's Attorney Roy C. Martin and two lawyers appointed to represent him gave him every chance to save himself by keeping his mouth shut. Thomasson would not stand on his constitutional rights. He said he wanted to talk. He waved aside technicalities.

"It was Our Lives or Adams'."

"I am guilty," he declared. "My brother and I together shot Adams. Birger commanded us to. I knew that it was our lives or Adams'."

So he told the detailed story of the assassination of Adams, an enemy of the Birger gang, directly implicating Birger, Newman, Ritter and Hyland. There were no dramatics in the tale as he related it. There was nothing dramatic about Harry Thomasson, himself.

Slight of figure, pale of face, he had been brought to Benton at 9 o'clock in the morning from the reformatory where he was serving 10 years to life for robbery. He wore his "stir clothes," a baggy, ill-fitting suit of rough black material. When he reached Benton he had a prison cap two sizes too large for him. Moved by some pride, before he went to court, he had a Post-Dispatch reporter in the party buy him a new cap.

The happenings in court were as inconspicuous as their chief actor. Only a few officials knew Thomasson was coming in. Before persons on the street got wind of what was happening it was over. The murder of Mayor Adams had been solved, the Birger gang was one step nearer retribution, and Harry Thomasson awaited the Court's verdict.

Judge Miller asked the gunman's

KUOMINTANG SETS UP GOVERNMENT IN YUNNAN PROVINCE

Newly Organized Executive Committee Includes Both Rival Generals in This District.

PEKIN DOCUMENTS FAKED, SAYS MOSCOW

Legation Officials, However, Vouch for Authenticity of Papers Seized in Soviet Compound.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 30.—The Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist party) has established a Provincial Assembly at Yunnanfu, capital of the Province of Yunnan, according to authoritative reports received today. An executive committee was elected April 24, on which both rival Generals who have been struggling for dominance in the Province were included.

(Yunnan, in the southernmost part of China, bordering on Indo-China, has been the center of much turbulence for some time. Only recently the Rev. Morris Slichter of Toronto and his 8-year-old daughter were killed near Yunnanfu. Mrs. Slichter and their 5-year-old son were taken prisoners.)

The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Mail, who viewed the documents seized in the Northern Chinese raid on the soviet embassy compound in Pekin, says that among them is the original draft of memorandum from the British Minister to his negotiating officials in Hankow. (This is apparently a reference to Owen O'Malley, the British charge d'affaires, who went to Hankow and arranged for the transfer of the British concession there to the Chinese.) The British Minister, Sir Miles Lampson, said the document was the original. An official of the United States legation observed the whole investigation of the seized documents as the representative of the foreign Powers.

Pekin Documents Forgeries, Say Moscow Communists.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 30.—The secretariat of the Executive Communist International denounces the documents, alleged by the Northern Chinese authorities to have been seized in the Pekin raid early this month, as gross forgeries intended to excite public opinion against Soviet Russia.

Cantonese Send Forces Against Reds in Kwantaung and Hunan.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, China, April 30.—Troops are being dispatched today to the Kwantung and Hunan borders to stem the advance of Red troops advancing on Canton. The Reds still are fighting the Government forces in the outlying districts.

Nationalists at Hankow Growing More Conciliatory to Aliens.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, April 30.—The Hankow Nationalist Government is reported to have created a committee charged with administering justice, preserving peace and preventing antiforeignism.

Native advices say the Hankow regime is becoming increasingly conciliatory toward foreigners.

The Nationalist Government has issued an order prohibiting vessels to enter or leave the Whangpoo River by way of the Yangtze between sundown and sunrise, and is insisting that the order be obeyed.

The foreign Consuls sent a note to the Foreign Office agreeing to the order as regards passenger vessels, but declining to comply as far as gunboats were concerned, saying it was necessary for these war craft to move any hour deemed necessary.

To this note the Foreign Office has replied, insisting on compliance with its order to cease the operation of all vessels during the proscribed hours.

BIRGER GANGSTER ADMITS KILLING MAYOR ADAMS

lawyers if they had anything to say in his behalf. Both made pleas for mercy. State's Attorney Martin joined in asking that Thomasson's life be spared.

"I shall sentence you to life imprisonment," the Court announced.

Thomasson winced, sat down, turned to a Post-Dispatch reporter and said, "My jaw is sore. It must be from that wallop he gave me with that life sentence."

Thomasson will be the State's chief witness against Birger and his associates. His plea of guilty today and confession implicating the Birger leaders struck closer home than the Birger gang had expected. Birger and his men had repeatedly openly boasted that the State's Attorney and Sheriff James Pritchard would get nowhere near a solution of the Adams murder.

Birger Held in Jail.

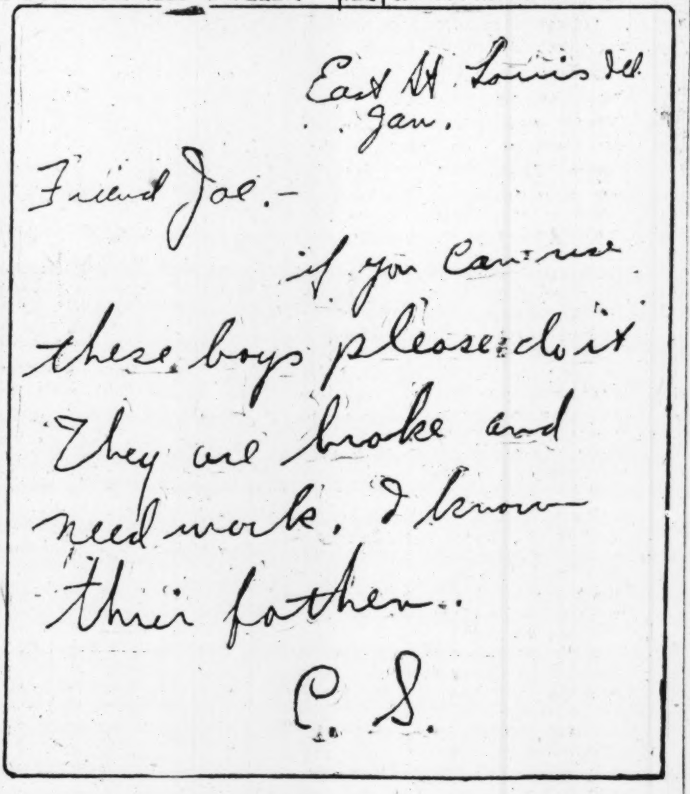
"I'll be back," said Thomasson, as he left by automobile for the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester shortly before noon, "and I'll tell the same story I told the Judge today." And then he added, to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "I wonder if they will put me in jail here and let me talk to Charley Birger. I would say 'Hello, Charley, you thought by killing my brother you could wipe out all trace of the Adams murder. But I am here and I have talked, Charley.' I would like to see Birger's face."

Murder Clew Letter, State Officials Who Solved Mystery and Judge Who Sentenced Slayer

ROY C. MARTIN—STATES ATTORNEY

JUDGE CHARLES H. MILLER

JAMES PRITCHARD—SHERIFF..



East St. Louis Ill.
Jan.

Friend Joe.-

if you Can use these boys please do it
They are broke and need work. I know their father.

C. S.

Birger is in jail here on indictments charging him with complicity in the Adams assassination, and Hyland also is in custody. Newman and Ritter have not been apprehended.

The means by which State's Attorney Martin and his aids developed a clew which led to Harry Thomasson and the well planned conspiracy in which Thomasson and his brother, Elmo, were the tools came to light in the space of an hour when court opened at 10 o'clock this morning.

State's Attorney Martin introduced Thomasson to Judge Miller, saying, "This is Harry Thomasson who is one of several Birger gangsters under indictment for the murder of Joe Adams. He wishes to plead guilty."

Counsel Appointed.

The Court asked Thomasson if that was correct, reminding him of the seriousness of the charge and that the death sentence might be imposed. "Do you wish to plead guilty?" Judge Miller repeated.

"I do," said the gunman.

Judge Miller suggested that counsel be appointed for the defendant before he proceeded further, and two Benton attorneys, G. G. Lewis and W. B. Johnson, were summoned. They conferred briefly with Thomasson and announced, "Our client is determined to plead guilty."

The indictment was read and Thomasson signed a waiver of trial by jury. Then the Judge said, leaning forward and surveying the gangster soberly, as if to impress upon him the seriousness of the moment, "Tell me what you did."

The Decoy Note Clew.

First there was the decoy note which, Thomasson said, had been written by "Connie" Ritter, who signed it "C. S." as if Carl Shelton, rival gang leader and close friend of Adams, was the writer. The note read:

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Jan. —.

Friend Joe:

If you can use these boys please do it. They are broke and need work. I know their father.
C. S.

When Mayor Adams fell dead in the front doorway of his home this note was clenched in his hand.

State's Attorney Martin, casting about for a clew, was struck by one sentence of the note: "I know their father." This seemed to be an inadvertent admission that the slayers were brothers. A check-up of the membership of the Birger gang, who were suspected of the crime, showed that there were only two brothers in the outfit: Harry and Elmo Thomasson. The note pointed clearly to the Thomassons. Later, Elmo was killed in the explosion at the Birger rendezvous and Harry ran afoul of the law on a robbery charge.

A Story of Revenge.

Revenge brought Harry to the courtroom here today, the cold revenge of a brother who believes Birger did away with Elmo Thomasson to seal his lips. And the story of the Thomasson boys, one 17 and the other 19, who did a gangster's work and came to bad ends, fell quietly from the lips of the surviving brother.

Their training in life had been in orphanages and reform schools. Then, they became Birger's gunmen.

Last December the gang leader, after boasting to newspaper men that he would kill Mayor Adams, because Adams was a retainer of the rival Shelton gang, set in motion the plot, Thomasson said today, which sent him and Elmo to do the killing. The Thomasson brothers were informed at a meeting the night of Dec. 11 at Shady Rest, the Birger stronghold in Williamson County, that they had been picked for the job.

"We Had to Do It."

"It was a command," said Harry Thomasson to the Judge. "We had to do it."

Present at the meeting, he declared, were Birger, Newman, Ritter and Harvy Dungy. The brothers reported for duty the next day and after their courage had been warmed by whisky which Birger supplied them they were given weapons and the decoy note. They also were supplied with an automobile and a driver, Hyland, known as "Izzy, the Jew." The brothers set out and were accompanied part of the way toward West City by another automobile in which were Newman and Ritter. It had been agreed that the cars would separate near Marion, the killers going to West City and the others to Dowell, where they were to meet after the murder.

Meanwhile, Birger was fixing up an alibi for himself, Harry Thomasson told the Judge. He had gone to Marion and was talking to State's Attorney Boswell at the time of the shooting in West City. Newman and Ritter had alibis, too.

Tells of the Murder.

Arrived at West City, the slayer related, "Izzy, the Jew," stopped the car near Mayor Adams' house. Harry and Elmo walked to the front door and knocked. Mrs. Adams opened the door.

"I didn't know Joe Adams," Harry said, "but I had been told he was a big fat man. We said to Mrs. Adams, 'We have a note to Joe from Carl Shelton.' She called her husband and we handed him the note. I had a .45-caliber revolver and Elmo had a .38. As soon as Adams began to read the note I shot him twice and Elmo opened fire. He threw up his hands and cried, 'Oh, my God!'"

The witness' reconstruction of the scene was emotionless. But the Judge on the bench, the lawyers at the bar, the little group of girls and men, office workers at the courthouse mostly, appeared to feel its drama. Occasionally Judge Miller broke in with a question and several times during the recital he warned the slim youth in the prison black that he was placing his life in jeopardy. But Harry Thomasson talked steadily in face of the gallows.

"Paid Us $50 a Piece."

"We ran out to the car," he related, "and drove fast to Dowell, where we were to meet Ritter and Newman. They took us to a house there and we stayed until night. Birger, Dungy and Joe Todd called for us in Birger's car. They took us back to Shady Rest. Birger wanted to know just what had happened and seemed glad the job went through all right. He got $150 from Ritter and paid us $50 apiece."

Thomasson appeared to know that he had only stopped en route from one prison to another, at best, and he made his stay in Benton long enough to do a thorough job. He covered every point of the story that the State will need in its attack on the Birger gang.

When he had finished he clutched his new cap in his hand and, after the sentence, walked unfalteringly from the courtroom. Outside, he asked to see Gus Adams, brother of the murdered Mayor. When Adams came up he held out his hand and the brother took it.

Talks to Gus Adams.

"I'm sorry I killed Joe," the youth said. "I didn't know him and he never did me any wrong. I had to do it. I'm sorry for you. My own brother was killed, too."

His eyes were wet when he marched off with the officers who were to take him to the penitentiary at Chester.

At the opening of the afternoon court session Scerial Thompson, an attorney of Harrisburg, who has represented Birger in past court actions, announced to Judge Miller that he had been retained as the gang chief's lawyer and that he also was attorney for young Thomasson.

He explained that he had been hired by an elder brother of Thomasson but that he had been denied permission to see his client Friday at the Pontiac reformatory. Immediately after making the announcement Thompson moved that Thomasson's plea of guilty be set aside.

Early Trial Requested.

At this point R. E. Smith and Sidney Ward, Benton lawyers, announced that they, too, represented Birger and that Ritter also was their client. Both of them asked that the case be set down for trial as soon as possible and suggested a week from Monday as an acceptable date.

"Where is Ritter?" the Judge asked abruptly. Both lawyers declared that they did not know.

"Well get him into court," Judge Miller said. The attorneys made no comment and the Judge announced that he would hear arguments on the motions filed by them and Thompson next week. Neither Hyland nor Newman was mentioned during the session.

Exclusive Publication.

In the Home Edition Saturday the Post-Dispatch made exclusive publication of Thomasson's appearance in court, giving the details of his confession, and his sentence to life in prison.

Harvey Dungy, mentioned by Thomasson as present at the first meeting at which the Adams murder was discussed, appeared at Springfield Wednesday and made oath that he had given perjured testimony at the trial of the three Shelton brothers for mail robbery. He asserts he falsely testified that he saw the Shelton brothers in Collinsville on the morning of the mail robbery there and insists that Birger had compelled him to relate that story on the witness stand.

May Clarify Other Murders.

The solution of the Adams murder is expected to throw light on the murders at Shady Rest, the assassination of State Policeman Lory Price and other crimes laid to the Birger gang.

Harry Thomasson's belief that Birger dynamited "Shady Rest" in order to kill Elmo has led the State officials to note another man who lost his life in the explosion. This man, Steve George, was one of Birger's killers, also. Harry Thomasson said in his confession that it was George who threw a bomb at Mayor Adams' house a short time before his assassination. George, like Elmo Thomasson, knew too much. The line of inquiry leads from the Shady Rest murders to the killing of Price and the abduction and probable murder of his wife. They were abducted from their home in Marion Jan. 17 last and Price's body was discovered weeks later, far from the scene. No trace of Mrs. Price has been found.

Identified by Mrs. Adams

It is a theory of the State's investigators that Price, who had called at Shady Rest shortly before it was dynamited, had information as to the motives behind the crime which made him a danger to the Birgerites. Investigators believe they see a chain of circumstances linking the Adams killing with subsequent murders, which suggests that whoever plotted the Adams murder embarked on a systematic plot to wipe out all who knew of that deed.

In establishing its case against those implicated in the Adams killing the State has testimony corroborating Thomasson's story. Mrs. Adams identified Harry when he was in jail on the robbery charge. She also identified a picture of Elmo. She will be able to testify that before the killing Birger called her on the telephone and told her to advise her husband to take out more life insurance.

Birger and his aids, in their pre-indictment days, swaggered a good deal and talked brazenly of "guys we're gonna get." Witnesses and the details of the evidence against the Birger chieftains are being guarded carefully, and in Chester penitentiary Harry Thomasson awaits the day of reckoning for his enemies.

STEINBECK RETIRES IN PRISON BOARD 'REORGANIZATION'

Parole Commissioner, Who Was Removed by Governor, Is Succeeded by T. Speed Mosby.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 30.—The second phase of Gov. Bakers' "reorganization" of the State Penal Board became effective today with the retirement of Parole Commissioner A. H. Steinbeck (Rep.), who was removed by the Governor without a hearing as an aftermath of Steinbeck's testimony before the State Senate Prison Investigating Committee.

Steinbeck will be succeeded as Parole Commissioner by T. Speed Mosby (Dem.) of Jefferson City. Mosby has been a member of the board for several months with the title of industrial superintendent, although he had little or nothing to do with actual management of the prison industries. The Governor has not indicated who will be appointed to fill the vacancy in the board.

Affairs of the prison industries are being handled by Richard Pohlman, an employe of the penal board. Pohlman formerly was an employe of D. M. Oberman, who has been receiving a large part of the production of the prison clothing factories. Oberman is an honorary Colonel on the Governor's staff and is a business associate of Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, director of panal institutions and close friend and political adviser of the Governor.

Kruse First Dismissed.

The first phase of the "reorization" was the dismissal three weeks ago of William Kruse, secretary of the board. Kruse had written a letter to the board members and Baker, calling attention to a deficit of $160,000 which had been concealed in the board's official report to the Governor and Legislature, and calling attention to abstraction of important records from the prison's files. He also testified before the Senate Committee.

So far the "reorganization" has applied only to those who gave testimony before the Senate Committee that was adverse to the Enloe regime at the prison. The majority of the committee reported charges of extravagance, mismanagement and incompetence had been substantiated by the evidence, and recommended ouster of the board, but the Governor's appointees were confirmed by a combination of Republicans and six Democratic Senators who bolted a party caucus.

Steinbeck Criticised Enloe.

No move was made to oust Steinbeck and Kruse, however, until after the Legislature had adjourned.

Steinbeck incurred the displeasure of the administration when he testified before the Senate committee concerning inefficient business methods at the prison, and dominance of prison management by Enloe.

In a reply to Baker's curt letter of dismissal, Steinbeck said he could not agree with the management of the prison by the "dominant members" of the board, Enloe and W. B. McGregor and "be honest."

"I prefer leaving to my children and grandchildren an honest name rather than hold any job at your letting," Steinbeck wrote to Baker. The Governor declined to comment on the Steinbeck letter, which also scored him for having a "Col. House" in his administration. Enloe frequently has been termed the "Col. House" of tme Baker administration.

WAGNER-GRANT-BELL CO. SUIT OVER $12,000 DEED SETTLED

Court Authorizes Receiver Holme to Compromise Replevin Action Against Emil Guckenheim.

A decree entered yesterday by Circuit Judge Landwehr authorized a compromise of the replevin suit instituted by Receiver Holme of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Realty Co., against Emil Guckenheim, 5370 Pershing avenue, involving ownership of a $12,000 second deed of trust. Harry S. Gleick, attorney for the receiver, explained that Guckenheim is to have possession of the deed, in return for which he is to pay $1800 to the receivership estate and also pay the costs of the replevin litigation.

According to a petition filed by the receiver asking the Court to approve the settlement, it was pointed out the suit was started on the theory that the deed of trust was actually the property of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Co., and that Guckenheim held it as security for a loan he made to that corporation, although the defendant contended he purchased the deed of trust. The receiver further held that the alleged loan was usurious because the rate of interest exceeded 8 per cent. However, the receiver admitted that he had considerable doubt as to the outcome of the case and for that reason said he thought the proposed compromise was for the best interest of the company.

The deed of trust covered real estate at 6253 Northwood avenue and was made April 1, 1926, by Jacob S. and Anna D. Goldberg. The document named W. H. Bell as trustee for the benefit of Edward W. Grant, who is under indictment in connection with the failure of the Wagner-Grant-Bell Co.

WOMAN SLAYER OF NEIGHBOR HELD FOR HOMICIDE

Mrs. Iannicola Refuses to Testify at Coroner's Inquest Into Mrs. Miller's Death.

THEY HAD QUARRELED FOR SEVEN YEARS

Policeman Says Prisoner Who Had Fled Surrendered and Confessed After a Dream.

When the grand jury meets Tuesday, an indictment for murder will be sought against Mrs. Marie Victoria Iannicola, 25 years old, of 1644 Texas avenue, who was charged with homicide and held without bond at the Coroner's inquest yesterday in the killing of her upstairs neighbor, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, 59, a widow. Mrs. Miller died Friday of a bullet wound inflicted by Mrs. Iannicola a week ago last Thursday.

On advice of counsel, she refused to testify at the inquest. She had told police and reporters previously that she had shot Mrs. Miller in the back after they had quarreled for seven years over the water supply, ringing of doorbells, cutting of clotheslines and other petty matters.

Turns Back on Witnesses.

Sitting in the defendant's chair, she turned her back on Deputy Coroner Dever, witnesses and photographers. Curiosity overcoming her when a neighbor testified, she twisted around in her chair and demanded: "I couldn't hear that—what did he say?"

The neighbor, H. R. Knight, a switchman, of 2619 Lafayette avenue, testified he heard three shots and saw Mrs. Miller, who had been hanging clothes in her back yard, stretched on the ground. He did not see Mrs. Iannicola.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Alice Patterson, 1646 Texas avenue, testified she heard three shots and "saw something going toward the alley—it seemed like a head with a red hat on it."

Policeman Tell of Confession.

Police Capt. Kirk told of Mrs. Iannicola's confession; how she fled through the alley after the shooting and boarded a street car which took her to Eads Bridge, took a trolley car to Granite City and another to Springfield, Ill., where she lived under an assumed name until last Wednesday when she surrendered after dreaming of the shooting.

There had been no quarrel on the day of the shooting, but Mrs. Iannicola thought it a "good time to settle the trouble," so she obtained a revolver from a trunk, some cartridges from a wardrobe, then went into the yard and, without saying anything, fired three times at Mrs. Miller, Capt. Kirk said she confessed. Two bullets went wild, the third severed Mrs. Miller's spinal cord.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT TO GIVE $10,000 TO YALE FUND

Suggests in Letter That He Pay $2000 for Five Years—Had Made Bequest in Will.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Chief Justice Taft has set an example for other Yale men by offering to give to the Yale Endowment Fund during his lifetime the $10,000 he had planned to contribute in his will.

In a letter to George Parmly Day of New York, treasurer of the endowment fund, the Chief Justice sets forth as follows his own conception of what others might do:

"I should like to make a contribution to the Yale Endowment Fund in this way: I have made a bequest to Yale in my will of $10,000. I now want to carry out what I recommended in my remarks over the radio to the alumni the other night. I should like to contribute $2000 a year for five years.

"Should I die pending the payment of these installments, I should wish those which have been paid to be credited on account of the legacy. This will necessitate a codicil to my will, which I shall make, and then send you a formal contribution. I would like to have the amount credited to my class. I have made that provision in my will."

Dynamite's First Breach in Louisiana Levee

THIS photograph shows the sheltered side of the embankment south of New Orleans just after the first blast of explosives, with the flood waters of the iMssissippi River starting to trickle through three cuts. The breach was later widened to about sixty feet, and yesterday additional dynamiting was resorted to for the purpose of making a more adequate outlet for the flood.

20 PROPOSALS TO WED IN LETTERS TO MRS. SNYDER

Gray to Make Clean Breast of Relations With Wife of Slain Man—Daughter to Testify for Her.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Forty letters, more than half of which contain proposals of marriage, provided diversion today for Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder in her cell, as she rested from her two-hour session on the witness stand Friday, and steeled herself against the cross-examination which will start Monday after she has told the jury the rest of her story accusing Henry Judd Gray of killing her husband, Albert Snyder.

According to attendants in the Queens County Jail, the woman has received 164 marital offers by mail since she was placed on trial, with Gray. Among those received today was one from a Kentucky tobacco farmer, who wrote he was willing to marry her, "if you are acquitted." The fact that she is beneficiary of the $96,000 insurance policies of her late husband obviously impels many of the proposals.

Supreme Court Justice Scudder, who is presiding over the trial, and District Attorney Newcombe each received more than 50 letters today, commenting upon the case and suggesting courses of procedure. In one of these, addressed to the prosecutor, a man who neglected to sign his name, "confessed" he was the actual murderer of Snyder and offered to meet a detective in a New Haven railroad station and give himself up.

Gray also received more than 20 missives, almost all from women. Nearly every one expressed sympathy for his plight. After breakfast, a bath, a hair cut and a shave, he read each of the letters carefully. Jail attendants said he then showed more cheerfulness than at any time since his arrest. He was quoted by one as promising "to tell the truth on the witness stand, no matter whom it hurts."

The first hour of Monday's session is expected to be taken up with the rest of Mrs. Snyder's version of the murder. She will then be cross-examined by Attorney William J. Miller for Gray, and Assistant District Attorney, Charles W. Frossell.

Her 9-year-old daughter, Lorraine, probably will follow on the witness stand. She is expected to testify that her parents often quarrelled.

WILLIS APPEALS FOR HAYNES

Ohioan Urges Appointment as Permanent Prohibition Chief.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Appointment of Roy Haynes as permanent Prohibition Commissioner was urged upon President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon today by Senator Willis (Rep.) of Ohio, who predicted later that Haynes, now serving as Acting Commissioner, would be given the job.

Willis said, however, that President Coolidge made no promise. While the Anti-Saloon League also has been strongly backing Haynes for the post, there have been persistent reports that he has not been in such strong favor with Assistant Secretary Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement, and Secretary Mellon.

Commends Courage of South.

"The people of the South are demonstrating daily their courage and their abilities.

"No man can charge the fate of these unfortunate people to any failure upon their own part. Their burden is an appeal to the charity of their countrymen, our country has been greatly blessed by Almighty God. More millions of our homes tonight rest without fear of the health and life of our little ones than in any nation in the world.

"But a catastrophe has come to the people of our South. We, the American people, have created a great national organization that should ever be ready for great emergencies. The American National Red Cross is that organization, and this, your organization, is doing its duty effectively and efficiently. It is your hand carrying out the will of your great heart.

Hoover said that the intentional breaking of the east levee below New Orleans averted "a monumental catastrophe to that city."

"Man Humble Before Nature."

"We, here in the midst of these events, are humble before such an outburst of the forces of nature and the futility of man in their control," said Hoover in explaining the conditions which contributed to the flood, a great collection of water for 30 states moving down the river 30 or 40 miles a day.

Hoover spoke from station WMC, the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, which was connected with other stations throughout the country.

He left at 9 p. m. to reach Washington Monday morning and report directly to President Coolidge before he hurries back to the flooded area to make his base "up and down the river."

LINDBERGH DELAYS FLIGHT FROM SAN DIEGO TO ST. LOUIS

Atlantic Plane to Be Given Further Tests, Although Reported Having Performed Perfectly.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 30.—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, the St. Louis air mail pilot who is making final tests on his Ryan monoplane here preparatory to an attempt to fly from New York to Paris, announced tonight that he would not leave for St. Louis until tomorrow or Monday.

The monoplane has behaved perfectly in its test flights but it will be put through futher trials before Capt. Lindbergh hops off on what is to be a non-stop flight to his home city. Originally he had planned to arrive in St. Louis Sunday afternoon but it is probable now that he will arrive Monday or Tuesday.

The Thirty-Fifth Division Air Service Flying Club has planned a dinner at Hotel Chase in Capt. Lindbergh's honor for tomorrow evening. In the event he does not arrive in time it probably will be held on the following evening. Ticket holders will be notified by telephone of a change in plans. Maj. C. R. Wassall of the Thirty-fifth Division flying unit has arranged for a continuous guard of Lindbergh's plane during his stay here.

TUMULTY CALLS COOLIDGE EASIER TO BEAT THAN LOWDEN

Bases That Conviction on Belief That President Is Weaker Among Farmers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 30.—"The Democratic party will have an easier time defeating President Coolidge than it will beating Frank O. Lowden, if he is nominated," said Joseph P. Tumulty, who figured so largely in politics when he was secretary to the late President Wilson.

While asserting that he has no place in politics at this time, Tumulty based his opinion upon the belief that President Coolidge is weaker in the agricultural districts than Lowden, because the latter is a farmer.

Tumulty, who is receiver for the Middle States Oil Co., came here to meet executives of the company's properties in the southwest, and plans to return to Washington Sunday.

Break in Levee at South Bend Means Inundation of Five Counties.

By the Associated Press.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 30.—Roaring through a 600-foot crevasse in South Bend levee, flood waters from the Arkansas River tonight menaced at least 2000 persons within 30 miles of the crumbling dike. As warning of increasing danger was telephoned, or dropped by airplane in towns without wire communication, residents who remained in Dumas, Walnut Lake, Tillar and McGehee left the lowlands as quickly as possible.

A fleet of boats ferried the fleeing inhabitants across sections of highways which were inundated when the new break poured in volumes to swell the flood already in the lowlands from previous crevasses. The majority of the homeless were taken to the refugee camp at Monticello, westward on the ridges, and will be quartered there with some 8000 others who were exiled earlier in the week by the flood in Lake Village, Arkansas City and other towns.

Reports Break Is Widening.

The crevasse at South Bend is estimated to ba mile and a quarter wide, and evacuation of the surrounding countryside has been accelerated, Col. Joe Harris, levee chief in charge of the rescue work, telephoned from Gould, Ark., late today.

Water stood from 2 to 14 feet deep in the streets of McGehee and a number of houses were lifted from their blocks by the force of the current. Hundreds of refugees were taken to Monticello, which is on high ground.

With 30 towns and villages in the five-county area of Southeast Arkansas, Harris believed none would escape the flood.

Boats were dispatched from Monticello to join the many craft now searching the inundated section for refugees. They will nose through flooded fields and farming communities as far east as the Mississippi River in the search.

Another fleet was engaged in removing refugees from McGehee, Lake Village and other towns where inhabitants elected to remain until the people from the lowlands had been rescued. Crumbling houses in McGehee hastened the evacuation there.

To Evacuate Whole Area.

Military officers in control from Pine Bluff to McGehee reached a definite agreement to evacuate the whole territory in event the rise of waters is greater than expected.

Harris believed that nearly all of southeast Arkansas would be flooded. The district includes five large counties, Lincoln, Desna, Chicot, Ashley and Drew, but parts of these counties will not be inundated because of the ridges, particularly in Drew, where Monticello is located.

In Chicot County, of which Lake Village is the county seat, conditions were described as extremely grave because hundreds, safe in upper stores where they fled from the first inundation, will be menaced by the rise of waters from the South Bend break.

Simultaneously with the new deluge from the Arkansas River, a new menace was created by Ashley County by Bayou Bartholomew. Fed by the increased wave, the Bayou rapidly was rising threatening to maroon hundreds before they could be transported from the danger zone.

OUTLIVES RECORD OF CRIME AND DIES IN PRISON AT 100

Joseph Baccaro Succumbs at Dannemora (N. Y.) After 53 Years in Custody.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—With the records of his crime long since crumbled into dust and lost from memory, Joseph Baccaro is dead in Dannemoravale Hospital for the Criminal Insane. He was 100 years old and had passed 53 years in prison or asylums.

Baccaro went to Sing Sing from New York County in 1874 to start serving a life sentence for murder. The prisoner, the name of whose victim has long since disappeared from official record, spent five years in Sing Sing. In 1879 he was transferred to the old State asylum at Auburn.

When the State hospital was opened at Matteawan 35 years ago, Baccaro was one of its first inmates. Twenty-five years ago, the man who was sentenced to life imprisonment at the age of 47, was transferred to Dannemora, where he died.

His term in State institutions exceeds by two years that of Jesse Pomeroy, oldest lifer in the Massachusetts State Prison at Charlestown.

LITTLE HOPE FOR BOY KEPT ALIVE BY FORCED BREATHING

Doctors Describe Virginan's Condition as Precarious After 9-Day Fight Against Death.

By the Associated Press.

ROANOKE, Va., April 30.—Walter L. Boothe, 18 years old, clung to life tonight, but the friends, working in pairs, who have been pumping air into his lungs since April 21 by lowering and raising his arms, were about convinced the fight was hopeless.

Several times Booth suffered relapses, but on each occasion he rallied. The constant pumping seemed to have lessened his vitality, and doctors described his condition as precarious. Boothe himself seemed to have given up hope.

His lungs collapsed while he was bing prepared for an operation to adjust a vertebra, dislocated in an automobile accident.

FLOWERS FOR PASTOR DESPITE DYING WISH

Money for Missions and Blooms at Funeral of the Rev. Mr. Thero.

The last wish of the Rev. Samuele Thero, pastor of the Bond Avenue Methodist Church, East St. Louis, was only partly observed at his funeral. He had asked to have a flowerless funeral, so that members of his congregation, instead of buying flowers, might contribute money for conversion work in India, where his son is a missionary.

At the funeral at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, East St. Louis, the minister's wishes were carried out scrupulously. An empty flower basket stood by the bier and received contributions in pennies, dimes, dollars and bills of larger denomination. But at Staunton, Ill., where the burial took place in the Royal Park Cemetery, the Staunton townspeople had their own interpretation of the preacher's last wishes. He was formerly a pastor at Staunton.

As the funeral procession entered the cemetery, they lined the approach to the grave, carrying armfuls of white and lavender lilacs, purple irises, white and gold lilies they had picked in their own gardens. Flowers were tossed in the path of the hearse, heaped on the coffin before it was lowered and piled high on the filled grave. None of them were bought flowers. This fact privileged the spontaneous offering that technically violated the pastor's wish.

In addition, one of the Methodist elders of the town held a collection basket, and the flower carriers also contributed, as requested, to the missionary cause About $50 was collected at the grave to add to the $175 contributed at the church services in East St. Louis. The full amount of $225 will be sent to his son, S. Griffith Thero, who is head of a school at Lucknow, India.

The Rev. Mr. Thero was 56 years old. He had served three days as secretary of the East St. Louis District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church when he was stricken in bed, early Thursday, and died immediately. The Rev. W. H. Whitlock, district superintendent of the conference, officiated at the services, which were attended by more than 30 pastors.

The dead minister is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jenny Thero, by Mrs. George Nessel, a daughter, of Staunton, Ill., and by four brothers and two sisters.

GIRL, 11, KILLED, BODY LEFT IN CHURCH BELFRY

Three Little Rock Negroes Held —Boy Playmate Still Missing After 3 Weeks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 30.—The body of 11-year-old Floella McDonald, who disappeared from her home April 12, was found late today in the belfry of the First Presbyterian Church. No trace has been found of Lonnie White, 13-year-old boy playmate of the McDonald child, who vanished from his home the same day. Afted extensive search through four states, police had virtually adopted the theory that both children were drowned in the flood waters.

Frank Dixon, Negro janitor of the church, finding bloodstains in the basement, notified police and a search led to the finding of the body in the belfry. The condition of the body prevented authorities from determining how the child met her death until an autopsy is performed. Dixon, who denied any knowledge of the child's death, was held for further questioning and investigation, and Arthur Warren, 20, and Walter Hampton, 17 both Negroes, also were taken into custody.

Police think that since the girl evidently was killed in the basement and her body removed to the belfry, Dixon should know something about it. Warren is employed at the Second Baptist Church, in the neighborhood and Hampton at the Little Rock Boys' Club, across the street from the Presbyterian Church.

The child's mother, Mrs. Charles McDonald, reached the scene almost as quickly as did the first policeman. A crowd had gathered at the corner and, foreseeing the tragedy that has ended weeks of worry, the mother became hysterical and was led from the scene by friends. The body of the child was tied in a bundle and bloodstains on the stairs seemed to prove that the murder was committed recently.

Police of Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Oklahoma have been aiding local police to run down meager clews obtained at intervals since the two children disappeared.

Meeting for Cooperage Interests.

The twelfth annual convention of the Associated Cooperage Industries of America will be held at Hotel Jefferson, May 9, 10 and 11. Speakers will discuss technical problems of the cooperage industry. Group meetings of various branches will be held.

EXILED PRELATES DENOUNCE CALLES FOR PERSECUTION

Charge Mexican President Has Made Himself Legislator, Witness, Prosecutor and Judge.

DENY CLERGY AIDED IN ATTACK ON TRAIN

Assert Government Has Lied "to Bolster Up Its Outrageous Campaign Against Religion."

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 30.—The Most Rev. Leopold Ruiz y Flores, Archbishop of Michoacan and spokesman for several exiled Mexican Catholic prelates here, tonight issued a written statement denouncing President Calles of Mexico as the perpetrator of an outrageous campaign against religion.

Archbishop Ruiz categorically denied Mexican Government charge that the Episcopate was responsible for any acts which constituted open armed revolt. The statement was issued at the conclusion of a meeting attended by eight Mexican prelates, exiled following an attack by bandits on a passenger train near Guadalajara, when 60 or more persons were killed and many injured.

"This statement is issued only under the necessity of answering a Government which believes it necessary thus to bolster up its outrageous campaign against religion," Archbishop Ruiz said.

Victims of Persecution.

"Before all we declare that we and all our priests and many laymen are victims of the cruelest religious persecution of modern times. Both the laws passed and the inhuman application of them are proof enough of that.

"An official account of our arrest and expulsion follows:

"April 21, six of the 15 Bishops including Archbishop Rora del Rio, ranking prelate, and Archbishop Ruiz, sequestrated in the capital, were called by Minister of the Interior Tejeda to his office. He told us that, by the President's orders, we must leave the country that night.

"He said, 'You are the leaders of the revolution and by your silence after the Archbishop of Durango's recent pastoral declaring lay Catholics justified in resorting to arms in self-defense, you were guilty in taking part in rebellion.'

Had No Alternative.

"This was his only declaration. He offered no proofs.

"He (Tejeda) gave a sign to Col. Del Gado, chief of the secret police. We were led thence under an armed guard of soldiers and at 9 o'clock that same night we were on our way to Laredo. Arrived there, what was our surprise to read a bulletin issued by the Government, saying we had been offered our choice of undergoing trial for treason or of voluntarily leaving the country, and that we had chosen the second and voluntarily gone into exile.

"It further said that these six were the leaders of the revolt. It lied; these were merely six who happened to be arrested, out of 15, all of whom had held out against armed rebellion. Nor was there ever any alternative offered of a trial.

Contrary to Constitution.

"The Mexican Constitution itself forbids the penalty of exile to be inflicted on a Mexican, and it forbids any penalty to be imposed without a trial. Thus the President by one act made himself legislator, witness, prosecutor, Judge and executioner.

"The attack on the Guadalajara train on April 18 had been an occasion for the calumny that the Episcopate was its author. This is false, as was the assertion that priests had taken part in it.

"Archbishop Orozco has been another victor of calumny. To protect his liberty he hid himself away last October and the angry Government spread the story that he was at the head of an armed force. It is as false as the other stories. Several priests also were accused of being under arms.

Seven Priests Murdered.

"This, too, is false. Some priests offered to be chaplains for the forces of the national revolt. None, as we know, has taken up arms. If any did they would meet with our reprobation. Yet, to our knowledge, seven priests have been brutally murdered by Federal soldiers, and not even on the pretext of taking up arms. On mere suspicion or no motive but hate, many laymen, even boys, have suffered atrocious torments and death."

101 SHOW WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

DESPITE FLOOD, TRADE IMPROVED IN LAST MONTH

Gain in Eighth District Would Have Been Greater but for Weather, Federal Reserve Bank Reports

LOSSES IN EASTER HOLIDAY GOODS

Business Generally Better Than It Was Early in 1927 but Not So Good as in 1926.

In the face of one of the worst floods in the history of the Mississippi River and its tributaries, the monthly report for the Eighth Federal Reserve District, issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, says business as a whole underwent further moderate improvement during the last 30 days.

The rate of improvement would undoubtedly have been much more rapid had it not been for the extremely unfavorable weather conditions which prevailed throughout the entire district, the report asserts.

In some sections the water reached the highest stage ever recorded, causing heavy property damage, besides seriously interfering with communication and the conduct of business. Hundreds of thousands of acres of the richest farm land were under water, including large areas which had been planted in early crops. Early farm work was delayed and in many river counties was at a complete standstill. Weeks of dry weather will be required for the water to recede, and all the main crops will be late.

Farmers Buying Little.

Despite the handicap of bad weather, production and distribution of goods continued on a large scale, and while most lines investigated showed decreases under a year ago, gains were recorded over earlier months this year. Relatively much better results in retail distribution were achieved in the large cities than in the country. The low prices of farm products and flood conditions are reflected in curtailed purchasing of all varieties of goods in the rural districts. This is true particularly of farm implements and supplies and repair materials, said the report.

Movement of Easter holiday goods was decidedly disappointing, and losses sustained in this classification can hardly be expected to be made up by buying later on. March sales of department stores were smaller than for the corresponding month in 1926, and preliminary reports for April indicate smaller business than last year.

Surplus of Labor.

The general industrial situation, except in the coal mining areas and lead and zinc fields, developed further slight improvement. There still exists, however, a surplus of both skilledand common labor generally through the district, most marked in the Southern cities. Working forces were increased in the textile industry, while floods and adverse weather conditions retarded to some extent activities of logging camps, lumber mills, cement and quarrying, together with highway and municipal construction projects.

The coal situation in the district underwent no change worthy of note, compared with the previous 30 days. Suspension of union mines in Illinois, Indiana and other sections of the central competitive field, thus far had no effect on supplies and very little on price. Unusual preparations for the walkout left industries, railroads, public utilities and municipalities with the largest stores of coal on record. No anxiety is felt for future needs.

Terminal and Barge Line.

The St. Louis Terminal Railway Association, which handles interchanges for 28 connecting lines, interchanged 243,282 loads in March, against 207,654 loads in February and 230,909 loads in March, 1926. During the first nine days of April the interchange amounted to 64,693 loads, against 72,007 during the like period in March and 66,899 loads during the first nine days of April, 1926.

Estimated tonnage of the Federal barge line, between St. Louis and New Orleans, for March was 101,000 tons, the largest in any one month this year, and comparing with 85,400 tons (revised figures) in February and 74,688 tons in March, 1926.

Collections reflect more irregularity than in the preceding month, but with the average only slightly below that of the corresponding period last year.

Man Dies When Fishing.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., April 30.—Pete Kelley, 60 years old, a miner, of Kincaid, fell dead when fishing in Willeford Creek, five miles west of here, at 10:30 o'clock this morning. He was with his wife and two men. Heart disease is believed to have caused his death.

ST. LOUIS ENDS ONE OF WETTEST APRILS

Precipitation 6.30 Inches Against the Normal of 3.52 —Three Sunshiny Days.

One of the wettest Aprils St. Louis has had came to an end last midnight. The rainfall for the month was 6.30 inches, nearly double the normal precipitation, which is 3.52.

There were 10 consecutive days of hard rain, from the 7th to the sixteenth, in which 5.01 inches of the downpour came. On one of those days, the 10th, there occurred the heaviest fall for a 24-hour period, 1.28 inches. April 4, 18, 19 and last Friday also there were hard rains. Besides these 14 days, there were five on which there were unmeasurable sprinkles, and only 11 wholly free from rain.

On six days the sun did not shine. Last Tuesday, Thursday and yesterday were the only ones of all-day sunshine. Twenty-one days had more or less sun. Besides intermittent demands for umbrellas and slickers, April called variously for overcoats, topcoats and light suits. Its temperature ranged 48 degrees—from 34 on the 22d to 82 last Thursday. St. Louis shared its heavy rainfall wit' the rest of the broad Mississippi Valley, which was one reason for the great flood, which reached a crest of 36.1 feet here, but is expected to drop below flood stage—30 feet—tomorrow.

BREAKS IN LEVEES FLOOD NEW AREAS DOWN MISSISSIPPI

ever, that the Coast Guard, acting on request of former Gov. John M. Parker, civilian flood dictator for this State, is concentrating here and at Natchez the largest relief expedition in its history.

One hundred and fifty craft, large and small, are being assembled here, coming from the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes, and 80 others will be based at Natchez. In addition every available Government and many privately owned motorized vessels are being requisitioned for service.

Parker plans to have the larger craft visit any inundated river towns and evacuate refugees who have been taken there by small craft and who are to be concentrated in two big camps at Baton Rouge and Natchez.

Returning to Memphis after a week spent in the flood area, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said he had found the situation so serious that he would return to this territory next week after a hurried trip to Washington to consult with President Coolidge and the Cabinet Committee which is co-operating with the Red Cross.

"The immediate problem is that of succoring 200,000 homeless people and rescuing others," Hoover said. "Rehabilitation has been given some thousands, but many have to be attended to later."

Referring to the Braithewaite crevasse, Hoover said it insured the safety of New Orleans, but that it created no hope for the vast area between Vicksburg, where the river is more than a foot above the higher previous stage of record, and New Orleans.

Hoover said all the refugees were being fed and that the shortage of tents for shelter would be met within the next 36 hours.

Before leaving for Washington, he conferred with Red Cross officers on extension of rescue and relief work and to reinforce the Red Cross appeal for relief funds in a nationally broadcast radio address.

President Can't Visit Area.

Replying to urgent invitations to personally visit the flood district, President Coolidge today telegraphed Mayor O'Keefe expressing regret that he could not make the trip at this time and giving assurances that "the Government is co-operating fully with the Red Cross," in the Rescue and relief work.

The slough in the levee at Glascock, the most serious flood development of the day, ended a day and night fight by workers and engineers to hold the surging waters at that point. Since it is of "Buckshot" clay, engineers expected the levee to resist stubbornly, but they were satisfied that eventually the rushing current would carry out a large section of the embankment.

Concordia parish at the point of the break already was under backwater from the Black, Ouachita and Red Rivers, but the flood there would be greatly augmented by the main river flow and some estimates were that it would cover all of Concordia Parish, threatening the towns of Ferriday and Vidalia to the northward, and flow over into Franklin, Tensas and Point Coupee parishes.

Water to Cover Everything.

Capt. J. R. Adams of the Louisiana Board of Engineers, declared that not a thing in the present inundated area other than trees would be above water within 48 hours. Housetops would be covered, he said.

The day brought forth so many rumors about breaks in the main levee at points other than Glasscock that Parker issued an appeal against the spread of unfounded rumors, which he said could serve only to undermine the morale of the people.

80-Foot Break at Glasscock, La., Threatens 500,000 Acres.

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 30.—With the Mississippi River pouring through an 80-foot breach in the levee at Glasscock, La., 25 miles below here tonight, J. R. Adams, member of the State Board of Engineers, said the flood would cover approximately 500,000 acres. The waters rushing through Bouger swamp toward the Red and Atchafalaya rivers would endanger the levees of the Atchafalaya, he said, and imperil hundreds of persons living in the Bayou de Glaize section.

Backwater covering a great portion of Catahoula, Concordia and Tensas parishes, was expected to rise rapidly within the next day of two, Jonesville, Ferriday, Monterey and other small towns are in the area.

While the river had reached a stage of 56.4 feet here at 6 p. m., there were many miles of low levee yet to be raised if the water is kept from pouring over the dikes.

"Unless we can get enough men tomorrow," said Adams, "we cannot be responsible for what may happen at Vidalia."

Briand Cables Sympathies to U. S. Flood Sufferers.

PARIS, April 30.—Foreign Minister Briand has sent a cable to Secretary of State Kellogg assuring him that the heart of the French people goes out to the flood sufferers of Louisiana and asking him, to transmit to the Government of the United States "Sentiments of sincere and profound sympathy."

200 Missourians Taken From Flood Zone to Hickman, Ky.

HICKMAN, Ky., April 30.—The number found marooned in the flood Missouri area across the Mississippi from Hickman has grown to nearly 200 and launches were searching new section today. The Red Cross office said the number would take 250. The flooded area was about 1800 square miles before St. John's levee broke. It was estimated at first that the flood would reach the homes of 5000 persons scattered over a large farming section, about 1500 of them in East Prairie. The water was out of East Prairie today and falling fast.

Senator Ransdell Urges Coolidge to Convene Congress.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., April 30.—An extraordinary session of Congress within the next 40 days with the co-operation of the nation's foremost engineers, civilian and Federal, in an effort to solve the problem of handling the waters of the Mississippi, was urged today in a telegram sent to President Coolidge by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana. Ransdall congratulated the President on the selection of Secretary of Commerce Hoover as his representative in the flood zone.

By the Associated Press.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 30.—The flow of water under the concrete seawall protecting Vicksburg's water front was stopped tonight before it reached the properties of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad. For a time the flood threatened the whole industrial section of the city and many merchants moved their stocks of goods to safety.

Meanwhile the river continued its menacing rise. The gauge tonight standing at 57.45 feet, a rise of .25 feet within 12 hours.

DAYTON, April 30—Four planes will be sent to Memphis tomorrow from Wilbur Wright field, Fairfield, O., on orders from Gen. Mason Patrick, to assist in the Mississippi flood work. These planes are to report to Col. Oliver Spaulding, Engineer in charge of relief work, and will remain as long as required.

Photographs of the flooded areas will be made with a view to learning where relief can be best given. The planes are being sent by Brig. Gen. William E. Gillmore, in charge of the Wright Field.

HOW MEN MAKE MONEY WITHOUT WORK

Why is it that thousands of St. Louis men and women on small wages have been able to build fortunes for themselves in a few years' time—fortunes that didn't come from either their "luck" or their "work"?

Twelve years ago a young girl stenographer still in her teens saved a few dollars from her small salary until she accumulated $10, and invested it. While she did not know it then, she began the building of a fortune in the one safe and sure way that has been the basis of practically EVERY fortune built in America, apart from work or luck.

That young lady has reinvested her money the same way over and over again. Today she is worth $20,000—or more money than she earned in wages in that entire twelve years!

Thousands of other men and women have been making money by the same identical method—some more than others, of course, but all making their money work hard for them in the one sure and safe way it can.

What Is the Way?

There is nothing secret or mysterious about this method. It requires no training or special knowledge to be successful with it. It is open to anybody—man or woman—regardless of how little or much he or she may be making now. It is the one method that has been followed by practically every successful business man who wanted to build a fortune that did not depend on his work. That method is based on this one fact that never fails:

WHEREVER POPULATION INCREASES, THE LAND VALUE LIKEWISE INCREASES

Sounds simple, doesn't it? Practically everybody knows that to be a fact. Yet, just knowing that fact to be true, doesn't make anybody rich. Simply knowing that where population increases, land value increases, doesn't make anybody any money unless they have some of that land before it increases. In this safe, sure method of building a fortune, the man or woman who gets ahead is simply the one who looks ahead.

Is this only a statement of a real estate man interested in selling land, or is it a fact recognized by the brainiest men in America, regardless of what their business was?

Let's see what some of them say:

These Men Knew

"No investment on earth is so safe, so sure, so certain to enrich its owner as undeveloped realty. I always advise my friends to place their savings in realty near some growing city. There is no such savings bank anywhere."—Ex-President Cleveland.

"Every person who invests in well selected real estate in a growing section of a prosperous community, adopts the surest and safest method of becoming independent, for real estate is the basis of wealth." — Ex - President Roosevelt.

"The wise young man, or wage earner of today, invests his money in real estate—suburban real estate." —Andrew Carnegie.

These statements are not only true of St. Louis, but any growing city. For example, one of the big New York newspapers—the New York World—makes this statement:

"Small buyers of suburban lots are expected to make more than $25,000,000 in profits this year. Most of the profits will go to those who are investing their savings in lots rather than bank books. The lot buyers, according to current estimates, will make nearer 40 per cent than the 4 per cent which the banks pay."

Let's get the facts right here from our home city.

To show how growth of population increases land values:

The corner of Grand and Olive that originally sold for $125 a foot is now worth $3750 a foot — an average growth in value of 100 per cent a year.

Property on Vandeventer and Olive which originally sold at $40 a foot, is now worth $1200 a foot—an average increase in value of over 100 per cent per year.

Property at Kingshighway and Delmar which sold a few years ago at $100 a foot is now worth $1000 a foot.

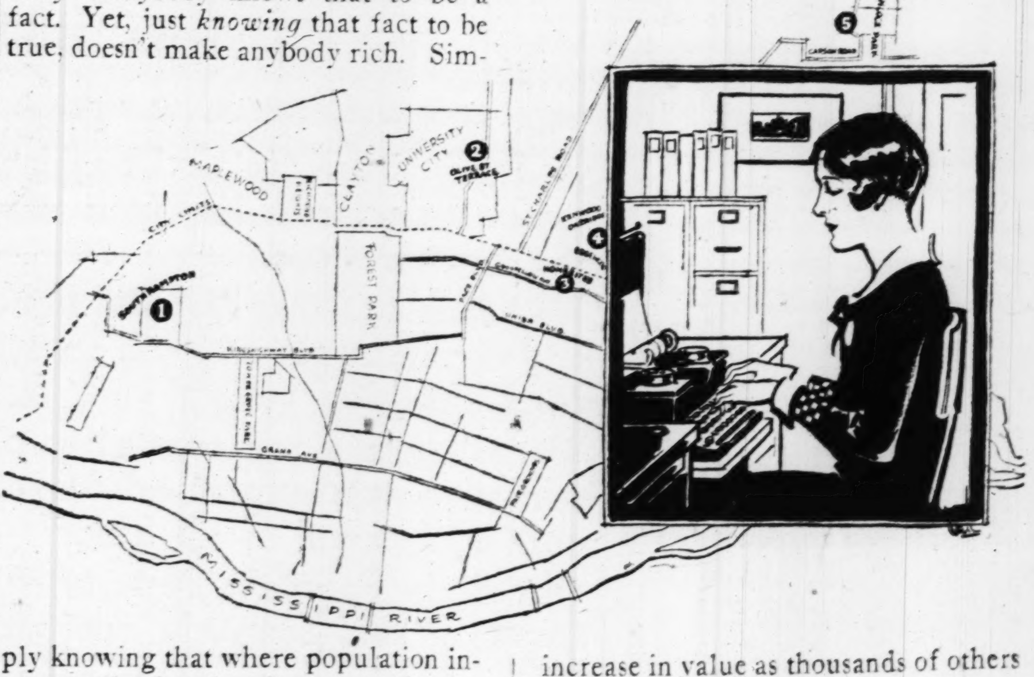
What Can You Do ?

How can you be sure of investing your money in land that is certain to increase in value as thousands of others have done in the past?

First, remember that increased population always and invariably increases land values. Practically any undeveloped land on the edges of St. Louis will increase in value, but some sections will increase far more and far faster, because in some sections the population will increase far more and far faster than others.

To Get Ahead—Look Ahead

Right now the greatest real estate investment opportunity that St. Louisans ever had is in the northwest section of the city. Why? For the simple reason that the General Electric Company is building a plant that will employ 25,000 workmen, who with their families, will add a population in that district of over 100,000 people.



ADVERTISEMENT

New Electric Plant to Add 20 Millions to City's Annual Pay Roll

$75,000,000 Factory Expected to Employ 25,000 Workers.

In the purpose of the General Electric Company to expend $75,000,000 in plants in which at least 25,000 workmen will be employed, is another striking evidence of the development of St. Louis and the appreciation thereof by large business interests.

The plants, which will occupy a 155-acre tract costing [illegible], will be equipped to supply the great Southwest territory which has attained proportions sufficient to attract the attention of Eastern interests as to the need of locating in some place whereby this territory can be economically reached.

In so far as St. Louis is concerned, the building of the plants alone will mean that by far the greatest part of the $75,000,000 expended for their construction will be spent in St. Louis and for St. Louis contractors, workmen and tradescraft of almost all descriptions.

Annual Pay Roll 20 Millions.

But the most important part of A—General Motors Plant. B—General Electric Plant.

No such increase in population has ever taken place in one section of the city of St. Louis before. You can imagine what the increase in land values is going to be as a result.

20-Years' Record

For 20 years it has been the business of this firm to know where population was going to increase the most and the fastest and to secure property in that section for our clients. That's why we are featuring property in the fast-growing district of the General Motors and General Electric Company plants at this time.

We know that those who buy the land now in this section will make more money than in any district they could ever have bought before. This statement is made by a company that, for 20 years, has shown thousands of people how to make money by investing small amounts per month in undeveloped real estate.

Over 9000 Customers

Over 9000 customers have proved over and over again that the Ferris plan of building a fortune through real estate investment pays—always pays. Every piece of land that we have offered our customers has increased at least an average of 50 per cent and in many cases, far more. Here are a few examples:

How Money Grows

Lots we sold in Olive Street Terrace for $400 have been resold for $1200 to $3000. Lots we sold in Spring Avenue Heights for $400 have been resold for $1500. Lots we sold in Kinloch Park for $110 have been resold for $350. Lots we sold in South Kinloch Park for $125 have been resold for $350. Lots we sold in Southampton have sold for double original price. Some sold for $215 resold for $875. Homesites lots are selling for double our original price.

Our Record

More money is being made today in St. Louis city and county real estate, than there is in any other one branch of business in St. Louis. Wheaton C. Ferris Company has a history for doing business and doing it right for the benefit of its patrons, who come from among all classes of people. During 20 years in which this company has operated in St. Louis, not a client has lost a cent, and thousands of them have profited largely and will tell you so. The company makes a specialty of subdivision property, in which it has made a record that has no parallel in the history of real estate in the country. —Western Watchman, Feb. 13, 1927.

The First Thing for You to Do Is to Get the Facts

It is not the purpose of this article to sell you a piece of land anywhere. But it is the purpose to let you know why and how fortunes are being made in real estate—not simply by men of wealth but by men and women working on ordinary salaries and wages. It is the purpose of this article to wake the St. Louis people up to the tremendous increases in land values that are going on all the time on the edges of St. Louis from growth of population—to show them that that is the biggest and safest and surest method of making money without working—and always will be.

All these facts are given in full detail with countless examples to prove them in a

BODIES OF FRENCH WAR CHIEFS TO REST IN NAPOLEON'S TOMB

One, However, That of Gen. Gallieni, Defender of Paris, Will Be Left in Cemetery.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 30.—France's great soldiers of the war are to rest near Napoleon in the Invalides.

The bodies of Gen. Mangin and 16 other army commanders are to be disinterred and their sealed caskets placed in niches in the stone crypt. Gen. Gallieni, defender of Paris, will be left in the Riviera cemetery, where he asked especially that he be buried and left.

Twenty-eight leaders still living, marshals and commanding generalrs, also, eventually, will be placed after death beside those now dead. Foch, Joffre and Petain naturally will be among them.

A general ceremony is planned for later this year after the separate services in the presence of each family as the bodies are taken to the Invalides one by one.

LAST OF FLOOD IS SLIPPING PAST MISSOURI SHORE

High Water Has Subsided in All Except the Southeastern Corner of the State, Reports Indicate.

Missouri, except for its southeastern corner, which still has some high water, has emerged from the flood of the Mississippi River and its tributaries during April.

The Mississippi and the Missouri had been out of banks all their way past or through this State, and for a time every lesser stream in Missouri was in flood. Besides the two great waterways, those which caused the most serious damage in the State were the St. Francis and the White.

Along the northern part of the State, the Mississippi now is back in its banks, and within a few days the same condition is expected to prevail to the Arkansas border. St. Louis, where flood stage is 30 feet, was expected to have only 30.7 on its gauge this morning, and to be back under the 30 mark by night. Yesterday morning's reading was 31.9. The rise had begun on April 1) and a crest of 36.1 was reached last Tuesday.

The only other Missouri stream remaining out of banks is the lower St. Francis, which separates Dunklin County, Mo., on the east, and Arkansas on the west. It is falling, but Dunklin County, in the southeastern tip of the State, still is flooded to some extent.

New Madrid Still Flooded.

North of there, flood water also stands in much of New Madrid County and a corner of Mississippi County, as a result of the break in the main levee at Dorena, Mo., on the Mississippi, two weeks ago yesterday, and of the resultant breaks in main levees around the town of New Madrid, which is still under several feet of water, and reached from the interior only by motor boat. The water level has been about stationary in this section for several days but it is expected the reclamation of New Madrid may begin in about a week, when the flood recedes. The chief path of the overflow from Donera leads back to the Mississippi channel just below New Madrid. When the channel level falls, flood gates can be opened and the lowlands drained.

Recession of the water from thousands of acres that were inundated in the vicinity of St. Louis, both in Illinois and Missouri, is keeping pace with the drop in the Mississippi level, and many farmers who were forced away temporarily are peparing to return to their homes. In many cases they will find the rich deposit of the flood has benefited their land, though crops have been ruined by the water.

In St. Louis and elsewhere a thick coat of mud and debris has been left on the wharves.

Missouri Back in Its Banks.

The Missouri River is back in its banks. Yesterday the only gauge on it above flood stage was at St. Charles, where the reading of 25.5 feet was six inches above flood mark, but there was a steady fall there. The Osage River, which flows through southwestern Missouri to a point on the Missouri below Jefferson City, had returned withtin its banks for its full length for the first time in April, except ror a slightrecession three weeks ago.

Illinois also has emerged from the flood, except for the remaining high water in the Mississippi, inundations in the vicinity of Cairo and the continued flood in the Illinois River. The Illinois is rising again in its upper section, north of La Salle, because of heavy rains, and the lower part is changing level very little(but will recede slowly.

RADIO STATION CONSOLIDATION AT HAND, BULLARD DECLARES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A prediction that a general era of radio station consolidation is at hand, especially in the broadcasting field, was made tonight by Chairman Bullard of the new Federal Radio Commission, in a radio address from the National Press Club. Only the consolidation of mechanical plants is to be expected, he added, and existing stations will maintain largely their established identity.

"One of the plans whereby the commission hopes and expects to help the public get better broadcasting service," he said, "lies through encouraging the consolidation of radio stations through the use of two or more sets of call letters for a single transmitter. For instance, here is a city with four or five radio stations, all of low power, all dividing time, all finding it more or less difficult to obtain adequate program material. Each station owner, however, is convinced of the publicity value to him of his station call letters, and unwilling to give them up.

"How much better it would be, from every standpoint, to have these four or five stations consolidated into a single station, with adequate power and full time, each of the former broadcasters paying his share of the overhead and retaining his call letters for the hours assigned to him. This plan has actually been put into operation in a number of places, and the commission is definitely encouraging it."

Archbishop to Preach Today.

Archbishop Glennon will preach his first post-Lenten sermon at high mass at the New Cathedral this morning. At 3 p. m. Prof. William T. Diebel will give an organ recital at the Cathedral, assisted by George Muskens, tenor. Numbers will include "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn, "Ave Maria," Schubert; "The Rosary," Nevin; and "Rustic March," Boex.

Will Study Eclipse in Norway.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1927.

OSLO, Norway, April 30.—Ten expeditions of foreign astronomers have announced they will come to Norway to study the total eclipse of the sun on June 29. The absolute solar obscuration will be visible in Alaska, Europe, Asia and North Africa. From the United States Prof. Samuel A. Mitchell, astronomer of the McCormick observatory of the University of Virginia, is to lead a big party of assisting scientists. Prof. Mitchell will establish his headquarters at Fagernas, in the Valderas valley. The northermost spot for the observations has been chosen by the Italian d'Aturio expedition, which will go right up to Finmarken at the border of the Arctic Ocean.

Welfare League Head Defends Dr. Nelson's Evidence at Ex-Convict's Trial.

Gilbert C. Goodlett, president of the Missouri Welfare League, has issued a statement in defense of Dr. William Nelson, director of the Psychiatric Clinic, who testified Wednesday in behalf of Martin Johnston, 22-year-old ex-convict, on trial for robbery before a jury in Circuit Judge Pearcy's court.

Dr. Nelson testified that Johnston was of low mentality, and should be placed in a medical institution, rather than a prison. Despite this, the jury fixed Johnston's punishment at 50 years' imprisonment, the heaviest sentence for robbery ever imposed here by the free act of a jury.

"Judge Pearcy acted intelligently in seeking to learn the facts about a boy with a criminal record," says Goodlett in his statement. "The expert (Dr. Nelson), after careful study, stated the facts as he found them.

Not a Plea for Release.

"Saying that the defendant has the mental capacity of a child, has mentally deteriorated and shows marked signs of mental disease is not for one minute saying that the expert who gives this diagnosis believes this boy should be turned out into the community to continue a life of crime. Far from it! Life-long segregation or life-long strict supervision is essential for every such person.

"This case illustrates perfectly the defects of our present system. We neglect the feeble-minded; allow them to be led into crime; leave them free to endanger the lives and property of other people; at last, when an overt act has made them subject to legal penalties, we try them; convict them; sentence them; imprison them.

"Preventive methods would be far better. Mentally incompetent youths should be carefully trained and protected. They can be kept innocent and made useful. Society is far better protected by segregating dangerous individuals before they rob and kill than by long prison terms imposed after serious crimes are committed.

Forerunner of New Method.

"Our one State colony for the feeble-minded habitually has as many people on its waiting list as are in the institution.

"Quick, sure punishment is, authorities agree, a far more effective deterrent of crime than is the imposition of harsh penalties.

"Society will never be adequately protected from crimes by the insane and the feeble-minded until the fact is recognized that such cases often require, not prison sentences for set terms, but life-long special treatment, sometimes life-long institutional care.

"Instead of blame and contumely, Dr. Nelson and others who would give to the treatment of offenders the benefit of exact scientific information, should receive grateful recognition as the forerunners of new and better methods of dealing with mentally defective offenders.

"Prevention of crime is the great goal. Science and common sense, economy and humanity are combining to bring us to this goal."

GOETHE'S ART COLLECTION FOUND IN OLD TRUNK

Drawings Sought in Germany for 25 Years Now in Museum at Weimar.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 30.—Goethe's remarkable collection of his own 88 black and white drawings and water colors, which the Goethe Museum at Weimar sought throughout Germany for 25 years, is now in the museum as a result of a curious coincidence.

The drawings, largely German and Bohemian landscapes, were known to have been presented by Goethe in 1807 to Princess Caroline of Saxe-Weimar with a note reading: "This is how I whiled away my leisure moments during my travels of recent years."

The Princess willed the collection to her intimate friend, Christiane von Reitzenstein. Her descendants evidently thought as little of the drawing as did Germany's greatest poet, who virtually apologized for dabbling in such foolishness.

A short time ago a distant relative of the von Reintzenstein family submitted the drawings to Prof. Hans Wahl, director of the Goethe museum, who had been conducting the search, and asked if they were genuine. He said he found them in an old trunk of family relics. Dr. Wahl immediately recognized his long-sought prize and purchased it.

DECOYED 1,000,000 TO DEATH

Jerry, Black Sheep at Chicago Packing Plant, Sets Record.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Jerry, black sheep of the Armour & Co. plant, undoubtedly is the blackest of all black sheep. He has just led his millionth victim to the slaughter pens.

This black-wooled leader of lambs to the slaughter is trained to head the procession of sheep through the almost endless runways of the yards to the pens, where they are killed. There he sidesteps and the sheep proceed on their way. Jerry's treachery to his brother and sister sheep rests lightly on his black shoulders and he accepts with apparent relish the occasional offers of chewing tobacco given him by sheep men.

Women to Sign Own Bonds.

Women arrested by police for the Health Department will be permitted to sign their own bonds under a new order of Chief of Police Gerk in an effort to forestall profiteering bondsmen. The order followed an investigation by Chief Gerk which disclosed that professional bondsmen have been charging women fees ranging from $1.50 to $5 for bonds calling for their appearance at the Health Department clinic and that one bondsman recently had 119 of these bonds in one week.

Mrs. A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE says:

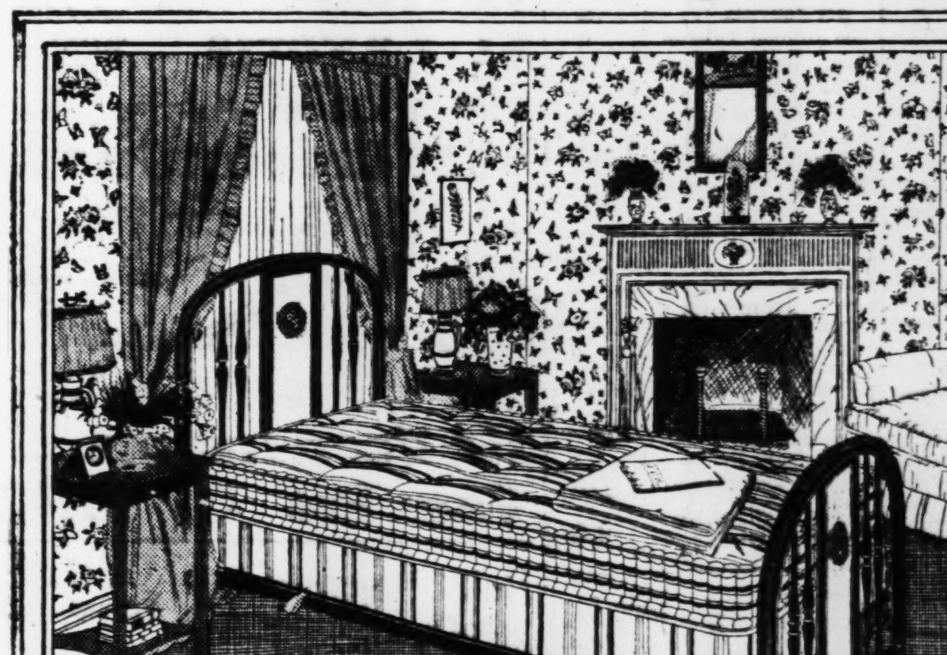
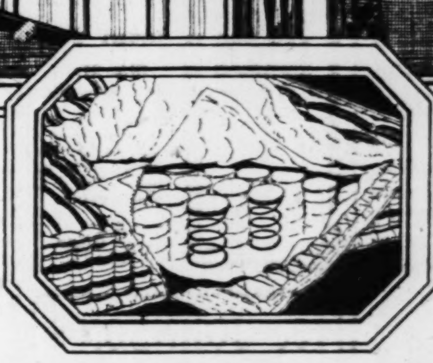
"Its clever inner construction only a genius could devise"



At Guinea Hollow Farm

her daughter's country-home at Old Westbury, Long Island, Mrs. Biddle has this charming room with Simmons Bed, No. 1540, Simmons Spring and Simmons Beautyrest Mattress. "Its neat appearance," Mrs. Biddle says of this mattress, "is gratifying to the woman who loves the little niceties."



The Beautyrest reveals its unique inner construction. Right to the very edge go the coils that hold the square boxed sides. And what comfort! $39.50 is a prominent member of one of Philadelphia's oldest and most exclusive families. She has just returned from an extensive tour of the Sahara, Egypt and the Orient.

Mrs. A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE

"WHAT a paragon is my Simmons Beautyrest Mattress!" declares Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle. "Its clever inner construction only a genius could devise. Its comfort is incomparable! And its neat appearance is gratifying to the woman who loves the little niceties—even those that do not show."

In the Beautyrest Mattress, introduced a few years ago by the Simmons Company, fine spiral coils hidden through luxurious upholstering increase its buoyancy! Enter now the improved Beautyrest—its coils extended to the very edge. How smart and boxlike the sides! Sit on them—they won't be crushed! The inner coils hold them upstanding so long as the mattress endures.

This improved Simmons Beautyrest Mattress, cotton upholstered, $39.50. The name Simmons is plainly marked on each. Our local branch serves your dealer promptly. The Simmons Company.

ANOTHER BANKRUPT CITED FOR CONTEMPT

B. S. Reiss' Case Like That of Pensoneau Sentenced to Jail "From Now On."

A bankruptcy case similar to that of August Pensoneau, former Third street commission merchant who was committed to Warren County jail Friday to serve until he pays his creditors $6900, came up yesterday when the trustee for the bankrupt estate of Bernard S. Reiss, former shoe dealer at 901 Franklin avenue, applied to the Federal Court for a similar contempt citation.

Since last June, Reiss has refused to obey an order by Bankruptcy Referee Coles to surrender $27,345 to the trustee, Joseph M. Reardon. Like Pensoneau, he insists he lost the money gambling, and cannot pay.

Last summer in reviewing Reiss' case and approving Referee Coles' order, Federal Judge Faris said: "The Court is convinced that the bankrupt could not have sustained the losses in the manner he contends. He asserts that after years of sobriety, thrift and continence he suddenly developed into a gambler, spendthrift and rake. I am no more impressed than was the referee."

Hearing that Pensoneau has been sentenced by Judge Davis to remain in prison "from now on" unless he pays up under the Referee's order, Trustee Reardon attempted similar proceedings against Reiss. Judge Faris ordered the bankrupt to show cause on May 11 why he should not be punished for contempt.

Last winter such contempt proceedings were brought against Pensoneau before Judge Davis who dismissed them. The trustee, however, appealed to the United States Court of Appeals which reversed the lower court, and the indefinite sentence Friday was passed under an appellate court mandate. Pensoneau Friday night went to Warrenton, declaring: "I am going to die in jail unless the sentence is changed."

RECEIVER SOUGHT FOR MORGAN, LIVERMORE & CO., BROKERS

Petition In New York Federal Court Alleges Firm Failed to Record Assignment to Creditors.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States District Court today against Morgan, Livermore & Co., long established banking and brokerage concern. Gottfried Kunwald, an Austrian, was the petitioner. Members of the firm were ordered to show cause on Wednesday why a receiver should not be appointed.

Members of the firm, according to the petition are William Forbes Morgan, Philip W. Livermore, Eugene Kahn, William T. Starr, Walter Kutzleb and Albert F. Clear.

The petition sets forth that on Aug. 27 the firm made a general assignment for the benefit of creditors to Richard L. Morris and George W. Meyer, Jr., and that the assignment has not been recorded, although the law requires that such assignments shall be recorded. It is also alleged that the firm made preferential payments to various creditors.

Edward A. Daly, a former clerk, two weeks ago filed suit for $100,000 damages against the firm, alleging the defendants were instrumental in having him committed to Bellevue Hospital for observation as to his sanity when they learned he believed he possessed information reflecting on the manner in which they conducted their business.

Winstanley, all of East St. Louis; Bernard Martin, Clement Chihuahua, Tony Lonoaca, Louis Riggi and Mike Spranza, all of Duquoin; George Kerns Jr., Delia Summers, Robert C. Summers, Hazel Myers, Charles Myers, John Davidson and Claude Grissom, all of Herrin, charged with interstate freight thefts. William A. Hanes, Lawrenceville, Ill., robbing mails; Charles Mabry, Fisk, Mo., Mann act; Harry Hogan, Louis Harding, John Young, all of Mattoon, Ill.; Jasper McQueen, Fairmount, and Russell Willingham and Leonard Sexton, Charleston, for moving stolen automobiles from one state to another; James, Muir, O'Fallon; John H. aBuer, Freeburg; Edward R. Bigham, George Jaske, George Dien and Joseph McGee, all of Breeze, for liquor law violations.

Clarence Warren, Negro, of East St. Louis, indicted for robbing mail boxes, pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $2000.

15 CITY CLERKS DISMISSED

Comptroller Nolte yesterday notified Colector Koeln to release from the city's employ 15 clerks who have had charge of the sprinkling tax records. It was decided recently to dispense with the tax and pay for sprinkling from current revenue.

OVERLAND CUR-TAILS WORK TO SEE PARADE

Nondescript Canines, in Costumed Procession, Vie for All Sorts of Prizes.

A procession which someone said looked like a "dog-catcher's nightmare" filed through the streets of Overland, St. Louis County, yesterday afternoon when the Mutt Dog Parade, sponsored by the Lions Club of that town, got under way.

Prizes were to be given for the homeliest dog, the largest and the smallest dog, and to dogs answering other descriptions. When they gathered at Woodson and Lackland roads, 150 strong, some of them had their natural charms enhanced by the addition of trousers, dunce caps or ballet skirts. All were vociferous and Overland hadn't seen such excitement since the hailstorm several weeks ago.

There was a sinuous, underslung animal that looked like a dachshund, but wasn't. There was another that had the body lines of an airedale, but whose rough, shaggy hair gave its head the appearance of a chrysanthemum, and its body the look of a door-mat—with the welcome sign worn out. A tremendous apparition led by 13-year-old Raymond Lanigan, of 8638 Olden avenue, was introduced as "King," said to be part Collie, but mostly St. Bernard. It later won the prize for being the largest, but it had something coming to it for its clever impersonation of a college boy in a raccoon coat.

On To the Car Tracks.

The procession, led by a Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps, barked and fought its way four blocks down Woodson road to the Creve Coeur street car tracks, where the canines exhibited their tricks and where the awards were made.

The tricks weren't so much. Some of the dogs were persuaded to sit up and beg, one leaped through a hoop in a languid offhand way, but most of them were uneducated and did nothing but pull at the leash and attempt to pick fights. Warren Kraeger of St. John's Station didn't enter his exhibit in the stunt display. It was a sausage dangling from a pole, but then Warren is only five years old and should not be judged too harshly. His entry later disappeared rather mysteriously.

Rita Schmidt's Mexican Chihuahua won a prize for being the smallest dog in the parade after Rita had convinced the judges that it was really a dog. It resembled a mouse which had been dieting more than anything else, but when the decision hung in the balance, "Babe"—that's what Rita called it—yapped at the dachshund and proved its case.

Fox Terriors Win Prize.

A team of fox terrie: , nicely mated, won a prize for Robert Herzog, their seven-year-old owner, who lives in Overland.

There were 100 more prizes to be distributed, mostly merchandise tickets donated by local store-owners, but the sun was hot and the judges were having some trouble in rating entries, and the reporter decided to leave.

When he looked back, the judges were scratching their heads in perplexity—and a number of dogs were doing the same.

COLLECTORS GET 4 RATTLERS, TWO COPPERHEADS FOR ZOO

Storm Checks Efforts of 12 St. Louisans Seeking New Specimens Near Murphysboro.

Four rattlesnakes, two copperheads and a black snake were caught for the Forest Park Zoo Friday, in wild country near Murphysboro, Ill., by an expedition of 12 St. Louisans led by Supt. Vierheller and George E. Dieckman, president of the Zoological Society. These and other specimens will go in the reptile house being completed.

A heavy rain drenched the expedition and its automobiles were stuck in the mud eight miles from Murphysboro, forcing the men to walk five miles for aid. They had no extra clothing, and several had to go to bed in a hotel to get dry. Farmers had killed 50 rattlers in this section Wednesday. Various snakes make dens there in winter, but the floods have kept them from wriggling away this spring.

The party from St. Louis was equipped with a South American snake serum, for use in case of bites, but had no need for it. This serum will be kept at the reptile house. It gives relief within 30 minutes after injection into the abdomen.

PARENTS SEEK BOY SCOUT, 15

An unsuccessful search has been conducted for Robert Gross, 15-year-old Boy Scout, who disappeared from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gross, 209 West Pope avenue, Paragould, Ark., on Feb. 5.

The boy is described as having black hair, brown eyes and has a scar on his left ear. He is 5 feet tall and weighs about 100 pounds. It is thought he may have come to St. Louis and anyone having information concerning his whereabouts is requested to notify the parents or local police.

Dr. Wilhelm Cuno to Visit St. Louis

Dr. Wilhelm Cuno, president of the Hamburg-American Line, who has been touring the United States, will visit St. Louis for two days this week. He came to the United States on the steamer New York on its maiden voyage and is now at Salt Lake City. While in St. Louis he will be a guest at Hotel Chase.

JILTS ATHLETE, WEDS WHILE GAMES ARE ON

Nancy Carr, Heiress, Betrothed Two Weeks to Princeton Man, Marries Another.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Miss Nancy Carr, 20-year-old Atlanta, Ga., heiress, who two weeks ago announced her engagement to William T. Healey, Princeton University athlete, surprised her friends today when she married Edward F. Rosenbaum, a student of Salt Lake City, Utah, in the Little Church Around the Corner.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Culven Alford, assistant rector, in the presence of six friends of the pair. The former Miss Carr is the granddaughter of the late Gen. Julian F. Carr, wealthy North Carolina tobacco grower, daughter of Mrs. Clark Howell, Sr., and the stepdaughter of Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution.

While the marriage ceremony was being performed here, Mrs. Rosenbaum's former fiance, William T. Healey, was competing in the javelin throw at the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival at Philadelphia, representing Princeton University, where he is a sophomore, and member of the Ivy Club.

Fiance Expected To Leave University to Be Married.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 30.—Two weeks ago Atlanta society read of the engagement which would unite the Carr and Healey families. It was announced in a replica edition of the Atlanta Constiution, with a made-over front page carrying humorous pictures and stories of the young pair, which was distributed at the party given by Mrs. Clark Howell, Jr., at her Peachtree road home.

William Healey is a former captain of the Andover, Mass., Academy football and track teams and was chosen as a member of the American Olympic track team. Although he had two years work before him at Princeton, he planned to give up his college career to marry Miss Carr.

WASHINGTON U. CLUB GIVES WILDE COMEDY

Presentation of "The Importance of Being Earnest" Well Accomplished by Thyrsus.

The suave brilliance of Oscar Wilde shimmered and sparkled again over the footlights of the American Theater last night, thanks to the high standards of Thyrsus, a Washington University dramatic club.

Recent ventures of this group include, most notably, two of Shaw's most entertaining—"Arms and the Man" and "The Devil's Disciple." The attempt with a Wilde comedy was well rewarded by a large and enthusiastic audience and, very likely, with the consciousness of an ambitious task well accomplished.

Another accomplishment was the transformation of a play running to such names as Algernon, Cecily and Gwendolyn into rollicking American fun. Arlen would not have done it so. Even profuse display of lorgnettes—though not as frequent as the stage directions call for—could not convince one that the actors weren't Americans, quite collegiate Americans and having an awfully good time of it, which is a terrible faux pas in Mayfair. So, however, were the audience, and the play suffered little.

Even the script recounted two established anecdota Americana. The whole plot hinged on an "absent-minded professor" joke—a nurse girl tucked a package in the baby carriage and tossed the baby into a valise. And the one about "You'll have to take it without something besides chocolate; we haven't any chocolate," may be foreshadowed in this:

"I have a business appointment I am anxious—to miss.

"Couldn't you miss it anywhere but in London?"

"No; the appointment is in London."

Of course, all the professors say Wilde is a decided second-rater and ridiculously easy to imitate. They should know, since they include some of his most assiduous imitators. One of his admirers answered them this way, back in '95—just 30 years before that admirer won the Nobel prize for literature, which Wilde did not win:

"As far as I can ascertain, I am the only person in London who cannot sit down and write an Oscar Wilde play at will. The fact that his plays, though apparently lucrative, remain unique under

KANSAS CITY NEGRO BASEBALL CLUB WINS FROM ST. LOUIS STARS

The Kansas City Monarchs, of the Negro National Baseball League, defeated the St. Louis Stars yesterday at the Stars' Park by a score of 4 to 2.

The first ball was pitched by Mr. John H. Brod Jr., director of Public Safety of St. Louis, to Mr. B. H. Miller, a contractor, who was receiver.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon.

ILLINOIS WINS ITS FOURTH STRAIGHT, BEATING WISCONSIN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 30.—Although Wisconsin outhit Illinois, Coach Lundgren's Illini baseball team annexed its fourth straight conference victory this afternoon by defeating the Badgers, 3 to 2. Bud Stewart, star Illini twirler, who won over Chicago on Wednesday, featured the game in the second frame when his triple brought in two runs. After the fourth frame Stoll, Wisconsin twirler, tightened and granted the Illini but one more hit. Wisconsin scored a run in the sixth and another in the ninth.

TEX RICKARD GETS MIXED UP IN ANOTHER INJUNCTION SUIT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—An injunction suit to restrain "Tex" Rickard, manager of Madison Square Garden, Frank E. Coultry and J. Edward White from permitting anyone to broadcast boxing contests from the Garden, has been filed by Julius Hopp, it was revealed today. Arguments will be heard Monday in the Supreme Court.

Hopp claims he was excluded from an agreement with the three defendants for the broadcasting of sporting events.

WATER FETE ON EIGHTEENTH BIRTHDAY OF DUTCH PRINCESS

Anniversary of Heir to Holland's Throne Celebrated at Amsterdam.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1927.

AMSTERDAM, April 30.—Princess Juliana, only daughter of Wilhelmina, the only reigning Queen in Europe, today celebrated her eighteenth birthday. The occasion was celebrated with especial eclat because of the great popularity of the young Crown Princess.

An historical water fete was held tonight at the Hague. In seven jolly boats of the Holland American line, 20 well known artists, representing admirals and naval heroes of Dutch history, sailed before the royal family, the ministers and authorities.

The young Princess was early initiated into the duties inseparable from her position as heir presumptive to the throne. At 10 she performed her first public act when she laid the corner stone of a building at the Utrecht fair and read a short speech.

Every summer the Princess camps with a party of girls, traveling third class with the whole company. Next September she will enter the University of Leyden to study Dutch constitutional and international law. According to the constitution, the annual income of the Princess now is 200,000 florins ($80,000), which will be increased to 400,000 florins if she marries.

MINNESOTA LAKE SHORE PROPERTY

WORLD'S GREATEST HOTEL
Monday Evening, May 2nd 1927

3000 OUTSIDE ROOMS
3000 PRIVATE BATHS

THE STEVENS

Michigan Boulevard, Seventh to Eighth Streets CHICAGO Ernest J. Stevens, Vice President and Manager

CONCEIVED as the greatest hotel of all time, and built at a cost of over twenty-seven million dollars, The Stevens is a magnificent realization of an ideal—an inspiration and a challenge to the caravansaries of the world.

Convenient to all railroad terminals, business, shops and theatres—overlooking Grant Park and Lake Michigan, The Stevens towers twenty-nine stories high and extends a full block along majestic Michigan Boulevard.

Impressive in its magnitude, embodying every conceivable service for your comfort and enjoyment, The Stevens offers the finest accommodations at surprisingly low rates.

This veritable "city within a city" includes 3,000 spacious, airy outside rooms, each with private bath, circulating ice water and large closet. Four and one-half stories are devoted to public spaces. There is a library of 25,000 volumes, over a hundred large sample display rooms, an Exhibition Hall covering 35,000 square feet, providing the most complete convention facilities found in any hotel. The telephone system would serve a city of 15,000.

Here, too, is the largest, most beautiful ballroom in the world, and seven smaller ballrooms. There are bowling alleys, billiard and pool tables, special recreation rooms for women and club rooms for men, and a 1,200 seat theatre directly connected with the main building. Children romp in a fairyland playroom. The Beauty Salon is the finest in the city.

In addition to four magnificent restaurants and a commodious popular priced lunchroom are many private dining rooms and a two-story colonnade on the roof for outdoor dining and dancing. Parking facilities are extensive.

The Stevens ushers in a new era in hotel hospitality.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER AFTER FIRM PERIOD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Early advances in the cotton market today were followed by reactions under week-end realizing. There was a considerable demand at the start, but after selling up to 15.35c July eased off to 15.18c and closed at 15.22c, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 1 to 4 points.

The opening was 7 to 11 points higher. Active months showed net gains of about 10 to 12 points in early trading. May advancing to 15.08c and October to 15.64c on buying stimulated by higher cables and unfavorable flood or weather news. Additional overflows were reported in the Mississippi Valley, while private advices said there was anxiety over the state of some of the other levees.

These features, combined with the unsettled weather with showers or rains, and the unexpectedly firm showing of Liverpool brought in considerable buying. It was supplied at the advance by profit-taking, however, while there was considerable Southern and local selling, and prices turned easier during the forenoon.

A few stop orders were uncovered on the decline which extended to 14.95c for May and 15.45c for October, or about 4 to 7 points net lower. After their execution, offerings were lighter and last prices showed recoveries of a few points from the lowest on covering.

It was reported that a break in the Arkansas River levee at South Bend would flood considerable territory, and there were also reports of a break at Yazoo City, Miss. According to private wires a compress was flooded at the latter point, washing 500 bales into the river. A report received from Memphis said 100,000 bales of cotton had been overflowed in compresses at Greenville, Leland, Hollandale and Belzoni, Miss., in addition to other compresses not estimated.

Private cables said Liverpool had advanced on trade calling and buying stimulated by the flood and rain news from the South. Reports received from Manchester were to the effect that buyers of cotton cloths were holding off, but said there had been a better turnover in yarns made of Egyptian cotton.

Liverpool Spot Steady.

LIVERPOOL, April 30.—Cotton, spot, quiet; prices steady; American strictly good middling, 9.39d; good middling, 9.04d; strictly middling, 8.69d; middling, 8.39d; strictly low middling, 7.89d; low middling, 7.49d; strictly good ordinary, 7.19d; good ordinary, 6.74d. Sales, 4000 bales, including 2600 American. Receipts, 4100 bales, all American. Futures closed steady. May (1927), 8.09d; July, 8.23d; October, 8.32d; December, 8.37d; January, 8.39d; March, 8.44d. Official noon values: April (1927), 8.09d.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Cottonseed oil was quiet today. The reaction in lard and cotton promoted week-end liquidation at the close and made an easier tone. Refiners bought July, with commission houses selling other positions. Final prices were 1 point higher to 8 net lower. Sales, 2700 barrels. Prime crude, $7.50; prime summer yellow spot, $8.75; May closed $8.81; July, $9.30; September, $9.61; October, $9.63; December, $9.50.

MARKETS REACT AFTER BANK RATE CUT RISE

Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, April 30.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in review today, says:

"The markets are now simply experiencing the natural reaction from the excessive optimism occasioned by last week's reduction of the Bank of England discount rate. Everything said last week concerning the hopeful financial outlook for a few weeks holds good but the rise in investment stocks must necessarily be restrained by the impending flood of fresh capital creations, especially Australian.

"The extent of general financial activities doubtless somewhat depends on monetary developments and while Europe is generally showing a somewhat easier tendency, we shall proceed cautiously, especially in view of the policy in the United States.

"Assuming France sends a considerable portion of the gold recently released by the Bank of England to America, London is apt to be interested in whether American officials take steps to prevent any undue effect on credit expansion.

"Unless an unexpected political crisis develops, it is believed that the stock markets will pursue an even tenor, with an upward movement in the rails and industrials and probably the speculative markets, including the rubbers.

"The Chinese situation is viewed slightly more cheerfully, largely on the hope that exposure of the reds may have a wholesome effect in checking Bolshevik activities. It is generally hoped that the worst of the Japanese crisis has passed but it is felt that a much fuller, explicit statement of the causes of the crisis and the method of dealing with it is required s confidence is to be restored.

"Considerable interest is taken in financial circles in London in the forthcoming economic conference in Geneva and a practical expression of that interest is given by the fact that the Bank of England has invited British and oversea dominion delegates to a dinner and conference at the bank on Wednesday night. The assembly will include the principal Bank of England directors, representatives of the joint stock banks and accepting houses as well as the chairman of the stock exchange."

Horses and mules	454	463	416
Totals	97,947	103,599	100,649

With the exception of sheep, receipts in all departments of livestock ran lighter the past week than for the previous six-day period. Price trends, however, were very uneven and although lambs and most hogs scored gains, cattle ruled lower to higher. Butcher cattle, with the exception of yearling steers and heifers, were hard hit, beef cows and bulls generally 50c off, while low-priced cows declined 15c to 25c. Beef steers were steady to 25c lower and butcher yearlings steady to 25c up. Veal calves also advanced and overcame part of the demoralizing decline scored on this class the previous week. Stocker and feeder steers were not essentially changed, although some she stuff declined in sympathy with killing classes. Top for the week on mature steers reached $12 and yearling top rested at $11. Quality of the offering as a whole graded plain to medium and bulk of all steers cashed in a spread of $8.50 to $10.85. Western steers comprised better than 20 carloads of supplies and sold from $6.75 to $8.25, one load of Kansas steers at $9.30. Mixed yearlings topped at $10.50, while majority of this class cashed from $7.50 to $10. An unusual feature of the week's trade was the sluggishness of early week deals and a brisker tone toward the close, this formula usually being reversed. Beef cows were most numerous at $6 to $7.75, although better kinds continued to range upward in the $8 column and occasionally reached $9. Cutter cows made $5 to $5.75 and canners followed at $4.25 to $5. A slack inquiry was on hand for bulls throughout the period and slow movement was featured at $6.75 to $8 for heavy beef and light butcher bulls, while bologna grades made $6 to $6.75 largely, tops reaching $7 early in the week. Common and canner varieties made $4.75 to $5.75. Quietness ruled in the stocker and feeder department throughout the week and although no essential change was noted in steer offerings the she stuff showed weaker tendencies and declines of 25c were scored in extremes on heifers. Bulk of steers sold from $8 to $9, while best feeders reached $9.40 and a low on stockers was registered at $7.

Calves displayed advancing tendencies throughout the week and top rested at $12 in the Thursday session. Bulk of best calves sold for the six-day period in a spread of $10.50 to $11.75, while first cuts sold mostly at $8 to $9.50. Heavy calves and canner yearlings advanced in proportion, most weighty veals at $5.50 to $8 and rannies $4.50 to $6.

Hog Supply Lighter.

Supply of swine the past week was not as heavy as the previous week or same week last year. Receipts for the week aggregated 69,869 as compared with 75,977 last week and 72,661 corresponding week last year. Quality of the bulk of offerings was right good, although in the first part of the week few Southern hogs were included in the supply. Trading in the first part of the week was on a lower basis and top declined to $10.50, low point for the week and the year. Until the Wednesday period shipping demand was slack and packers only bought as much as they needed, but after the Wednesday period shipping demand picked up and the market strengthened itself and recovered the losses the first part of the week, in fact, at the close of the Friday period light hog top was $11, which showed a 40c advance over last week's close, or 50c over the week's low point. Light hogs held the big end of the gain while packers were not so eager to give sharp advances on medium and heavy hogs of which they were the main buyers. At the close of the Friday period medium and heavy hogs were 10c to 15c over last Saturday's prices, or 10c to 25c over the week's low time. Sharp discounts were again featured in the Southern division. Buyers were very bearish on this class and refused to buy unless at prices sharply under natives of like weight and flesh. On good quality kinds that were not earmarked the penalty ranged from 25c to $1, if not of good quality and their was evidence of their being fed other than a corn diet the penalty was much more severe, discounts ranging anywhere from $1 to $2 below natives. Pigs and light lights enjoyed a good demand until the latter part of the week when the demand fell off considerably. The supply was scarce, but buyers succeeded in holding values at normal fluctuations.

Receipts for the week in the sheep and lamb division totaled 8467, as compared with 4999 last week and 3712 same week last year. Quality of the offerings was medium to good. Local feed barns contributed considerably to the supply. Clipped stock prevailed, with wethers almost entirely lacking. At the close of the week, by a comparison with last week's close, lambs advanced 85c to $1 over last week's close, while aged sheep are $1 under last week's close. Top clipped lambs sold at $15.60 to packers. Bulk clipped lambs ranged for the week at $15 to $15.40. Few ranging to medium quality sold at $14.50 to $15. Culls mainly $11 to $12 shorn. Spring lambs cashed from $15 to $18.50. In the Friday period one deck of genuine Kentucky spring lambs cashed at $17.75. Wethers were almost entirely absent and closed the week unchanged from last week's finish. Mutton ewes, due to an abated demand, dropped $1 from last week's finish. Top wool ewes sold Friday at $8.50, as compared with $9.50 last Friday. Clipped ewes $7.50, as compared with $8.50 a week ago. Bulk wool ewes ranged for the week at $8 to $8.50; shorn, $7 to $7.50. Choppers and bucks, clipped, $4 to $5.50; canners, $1.50 to $3.

Quotations: Slaughter stock: (Clipped basis) good to choice lambs, $15.25 to $15.85; medium to good, $13.75 to $15.25; plain to medium, $12 to $13.75; cull and common, $11 to $12; skips, $8 to $10.50. Good to choice handy-weight yearling wethers, $12.75 to $13.25; medium to good, $12 to $12.75; plain to medium, $11 to $12. Good to choice aged Western wethers, $9.25 to $10.50; good, fat Southern kinds, $9 to $10; thin to fair kinds, $5 to $8. Good to choice mutton ewes, $7 to $7.50; medium to good, $6.50 to $7; plain to medium, $6 to $6.50; choppers and bucks, $4 to $5.50; canners, $1.50 to $3. Fat goats, $3 to $4; thin to fair goats, $1.50 to $3. Fair to good kids, $4 to $7.

Horses and Mules.

Under modest to light receipts the horse and mule trade the past week maintained a firm tone to all classes anda good clearance was effected of al supplies. Demand from farming sections was somewhat lighter than usual, attributed largely to the flood conditions prevailing in many sections of the South. Riding horses encountered brisk demand, as well as big harness marked horses and mules. Quality as featured during the greater part of the week ran mainly to the plainer varieties.

Receipts during the six-day period aggregated 454 head, compared with 463 the previous week and 416 the corresponding period a year ago.

Native horse quotations: Good to choice draft, $135@165; medium to good draft, $75@135; good to choice chunks, $75@100; medium to good chunks, $50@65; choice southern horses, $40@55; fair to good southern horses, $20@35; smooth-mouthed southerners, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

Native mule quotations: Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $175@250; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $125@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 16 to 16.2 hands, $160@180; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 15 to 15.2 hands, $130@160; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands, $100@130; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $100@130; cotton mules, mares, rough haired, 14.2 to 15 hands, $80@100; horse mules, $15@20 per head less than above quotations. Farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.3 to 16.2 hands, $110@135; medium farm mules, $80@100; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small common mules, $15@40.

WHEAT UNCHANGED TO 2C HIGHER IN WEEK'S TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Wheat was unable today to hold an early advance. Many May shorts were nervous when the Liverpool market came ¾ to 1¾ higher and they rushed to buy as soon as this market opened. This rush encountered heavy commission house selling at 138 from longs which were anxious to even up and the effect of the early selling was felt in later trade when shorts had finished buying. July and September met good buying early, but Northwest houses sold presumably against purchases in Winnipeg and prices broke under the previous close. Buying against indemnities checked the decline. The close was ⅛ to ¼ lower and for the week unchanged to 2 higher; May 135⅝ to ⅞, July 130⅝ to ¾, September 129⅝ to ½. Covering by May shorts and large export sales were the features of the wheat market this week.

The seaboard advised of 50,000 bushels of red winters and 120,000 bushels of durum worked for export. Reports indicated the total business 1,300,000 bushels mostly Manitobas. Weather was favorable for seeding spring wheat and good showers were shown over the Ohio Valley, which will benefit winter wheat. Broomhall said that Poland continues to buy German wheat and Germany is replacing with foreign wheat. Minneapolis stocks decreased 100,000 bushels for one day and Kansas City 960,000 for the week.

Corn followed the trend of wheat. Some leading local May shorts covered early, but when wheat weakened they discontinued their buying and prices dropped until indemnities checked the decline. The close was quarter lower to ⅛ higher and for the week ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher. May 71⅝ to ⅞, July 77⅝ to 77¾, September 81⅞ to 82⅛. Shipping sales were 93,000 bushels. A local house sold some old crop No. 3 yellow now at Buffalo to exporters at 2½c under July c. i. f. Buffalo.

Oats held their early gain better than other grains. A bullish feeling is developing on the theory that the carryover will be the smallest in years and that the new crop situation is against a big yield. The close was ⅛ higher to ⅛ lower and for the week ⅜ to 1⅛ higher. May 45½ to ⅝, July 46¼ to ⅜, September 45⅛ to ¼. Shipping sales were 70,000 bushels. A cargo was sold for export from Milwaukee for late May shipment.

Provisions were firm early on investment buying and then weakened on May liquidation. Lard closed 7½ to 10 lower, ribs 32½ to 42½ lower, bellies 12½ lower.

WHEAT CLOSES LOWER ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 30.—Wheat closed lower on the market today, after a higher early period. Corn finished at advance.

Favorable weather for spring wheat seeding was a factor in the market. There was profit taking. Export takings were estimated at 1,300,000 bushels mostly Manitobas.

While better weather for field work was reported, the corn market was probably influenced more by an unofficial report making supplies of country 28.8 per cent under year ago.

May wheat, especially hard, was higher in the early market, July hard selling on both sides of previous close. Liverpool closed 1½d up on May, 1¼d on July and ⅝d on October. Winnipeg early was ¼c up on May. Corn futures were higher in early trade.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.37⅝, hard July $1.31, May red $1.31⅝, red July $1.30, May corn 76⅝, July corn 80½c, Sept. corn 84¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 29,400 bushels, compared with 37,800 a week ago and 67,200 last year, included 12 cars local and 9 through. Corn receipts which were 67,200 bushels, compared with 47,600 a week ago and 105,000 last year, included 42 cars local and 6 through. Oats receipts, which were 84,000 a week ago and 56,000 last year, included 37 cars local and 5 through. Hay receipts were 15 cars local and 1 through.

Clearances were 440,000 bushels of wheat, 100,000 bushels of oats, 5000 bbls. of flour and 463,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 933 cars of wheat, compared with 719 a week ago and 573 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 111 cars, Duluth 60 and Winnipeg 762.

Stocks in St. Louis Public Elevators amounted to 1,482,126 bushels of wheat, 1,945,945 bushels of corn, 306,239 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 372,440 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 846,434 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 12,562 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 61,807 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 46,233 bushels of No. 2 corn, 590,419 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 45,792 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 35,707 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 55,162 bushels of No. 3 white oats.

Primary receipts of wheat were 526,000 bu., compared with 517,000 a week ago and 712,000 last year, corn receipts were 393,000 bu., compared with 379,000 a week ago and 619,000 last year, oats receipts were 352,000 bu., compared with 282,000 a week ago and 412,000 last year, wheat shipments were 706,000 bu., compared with 1,556,000 a week ago and 553,000 last year, corn shipments were 400,000 bu., compared with 386,000 a week ago and 592,000 last year, oats shipments were 487,000 bu., compared with 837,000 a week ago and 496,000 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, corn receipts were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, wheat shipments were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, corn shipments were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, oats shipments were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago.

Cash wheat ½c to 1c lower in sympathy with the decline in futures, there being light milling demand for good grades of soft wheat. The small offerings were pretty well cleaned up finally. Hard wheat declined ½c to 1c, there being a limited milling demand. Illinois No. 1 hard sold late at $1.38½. Nebr. No. 1 hard received bid of $1.39. Nebr. No. 1 dark hard $1.40 and No. 2 hard $1.38. No. 2 hard 12 per cent protein quoted to arrive basis 12½c over Kansas City May price delivered. There was good general demand for corn with elevators being leading buyers. The market was firm with some No. 3 and 4 yellow selling ½c better. Oats were steady to 1c higher. There was a good supply and while demand was better than fair, there was carry over of possibly 15 cars. Most of latter was ordinary No. 4 white and sample grades. Shippers and elevators bought.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly financial review today, says:

"In the constant shift of stock prices alternations from high to low became more frequent and more severe this week than for any previous period of the year to date. On one day the selling volume continued so heavy that the tickers did not unload their burden of quotations until 3:15 p. m. and losses were the sharpest since last October. It seemed for a time that the market might soon find its way, by reason of the severity of the declines, to the front pages of the newspapers again. But in a manner so common to its 1927 movements the market turned firm almost as emphatically as it had turned weak, then gave way once more to a zigzag trend difficult to understand. Pronounced differences of opinion on the probable future course of security prices give the market its technical strength. It cannot drop far without inducing the elements that force it up. It cannot rise far without preparing the way for another drop.

New Index Needed.

"In the circumstances it is not surprising that talk of the next major movement in stock prices has been revived in earnest and that the number of prophets who will make definite predictions is diminishing. More and more it appears that reliance on the standard barometers is dangerous for the reasons that a few leaders control the movement of the averages and that a falling market of late has been made in some instances to look like a rising market. There is need in this country for the construction of index numbers that will reflect the movements of different groups, since the stock market is no longer one big market but a variety of small markets moving more or less independently. What the trader wants to know is whether his chances are better on the upside or the downside or, to put the matter in another way, whether the majority of stocks are in a bull or bear market.

Call Money at 5 Per Cent.

"The appearance of 5 per cent call money for the first time in two months, the Japanese situation, the Mississippi floods and new aspects of oil over-production all were in the news of the week, but cast no heavy clouds over either the markets or business. In the financial district it is felt that the flood may be more serious than early reports indicate, but precisely how this will affect prosperity nobody pretends to know. The torrential rains that started the trouble have thrown the season back in some sections. A cut in cotton output such as seems likely as a result of destruction now recorded would reduce the pickings of some planters but it would also help to restore prices.

Views of Trade.

"When viewed close at hand trade gives evidence of slowing down somewhat, but viewed from a broader outlook it plainly is running along at an exceedingly comfortable level. In the steel industry the present rate of mill operations is about 85 per cent as against 94 for March, but this does not differ materially from the situation a year ago, when a 93 per cent rate for March was followed by 78 in July. Changes in the business barometers such as now may be observed are not disturbing so long as the quotations are small. The increasingly plain sign of stable business and not painful shifts from one extreme to another is the important thing to note in the present general situation. Violent changes that affect the whole country are difficult to offset, but slow variations can be absorbed more easily.

First Quarter Earnings.

"First quarter earnings are not all in but enough of them have been tabulated to make it appear certain that the industrial corporation returns will not differ much in the aggregate from those of a year ago. Those now in total slightly more than the amount reached for the first three months of 1926, but the better showing represents improvement in two giants of the list, General Motors and the Steel Corporation. Primarily, it should be added, the former. Except for improvement in these two leaders the total of earnings so far tabulated for the first quarter of 1927 would fall 6 per cent below last year. Net earnings of our railroads in March rose above those for a year ago, although gross was smaller. This is only another evidence of the ability of the carriers to turn a larger proportion of their gross revenues into net profits than formerly."

Market Irregular Saturday.

"Under the impetus principally of a continuation of yesterday's covering movement speculative leaders among the industrials and rails moved forward with considerable vigor in early dealings today. Weekly trade summaries while commenting on the likely effects of the flood damage in the Mississippi Valley were more or less sanguine on the outlook and the Department of Commerce figures on the volume of trade in the third week of April were encouraging. But toward the end of the short session, renewed selling was in order and early gains were quickly eliminated. Week-end realizing was quite heavy and demand was curtailed by a disposition to await the news over the recess period from the flooded area.

Fresh Reaction Develops.

"That early strength in the leaders was attributable largely to a resumption of the covering movement which got under way late on Friday was evident as the session progressed. The bulge in General Motors brought out fresh offerings in volume sufficient to not alone cancel the morning's advance, but push that stock below the Friday closing levels. Steel common was forced back to new low ground for the movement and leading rails joined in the downward swing. Fresh speculative pressure was added to the weight of usual week-end realizing sales.

Commodity Markets Firm.

"Prices in the principal commodity markets showed little change of note. With the blasting of the levee designed to relieve the pressure of the Mississippi flood somewhat disappointing in its early stages, there was a covering movement in cotton which carried active months up to 10 points. Grains were active and strong but rather disappointing in view of closing strength at Liverpool.

Clearing House Statement.

"The actual condition statement of the New York Clearing House issued at noon showed excess reserve of $4,443,290 against $22,298,270 a week ago. Loans, discounts, etc., were $5,769,701,000 and net demand deposits were $4,592,341,000.

• • •

Exchange Market Steady.

"The foreign exchanges maintained a steady tone with a fair demand in evidence for Italian lira, Norwegian kroner and Japanese yen.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL STATISTICAL REPORT

BROADER STOCK LIST FIGURES IN TRADES

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, April 30.—Aggregate business on the local exchange the past week did not quite measure up to that of the preceding period, but the number of separate securities traded in broadened to a total of 61. While a good volume of United Railways bonds changed hands, the total fell short of that of previous week.

Ely-Walker and Wagner Electric reflected gains for the week, while Scullin Steel old at uniform price of 31, nearly a thousand shares changing hands on that basis. Transactions in Misouri Portland rights exceeded the 2000 mark. Skouras sold under previous transaction basis. In the banking group 186 Bank of Commerce shares were traded in at 155.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The New York Evening Post, in weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"The action of Italian exchange was the most important feature of the week, heavy buying carrying the lira check up 60 points in the first two days, reaching equal to 5.80 in London, the highest in several years. Apparently this movement was not approved by the Italian Government, as Government institutions quickly appeared as sellers, keeping up large offerings until the rate fell back to 5.30. In the last two days the market for Italian had again become normal and was without a wide range. Dealings in lire on the advance and reaction were the largest on record, most of the transactions on the advance being in 1,000,000 lire blocks. Equally large offerings were made when the reactions occurred.

"A special movement occurred in exchange on Holland in which were large offerings of grain bills supposed to be on account of exports to Germany.

"Scandinavian exchanges were steady, Norwegian ranging from 25.78 to 25.82, while Swedish, after starting at 26.77, was in supply and dropped to 26.74. Danish moved in the same way, having a loss of 4 points to 26.63.

"Spanish exchange again had a wide range, rising 20 points to 17.67 at the beginning of the week and then declining to below 17.50. After the reaction it was again in demand and recovered almost all the reaction from the high level of the earlier trading. Japanese exchange, after being under pressure in the first two days, was in urgent demand from strong institutions and maintained a strong tone all through the remainder of the week, ranging from 46.87 to 49.75 for yen cables.

"Canadian exchange sold as high as 3-16 premium and then reacted. Sterling was maintained at close to $4.85¾, all for cables week. News of the arrival of $6,-000,000 gold by the Mauretania yesterday was a subject of a good deal of conjecture, there being a disposition to attribute it to the release of the French gold credit by England. French exchange held close to 3.91¾ for cables throughout the week.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The raw sugar market was unchanged today. No sales were reported and nearby sugar was offered at last paid prices of 4.77c.

Although trading in raw sugar futures was not very active, the undertone was easier, due to liquidation of May contracts and to selling of later months by commission houses, promoted by the increased offerings in the spot market. Final prices were two to seven points net lower. Approximate sales, 19,750 tons; May closed 2.92c, July 3.01c, September 3.10c, December 3.15c, January 3.01c, March 2.85c.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 6c to 6.20c for fine granulated but demand was again of small proportions.

Sugar futures closed easy. Approximate sales, 19,750 tons; May, 2.92; July, $3.01; Sept., 3.10; Dec., 3.15; Jan., 3.01.

Drygoods Market Review.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Denims for July-August deliveries were reported sold up and withdrawn at the opening of the markets. Sales of gray cloths last week were estimated as high as 600,000 pieces. Gray goods markets ruled steady. Raw silk held fairly steady. Silk printed novelties sold well and some of the light sheer crepes were active. Wool goods are beginning to sell a little more freely for all.

Studebaker Dividend.

SOUTH BEND, April 30.—Studebaker Corporation directors today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on common stock outstanding payable June 1 to stockholders of record at the close of business May 10. The executive committee was increased from seven to nine, the new members being John F. Harris and Edward Hurley.

Would Be Wheeling Directors.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Daniel Willard and Newton D. Baker, respectively, the president and a director of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, sought Interstate Commerce Commission authority today to become directors of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad. The Wheeling company was recently sold to the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Central and the Van Sweringen group of railroad operators.

Lead, Zinc and Copper.

Lead was quiet at $6.45 per 100 pounds in St. Louis Saturday.

Zinc was quiet at $6.15 per 100 pounds.

New York Silk.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Raw silk, unchanged.

Weekly Metal Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The volume of new steel bookings, especially for prompt shipment, by most mills and deliveries against specifications showed further seasonal curtailment during the week. Numerous small sales of fabricated steel were reported and estimates were that a fair tonnage would be rquired for railroad orders and bridge work now pending.

New inquiry for pig iron was slow in developing. Prices held steady.

Apparently the only improvement in the demand for copper came from abroad. This movement was moderate following a small reduction in the official export price. It was made to equal the action of producers who lowered their asking schedule to the level of 13 cents delivered Connecticut Valley points, for prompt May and June positions, as a result of the continuance of very small orders from domestic buyers. Some small producers and second hands at the end of the week were reported to be shading this price. Domestic consumers are understood to be well covered for requirements through May.

The price trend of tin was downward with the level established the lowest since January. There was selling pressure here for prompt and early shipment from the United Kingdom. Foreign markets were lower. Consumers continued to hold off waiting price stability.

Lead was reduced again and the price level was the lowest in recent years. Producers appeared to be determined to meet resale competition. Consumers were engaged largely in watching developments.

Zinc was irregular, but the price movement was mainly downward, owing to the large stocks and the continued poor demand.

Antimony was higher early in the week due to a better demand for distant positions and an advance in Chinese export duties. Reports of fair shipments from Shanghai during March caused a small setback later.

STOCKS DO BETTER ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Relaxation of selling pressure that caused uneasiness on recent openings on the Curb Exchange became emphasized in the general strength that prevailed in today's short session.

Prices of those issues sought in the early dealings rose easily and new high records were established in several issues of the diferent groups. American Cellulose which had demanded prominence lately, scored a further gain of 14 points, selling to new peak at 182. Goodyear Tire and Bancitaly Corporation were also higher.

In the public utility division Blackstone Valley Gas moved up 2 points to a high for the year at 133. American Light rose 5 points in the opening transaction and made a like gain later, selling to 245. National Transit and Prairie Pipe were prominent on the advance. The former rose to a new high mark. Cities Service made a further recovery of 1⅛ points, selling to 45½.

New York Coffee.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The coffee market was quiet today with prices easier under a little liquidation or trade selling promoted by the easier ruling of Brazil. The opening was unchanged to 7 points lower and the market closed at a net decline of 5 to 10 points. Estimated sales, 16,000 bags. Our home is healthy – it is heated by a HOLLAND Furnace

Vaporized Warm-Air Circulating System –

Bountiful health is a blessing every parent seeks for the whole family. To supply circulated, evenly warmed air with the right humidity for your home, is to know you are following the advice of leading physicians everywhere.

The Holland Heating System moistens the air you breathe, cleanses it, warms it uniformly, and circulates it throughout the house. This service is delivered under guarantee—the direct guarantee of the Largest Installers of Furnaces in the world. Every Holland branch is a local institution. Since the Holland Furnace Company is directly responsible to you, it must install every furnace it makes under rigid factory engineering standards. This is done to be sure that the terms of its guarantee are fulfilled to the letter.

These standards of healthful home-heating prevail in every one of the 522 direct factory branches which form this nation-wide heat-engineering service. The service is uniform in all branches, and is available to home owners, contractors and builders from coast to coast.

Discuss your heating problems with a man from the nearest Holland Branch. He is a trained man—an actual part of the Holland organization. He will explain the moderate cost and the great economy of the Holland Heating System. Mail the coupon today for our FREE book on Home Heating.

SIR HARRY SECOND AND TRITON THIRD

Derby Eligible Wins by Five Lengths From Coffroth Winner, Going Mile and Sixteenth in 1:47 1-5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 30. — Harry Payne Whitney's Whiskery, a leading Kentucky Derby candidate, won the $15,000 added Chesapeake Stakes at Havre de Grace this afternoon. Back of him was a field of shifty 3-year-olds.

Whiskery was ridden by L. Schafer and was a keen factor at all stages. In the early running he laid in behind the pace-making Triton and was running apparently in hand to the stretch turn where he moved into an easy lead and drawing away the last furlong had a lead of five lengths over the Coffroth handicap winner, Sir Harry, at the end then came the tiring pacemaker Triton beaten half a length for second money. Candy Hog was fourth.

Jopagan had a bit of hard luck being blocked after passing the half mile pole when Peternell attempted to slip through on the inside. The colt was moving rapidly at the time and the interference tangled him all up and he dropped out of the contention finishing fourth. Fair Star, who was making her first appearance as a 3-year-old, was never a factor. She broke slowly and showed no speed at any stage and was under restraint at the finish. The stake had a net value of $9050 to the winner. Shortly before the race heavy showers fell and the race was run over a sloppy track.

The Flash Handicap furnished a thrilling finish in which Lounger, Pandera and Rolls Royce passed the winning mark in the order named. Nose apart, Lounger raced next the inside rail all the way with Pandera on the outside of him. All through the home stretch, Pandera had a slight advantage but Lounger came again and took the lead at the last sixteenth pole and outlasted the final drive Rolls Royce, who finished third, was on the outside of the first two all the way. Contemplate refused to break and was left at the post.

Three $20,000 Purses in Fall.

General Manager Edward Burke made an important announcement concerning the fall meeting to be given by the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association next September. He announced the club would add to each of the three handicaps run at the 10-day meeting the sum of $20,000. These handicaps are the Eastern Shore for three-year-olds, the Potomac for three-year-olds, and the Havre de Grace Handicap for three-year-olds and upward. The entrance fees will be $50 and the starting fees $200 which will add considerable to the total value of these events. Last fall all three were won by the top weights, namely Osmand, Crusader and Chance Play.

Whiskery, forwardly placed in the early running, responded with good courage when placed to punishment and, finishing with a belated rush, sprinted into a long lead entering home stretch and drew away as his rider pleased. Sir Harry, slow to get going, improved his position fast and closed with good speed on the outside. Triton displayed keen speed in the going, raced War Flame into submission, but could not keep up in last quarter. Candy Hog raced well and finished gamely. Gold Coin showed a good effort Jopagan was weakly handled and raced in a pocket rounding the far turn. He tired when the real issue came. Fair Star, Pilletta and Point Breeze raced as if they disliked the going.

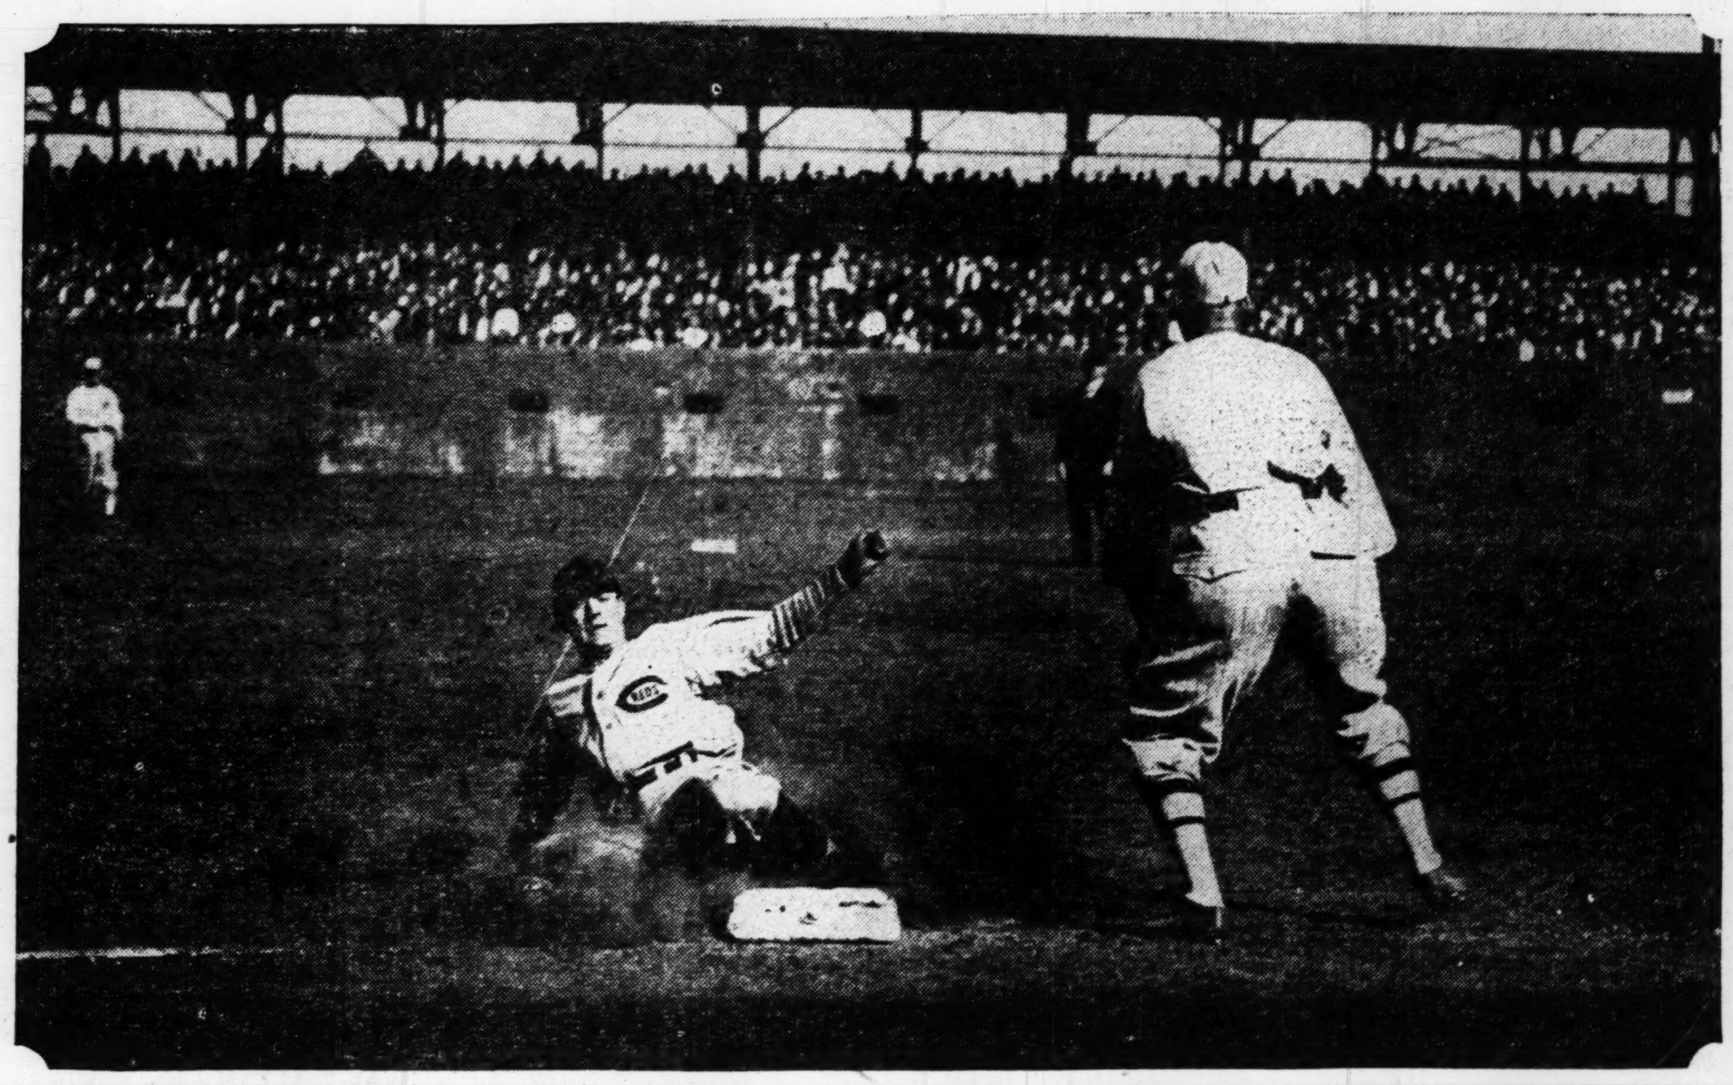
CRITZ OF THE REDS REACHES THIRD BASE IN NINTH INNING

But he "died" there when Walker flied out and the Cardinals captured the first game of the double-header. Tommy Thevenow is covering third base while Frisch is seen in the left background.



HAINES GAINS FOURTH VICTORY; FRISCH HITS PAIR OF HOME RUNS

Herman Bell Hurls Second Contest of Double-Header and Has Two Bad Innings, Adding to His Trouble—Double Play Checks Champions in Final Inning.

By J. Roy Stockton

Jess Joseph Haines scored his fourth successive victory yesterday afternoon but after the Cardinals had given an impressive demonstration of their hill-climbing ability in driving to an 8 to 4 triumph for their ace, they faltered on the final grade that the Reds threw in their way and lost in the second game of a double-header, 9 to 8.

Defeat in the second contest prevented the world champions from reducing the first-place lead of the Giants, who, by winning while the Cards were breaking even, widened their margin to a game and a half.

Manager Bob O'Farrell saw the Cards come from behind to give Haines victory in the opening contest and perhaps the confidence inspired by the game struggle that his men put up caused him to permit Herman Bell to tarry when the Reds were hitting him hard. The spectators thought Bob let the pitcher stay too long and were suggesting a change in no uncertain terms before a seventh-inning Cincinnati attack overcame a one-run Cardinal margin and put the game on ice for the Reds.

A Sort of a Tryout.

Moreover, O'Farrell faces the necessity of finding another pitcher to share with Alexander, Haines, Rhem and Sherdel that duty of starting games and he was hoping that Bell, who had shown skill in exhibition games, would come through in this test. The sturdy righthander might have survived, but he ran into a bull-penner's luck and the Cardinal defense cracked behind him.

Both games were free hitting contests and a crowd of 21,000 persons cheered their heroes in victory and jeered them now and then when they reverted to their sand-lot or collegiate days and bobbled in the field or faltered at bat. It was a thrilling afternoon of baseball, and there were many frayed nerves when the cash customers straggled home for a warmed-over dinner.

Haines Hurls Effectively.

Haines was not his usual effective self in the first game, but he had only two bad innings. In one of them the Reds bunched four hits for two runs and in the other two hits, a walk and an error gave the Reds their other two runs. Barring those two innings, which, of course, you can't do except in conversation, Haines held the Reds to four hits and no runs. That's the kind of pitching that the fans expected to get from Haines all the way and that's why it appeared in those two innings that the world was all topsy-turvy and that Haines was being murdered.

Ford started the third inning with a double to left, the second hit off Haines, and a break went against Jess when Frisch made a fine stop of Critz's grounder only to be a step too late in his throw to Bottomley.

Rixey popped to Thevenow, but Christensen punched a single to center, scoring Ford, and Walker hit one to the same field, sending Critz over the plate.

Cards Get One, Reds Two.

The Cardinals cut that lead to one run in the fifth when Thevenow singled, advanced on an infield out and a sacrifice fly and scored on a passed ball, but in the sixth the Reds increased their lead with two more runs, which they never would have had if Bill Southworth had not had a bad inning.

Haines struck out Allen to start the inning, but Picinich doubled to right, Southworth misjudging the ball and then dropping it after reaching it with his gloved hand. Dressen flied to Hafey for what should have been the third out and then Ford walked and Southworth missed an attempt at a shoestring catch of Critz's liner and it went for a single, scoring Picinich an dsending Ford to third. Rixey then hit a simple grounder to Thevenow which Tommy missed

Scholz Wins 100, Finishes Second in 220 in Feature Events at Penn Relay Meet

Roland Locke, Nebraska Star and World's Record Holder, Gains Victory in the Furlong—British Stars Capture Shuttle Relay Race.

By Alan J. Gould.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Racing over soggy turf, in a downpour of rain, the crack British team of hurdlers from Cambridge University, captained by their titled star, Lord David Burghley, brought their American invasion to a triumphant climax today in the Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Where they had failed in bids for individual honors yesterday, the British quartet came back as a team today to score a clean-cut victory over Yankee rivals in the 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay championship. Performing skillfully and faultlessly in spite of the heavy and treacherous footing, the Britons captured their trial heat easily and then romped away from Yale and Pennsylvania in the final, gaining a six-yard margin on the first leg that their anchor man, Lord Burghley, stretched to 12 at the finish.

Sharing the spotlight with this British triumph was the battle of three of America's foremost sprint kings, in which Jackson Scholz, New York A. C. veteran, and Roland Locke, Nebraska flier, divided chief honors. Exhibiting a burst of the speed that has made him the world's record holder, in spite of the muddy track, Locke came back to win the special 220-yard dash after having trailed Scholz as well as his other rival, Henry A. Russell of the Penn A. C., 1926 Eastern intercollegiate champion, in the 100-yard test.

Scholz, the Olympic 200-meter champion, won the 100 yards dash by a foot from Russell in a driving finish that found Locke barely a yard away. The furlong, Locke's favorite event, found the Nebraskan off like a scared jackrabbit. He led all the way and had enough reserve to stand off a sensational closing burst by Scholz, who came up to beat Russell for second place but finished two yards behind the flying Locke.

20,000 See Games.

In these, as well as the other events, all possibility of record-breaking performances was washed out by an almost steady downpour of rain that drenched a good share of the 20,000 spectators and turned the track into a quagmire. Scholz won his "100" in 10 1-10; Hester of Michigan, in an open 100-yard dash, was clocked in 10 1-5; while Locke reeled off his furlnog in 21 3-5, more than a second slower than his world's record of 20 5-10.

Blankenship Holds Browns To Four Hits and Sox Gain A 2-0 Shutout Victory

Walter Stewart Pitches Seven Frames and Only Run Against Him Is Scored When Wind Causes Rice to Misjudge a Fly.

By Jack Alexander
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

CHICAGO, April 30.—Cowboy Ted Blankenship rode herd on the Brownies here this afternoon, lassooed and branded Dan Howley's mavericks with goose eggs and stampeded them back to the corral with their haunches burning. The tall boy from Atoka, Ok., pitched ball with the virtuosity of a Helen Wills zipping aces across the net and allowing only four hits, won by 2 to 0.

Speaking from the angle of statistics, the victory gave the Sox twa straight over the Browns, squared Blankenship with the Browns for his defeat at St. Louis early in the season, made the fifth straight win for the Chicagoans and dropped the Browns down to the .500 mark. This is the first time since 1925 that the White Sox have taken as many as five in a row and, of course, the Brownies would be victims of such an upheaval of nature.

The Browns will make a third and final effort Sunday afternoon to beat the locals on their own soil and it is likely that Ernie Wingard will do the throwing and the ducking. Howley's hearties open in St. Louis Monday against Cleveland, inaugurating a month's stay.

Meet Walter Stewart.

While Blankenship absorbed most of the spotlight here today, another pitcher loomed large on the breeze-swept horizon. His name is Walter Stewart, sometimes known as "Lefty," late of Toronto and Birmingham, Ala. Stewart stayed for seven innings, and was touched for six hits, one of which might well have been termed an error, and only one run, the result of said error or doubtful hit. In a remarkable demonstration for a southpaw, Stewart shot the ball across the plate with the deadly accuracy of a circus thrower, slipping up only twice, to issue passes.

He was accurate to a fault for awhile, and the Sox were picking on his grooved zippers, but he later turned their eagerness to his own advantage, mixing in a few curves. This is evident from the figures that show that Stewart's first two innings were marred by two hits in each frame but the next three were hitless and the following two saw one asfety made in each. Not a bad exhibition for a minor league recruit!

Stewart was removed officially in the Browns' half of the eighth when it became apparent that some pinch-hitting was in demand. Stewart had fanned on both his attempts to hit. The pessimists may find some consolation in the fact that Wallie Schang, who batted for the pitcher, also fanned.

Chicago's Runs Tainted.

Milt Gaston, who worked in relief, did not look so good, although he might have been saved that extra run if O'Rourke had trapped Barrett's hot one in the eighth. Milt made Honeyboy Hunnefield tap to papa and slid the third one past the waiting Metzler, but "Bib" Falk slammed out a sweet double. Falk scored when Barrett drove one through O'Rourke for a single.

It was a terrible day for O'Rourke. He fanned on his first three trips to the plate and grounded out on the fourth.

Chicago's run off Stewart in the seventh was a bit of hard luck for the young pitcher. Sheely had just driven to the left field wall, where Ken Williams made

YANKS LOSE, DROP TO TIE FOR LEAD; GIANTS WIN

Shocker Is Routed In Ninth, Red Sox Scoring Three Runs

McGraw's Club Gains Its Sixth Successive Victory, Scoring Two Tallies in Final Frame to Defeat Boston Braves by 8 to 7 Score.

The American League champion New York Yankees lost a 3 to 2 decision to the Red Sox yesterday and dropped a tie for first place with the Athletics. In the National, the Giants put over their sixth successive triumph to retain their hold on first place.

SHOCKER BLOWS UP IN NINTH, RED SOX SCORE 3 AND WIN, 3-2

Boston, Mass., April 30.—One of those 10,000 to 1 chances came through this afternoon when the Red Sox before a 20,000 crowd including Mayor Walker of New York made three runs in their ninth inning and beat out the New York Yankees, 3 to 2.

Singles by Flagstead and Jacobson and the failure of Pitcher Shocker and Third Baseman Dugan to force Flaggy at third on Todt's bunt, filled the bases with none out.

Then Carrigan sent in Rothrock to pinch hit for Regan, which he did to the extent of a double which scored two runs and tied the score. Wilcy Moore then relieved Shocker. A purposeful pass to Hartley again filled the bases. Wiltse, who pitched throughout and so registered his second victory of the young season over the Yankees was called out on strikes. Wanninger forced Todt at the plate and Moore passed Haney, and forced over the winning run.

GIANTS WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT GAME, BEAT BRAVES IN THE NINTH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The Giants made it six straight today and three in a row from the Braves by snatching a game in the last half of the ninth this afternoon, after the Braves had come from behind and taken a one-run lead in the first half of the inning. A hit by Reese, subbing for Lindstrom, Roush's pass, a safe bunt by Hornsby and a safe hit by Farrell after Harper had been purposely passed gave the Giants two runs. The score was 8 to 7.

Genewich was easy for the New York hitters and was hammered for six runs, including a homer by Harper before he was removed. Grimes was hit liberally, but in the eighth four straight hits caused his removal. Hornsby's error put Bentley in a hole in the ninth and the Braves took the lead off Greenfield after he had been relieved.

Cold and cloudy weather held the Saturday crowd to 10,000.

HOME RUNS BY WEBB AND WILSON ENABLE CUBS TO BEAT PIRATES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 30.—Hack Wilson's ninth-inning homer with Adams on base gave Chicago a 5-to-4 victory over the Pirates here this afternoon.

Pittsburg took a two-run lead in the third only to have the score tied in the eighth, when Webb opened with a home run. Pinch Hitter Tolson hammered over the second run to tie the score.

FOTHERGILL GETS FOUR HITS, BUT TIGERS LOSE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, April 30.—Cleveland took the third game of the series from Detroit here today, 6 to 2. Young Willis Hudlin, just a year out of high school, easily outpitched Wells, Doyle and Walkup. The feature of the game was the continued fine hitting of Fothergill, the league leader, who had three singles and a double in his four times up.

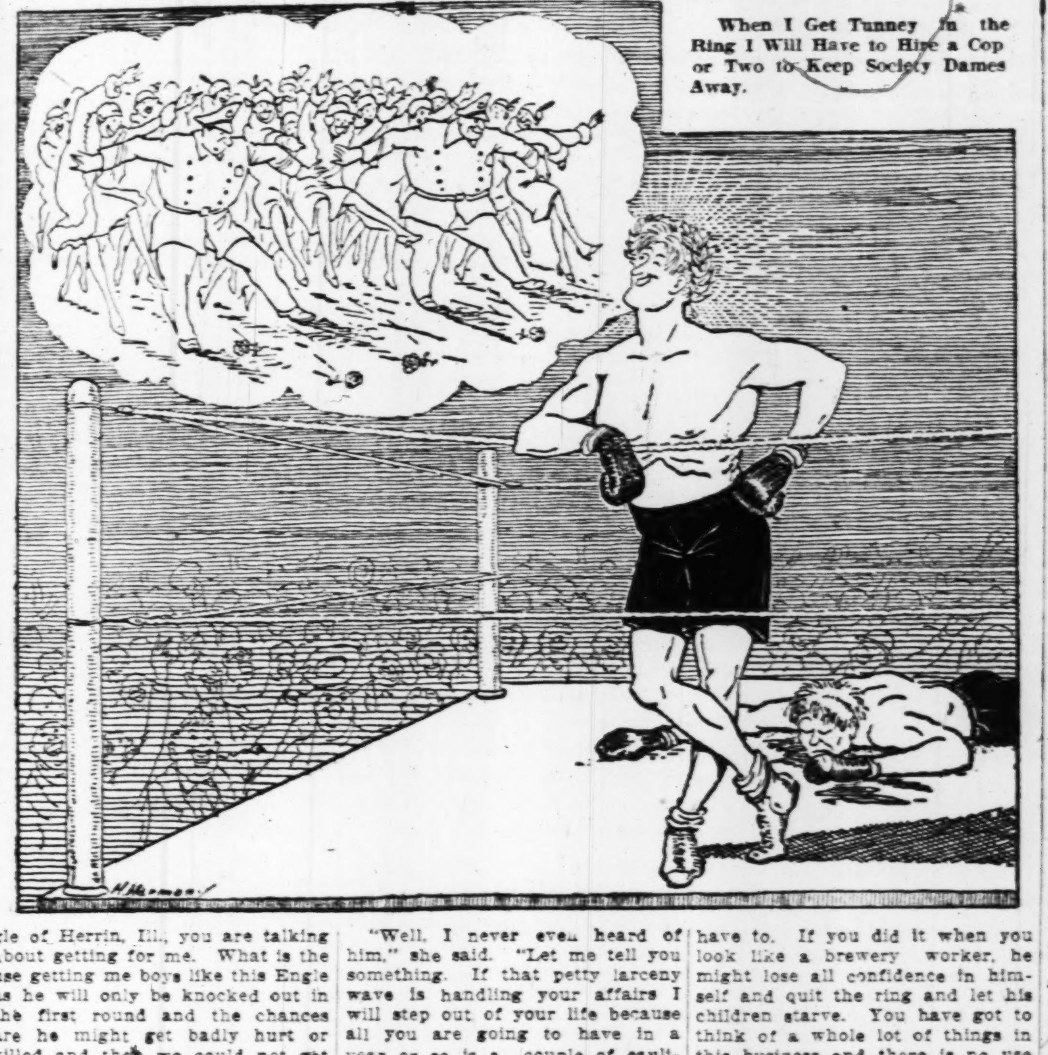
KNOCKOUT FRISBIE IS THINKING AGAIN

Wants Bout With Maloney-Sharkey Winner

No. 4—A Boxer's Letters to His Manager



When I Get Tunney in the Ring I Will Have to Hire a Cop or Two to Keep Society Dames Away.

O'Brien Unable to Land Match as Rickard Has Already Promised Battle to Tunney.

By Walter Devenport.

(Copyright, 1927.)

Mr. Patsy O'Brien, Mgr.
Dear Patsy:

I HAVE got an idea. When you get this letter hurry around to Tex Rickard and get me a fight with the winner of this Maloney and Sharkey fight, only tell Rickard not to say anything about it because if it gets out maybe there will be two fighters missing by the name of Maloney and Sharkey.

The idea came into my head last night while I was thinking. I said to myself it would not matter who won that fight because the winner would be out of luck if he had to fight me and while I do not need anybody to tell me I could slap down both those boys; a man came to see me yesterday, asking me would I help Maloney train for his fight with Sharkey and I asked him how he meant.

"Well," he said, "Jimmy saw you spread Buddy Costigan like he was butter and he asked me to get you for a sparring partner while he is training for Sharkey, not that he will need to train much."

I never met this Maloney but I did not like the looks of this fellow so I asked him if he was sure he was not working for Sharkey instead of Maloney because anybody who wants me as a sparring partner must want to be softened up a whole lot.

"What is the matter," I said. "Are you working for Sharkey or are you working for Maloney, but betting on Sharkey?"

"How do you mean," he said.

Only Different Names.

"OH nothing," I said. "Only if I go in there with Maloney even in training I would not pull my punches but would sock him because the only difference to me between Maloney and Buddy Costigan is their names."

"Well," he said, "Jimmy is all steamed up about getting you to be his sparring partner for this fight so maybe it would be a good thing if you would go in there and kid him along because Jimmy is going to win this fight no matter how much you soften him up and then he will be a sucker for you because you will know his style. If I was you I would go to Tex Rickard and get Tex to let you have a fight with the winner who will be Maloney and not say anything about it so that he will be surprised when he finds out he has licked Sharkey but has to fight you afterwards. What do you say?"

I told him to come around to see you so when he comes tell him it is o k with you and then go on around to Rickard's office, but keep it a secret. The only trouble with the idea will be that maybe Maloney will poke me in the nose which will make me sore after which Sharkey will not have much to do if he hasn't both arms paralyzed the night of the fight not that it will make much difference if you get me a fight with the winner.

Never Mind "Milk Men."

THIS will be a better plan than getting me a lot of milk men to fight like this Bad News Engle of Herrin, Ill., you are talking about getting for me. What is the use getting me boys like this Engle as he will only be knocked out in the first round and the chances are he might get badly hurt or killed and then we could not get even Johnny Risko to fight. If this Bad News Engle you are talking about is the plate of mush I saw playing ketch with Mike McTigue at the Manly Arts A. C. last winter he would not make good as the bouncer in a beauty shoppe.

When I made you my manager it was because I said to myself here is a guy who will not waste my good time getting me a lot of brick yard extras to waste my good time on but will get me Gene Tunney and have it over with.

A young fellow does not get anywheres slapping down a lot of stockyards throw-aways because putting on the gloves with a lot of boys like that only breaks up a young fellow's evenings and while he gets paid for it money is not everything. As for this Bad News Engle, any guy who gets knocked off by Mike McTigue who ought to be at home working on his will, is going to the bad anyway if he is out of bed after 9 o'clock or ought to be looked over by a good doctor because it is not Mike McTigue that ails him but something a fellow does not get over like having one arm gone or something.

Need Plenty of Cops.

YOU will be glad to know that all is off between me and Miss Mabel Foltz or Birds Eye Mabel as you said although there never was anything between us as far as I am concerned. I read your letter to her where you said you knew her 20 years ago when she double-crossed her sister, Olga Vesuvius, the lady rassler."

"Oh, is that nickle-plated rat catcher your manager?" she said.

"Yes," I said, getting pretty indignant.

"Well, I never even heard of him," she said. "Let me tell you something. If that petty larceny wave is handling your affairs I will step out of your life because all you are going to have in a year or so is a couple of cauliflower ears and maybe a tincup."

"You have wronged a gentleman," I said.

"Maybe I have," she said. "But it must have been some time ago because I have not met any in years and his name would not be Patsy O'Brien if I had of."

It is all right with me about her, anyway, because when I get Tunney in the ring I will have to hire a cop or two to keep the society dames away so don't waste my good time with a lot of soda water engineers.

Yours truly,
K. O. FRISBIE.

All Have a Weakness.

Dear Frisbie:

I KNEW you had a weakness because everybody has one even if they do manage to hide is on you. You will have to get over this business of belittling yourself all the time. Brace up. They way you go around asking people to pardon you reminds me of a man I used to know called the Humble Dutchman. He used to go around making excuses for being where he was and apologizing for not being better at it until they had to get the Sheriff to shoot him so that the whole country wouldn't have a broken heart. That happened out in Oregon about 20 years ago but it might happen again and there is no way of telling where a thing will happen these days.

So as I say get a good grip on yourself and wipe your eyes and drop around to the gym and try a little training because while you are sure to lick this boy Bad News Engle there is no use hurting his feelings any more than you have to. If you did it when you look like a brewery worker, he might lose all confidence in himself and quit the ring and let his children starve. You have got to think of a whole lot of things in this business and there is no use in letting a man's innocent family suffer for something they did not do.

Promised to Tunney.

I SAW Rickard and he said to tell you that he would give you a fight with the winner of the Maloney-Sharkey go only that he had already promised it to Tunney and anyway you have your future all before you and these boys haven't got much to look forward to and he believes in letting them have a little fun while they can because it won't be long before they will be through. Rickard said he would give you a fight himself if he wasn't so busy.

I turned down Maloney's manager on that proposition for you to be Jimmy's sparring partner. It is a bad thing for a young fellow to get to be known as a sparring partner. A sparring partner is something fighters use to hit on the chin in gyms. Besides your plan would not be a good one because it would be deceiving someone and in this game we should never try to receive anybody, especially Jimmy Maloney who is apt to take it very seriously.

Another thing. Somebody has been telling me that you were seen at 5 o'clock the other morning coming out of Mike Ballerio's gin mill. Maybe you went in there just to find out what time it was. I don't know. But take it from me nobody who isn't a night watchman or a cop ought to be worrying what time it is at 5 o'clock in the morning. Besides the chances are that even the clock is liable to be wrong in Mike Ballerio's.

Statler Handicap At Fairmount Park Draws 92 Nominees

Many Leading Owners Represented With Entrants—New Orleans Handicap Winner, Cotlogomer, Nominated for Coventry Stable—Five English-Bred Horses Named for Stake.

The Statler Hotel Handicap, for 3-year-olds and up, at one mile and one sixteenth, to be run during the spring meeting at Fairmount Park, which opens May 28 for a 32-day stand, closed for entries March 31, with 92 nominations.

Among the prominent owners with entrants are: Audley Farm, H. Teller, Archibald, Edward R. Bradley, J. W. Corrigan, Foxhall Keene, Edward B. McLean, Walter J. Salmon, and Edward F. Seagram, Canadian sportsman.

H. G. Bedwell, with five, heads the list of nominators. Edward Riley Bradley, master of Idle Hour Farm has named four while several owners are represented by three thoroughbreds.

Audley Farm has entered its grand race mare, Princess Doreen, now in her sixth year. Princess Doreen has participated in most of the stake races at the Maryland race tracks and stands twelfth among the leading money-winning thoroughbreds of the world, with $153,355.

New Orleans Winners Entered.

Cotlogomor, the big French horse that won the New Orleans Handicap and was favorite for the Coffroth Handicap, is the only racer named by S. A. Cowan, proprietor of the Coventry Stable. Cotlogomor is now in training at Churchill Downs. Cotlogomor is a great distance runner and should find the distance of the Statler Hotel Handicap to his liking.

England is well represented in the race, five English bred racers being named for the stake by their owners. San Utar, Bookbinder, Top Boot, Col. Board and Salutation are scheduled to carry England's hopes in the Statler. San Utah, a fast sprinter, is named by J. W. Corrigan; Bookbinder by C. B. Creech, Col. Board by Mose Lowenstein, Top Boot by Foxhall Keene and Salutation by W. J. Salmon.

Among the horses entered by E. F. Seagram is the colt Sir Harry, winner of the Coffroth Handicap at Tijuana. Sir Harry is one of three horses named by Seagram. The others are: Edisto and Gaffsman. The latter finished fourth in the Coffroth Handicap, at one mile and one-quarter and finished fast.

Nugent Brothers of East St. Louis, have entered Yalovian, a useful 3-year-old racer, and the 4-year-old Traveler, winner of a number of races during the winter at New Orleans. Mrs. W. J. Potter is represented by Brilliant.

Helen's Babe is entered by Hal Price Headley and is at present on her way to Pimlico to fill her engagement in the Dixie Handicap. The filly recently set a new track record for a mile at Lexington of 1:37 1-5 in beating the fast Boot to Boot.

Bradley Nominates Four.

Edward Riley Bradley has nominated four of his racers for the stake. Boot to Boot, which finished third in the Inaugural Fairmount Derby, heads the list. Blue Pencil, Beneficent and Benedict Vow are also named.

Cards Win Opener, 8 to 4, Double Play Checks Them In Second and They Lose, 9-8

absolutely and positively and Ford scored and the Reds were three runs ahead.

Cutting Down the Handicap.

Then the Cardinals started to beat back and in justice to Rixey it must be said that his support faltered or he might have gone on to beat Haines. With one out, Allen muffed Bottomley's fly and Jim reached second. Bell walked, the runners advanced on Hafey's grounder to Kelly and O'Farrell came through with a slashing double past Dressen, scoring Bottomley and Bell.

Rixey lost control in the seventh and the Cardinals tied the score. Southworth walked with one out, Frisch singled to left and Bottomley walked, filling the bases. Jakie May relieved Rixey and Bell forced Frisch at third, but Dressen's momentary fumble ruined his chances for a double play and Southworth scored.

May had to retire in the eighth. He started by walking O'Farrell and Thevenow singled to center, sending Bob to third and Haines put the Cards ahead for the first time when he looped a single to right, scoring O'Farrell. Carl Mays then came to the rescue, but Douthit doubled to right, scoring Thevenow and Frisch's sacrifice fly to Christensen and Christensen's wild throw to the plate scored Haines and Douthit.

Two Homers for Frisch.

Frankie Frisch would have been the hero of the day if the Cards could have won the second game. Even in defeat, the Fordham flash stood out as the star of the team. He hit two home runs and a single and ranged far to either side to knock down whistling grounders and turn them into putouts. Had the Cardinal defense been as sound in all spots as it was at second base, the world champions would have romped home with both ends of the twin bill and would be only half a game behind the pace-setting Giants this morning.

To make O'Farrell more confident that his men could turn to and knock in a flock of runs whenever they needed them, they got off to a flying start and cracked Red Lucas for two runs in the first inning. Louthit singled and was caught at third on Frisch's one-bagger, but Bottomley singled and Bell doubled and there were two runs.

Reds Count Four.

However, the Reds soon took the lead. Allen doubled to left, leading off in the second. Hafey reached the ball with both hands, but it was a hard chance near the fence and Chick was not penalized. Hargrave singled to right and a pass to Dressen filed the bases with Reds and the mouths of the cash customers with loud words caling for a new Cardinal pitcher.

Ford cracked a single to center, scoring Allen, and after Critz had fouled out, Herman Bell fumbled Lucas' bounder and Hargrave raced home. Christensen forced Lucas, but in the meantime Dressen scored. Walker singled to left and Ford carried the fourth run of the inning over the plate.

Frisch hit his first home run in the third inning, reducing the Reds' lead to one tally and in the sixth he plastered another four-bagger into the right field seats. Bottomley followed with a triple to center and scored on Bell's infield out and the Cards were ahead for the second time in this game.

Lead Wiped Out Again.

Once more the cruel fans yelled for a new pitcher, but as usual no attention was paid to them. Walker singled with one down in the seventh and George Kelly swished his bat and the ball sailed into the left field seats and 'High Pockets" followed Walker over the plate and the Cardinal lead was no more. Allen walked, Dressen singled, the double steal worked and Bell missed Ford's grounder and the Reds were three runs ahead.

The Cards drew within one of a tie in the eighth when Bottomley walked, Bell doubled and Hafey singled, but the Reds increased their lead again with a run in the ninth on a single and two sacrifices and so the Cardinals, by pushing over another run in their half of the final inning, merely managed to finish a close second. Thevenow and Reinhart started that ninth with singles, but Douthit hit into a double play, and after Southworth had singled, Frisch grounded to Critz for the final out of a hectic afternoon of baseball.

RING OR SHERDEL TO OPPOSE LUQUE IN SERIES FINAL

Jimmy Ring or Bill Sherdel will pitch for the Cardinals this afternoon in the final game of the series. Adolfo Luque is due for the Reds.

Today's game will end the Cards' first stand at home. They will depart this evening for an exhibition game at Springfield, O., on their way to Pittsburg, where they open a series today.

Grover Alexander will not depart with the team but will join his mates in Pittsburg Wednesday or Thursday.

The Reds in the third inning of the first game made more runs off Haines than the opposition had scored against Jess in the 27 innings of three previous games he pitched.

Ford started it all with a double to left center. Critz beat out a grounder to Frisch, Rixey popped out and Christensen and Walker singled to center.

Hafey's double against the left field wall brought the spectators to their feet. It was a vicious smash and whistled on its way like an explosive shell.

Two were out, however, and O'Farrell grounded to Ford.

Hafey Purposely Passed.

Hafey made a deep impression on the enemy. In the fourth inning Southworth doubled and Frisch walked and after Bottomley had fouled out and Bell advanced the runners with a sacrifice fly, Rixey intentionally pitched a fourth ball to Chick.

O'Farrell should have resented this slur on a manager and the league's most valuable player, but trying to get his bat out of the way, he tapped helplessly to Rixey.

A passed ball gave the Cards a run in the fifth. Thevenow opened with a single, advanced on Haines' grounder and Douthit's sacrifice fly and one of Rixey's pitches then got away from Picinich. Rixey covered the plate and had Picinich's throw in time to get Thevenow, but Tommy slid under the outstretched hand that held the ball.

Southworth barely missed two catches in the sixth, with one out, Picinich shot a liner to right and Bill dropped the ball after reaching it with his gloved hand. It had to be called a double. After Dressen flied out and Ford walked, Bill missed an attempt at a shoestring catch of Critz's liner and it went for a single, scoring Picinich and sending Ford to third.

Rixey followed with an easy roller to short. It was perhaps the easiest roller of the season, but it trickled through Thevenow's hand and Ford scored.

O'Farrell Rings the Bell.

O'Farrell delivered the next time he went to the plate in a pinch. He crashed a double past Dressen in the sixth, scoring Bottomley and Bell.

Allen put Rixey in trouble by dropping Bottomley's fly with one out. Jim reaching second, Bell walked and after Hafey had advanced them with a grounder to Kelly, O'Farrell rang the bell.

With the tying run on second base, Rixey walked Thevenow intentionally and struck out Haines.

Hafey, on his tap to Kelly, stopped in his tracks and retreated to the plate. Kelly did not tag him and when Critz got the ball, he ran over and touched first. The play was scored, however, as if Kelly had made the putout.

Haines Wins Own Game.

Ragged fielding helped the Cards push over the tying run in the seventh. With one out, Southworth walked, Frisch singled to left and Bottomley walked, filling the bases. Jakie May relieved Rixey and Bell's grounder gave Dressen a chance for a double play, but the Red third sacker fumbled and after touching third, forcing Frisch, it was too late for a play at first and Southworth crossed the plate.

May pitched to Hafey and Chick, after fouling several just out of reach of the infielders, finally sent up an easy one for Kelly.

The Cardinals owed it to Haines to make some runs for him, after the three great pitching exhibitions he gave in previous games. Even at that Jess drove in the first run in the fat eighth-inning rally.

WHISKERY WINS FEATURE RACE AT HAVRE DE GRACE

the Havre De Grace meeting was presented by Edward Burke to Jockey H. Workman. The latter's employer, W. T. Hopkins accepted the medal on behalf of the boy who is confined in the Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore suffering from a broken collar bone.

J. Phillips announced that he would send his stable from here to Fairmount Park for the spring meeting.

Jockey Fishman who has ridden several winners at the meeting won his boxing bout with the Cyclone Kid at Elk Mills, Md., last night. Fishman put his opponent away in four rounds.

Some of the best moves shown at Pimlico this morning were: Big Smoke 1:45, Martha Washington 1:44 2-5, Jock 2:13 3-5, first mile in 1:44, Ennui and Ursa Major 1:17, Mrs. Northland 1:21, Star King 1:16, Bird Wood 1:03, Ancilla 1:02 2-5, Rooney 49.

FARLEY OF MISSOURI WINS DASH EVENT AT DRAKE

Runs 100 Yards in 10 Seconds; Three More Records Fall

Simon of Illinois Wins Running Broad Jump With Leap of 23 Feet, 9 Inches—Iowa State Wins Two Mile Relay.

By Charles W. Dunkley.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 30—Three records were shoved into discard, another was equaled and a new mark was created as 2800 athletes wound up their performances in the finals of the Drake relay carnival today.

In the two days' competition, ten new records for the Drake games were established. The battle for supremacy and records drew athletic stars from 269 universities, colleges and high schools in 17 States.

Indians Beat Own Record.

The famous Haskell Indian quartet raced to a sensational victory clipping it off in 7:59 3-10 and clipping in the two-mile college event, stepping the former mark of 8:04 4-10, set by the Indians two years ago. Roberts, Osif, Manual and Walking formed today's record-smashing combination.

The Cedar Rapids, Iowa, half-mile relay team clipped a tenth of a second off the 880-yard distance by negotiating the stretch in 1:37 10. The former mark was held by Northeast High of Kansas City, Mo., in 1925. Another combination from Clarinda, Ia., hung up a record of :45 3-10 for the 440-yard relay.

The University of Iowa and Iowa State College carried off the major share of the relays. Iowa sprung a surprise by defeating Kansas in the University quarter-mile. Cunel, anchor-runner of the Hawkeye quartet, beat Grady to the tape by a scant yard, with Missouri in third place. Iowa covered the distance in :41 8-10, which tied the relay record established by Kansas in yesterday's trial.

Farley Wins Century.

Brunk and Carile of Drake tied for first place in the running high jump at 6 feet four inches, giving Drake its first victory in any special event since the organization of the games 18 years ago.

Kent Farley, Missouri, repeated his triumph of a week ago in the Kansas relays, when he beat out Grady of Kansas, in a blanket finish in the cenutry today, reeling it off in 10 seconds flat. Both Grady and Farley stepped the distance in :09 8-10 in their qualifying heats yesterday.

Lyon and Simon of Illinois registered victories in the shotput and running broad jumps. Lyons took the shot with a heave of 47 feet six inches with Simon shooting through space 23 feet, 9 inches to grab off the honors in the jump.

The Summaries:

HAMMER THROW—Won by Gwynn, University of Pittsburg (155 feet 6 inches); Shively, Illinois, second; Allman, Michigan normal, third; Nelson, Iowa, fourth.

HALF MILE HIGH SCHOOL RELAY (Class A)—Won by Cedar Rapids, Ia. Time 1:32 7-10 (new Drake record).

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Dunson, Ok.; Irwin, Ohio States, second; Krause, Nebraska, third; Doornbos, Kansas, fourth. Time, :15.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Farley, Missouri; Grady, Kansas, second; Smith, Wisconsin, third; Eddington, Missouri, fourth. Time, :10.

TWO-MILE RELAY—Universities: Won by Iowa State (Hoak, Thernburg, Caulum, Conger), Chicago, second; Kansas State, third; Northwestern, fourth. Time, 7:52 2-5.

ONE-MILE RELAY—Won by Oklahoma Baptists (Williams, Hurt, Bell, Hannum); Kansas State Teachers, second; Cornell College, third; Columbus College, South Dakota, fourth. Time, 3:22 7-10.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP—Won by Simon, Illinois (23 feet 9 inches); Cheve, Illinois College, 23 feet 6¾ inches, second; Meislahan, Illinois (22 feet 6½ inches), third; Whiteside, Lombard (22 feet 2¼ inches), fourth.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Thornhill, Kansas (143.75); Welch, University of Pittsburg, (142.55), second; Alman, Michigan State Normal (139.00), third; Rasmas, Ohio State (137.4), fourth.

ONE-MILE RELAY—High schools, class A: Won by Central High of Sioux City (Wall, Lee, Matthaides, MacDonald); Carroll, Iowa, second; Oskaloosa, Iowa, third; Lincoln, Neb., fourth. Time, 3:32 6-10.

440-YARD RELAY—Universities: Won by Iowa (Everingham, Beatty, Baird, Cunel); Kansas, second; Missouri, third; Drake, fourth. Time: :41 8-10 (ties Drake record).

FOUR-MILE RELAY—Universities: Won by Oregon Aggies (Bell, Knifton, Sission, Selayton); Oklahoma, second; Wisconsin, third; Illinois, fourth. Time: 18:00 8-10.

440-YARD RELAYS—High Schools, Class A: Won by Clarinda, Ia. (Hubbard, Aikman, Jekner, Rastofer); Wichita, Kan., second; Norfolk, Neb., third; Lincoln, Neb., fourth. Time: :45. (New Drake record: former record of :45 3-10 made by Northeast High of Kansas City in 1925.)

TWO-MILE RUN—Won by Shimek, Marquette; Frazier, Kansas, second; Pflieger, Marquette, third; Hunn, Iowa, fourth. Time: 9:31 6-10.

SHOTPUT—Won by Lyons, Illinois, 47 feet 6 inches; Thornhill, Kansas (45 feet 3 inches), second; Lewis, Northwestern (44 feet 9¼ inches), third; Forwald, Iowa (44 feet 4½ inches), fourth.

TWO-MILE RELAYS—Colleges: Won by Haskell (Roberts, Osif, Manual, Walking); Lombard, second; Kansas State Teachers, Pittsburg, Kan., third; Knox, fourth. Time: 7:59 3-10 (new Drake record; former record of 8:04 4-10 made by Haskell in 1925).

15-Year-Old Girl Captures British Hard Court Title

Miss Betty Nuttall Defeats Miss E. F. Clark in Final, 8-6, 6-2.

By the Associated Press.

BOURNEMOUTH, England, April 30.—Youthful Betty Nuttall today won her first senior tennis championship and at the age of 15 made herself woman's hard court champion of England. She defeated Miss E. R. Clark, 8-6, 6-2.

Miss Nuthall had never shown better form or more consistent good judgment than during this tournament, having cured herself of her former bad habit of serving double faults.

Rene Lacoste, French tennis star, won the men's singles championship, defeating Dr. P. D. B. Spence of South Africa, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Lacoste and Jacques Brugnon won the men's doubles championship, defeating R. Lycett and Dr. Spence 6-1, 6-2, 7-5.

Shurtleff Wins From Concordia

St. Louis Seminary Nine Is Held to Eight Scattered Safeties.

ALTON, Ill., April 30.—A big second inning, in which five runs were scored, enabled Shurtleff College to defeat the visiting Concordia nine, 6 to 4, here this afternoon at Sportsman's Park. The local pitchers held the Concordia sluggers to eight scattered hits.

Score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
Shurtleff College—	050 000 10x—	6	11	1
Concordia —	300 000 010—	4	8	1

Batteries—Short, Moll and Sirdaugh; Zfchoche, Walters, Lang and Heitzberd.

NAVY CREWS WIN THREE OUT OF FOUR RACES FROM PENN

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 30.—In a driving rain and over rough water, Navy crews easily won three of the four races with Penn here this afternoon. Only in the 150-pound event were Quaker oarsmen victorious.

In the varsity event the Annapolis oarsmen led their opponents over the entire course of one and five-sixteenths miles, finishing full five lengths in the van. Their time was 6m 32s against 6m 47s by their opponents.

Navy juniors won their event by a scant two lengths in the most interesting event of the day.

The Plebes, who covered the course in 6:46, carried off their laurels with as much ease as the varsity and in only 14 seconds slower time. Penn 150-pounders chalked up the only victory of the day for their alma mater, winning by a scant two lengths in 7m 9s.

DETROIT, April 30. — Fidel La Barba, flyweight champion, easily outpointed Mickey Shaw of Detroit in a 10-round boxing contest here last night. La Barba won every round.

Western Track Team Captures Triangular Meet

Principia Noses Out Country Day for Second—Coles Is Individual Star.

By Davison Obear.

The triangular track and field meet at Taylor Field yesterday was won by the athletes of Western Military Academy, Upper Alton, Ill. Principia Academy nosed out Country Day School for second place. The point totals follow: Western, 59½; Principia, 44½; Country Day, 43.

The athletes of the three schools made good records in a number of events. The Western M. A. team gained its advantage in the field events, winning a majority of them, Principia and Country Day excelled on the track.

Otis Coles of Principia won individual honors with a total of 10½ points. He captured the running broad jump, took second in the 220-yard dash, third in the 100-yard event and tied for fourth in the high jump.

Winning both the 100 and 220-yard dash events gave William Jackson, star sprinter of Country Day, second place in the scoring with 10 points. Cadet Megown of Western also had a good day, winning the shot put, scoring a tie for third in the pole vault and a tie for second in the high jump.

High Jump Is Feature.

The high jump was the feature of the field events. Duncan Meier of Country Day School won with a mark of five feet, eight inches. This is equal to the St. Louis Interscholastic League record. Coles of Principia leaped 20 feet, 10 inches to win the broad jump. Boettler, the Country Day entrant, was a close second with 20 feet, 8½ inches.

The 880-yard event was closely contested. In the final lap Roger Moon, Principia junior star, gained on Wochansky of Western and almost beat him at the tape. It was Moon's third track meet.

Preston Richardson of Principia and Fisher of Western finished neck and neck in the 120-yard high hurdles. Richardson got revenge, however, by taking the 220-yard low hurdles, Fisher finishing third.

Country Day won the 880-yard relay race, the final event on the program. The team was composed of Rogers, Boettler, Teasdale and Jackson. Principia, with Bob Richardson running fourth, finished a close second in this race.

Cadet Templeton of Western took an early lead in the mile run and retained it, although hard pressed at the finish by Warren Lacke of Principia. Templeton made the distance in the excellent time of five minutes, three and 8-10 seconds.

The summaries:

100-YARD DASH—Jackson, Country Day, first; R. Richardson, Principia, second; Coles, Principia, third; Teasdale, Country Day, fourth. Time, 10.5s.

HOT OFF THE BAT!

BY John E. Wray

Fifty Years Ago Today.

FIFTY years ago we not only had a St. Louis Browns club in Organized Baseball, but one that played almost as well as the big league clubs of today.

That fact is to be deduced from the box score of a game played by the St. Louis Browns against the Syracuse Stars, exactly 50 years ago today, May 1, 1877.

These two teams played a 15-inning battle without either side being able to score a run and in which only one man reached third base.

Only 10 hits combined were made by the clubs. Pitcher Fred Nichols of the Browns yielded only two safeties.

Only one error was made by the two teams, it being an overthrow of first base.

Nichols of the Browns yielded three bases on balls, while McCormick, the Syracuse hurler, had a clean record. Thirteen batters struck out during the contest. And the only two attempts at base stealing were failures.

That would compare favorably with the batting, fielding and pitching records of the present time.

Then and Now.

IN fact, the conditions under which the game was played then rather show that the old boys were performing under greater handicaps than today and doing just as well.

For example, in 1877—

The catcher did his stuff bare-handed.

The pitcher was only 45 feet from the batsman, but was not permitted to deliver a ball except with an underhand motion. Also the batter could call for a high, low or waist pitch.

The pitcher was allowed four strikes, and nine balls were necessary before a batter walked.

The hit-batsman could take his base and, to make it harder for the hurler, bases on balls were charged as errors.

But while the records of the Syracuse-Browns game appear good, they were only relatively so. The intensity of the play did not compare with that of today when so much more is expected of batters, fielders and everyone connected with the game.

Yet we must also consider that the better ball used today, the finely-groomed field of play, the constant replacement of dead with livelier balls, the elevation of the pitcher to a point above the batsman and the employment of gloves, sun-glasses and better bats has greatly contributed to give modern baseball better physical records than the old timers made, in some respects.

Nothing can alter the fact, however, that hard-hit balls in 1877 were just as hard to field as in 1927; and that curve ball pitching was just as deceptive to batters as it is now.

Most of the "progress" in baseball appears to have taken place in the economic end of the game, in which respect baseball has risen from a catch-penny proposition, to a major business enterprise, in 1927.

A Strange Case.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE STRIBLING, who is interesting in the abstract, if not in the ring, will fight again this week. An exasperatingly clever light-heavyweight Irishman, Tommy Loughran, will be his opponent.

The purpose of the engagement, aside from enhancing the assets of the principals and Promoter Fugazy of Brooklyn, is to try to inject the winner into candidacy for a battle with Tunney.

Neither is big enough or good enough for the proposed leveling of Tunney. But in their way both are interesting.

Stribling has our sympathy. Here is one of the finest physical specimens one would care to see. Modeled for grace, speed and strength, he seems perfectly equipped for his task. Taught boxing early in his career, he was an experienced man at 20 and had fought a draw with a seasoned world's champion while yet in his teens.

Intelligent, powerful, fast and clever, he is, nevertheless, one of the most unpopular heavyweights the Big Money city of New York has ever booed.

Style Is Against Stribling.

NEW YORK fans have gained the idea that Stribling's advantages are offset by one failing—lack of heart. And for such a fighter the mob has only one verdict—thumbs down.

As a result, Stribling, in order to get the crowd's support must completely renovate his entire scheme of boxing—not only renovate it, but "sell" it to the fans by making good.

Stribling's manager has tried to change Stribling. He has also tried to sell his protege to the public as a reformed rabbit converted into a bulldog.

But, worse luck, when the metamorphosed bunny was sent in to do his bulldog stuff against Eddie Huffman, the built-up bulldog revorted to type and backed away like a rabbit.

In our opinion Stribling cannot be remolded nearer to the heart's desire.

The ass in the lion's skin is still a donkey.

Stribling was not built or reared along hard-boiled lines. His nature, as well as his safety-first training at the hands of his parents, forever have inoculated him with the germ of safety-first.

Breaks Go Against Stewart and Browns Lose, 2 to 0

The smash made Stewart a little weary and he passed Aaron Ward, a weak hitter. When McCurdy, who is swatting better than .500 rolled tremulously to the box, it looked as if the inning was all over. Especially so when Blankenship sent up a high fly to short right, where Harry Rice has been playing so sensationally in the last few games.

Here Harry had an unexpected battle with the elements. He staved off the sun but the winds of the Windy City swirled in and blew the ball completely out of his reach and it fell for two bases, scoring Ward. It was a cheese double but Blankenship deserved something for his great pitching. And he got it. It happens sometimes.

Notes of the Game.

O'Rourke showed lots of speed in beating out a slow roller to Kamm in the first inning. Unfortunately the ball was a trifle foul and when Frank tried again, he fanned.

Sisler worked a pass but for the second time in two games was caught napping off first. He drew three throws from Blankenship. The first seemed to have him and the fans booed Umpire Dineen for calling him safe. A second throw followed, which Sis easily beat. The third one he also had whipped, going into the base hands first, but when he tried to get up and put his foot on the bag he fell off balance and Sheely pounced on him with the ball.

A tendency to lay over too many good ones got Stewart in a hole in the Sox's half of the first. With two out, Metzler and Falk punched out singles, but Barrett, after fouling off a lot of good ones which Stewart was still delivering, raised a high one to Harry Rice.

Stewart was still grooving them when the Sox batted again. Sheeley took advantage of the bargain day offering and socked a clean single to right center. Stewart then gave Ward a wide one at which Aaron hit. He hit into one of the well-known Gerber to Melillo to Sisler double plays.

Single for Sisler.

Blankenship had plenty on the ball and the first Brownie hit was Sisler's single in the fourth. It was a hard grounder that bounced off Blankenship's glove and would have been an infield out except for Sisler's speed. Kamm fielded the ball nicely but was a bit late. Sisler died on first when Williams lifted to Barrett.

O'Rourke recovered his laugh when he scooped Barrett's hard drive out of the dust on the pick-up and threw him out in the fourth. Two strikeouts in two times at bat had caused Frank's face to assume a pained expression.

The lake breeze almost caused "Bib" Falk to miss Schulte's long high fly in the first. It was ticketed for the stands and "Bib" backed against the wall but the breeze shoved it back again and Falk had to make a sudden sprint toward the infield to turn a nice catch.

Gerber's single to left in the fifth was the first clean hit off Blankenship. O'Neill also got on base on a pass but Stewart fanned and closed the inning.

O'Rourke Misses Homer.

O'Rourke was hot after he had fanned for the third straight time. It was not so much the three strikes as the long foul he hit on the first strike that would have been a homer if it hadn't gone foul. Just the principle of the thing.

A sudden change of mind on the part of Mr. Sheely gave Schulte a single in the seventh. It was a bounder between first and second. Sheely made a start after it but decided that he was needed more at first base and retraced his steps, the ball rolling into right field.

Pass the laurel to Kenny Williams for his remarkable catch of Sheely's long fly in the seventh. The big moose timed his dash perfectly, stabbing the ball high with his gloved hand in the air and crashing into the wall.

Soccer Player Drops Dead in Game in England

By the Associated Press.

SHEFFIELD, England, April 30.—The sudden death on the field of Wynne, right halfback the Bury soccer football team, today brought to a tragic end a first division English league match between Sheffield United and Bury. Play was stopped when Wynne dropped dead.

British Ryder Cup Golf Team Looms Formidable

Abe Mitchell Will Head Invading Delegation—Majority Are Veterans.

NEW YORK CITY, April 30.—For five members of the British Ryder Cup team, which is coming here soon to play against the Americans in both the international team matches and the open championship, the experience will be no novel one. Abe Mitchell, chosen to captain the British side, George Duncan, Archie Compston, Ted Ray and Arthur Havers have all visited America at one time or another in their careers, and one of them, Ray, won our open championship on the occasion of his last visit, 1920. Earlier in 1913 he and his fellow-invader, Harry Vardon fell victim to the prowess of Francis Ouimet in the memorable play-off at Brookline.

For the other four members of the team—Aubrey Boomer, George Gadd, Fred Robson and Charles A. Whitcombe—the impending journey will afford their first glimpse of America and of American courses.

Taken as a whole the British side is certain to be a strong one and one fully capable of giving the "homebreds" a stiff fight at Worcester, where the Ryder Cup matches will be played, and also will loom formidable in the open championship at Oakmont, a short time later.

Abe Great Hitter.

There is the mighty Mitchell, who probably hits a straight ball further than any other player in the world today; the gigantic Compston, known as the Manchester Giant, who leaped into fame as a smasher of club-shafts; Duncan, the "Flying Scotchman," who is capable of reaching heights beyond the reach of nearly all other golfers, professional or amateur; the ponderous Ray and his never-extinguished pipe—all of whom brim over with that much-talked-of quality known as personality plus.

Mitchell has been aptly described by British writers as the "finest golfer who never has won the British open championship." He was the outstanding player when golf and golf clubs took the place of shells and guns at the conclusion of the war, and in 1919 won both The Daily Mail and The News of the World tournaments but in the first post-war open championship cracked badly when he had the title won. He is hailed by critics as the finest shot-maker in British golf, but lacks the peculiar temperament required for medal play.

Duncan's Makeup Different.

Duncan is precisely Mitchell's opposite in respect to temperament. He is more at ease in scoring competitions than he is in match play and hits the supreme heights only when the battle is hottest. Instances of this finishing ability have been his rounds of 71 and 72 to win the British open championship in 1920; his 69 in the last round of that event in 1922, when he made a great attempt to head off Hagen; a fourth round of 68 to win The Daily Mail tournament that same year and a 68 when he beat Mitchell in the final round of the Gleneagle tournament in 1924.

Putting Off Form.

Of late, however, Duncan's putting touch has deserted him and its misbehavior was largely responsible for his poor showing on his recent trip to California.

Ray is the only pre-war champion on the team, having won the title in 1912. He has made at least two visits to America accompanied by the famous Harry Vardon, with whom he shares the distinction of being the only Briton ever to win both open titles. Of late he has taken things easily, but was third in the open championship in 1920 and tied with Compston for second place in 1925. Two years previous to that he was the winner of The Daily Mail tournament.

Havers has twice won the Ryle Medal, given to the leading British professional in the championship, having been fourth in 1921 and first in 1923.

Robson was kept out of tournament play for several years by a dangerous illness and hence has not accomplished as much as the others, but was runner-up for The News of the World tournament in 1924 and is held to be a thoroughly reliable player.

District Golf Title Tourney To Start May 21

Clarence Wolff to Defend Championship at the St. Louis Country Club.

Entry blanks are in the mail calling attention of the golfers of St. Louis to the fact that the twelfth annual championship tournament of the St. Louis District Golf Association will be held at the St. Louis Country Club May 21 to 28. Clarence L. Wolff, defending champion, also is secretary of the association and entries are to be sent to his office, room 1619 Boatmen's Bank Building.

The tournament will open with an 18-hole qualifying round starting at 8 a. m., with the best 32 scores qualifying for match play in the championship class. There also will be competition in Class A and Class B and the usual consolation pairings for those defeated in the first round of play in the title flight. Scores in the qualifying round also will decide the team championship, four members selected from each club participating.

Match play will start Monday, May 23, and will be at 18 holes until the semifinals, which will be at 36 holes in the championship class.

The links of the Country Club will be open for practice to entered contestants on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday before the opening of the tournament.

Jimmy Manion, State champion, and Eddie Held, Trans-Mississippi title holder, will be in the field and as usual will be favorites, along with Clarence Wolff, the defending champion.

OSMAND PICKS UP NAIL; MAY BE OUT OF THE DERBY

INJURED ON WAY TO BARN AFTER TRIAL

Owner Widener Due in Louisville Tomorrow to Consult With Trainer—Fred Jr. in Good Workout.

Plunge on Osmand Cuts Price to 6 to 1

A HEAVY plunge on Osmand to win the Kentucky Derby was reported in local betting circles, yesterday. Tom Kearney, who runs the local "big store," and who is nationally known for his Derby quotations, said that heavy commission had been sent to this city from New York by Tom Shaw, Frank Shannon and other heavy bettors, forcing the Widener Star's odds down to 6 to 1.

Osmand last week was quoted at 8 to 1, even with Scapa Flow and Rip Rap.

Scapa Flow, once favorite for the event, has receded in price to 12 to 1. Valorous, Whiskery and Boo have come down to 10 to 1, while Rip Rap has gone back from 8 to 10 to 1. Candy Queen has dropped from about 40 to 15 to 1.

Rolled Stocking and Hydromel have dropped from around 100 to 1 to 15 to 1, on the strength of recent fine races.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30.—Osmand may be out of the derby. The big gelding, after going around the track a couple of miles this morning picked up a nail on the return to the Widener barn and this may eliminate him from the big race. It was a rusty wire nail and penetrated to the quick of the left fore foot.

Dr. Henry Harthill, veterinarian, who examined the horse, declined to express himself as to the seriousness of the injury, but blood flowed freely as the nail was removed and the veterinarian said that was favorable indication.

J. E. Widener, owner of the gelding, is due here Monday, when he will consult with Trainer Peter Coyne about the gelding's engagements.

This is the second successive favorite in the last two years to create a panic among the derby punters. Last year it was Calaris, the derby favorite, which, on landing here, became a victim of an infected hock which necessitated his owner, "Fatty" Anderson, declaring his colt out of the derby.

Fred, Jr., was the only derby candidate to work at the Downs today. The S. W. Grant colt showed a creditable move over the mile course. The track was muddy from overnight rains and with Nick Burger and Derby weight up, the son of Wildair stepped the first quarter in :26, half in :52 2-5; in 1:45 3-5. Fred, Jr., is fit as a fiddle now and he will be a hard colt to beat over a soft track.

Captain Dick	115	5	6	6 h	7	7	7	7	J. Campbell	15—1

Prattie, under restraint, moved up stoutly rounding the far turn, was carried extremely wide by Aversion entering the stretch and finished with good courage, outgamed Aversion in the final drive. Aversion displayed high speed from the start, broke away into a long lead but weakened in the stretch. Highwayman moved up with determination entering the stretch, saved much ground and tired at the end. Commissioner lacked early speed but closed some ground after hugging the inner rail at the stretch. Delhi Boy could never get up.

Odds: Prattie, win 16 to 5, place even, show 2 to 5. Aversion, place 6 to 5, show 1 to 2. Highwayman show 5 to 2.

SECOND RACE—$1000, The Ridgewood Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs—Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post at 3 p. m.; at post 2 minutes. Winner, b. f., 3, by Wrack—Flambette. Trainer, J. Fitzsimmons. Time, :23 3-5, :47 2-5, 1:13. Value to winners, $750, $200, $100.

Tester	120	4	4	4	4	4	4	S. O'Donnell	4—1

Flambino followed the pace under steady restraint, responded gamely when called upon rounding the stretch turn, came to the outside entering the stretch and finished with a rush through the final furlong. Nichavo set a fast early pace under steady restraint, drew away under pressure when called upon and hung in the final drive. Premier hung close to the fast early pace but stopped in the stretch run. Tester broke in a tangle but could never get to the leaders.

Odds: Falmbino, win 5 to 1, place 8 to 5, show out; Nichavo, place 1 to 3, show out; Premier, show out.

THIRD RACE—$3000 added, The Colorado States, 2-year-olds, five furlongs: Start bad, won easily, place driving. Went to post 3:26, at post one minute. Winner br c 2 by Chicle-Balanceaire. Trainer, J. Fitzsimmons. Time, :23, :47 2-5, 1:00 3-5. Value to winners, $8400, $800, $400.

a—J. J. Timmerman entry. b—Greentree Stable entry.

Distraction away well, drew into a safe lead, saved ground and won with speed in reserve. Sport Hallahan moved up stoutly when called upon and finished stoutly. Kirkover well up all the way, moved up stoutly in the stretch but hung at the end. Sublevado broke in a tangle and closed a big gap. Jack Dempsey saved ground throughout. Wonderland had scant chance with the break. Full Speed was away badly. Complication lost ground at the turns. Pandy stopped badly. I Told You stopped in the stretch run. Cressida ran away a mile before the start and was pulled up.

Odds: Distraction, win 16 to 65, place 6 to 5, show 1 to 2; Sport Hallahan, place 8 to 5, show 4 to 5; Kirkover, show 6 to 1.

FOURTH RACE—$7500 added, The Woods Memorial Stakes, 3-year-olds, one mile and seventy yards: Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post, 3:53, at post 2 minutes. a—Belair Stud entry. b—William Zeigler entry.

Saxon broke rapidly and drew away into a safe lead; he was taken under steady restraint on the back stretch, drew away rounding the far turn, saved ground all the way and outlasted Black Panther in the final strides. The latter was forced to work his way up on the outside the first part, responded to pressure when called upon and finished fast. Bostonian, in a contending position after overcoming interference rounding the first turn, was forced wide entering the stretch but hung in the final drive. Juggler raced in close pursuit of the pace from the start but tired in the stretch. Justice F., on the inside from the start and could not find clear racing room for first three furlongs but the weight told at the end. Boise de Rose had no excuses. Wee Burn could never get up.

Odds: Saxon, win 7 to 2, place 7 to 5, show 3 to 5. Black Panther, place 4 to 5, show 2 to 5. Bostonian, show 8 to 5.

FIFTH RACE—$1000, maiden 2-year-olds, five furlongs: Start good for all but Glade, won easily, place driving. Went to post 4:19, at post 3 minutes. Winner ch. c. 2 by John P. Grier-Ethel D. Trainer, S. C. Hildreth. Time, :23, :47 3-5, 1:01 4-5. Value to winners, $700, $200, $100.

a—Greentree Stable entry.

Nassak was rushed into commanding lead on the outside the first furlong, drew away into a long lead and won with speed in reserve. Spanish Princess raced on the outside entering the stretch and outlasted Hoity Toity in the final drive. The latter worked her way up on the inside and finished courageously. I Hope So displayed a good effort all the way, but hung in the final drive. Glade broke flat-footed, closed a big gap over tiring horses.

Odds—Nassak, win 8 to 5, place 1 to 2, show 1 to 4; Spanish Princess, place 6 to 5, show 1 to 2; Hoity Toity, show, out.

Lachen was rushed into a prominent lead shortly after the start, saved ground all the way, but was kept under mild restraint to the end. Northern Pass a forward factor from the start, saved ground turning for home and held on well. Lord Broom worked his way up on the outside, lost much ground turning for home and finished stoutly. Marylander a prominent factor from the start, tired in the final furlong. Moboz lost ground at the far turn. Zucker lacked early speed.

$2 mutuels paid—Lachen, win 4 to 5, place 1 to 4, show out; Northern Pass, place 4 to 1, show 2 to 1; Lord Broom, show 7 to 10.

Mark Master hastened into a forward position, moved into the lead at the far turn, increased his advantage when straightened out for the final drive and just managed to stall off Long Point. The latter was rushed along to get into early contention and met with interference, was taken to the outside and finished full of run. Clydella, a keen factor from the start, held on well for the final test. Ten Sixty was buffeted about in the early running and was steered very wide the entire trip. Double On made up a lot of ground. Lemnos, hard ridden all the way, quit badly the last quarter. Marcellus was pulled up soon after the start.

$2 mutuels paid: Mark Master, win $13, place $7.10, show $3.90; Long Point, place $4.40, show $3.10; Clydella, show $5.

SECOND RACE—$1200, the Pathfinder Purse, 2-year-olds, four and one-half furlongs. Start good and slow, won driving, place same. Went to post 3:07. At post 3 minutes. Winner, b. g. 2 by Spanish Prince II-Ethnea. Trainer, T. E. Keating. Time, :23 1-5, :47 2-5, :54. Value to winner $850, second $200, third $100, fourth $50.

Prince Bulbo prominent from the staart, came to the outside of the leaders in stretch run and, finishing resolutely, gained command and was hustled to withstand the closing rush of Skavar. The latter broke well, but was outfooted. He closed with a tremendous rush on the inside of the winner. Little Broom finished resolutely on the outside. Tiffin broke slowly and raced wide the entire journey, he closed stoutly. Knight and All Callao were racing on even terms on reaching the furlong where they were both knocked into the fence when Thuron swerved over on the turn and had to be taken up sharply and lost all chance. Migration broke fast, but lacked speed.

$2 mutuels paid—Prince Bulbo, win $20.60, place $8.70, show $5; Skavar, place $4.80, show $2.90; Little Broom, show $2.80.

THIRD RACE—$1200, claiming, 4-year-olds and up, one mile and one-eighth—Start good and slow; won driving; place easily. Went to post 3:39. At post 2 minutes. *Field.

Duckling a distant trailer in the early running, moved to the field with a rush on the outside rounding the far turn and, finishing resolutely in the middle of the track, just managed to wear Happy Birthday down to get up in the final stride. The latter raced well up from the start, gained fast the last half mile, disposed of the leaders but hung the final sixteenth. Battle Shot hustled to the front, withstood keen opposition from Johnny Jewell the first mile but weakened at end. Johnny Jewell was made too much use of racing with Battle Shot. Fleetwood finished stoutly. Chickvale raced poorly.

$2 mutuels paid: Duckling, win $16.60, place $7.00, show $4.60; Happy Birthday, place $12.40, show $8.30; Battleshot, show $4.60.

FOURTH RACE—$1500, the Flash Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good and slow, won driving, place same. Went to post 4:11. At post 2 minutes. Winner, b. g., 6, by Sweep-Sweet Marjorie. Trainer, J. P. Polk. Time, :23 2-5, :48 1-5, 1:14. Values to winners, $1000, $300, $150, $50.

Lounger was rushed along on the inside and kept in close pursuit of the pace, continued with good energy along the inner rail and just managed to get up in the final strides. Pandera raced in front under slight restraint for the first half mile, held to her task gamely, and came again right at end. Rolls Royce outbroke his field slightly but was taken back off the pace, moved to the leader with a rush on the outside and was on even terms 20 yards from the finish. He held on well. Hole Card raced on the outside of the leaders the entire trip. Flight of Time always outrun. Contemplate refused to break.

$2 mutuels paid: Lounger, win $38.80, place $10.20, show $3.90; Pandera, place $3.50, show $2.40; Rolls Royce, show $2.60.

Dangerous, allowed to remain off the pace for the first six furlongs, was steered to the outside of the leaders rounding the far turn and closing with brilliant speed, wore the leaders down and just managed to hold Reminder safe. The latter, a keen factor throughout, made a bold attempt during the final quarter and was going strong. Display, away fast and clear, showed keen speed going to the first turn, dropped back, moved to the leaders, but hung the last sixteenth. St. Valentine, fractious at the post, displayed keen speed, but quit after seven furlongs. Marconi, badly handled, was rushed off his feet trying to get into the lead and tired badly from chasing St. Valentine. Arno had no excuses.

$2 mutuels paid: Dangerous, win $10.80, place $4.80, show $3.20; Reminder place $3.40, show $2.60; Display, show $3.10.

Golden Billows, kept in a prominent position from the start, went to outside in making her stretch run and finished gamely, wearing Nat Evens down to get up in the closing strides. Nat Evens, a keen factor throughout, raced Lanyard and Gold Beater into defeat and held on well after gaining a brief lead. Lanyard had a lot taken out of him racing Gold Beater into defeat and weakened. Gold Beater was made entirely too much use of forcing the pace. Cogwheel finished stoutly. The others always outrun.

$2 mutuels paid: Golden Billows, win $5.80, place $3.30, show $2.60; Nat Evens, place $5, show $3.50; Lanyard, show $8.70.

Hamburg Lad	111	6	8	8	8	8	8	D. Conelly	26.80

Louis Rubenstein well handled and coming steadily in the stretch, won going away. Little Cook showed fine speed and a liking for the going, but tired in last sixteenth. Louisville and Nashville raced prominently and would have been much closer up with a more hustling ride. Archibald had no mishaps. Others never figured strongly.

$2 mutuels paid: Louis Rubenstein, win $3.80, place $2.80, show $2.20. Little Cook, place $3.20, show $3. Louisville and Nashville, show $3.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 2:35. At post 1 minute. Winner, b. f. 2 by Uncle-Sandy Land. Trainer, W. W. Taylor. Time :24 3-5, :50 3-5, :57 3-5. Value to winner $650, second $100, third $50.

Black Grackle broke fast but was taken completely out of it in first furlong, came around others steadily and won under hard urging. Eighty Sixty, restrained in early stages, and saving much ground, outstayed Six Sixty in last sixteenth. Six Sixty tired in stretch. Brumfield was given a weak ride. Olin K. moved into contention with a rush after racing half a mile but swerved and tired badly in stretch. Marjorie C. came across others sharply before reaching turn and tired after showing good speed.

$2 mutuels paid: Black Grackle, win, $9.80; place, $5; show, $3.20. Eight Sixty, place, $7.60; show, $4.80; Six Sixty, show, $2.80.

Quicken, lucky and well handled, broke prominently and was clear of interference, wore down Heavy Date and outstayed Best Spade. Latter raced wide most of the way and was weakly ridden near end. La Dentelle acted green at barrier and showed a good effort. Van Duse raced well. Heavy Date quit badly. Gloria Aspin loomed prominently at stretch turn but tired. Thistleglad was well up most of the way. A-leader lacked racing room and was pulled up repeatedly, and not persevered with.

$2 mutuels paid: Quicken, win $21, place $10, show $4.80; Best Spade, place $7, show $4.80; La Dentelle, show $6.60.

George Groom at home in the going, disposed of Hats Up after going half a mile but had to be urged hard near end. Hats Up seemed done after half a mile but came again in stretch when hard ridden. Gossoon began tiring in last sixteenth and just lasted for third place. Fretwell was away slowly and raced wide entire trip closed a big gap. Valley Light was done after half a mile. Dusty Mary retired in stretch.

Scapa Flow Meets Whiskery.

WALTER M. JEFFORDS' Man O' War colt, Scapa Flow, one of the favorites for the 1927 Kentucky Derby will get his second test against top notch horsese at Pimlico Monday when he meets the fast Whitney colt, Whiskery, winner of the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre de Grace yesterday. Scapa Flow is assigned 127 pounds in the Ashburton Purse and will concede weight to everything in the race. Whiskery is allotted 120 pounds, but as a result of his victory in the Chesapeake will have to carry a penalty of five pounds. Twelve horses are named for the Ashburton. Among the entrants are Kentucky II, winner of two straight races at Havre de Grace, Jock, Golden Volt, Pillotta and The Pine. The race is a one mile and 70 yards.

Kentucky II, owned by A. C. Swartz is also entered in the sixth race. Kentucky II is pitted against a band of older horses in this race and is asked to carry only 106 pounds over a six furlong route.

Sixteen in Dixie.

THE $25,000 added Dixie Handicap for three-year-olds and over at one mile and three-sixteenths, will usher in the Pimlico meeting Monday. Sixteen of the best distance runners quartered at the Maryland track are eligible for the race with Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's erratic Sarazen top weight. The gelding is assigned 127 pounds. The field consists of Singlefoot, Helen's Babe, Sanford, J. Fred A., Edith Cavell, Amberjack, Almadel, Montferrat, Harry Baker, Display, Dangerous, Gaffsman, Mars, Edisto and Joy Smoke.

At Lexington, the Derby Trial will feature the seven race card. Six eligibles for the Kentucky Derby are named for the race, which is over a distance of one mile and one-sixteenth. Boo and Bewithus will carry the silks of the Idle Hour Farm while General Haldeman is entered by Kenton Farms Stable. The other entrants are: Bonaire, Nor'easter and Dimple Dunkie. Top weight is 110 pounds, this being allotted to Boo and General Haldeman. The others will tote 113 pounds.

Rip Rap Works Cleverly.

YESTERDAY morning brought only light activity on the part of Kentucky Derby eligibles over the various tracks in the East. Rip Rap's speed trial was the only pretentious move of the day. The Sage colt, working in company with the 4-year-old Dissette, went five furlongs over a good track at Havre de Grace in 1:03. The colt worked easily and pulled up in fresh condition. Walter J. Salmon's Teheran was sent a mile at Belmont Park in 1:45 over a fast track. Teheran showed good speed for three-quarters, but was eased up in the final eighth.

Louis Rubenstein, owned by Al Jolson, the comedian, was the victor in the opening race on the program at Lexington yesterday. The 5-year-old horse was a well-played choice and defeated Little Cook in a drive by half a length.

Rancocas Scores Double.

RANCOCAS Stable scored another double at Jamaica when the horses Nassak and Lachen won the fifth and sixth races at Jamaica yesterday. Nassak, a 2-year-old, making his second start, went to the post in the fifth race a 6-to-5 favorite and trounced his opposition with ease. Lachen, held at the short odds of 4 to 5, had an easy time in downing Northern Pass and Little Broom in the sixth.

Ballyknockin Scores Seventh Victory in Row

Sterling Racer Defeats Pearlman at Kennel Club—Time Near Record.

Ballyknockin, star of the Charles Stirling kennels, hung up his seventh straight victory last night when he captured the first of two races featuring the program at the Madison Kennel Club track. It was his sixth straight triumph of the meeting across the river and his time of :28 4-5 for the futurity distance was within one-fifth of a second of the track record.

Pearlman ran second to the Stirling flash, Ballyknockin taking the lead shortly before the stretch turn. Actor Boy had to be content with third.

The victory of Ballyknockin completed a double for Stirling, Orpiment having won the eighth event.

The second feature on the program, a hurdle race, was annexed by White Diamond. Shenandoah II took the place honors with Mount Massey third. White Diamond led all the way, with Shenandoah II offering the strongest opposition.

The longest race of the night, the fifth, at five-sixteenths of a mile, went to Red Concern, owned by Ernest Rhine. The winner, starting from the No. 8 box, had to keep to the outside of the course most of the trip, but overtook Republican in the stretch and was going away.

Adda Model proved to be one of the long shots of the night in winning the third race over the futurity distance, paying $20.60. Adda Model took the lead early and remained out in front the rest of the way, beating Good Brigade by one and a half lengths.

Lugnagun, a dog owned by H. E. Rebenscied of East St. Louis, captured the fourth event. At the end of the one-quarter mile the winner was two lengths in front of Play Goer.

It took the Cleveland High School baseball team 10 innings to defeat Beaumont in the feature of yesterday's Public High School League games. The score was 3 to 2. In the other league contest, Roosevelt pounded Central High School hurlers to gain a 20 to 1 triumph. Cleveland strengthened its hold on first place by virtue of yesterday's victory, having won three games and lost none. Roosevelt jumped into second place, supplanting Beaumont, and Central dropped to the cellar.

Joe Mowry, who opened the last half of the tenth inning for Cleveland, was safe when Fox dropped his fly to deep short. Mowry took second on Thener's infield out and went to third on Jordan's wild pitch, crossing the plate with the winning run when Kenny was out, Carr to Slater.

A Ding-Dong Battle.

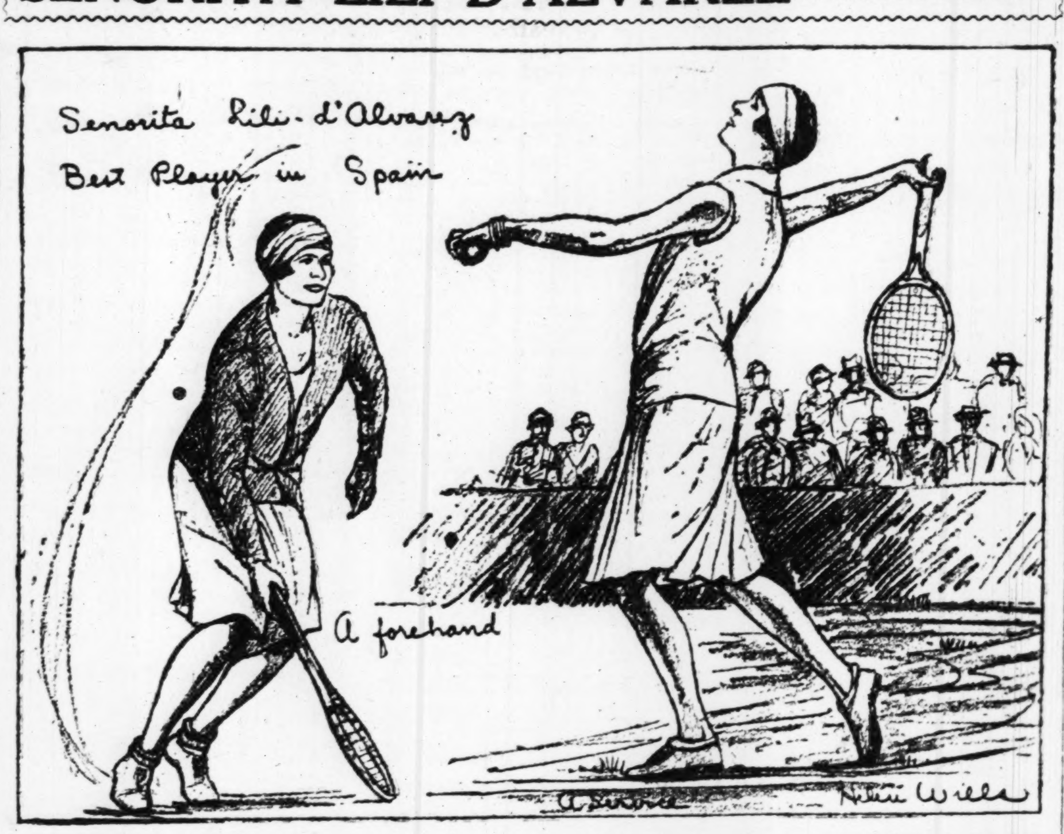
Both starting pitchers performed in good style and kept the opponents' safeties well scattered and Beaumont tallied first when Lautenschlager drove in Waring in the sixth inning with a two-base drive to left field. Cleveland tied up the count in the eighth inning when Mowry hit safely, stole second, and scored on Thener's double.

Jordan did his share towards winning his ball game when he drove in the run that again put Beaumont in the lead in the ninth inning. Yehling, however, duplicated for Cleveland in the latter half of the inning when he singled to center to score Hornsby. Covington took the mound for Fenega's team to open the extra stanza and retired the opposition in order, Roller fanning with Kenny tossing out both Waring and Lautenschlager.

Roosevelt increased its batting averages considerably by mauling the offerings of Paul and Bafaro, two of the Central hurlers. The third Central moundsman, Santens, was treated with more consideration only because he appeared in the game for one-third of an inning. Roosevelt ran up a total of 19 hits, 10 of extra base caliber, for the sum of 29 bases. Prominent among the big guns was Behrman, with a homer and three-base swat and Sauselle with a double and triple to his credit.

Central did not fare so well either at bat or in the field, getting only one hit and committing nine errors. Schukart singled in the second frame and from then on the entry in the hit column for Central was nil. Ed Groepper, the starting flinger for Roosevelt, handled himself like a veteran, permitting Central only to hit the ball into the hands of some waiting fielder.

SENORITA LILI D'ALVAREZ By Helen Wills



By Helen Wills.

SENORITA LILI d'ALVAREZ of Spain is, unquestionably, one of the most attractive young players to be seen in present day tennis. Her game is made up of excellent strokes, fast foot work, good headwork, speed and a large amount of daring and audacity. Her alertness and her readiness to take chances in her play make her very interesting to the onlooker. Her opponent can never be sure that he has won a point until play is actually over, for frequently fast and difficult balls seemingly not of reach, are sent back with even more speed.

The same eagerness which makes it possible for Senorita d'Alvarez to make winning returns on apparently impossible shots is responsible for errors, now and then, on very easy balls. A little shrug of the shoulders and renewed energy greet these mistakes, and she is at once doubly difficult for her adversary. Monotony or dullness never enters into her play. She is no more content with the safe shot than she would be with a dull colored tennis sweater.

Brilliance is a natural quality with her. It is expressed in her game. It is seen in her gay head bands and tennis sweaters. Bright yellows, reds and blues are the colors that she chooses, and they are most effective with her dark hair, dark sparkling eyes and red lips.

$50,000 Prize List for Swim Marathon Race

Event Will Be Held in Lake Ontario, Aug. 31, Officials Announce.

TORONTO, April 30.—A marathon swim of 21 miles in Lake Ontario Aug. 31 for prizes totaling $50,000 was anounced today by directors of the Canadian National Exhibition. George Young, conqueror of the Catalina Channel, and other noted distance paddlers are expected to compete.

The race will be held over a triangular course just off the exhibition grounds, the announcement said. Half the prize money will be contributed by William Wrigley Jr., who sponsored the Catalina marathon in January, with the remainder contributed by the National Exhibition, officials said.

First prize has been set at $30,000; second, $7500, third, $2500; fourth, $1000; fifth and sixth each $500.

The first woman to finish will receive $5000 and the second $2500.

The Wallop.

OUR Cardinals began to rise,
And took on winning ways,
When they began to specialize
In making double plays.

Though air-tight pitching helps a lot
Especially in spring;
In summer when the days are hot
The wallop is the thing.

Although the pitcher shuts 'em out
He needs the batting eye;
Unless the boys behind him clout
The game will be a tie.

For, when the pitchers tighten up,
And twist a wicked wing,
The batting eyes must brighten up
The bacon home to bring.

THE SAME DIFFERENCE.

Holleys of Detroit Play Fall River Club for U. S. Soccer Championship Today

Michigan Eleven Reaches Final Round in Its First Season in Competition—Fall River Held National Title in 1924-25.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., April 30.—The United States Football Association championship will be decided here when the Holleys, of this city, lone survivors of the 64 elevens, which started in the Western division of the soccer cup series, battle the Fall River, Mass., Club. The Dewar trophy, which has been won by Eastern teams for the past four seasons, or since the Scullins of St. Louis held the National championship will go to the winning eleven.

It is the first time a Detroit team has advanced as far as the national title match and the first time that the Holley eleven has been entered in the competition. The team gained its place in the championship round by defeating the Sparta F. C. of Chicago, two goals to one. Sparta in the Western semifinal had defeated the Ben Millers, last survivors from the St. Louis district.

Fall River reached the final by trimming Bethlehem, last season's champion, two goals to one.

Visser a Real Star.

Holley's advance to the title round has been due in the main to the efforts of one player, Gerritt Visser, center forward and former international star from Holland. Of the 30 goals tallied by the Michigan entry, Visser has been credited with no fewer than 19. He tallied both points in the Western final against Sparta. Fall River, national champions in 1924-25, owns a strong eleven, one that at present is in second place in the American Soccer League, the Eastern professional circuit.

In going into the final, Holley was forced to play nine games, five in the qualifying round and four in the competition proper. In these battles, the Detroiters scored 30 goals against 13 for the opposition.

Fall River, being recognized as one of the star teams of the country, was exempt from the qualifying play, and as a result played only four games in the competition, scoring 13 goals to five for the opposition. Fall River in its games defeated New Bedford, Fore River, Providence and Bethlehem.

Charles Creighton of New York has been selected to referee, with Dave Evans and William Ferguson, two local officials, serving as linesmen.

Previous Holders Of Soccer Title

PAST holders of the national championship are as follows:

1913-14, Brooklyn Field Club.
1914-15, Bethlehem.
1915-16, Bethlehem.
1916-17, Fall River Rovers.
1917-18, Bethlehem.
1918-19, Bethlehem.
1919-20, Ben Millers, St. Louis.
1920-21, Robins Dry Docks.
1921-22, Scullins, St. Louis.
1922-23, Paterson F. C. (Scullins forfeited after playing Paterson to 2—2 tie).

EIGHT TEAMS WILL COMPETE FOR TITLE IN HORSESHOE LEAGUE

Eight teams will make up the Fairground division of the Municipal Horseshoe Pitchers' League this season, which will start the season at the Fairground courts May 8.

Gus U. Klemme's Municipal champion Curlees will again compete but under their manager's name, while the Buster Browns will play under the Angelica banner this season. The Justin T. Flint team and the Sunsets are the only two teams that competed last season that will again play this season under the same name.

The Southwest Nash team will play as the Briggs-Nash, while the other three teams will be the Granite City U. R. G., Libertys and a team from Kenwood Springs.

The season play will run 14 weeks with each team meeting every other two times. Each match will be of 16 games. Games will start at 9:30 a.

HURLERS STAR AS MUNY SEASON GETS UNDER WAY

DURUASKI STRIKES OUT 14 BATTERS

Harsany Hurls Tower Grove to Victory Over Centurys, 7 to 2, Allowing but Four Hits.

Tower Camp, semifinal team in last year's championship playoff, defeated the Century Electrics, 7 to 2, in the feature game of the Commercial League, one of ten groups which opened the Municipal baseball season yesterday Harshany, the same pitcher who turned back the Centurys in the deciding game of the Commercial League last year, humbled them again, yielding only four hits.

A number of other hurlers showed mid-season form. Durauski, pitching for Western Union in the Employed Boys' League, fanned 14 batters, but poor support by his mates cost him the game, Kingdom House winning, 9 to 1. Hubbs, Kingdom House twirler, struck out 10 men.

Stovall, with the Hickory team playing in the International Shoe group against Cherokee, had a good day on the hill. He turned back 12 batters by the strikeout route and allowed seven hits. Hickory won, 13 to 2.

Seventeen more circuits will swing into action with games in the various public parks this afternoon. Two of the circuits will play games in the morning. These leagues are the United Railways and the North Division, at Sherman Park.

The Pants Stores, last season's champions, will make their debut today, opposing the Typos in the Empire League.

STANFORD U. WINS WEST COAST RELAYS

By the Associated Press.

FRESNO, Cal., April 30.—Scoring 58½ points, the track and field team representing Stanford University won first place in the West Coast relays that featured the afternoon celebration of Raisin day here today. The Los Angeles Athletic Club was second with 35 points and Hollywood Athletic Club third with 32.

HUNTING AND FISHING

By Alec Mermod.

Hunting and Fishing.

A SERIOUS question for sportsmen is "what effect the present high water is going to have on game and fish."

There is no doubt that rabbits in the flooded areas have suffered, for rabbits breed early, and while the old ones might have escaped to high ground, the young ones were too small to save themselves.

Quail have not suffered to any great extent, and except where levees have broken, flooding the country suddenly, the quail had no trouble in getting to higher ground.

In the lowlands of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana the quail loss will be heavy.

As far as the fish are concerned, there will be a heavy loss unless steps are taken to do a great deal of rescue work as soon as the water begins to recede, for thousands of fish will be stranded in the shallow pools near the rivers and streams which have overflowed.

However, this loss will be reduced to a minimum as word from the game and fish department says preparations were being made to carry on an extensive rescue program.

Keith McCanse has marshaled his force of deputies and has instructed them to make a careful survey of all flooded lands in their district, so that they will be ready to act as soon as possible.

If any sportsman knows of any flooded land on which there are any fish it will be well to notify the department at Jefferson City.

Will Be a Help.

IN one way the high water is goin to help, inasmuch as it will allow the fish to get over a good many of the dams in our smaller streams, which during low water block the fish from ascending to proper spawning beds.

The Game Department of Illinois under the direction of William J. Stratton has also planned on this rescue work, but like our department, it's going to be a hard matter to cover all the flooded territory. However, the Southern Illinois Sportsmen's League is not going to sleep on the job and will see that all men necessary for this work will be available.

This league has done wonderful work in Illinois, and Missouri sportsmen owe the members of the S. I. S. L. a vote of thanks. Missourians profit by their efforts to a large extent for sportsmen must go across the river for our best duck shooting, and for the past eight years we have had to depend on our sister State for any dove shooting, prairie chicken or pheasant shooting unless we want to travel as far as Nebraska or the Dakotas.

There has been no fishing to speak of this spring.

The St. Louis Fly and Bait Casting Club is now located in new quarters, or rather the old clubhouse has been moved and now occupies the former location of the boat house. Easter Sunday saw a good attendance but last Sunday was not conducive to good casting.

If any disciples of Izaak Walton want to get into practice with either fly or bait rod, it might be well to pay a visit to that part of the lagoon and get in touch with Joe Schuster.

Fly casting is becoming more popular each year because, after once trying it, one finds more keen enjoyment in dropping a fly at the right spot and landing a fish than when still-fishing with live bait or dragging a wooden minnow through the water. The act of casting with either fly or bait requires about the same amount of skill but it's after the fish is hooked that gives one the thrill when manipulating the fly rod.

EAST ST. LOUIS MUNY LEAGUE OPENS TODAY

The East St. Louis Municipal Baseball League season will open today with two games on Jones Park diamonds. Only four clubs will face the barrier in the opening games this campaign as a result of the failure of several possible entries to come into the fold at a recent meeting. In past seasons the circuit was comprised of either six or eight clubs.

The four teams which will vie for championship honors are the Slacks, State Streets, Weckermeyers and the Polish National Alliance.

GOODRICH ORCHESTRA COMES BACK TO KSD

Silver Masked Tenor Is to Sing Again With These Musicians on Red Network.

The Goodrich Silvertown Orchestra and the Silver Masked Tenor, will return to the air through KSD and associated stations of the Red Network next Thursday evening.

This orchestra has been touring the country and has not broadcast for several months. The orchestra is under direction of Joseph Knecht. It has been characterized particularly by its sense of rhythm and the symhponic blending of harmony in popular tunes. Knecht was for years musical director of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

One of the mysteries of the air has been the identity of the Silver Masked Tenor, who resumes his weekly broadcasting with the Silvertown Cord Orchestra. He is an Irish tenor of the pure lyric type. Incidentally, he won the praise of King Albert of Belgium and of Sir Douglas Haig, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, when he sang at a dinner during the World War.

HORNSBY ON WEAF THURSDAY

Rogers Hornsby is to broadcast from WEAF Thursday evening at 5:30. He is to give a short talk on "The Boy," as guest of the New York City Y. M. C. A.

WHAT GOLDMAN BAND WILL PLAY ON FRIDAY

All-Grand-Opera Concert to Be Given by Noted "Symphony in Brass" From KSD.

The overture to "Tannhauser" is to be played by the Cities Service Goldman Band through KSD Friday evening as one number of an all-grand-opera concert under direction of Edwin Franko Goldman.

"Tannhauser" was first performed in Dresden, Oct. 20, 1845 with Wagner conducting. Its first American performance took place on April 4, 1859, conducted by Carl Bergman. This was the first performance of any Wagnerian opera in this country. The overture contains nearly all the themes of dramatic importance in the opera, starting with "The Pilgrims' Chorus," which represents the spirtual side of the conflict, followed by several themes from Tannhauser's scene with Venus, which represents the carnal side. The triumphant strains of "The Pilgrims' Chorus" bring the overture to a stirring close.

The program of the evening is taken from famous operas. It follows:

Coronation march, from "The Prophet," (Meyerbeer); Overture to "Tannhauser" (Wagner); "Barcarolle," from "Tales of Hoffman" (Offenbach); "Argonaise," from "Le Cid" (Massenet); Excerpts from "Faust" (Gounod); "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore" (Verdi); "Anvil Chorus," from "Il Trovatore" (Verdi); Finale of Act II, from "Aida" (Verdi).

The National String Quartet, chamber music ensemble under Hugo Mariana, will be heard again by listeners of KSD tomorrow evening.

Mariana, the first violinist of this group, was born in Uruguay, South America, and began the study of the violin in his native country when he was but 7. His first public recital was at the age of 12. He came to the United States six years ago and became concert meister in one of New York City's largest motion picture theaters. The other members of the group are Michael Rosenker, Frank Gurowitsch and L. Kirch.

THRILLS FROM SIAM IN KSD'S EVEREADY HOUR

Tigers, Wild Elephants and Leopards to Figure in Broadcast Next Tuesday Night.

How two white men harnessed the jungle-power of Northern Siam into a dramatic picturization of the elemental battle between man and beast, in which the chief "actors" were tigers, wild elephants and leopards, will be told through KSD next Tuesday by Maj. Merian C. Cooper as the feature of this week's Eveready Hour.

Accompanied by Ernest B. Schoedsack, Cooper spent a year and nine months in the interior of Siam making the moving picture "Chang," the two men having been selected for this perilous assignment as the result of their work in filming the screen spectacle, "Grass," two years ago.

Maj. Cooper, in his talk for the Eveready Hour, promises to explode two theories, one of recent origin, regarding tigers. First, he proposes to show that, despite customary belief, a man up a tree is not always safe from a ravenous tiger, and secondly, that irrespective of late reports, tigers in Siam are of man-eating propensities.

Traveling in the Nan District of North Siam, which is infested by tigers, Maj. Cooper had his greatest thrill, the rounding up of "Mr. Crooked," a yellow-triped man-eater that had killed 19 natives. He has promised to transmit this thrill to his radio audience by a detailed description of how "Mr. Crooked" nearly escaped and wrecked the party which was conveying him down a Siamese river to a life of captivity.

Gibbons, elephants, leopards, tigers and all the other wild life of the Siam jungles, participated in the filming of "Chang," which is actually a drama, rather than a travel picture.

The Eveready Orchestra and the Revellers will be heard in music harmonizing with the adventure theme of the Everyeady Hour.

KSD TO BROADCAST ADDRESS BY COOLIDGE TUESDAY NIGHT

The address of President Calvin Coolidge to leaders of American business at the joint meeting of the Pan-American Commercial Conference and the United States Chamber of Commerce will go on the air Tuesday evening direct from the Washington Auditorium, Washington, through KSD.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock, Central time.

Annoyed by Oscillating Receivers.

An oscillating receiver will annoy neighborhood listeners. This is done by burning the radio frequency or detector tubes too bright, causing them to act as miniature transmitters and sending out a high-pitched squeal that is heard by neighbors tuned to the same wave length.

RULES LEGISLATORS MAY HOLD STATE JOBS

Attorney-General Passes on Question at Request of State Auditor.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 30.—The growing custom of appointing members of the Legislature to state jobs was temporarily endangered today, when State Auditor L. D. Thompson held up the salary warrants to three legislators holding such jobs, on the ground they were barred by the constitutional provision prohibiting legislators from holding state appointments during the term for which they were elected.

The situation was saved—for the legislators—by an opinion rendered by Attorney General N. T. Gentry this afternoon to the effect they were holding clerical positions, and were not heads of departments, and therefore were entitled to be paid. The warrants then were issued. The three legislators, all Republicans were:

State Senator Larry T. Brunk of Aurora, elected for a term ending in 1930, now secretary of Workmen's Compensation Commission at a salary of $3600 a year; Representative H. T. Asel of Jefferson City, term ending in 1928, now chief clerk of the State Insurance Department, $2800 a year, and Representative H. S. Bales of Newton County, term ending 1928, now field agent of the State Tax Commission, $3500 a year.

Each of the three legislators was holding his respective job before the 1927 Legislature convened. They obtained some sort of leave of absence during the session, and returned to the jobs, after the Legislature adjourned on April 4.

Section 12 of Article 4 of the State Constitution provides that "no Senator or Representative shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any office under this state, or any municipality thereof."

Various attorneys-general have constructed this section of the constitution to mean that legislators were ineligible to positions but could be appointed to jobs—that the word "office" meant an elective office or appointive head of department, but not a job within a department. These opinions have made possible such appointments when the occasion arose, not only during this administration but in previous ones, Democratic and Republican.

Thompson said he refused to pay the salary warrants in order to get a ruling by the attorney-general. He said he did not contemplate any action to test the ruling, by the Supreme Court.

LAURA TUCKERMAN MAKES DEBUT IN BOSTON OPERA

St. Louis Girl, Formerly in Municipal Chorus, Wins Critic's Praise as "Carmen."

Miss Laura Tuckerman, daughter of Gustavus Tuckerman, civic secretary of the City Club, and Mrs. Tuckerman, made her debut in grand opera at the Fine Arts Theater, Boston, last Wednesday night, singing the title role of "Carmen." For a number of seasons she was in the chorus of the Municipal Opera here and had small parts. Her father is known as an actor and dramatic reader.

The Boston Herald critic wrote: "Miss Tuckerman gave an interesting portrayal of Carmen, presenting the savage and wanton side of the gypsy with decided realism. Vocally, she was well equipped for the part. Her voice is a true Carmen voice. Perhaps her dramatic portrayal was too constantly restless in the first act and the beginning of the second, but her restlessness had a demoniacal, baleful energy that is not foreign to the character. All in all, her performance was strikingly satisfactory for an amateur, better than portrayals by certain professionals we have seen. She has a decided instinct for stage effects, dramatic intelligence and force."

THE REV. G. M. HULL ELECTED PRESBYTERIAN MODERATOR

Committee Reports Gratifying Success in Campaign for $187,000 Pension Fund.

The Rev. G. Marion Hull of Washington, Mo., was elected Moderator at the annual meeting of the St. Louis Presbytery last week at West Presbyterian Church.

Encouraging receipts and an enlarged budget were reported by the Committee on National Missions, with plans for a Loyalty Campaign here next fall. Reports of the first week's canvass for a $187,000 ministerial pension fund were called gratifying. Arrangements were made for installation of the Rev. Arnold H. Lowe of Kingshighway Church on May 11 and the Rev. Charles A. Bowler of North Church today.

The following commissioners elected to represent this Presbytery in the General Assembly: Dr. R. R. Biggar, Cote Brilliante; Dr. G. W. King, Markham Memorial; Rev. H. L. Bourner, Kingsland Memorial. Elders—W. H. Bissland, West Church; John Uthoff, Carondelet, and Dr. James A. Todd, Webster Groves.

George Hines of Greenville Dies.

George Hines of Greenville, Ill., chairman of the Bond County Republican Committee, died yesterday at Deaconess Hospital, where he was operated upon for an intestinal obstruction Friday morning. He was 45 years old and is survived by his widow.

BATES SUES INSURANCE FIRM

State Senator William Maffitt Bates yesterday filed suit in Circuit Court against the Independence Indemnity Co. of Philadelphia for $1445.72 alleged to be due him under a composite disability insurance policy. He states that on July 1, 1925, his left foot was burned, causing an ulcerated condition which temporarily totally disabled him and later partially disabled him. His petition sets forth that the company paid to him a total of $1337.10, but has refused to pay the amount sued for, although he is entitled to the sum.

In addition to the principal Bates asks for 10 per cent penalty for vexatious delay. He is an attorney. In his suit it is set forth that his claim is based on partial disability between Jan. 1, 1926, down to yesterday, at the rate of $20 a week and for total disability for 11 days up to Dec. 31, 1925, at the rate of $40 a week.

The Great Medicine for Constipation

MILLER'S
HERB EXTRACT
HERB JUICE
PRICE $1.10
MILLER'S
HERB EXTRACT
HERB JUICE

SAID to be the most effective, agreeable tonic-laxative on the American market today. Everywhere, you will find it used by the best families.

This preparation, practically unknown three years ago, is now selling at the amazing rate of over a million bottles a year and it is being shipped in car load lots to many of the large cities of the United States. It has already proven beneficial and satisfactory to many millions of sufferers from constipation.

Authorities claim that constipation is the direct cause of stomach trouble, kidney trouble and numerous other complaints of the human system. Hundreds and hundreds of users testify that they have been troubled for years with constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, lack of appetite, low vitality and general run-down condition, but have found quick results in this marvelous cleanser, which eliminates poisonous waste matter from the system through its free action on the bowels. They are now loud in their praise for this great tonic-laxative and are voluntarily giving statements for publication, for they owe their present good health to its effective action and are able once more to enjoy hearty meals without any ill effects and no longer suffer with the most common ailment of the day—constipation.

If you want to enjoy good health, you must free yourself from the clutch of constipation. You can do this by using Herb Extract, formerly known as Herb Juice. Out of more than a million bottles sold during the past year under our absolute guarantee, less than half a dozen bottles were returned—a record probably never before equalled by any other medicine. Every family should have a bottle of this herb tonic-laxative handy for use whenever the first signs of constipation appear, for it is said to be Nature's most effective tonic-laxative and intestinal cleanser. No medicine chest is complete without a bottle of this famous medicine. It is pleasant to take. Get the original and genuine as shown above. Beneficial results are guaranteed. Now sold by leading druggists and dealers in medicines everywhere.

BODY OF CONVICTED MAN'S FATHER FOUND

Thomas Lovel of Illinois, Apparently Drowned Self Brooding Over Banker-Son.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HERRIN, Ill., April 30.—The body of Thomas Lovel, 55 years old, whose son was sentenced to nine years in the Federal Penitentiary for embezzlement last Saturday, was found today in the Old Squirrel Mine pond a half mile north of Herrin.

Apparently he drowned himself the night he disappeared, April 22, while brooding over the plight of his son, Elmer J. Lovel, former president of the First National Bank at Zeigler. The next day, the son pleaded guilty in East St. Louis of embezzling $16,000 of his banks funds, and the forfeiture of a $20,000 bond, on which the father was surety, was set aside.

The elder Lovell, acquaintances said, worried over his son's affairs and the bond which was forfeited after his so disappeared early in the year, until he seemed to be unbalanced. The day of his disappearance he had gone to Zeigler and talked with his daughter-in-law for several hours about the case. Missing the last train, he walked home and was there about an hour, when, at 8:30 p. m., he abruptly arose and walked out.

When he did not return fear that he had taken his life was expressed. Volunteers and a Sheriff's posse searched for him without success. This morning two small boys, preparing to fish in the mine pond, found his body lodged in a clump of willows.

The body was fully clothed and identification was made by means of his watch and other articles in the pockets. He had not been robbed and there were no marks of violence on the body.

NEGRO METHODISTS TO HOLD CONFERENCE IN COLISEUM

Rent Auditorium for 21 Days; Attendance Estimated at 4000 to 5000 Daily.

The Coliseum has been rented for 21 days, beginning May 2, 1928, for the general conference of the African M. E. Zion Church.

Between 4000 and $5000 out-of-town Negroes are expected to attend. The Rev. H. H. Jackson of Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church and a local committee already are planning details of their reception. The conference meets every four years.

USES PHONE AND STEALS $200

Negro, Accomodated, Takes Niehaus-Bensiek Payroll.

Frank Niehaus, vice president of the Niehaus-Bensiek Undertaking Co., 1138 North Sixth street, reported to police that a Negro entered the office at 4 p. m. yesterday and asked to use a telephone. After telephoning he walked out, and later it was discovered that $200 in pay envelopes, lying near the telephone, had disappeared.

FATALLY HURT BY AUTO

Negro Ran in Front of Car, Driver Says.

Charles Thompson, 41 years old a Negro, of 505 South Ewing avenue died at city hospital No. 2 Friday night of a skull fracture suffered an hour previously when struck by an automobile on Franklin avenue east of Twenty-first street.

Carl F Dischinger, 55, of Carsonville, St. Louis County, the driver, said Thompson ran in front of the car.

PAYS FOR WORLD'S FAIR TICKET

Man, Who Got in on Pass, Sends $12 to City Treasurer.

"Although I came honestly by the pass, I am not satisfied," a man who got into the World's Fair here in 1904 without paying admission wrote after 23 years, from his home in Pennsylvania. "I enclose $12, which will cover the entrance fee and interest."

City Treasurer Buechner, recipient of the letter, yesterday added the $12 to the city's "conscience fund," since the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. has been disbanded.

SYMPHONY WORKERS TO MEET

Officials of the Citizens' Committee, in charge of the campaign to raise funds to finance the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for three years, announced yesterday that the final report luncheon of the campaign would be held Wednesday at Hotel Statler.

The luncheon scheduled for tomorrow was canceled, because Saturday and Sunday are days upon which campaign workers are not expected to make solicitations for subscriptions.

Man, 65, Dies From Injuries in Fall.

John Zurgher, 65 years old, a city street cleaner, died yesterday at City Hospital from injuries suffered April 4, when he fell from the curb to the street at 4500 North Broadway, fracturing his left leg and left hip. He lived at 6040 Harney avenue.

JAPANESE SEEK NEW NAVAL RATIO

Likely to Concede Disarmament Demands to Gain Their Point.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 30.—The Japanese delegation to the three-power armament conference, which expects to leave for Geneva early in May, will be ready and willing—even eager—to bring about further naval disarmament if, by some hook or crook, it can effect a fractional change in the existing 5-5-3 ratio which will enable it to return to Japan and "save face" with the great untutored and more or less anti-foreign masses.

This is the opinion of foreign observers here who are in close touch with the Government, the navy and particularly the Japanese press and its millions of readers.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Washington conference agreement has saved Japan several hundred million yen—which is thoroughly appreciated by financiers, economic experts and high government officials—the public has already resented the 5-5-3 ratio. The press, echoing its readers, is insistent that this ratio must not prevail in any auxiliary reduction agreement. But if the Geneva delegation can come home with even a 5-5-3⅛ ratio, it is felt that everybody's "face" will have been saved and public opinion properly salved.

The real anxiety of the big men of Japan is financial and economic. The recent suspension of a number of banks in Tokio because of shortage of funds brought home to the intelligent Japanese the seriousness of the situation. The balance of trade against Japan last year was 329,000,000 yen (approximately $155,000,000). Japan is taxed to the hilt now and the support and maintenance of even the present navy is a burden which daily grows heavier with decreasing domestic business and unfavorable foreign trade balances.

But above food and raiment in the Far East is "face." The Japanese will starve and die in the gutter before he will lose "face." Consequently, even though further disarmament and economy are essential, the "face" problem must be solved by the Geneva delegates if they expect to return to Japan in safety.

Soviet Red Has Faded Into Light Pink, and Government Is Stable, P. B. Noyes Says

New Autocracy Forced by Hard Logic of Events to Drop Early Principles and Adopt Policy of "Progressive Opportunism"

PIERREPONT B. NOYES, author of the following article, was the American member of the Rhineland Commission at Coblenz in 1919-20 and Assistant Federal Fuel Administrator in 1917-18. He is a silverware manufacturer in Oneida, N. Y.

By Pierrepont B. Noyes.

I DID not go to Russia expecting to learn all there was to know about that prodigious human experiment. I went to get for myself a picture of the Soviet regime—a truer picture than Russian propaganda and ignorant enemies have given to the outside world. I was not seeking statistics of which the Russians are the world's largest producers, but rather basic facts—motives, aims and accomplishments, disappointments, compromises.

Every picture has its background and no picture of the Russia of 1926 is complete or intelligible without frequent reference to a historical background, made doubly tragic by the mixture of Western economics with Eastern disregard for human suffering. The brutalities of the revolution, the reckless radicalism of the first years which followed and the obstinate endeavor since then to establish a social system which history and philosophy have declared impossible, all these were the natural human reactions to centuries of ghastly oppression. The revolutionary psychology of the Bolsheviks is merely a violent reverse swing of the pendulum from the equally abnormal psychology of their former masters.

Cold Cruelty of Old Regime.

I visited Russia in 1910 and again in 1913. What I then saw was a gilded aristocracy, corrupt and heartless, maintaining its luxurious idleness on a particularly odious form of human slavery. Beneath the splendor of court and nobles there squirmed, like earthworms, a mass of human beings—150,000,000 of them—whose sole ambition was to escape starvation. In 1910 a Russian of the favored class told me that peasant families working 16 to 18 hours a day throughout the summer months were seldom able to provide sustenance for all throughout the Russian winter; some members of each family must go to the city or elsewhere and find work for his or her support.

Stolid, fatalistic, intensely religious, and encouraged to submit by that priesthood which was always a servile tool of autocracy, the wretched millions endured their misery longer than any Western population would have done. Throughout those terrible centuries a feeble spirit of revolt was kept alive by a few fanatical members of the intelligentsia, but these accomplished nothing save terror for their masters and death or exile for themselves.

It was not until the defeat of Russia by Japan in 1904 that rebellion began to permeate the ignorant masses. Then came the World War, with its awful slaughter and apparent failure. The Russian muzhiks were desperate and armed. In the spring of 1917, led by bourgeois Socialists, they rose in their strength of numbers and slew or drove from the country their age-old oppressors.

Rule of First Leaders Brief.

The power of their first leaders, doctrinaires and theoretical Socialists, was short-lived. The same national temperament which had endured so long, when once aroused was determined with an equally unreasoning doggedness to make a clean sweep of the whole social order. The Bolshevik party had always opposed the war; hence it fell heir in 1917 to the sympathy and support of the war-weary peasants. From that day to this it has had that support in its efforts to turn the whole social regime bottom up, and its leaders have pursued this end with such enthusiastic thoroughness, such brutal logic as only a temperament as impervious to negatives as a child's would have employed.

Their program was simple, being merely a determination to reverse every principle of the old order. The cardinal points in this reversal were:

First: The autocratic government made war; the new would banish war.

Second: All good things had been for the non-workers, starvation for the workers. In the future the products of labor should be divided among the workers to the exclusion of non-workers.

Third: In order to insure the permanency of these two conditions, political power should always be kept in the hands of the workers.

New Russia's Foundation.

It is with these three principles as a basis that Lenin and his associates and successors attempted and are still attempting to build a new Russia.

Experience has forced compromises with the first two principles. I asked about the Soviet army, and was told that it had to be maintained for the present in order to protect their system from a hostile outside world. They admitted it was a compromise of principle, but insisted that it was only temporary. Again, their first enthusiasm for Marxian Communism was, early in their career, exchanged for "nationalization of the means of production." Lenin said, "Communism is impossible except for an educated population."

But complete nationalization also proved impossible. In spite of their resolute determination to eliminate the economic profit of private capitalism and management, they found the passive resistance of a hundred million peasants as insurmountable an obstacle as Napoleon, a century before, found the army of those same peasants, and the Soviet leaders finally gave way, legalizing the private ownership of land. Since then experience has developed a progressive opportunism in the Soviet leadership. Many compromises have been made in the interest of a much-needed economic rival and a certain amount of private enterprise in both industry and trade is now permitted, under restrictions which I shall describe later.

Proletarian Dictatorship.

On the other hand, their third principle, the dictatorship of the proletariat, will never, they declare, be compromised. It is to the Russians what the habeas corpus was to the English in their early struggles for personal liberty, and with it they hope in the end to create that workers' paradise of Lenin's dream. This dictatorship of the working class has been built into the political system of Russia with a relentless thoroughness of detail and a truly Slavic disregard for logical negatives.

This general picture will not be complete without a reference to certain misconceptions which, I confess, were fixed in my own mind and are, I believe, common in America. The Russia of American opinion is a myth, which has been built around a few unusual and dramatic works—Bolsheviks, soviets, communism, proletariat and the like — and which is still falsely colored by bloody incidents projected into the present from a revolution long since past. There is no communism in Russia, nor any attempt at communism, nor any pretense of attempting it; and

Ultimate Result in China Is Clear, But Immediate Future Puzzles Powers

Three or Four Years More of Fighting Seems Probable, in Opinion of Chinese Student—Union of Northern War Lords and Southern Moderates Against Communists Possible.

In the End, the Republic, Under Some Victorious Leadership or Other, Will Emerge Well on the Road to Becoming a Second and More Formidable Japan, Lloyd George Believes.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of England.

(Copyright, 1927.)

LONDON, April 30.

EVERYONE here is asking: "What is really happening in China?" And there is no one who will risk his reputation as a knowledgable man on a definite answer. A few weeks ago, Chiang Kai-shek, the redoubtable commander-in-chief of the victorious Cantonese army, was supposed to be well under the control of the Reds and Shanghai was barbwired against his entry. Now it turns out that he places communists first amongst the foreigners from whose sway he wishes to redeem his country. And the methods he adopts for dealing with Bolshevists must make Mr. Winston Churchill rejoice greatly. They are far more summary than Signor Mussolini's way with Socialists.

What a change! The wolf against which the merchants of Shanghai barricaded their sheepfold has turned out to be a sheep dog whose sole desire is to protect the lambs against the depredations of the raider. What are the powers to do? Gen. Chiang apologizes for the outrages at Nanking. But they were perpetrated by Communists, so he cuts off a few Bolshevist heads at Shanghai and offers to pay compensation for the injuries for which he and his men were not in the least responsible. He feels that that surely must be accepted by the Powers as proof of his good faith. What could be more reasonable? He has also set up a new anti-Communist government at Nanking. How can the Powers make war on their own friend? It is no use enforcing sanctions against a man who is on your side and is doing his best to help you.

Eugene Chen's Status Still Somewhat of a Puzzle.

As for Mr. Eugene Chen, no one quite knows today where he stands. He is not and never has been a Communist, but he is still at Hankow, where the Reds are in command. It is not quite clear, however, that the Nanking government has altogether repudiated him.

The change in the situation in the last fortnight is so complete and baffling that suspicious British journalists on the spot have come to the conclusion that the whole thing is a piece of superb Oriental finessing. One journalist suggests that Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's wholesale execution of Communists and his open quarrel with Hankow is all a put up job to bamboozle the simple Westerners. Another calls it a smoke screen to hide the real design of Gen. Chiang, who is alleged to be as anti-foreign as ever and only anxious to gain time over the blunder committed by some of his more excited lieutenants in the hours of victory at Nanking.

Quite frankly, I regard this kind of writing as pure morbidity. These writers clearly express the views of those who want to see guns take in hand the job of "teaching these Chinese the lesson that they cannot insult the white man with impunity." They cannot conceive the possibility of a native of China being both a patriot—an extreme patriot—and an anti-Communist. If you are a patriotic Englishman, you are assumed to be an anti-Bolshevist but if you are a Chinese Nationalist you must also necessarily be a Red Communist. That is the kind of foolishness which would rush us into war with China. A highly intelligent Chinese student who is an avowed follower of the great Chinese prophet Sun Yat-sen, who has been following events in China with sympathy, gave me an appreciation of the present situation in that country. It struck me as giving the most rational explanation of the obscurities of the position and I therefore offer it here.

Political Divisions Outlined By a Chinese Student.

He said there were two main divisions, (1) Nationalists, (2) Northern China war lords. With regard to the Nationalists, they were again divided into two divisions, (1) Moderate, and (2) Bolshevik.

During the last two years, they had been separated because they could not agree on many points. It was only during the last year that both parties decided to fight with one common object against the Northern war lords. It was this common object which had united them but differences on other points still remain the same.

Man of the Hour in China

GEN. CHIANG KAI-SHEK.

The main differences concerning the Communists were of course due to Bolshevik influences. The Moderates followed the three principles of Sun Yat-sen, which were (1) National independence, (2) Democracy — equal political rights for all classes of people in China, (3) Equal opportunity for everybody to get a living.

The Communists also claimed to believe in these principles. But what they actually practiced was exactly the contrary. During the civil war and especially during the last few months, the Communists had taken a prominent part and almost all the outrages and forcible measures were due to their action.

The Moderates were always in favor of settlement by negotiation.

Embarrassing Possibilities Of a North-and-South Compact.

It was always known that a split would come between the Moderates and the Communists but people did not expect it would come so soon. When the question of Shanghai came up, the Communists were still in favor of adopting extreme measures and the Moderates refused to carry them out; thus the split came. Only two or three weeks ago, the commander-in-chief of the Moderates, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, was still doing his best to prevent the split. One of the means he used was to invite a former Kuomintang leader and faithful follower of Dr. Sun Yat-sen to come out into the open. This was Wang Ching-wei, who is probably, even today, the most popular man in the whole movement—popular not only with the Moderates but also with the Communists. It was thought that if he would be willing to come out, that would solve the problem. Unfortunately, as soon as Wang Ching-wei arrived at Hankow, he at once came under the control of Communistic elements and instead of reconciling the differences, he simply hastened a split.

Thus there were three important parties; the Northern war lords, the Moderates and the Communists. Sooner or later, two of these would probably combine to fight the third; that is, if they wanted to get a victory at all, and just now there seems a tendency that the Moderates may work together with the Northern war lords. This would be unfortunate because it would be impossible for them to work in harmony, as their principles differ so widely. If they worked together for the time being, it would be merely a postponement of the evil, because after the third party had been defeated, they would once more fight amongst themselves.

Chiang Kai-shek had working with him Dr. Wu, whose father, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, was one of the most prominent men in China. His father was, in fact, Chinese Minister in Washington, also Foreign Minister and latterly Prime Minister in China.

Even supposing Wang Ching-wei could influence the situation and bring the Moderates and Communists together, there was bound to be a split later on. The net result of all this would be general unrest in China for four or five years.

The Chinese people, as a whole, were undoubtedly in favor of the Moderates. Very few Chinese students in this country supported any political party but at this moment their sympathy was with Chiang Kai-shek, who was the leader of the Moderates. Eugene Chen was also in favor of a Moderate policy, but he was still in Hankow and under Communist control and was therefore unable to say anything. The Moderate people understood his difficulties, but they also realized that he himself was not a Communist.

This student again laid stress on his fears that Chiang Kai-shek might come to terms with the war lords led by Chang Tso-lin, who was one of Yuan Shih-kai's strong supporters. The war lords' principles were simply to gain position, power and money and if there was a chance, they would install an Emperor and thus fulfil the desires of their old chief.

Predicts Struggle Lasting Perhaps Three or Four Years.

He believed that Chiang Kai-shek had a chance of being successful but it would take at least three or four years. It might be comparatively easy to drive Chang Tso-lin from Pekin but it would be a very different matter, because of climatic conditions, et cetera, to deal with him in Manchuria. The Communist party had the least influence. It might at any moment be dissolved or divided.

Dr. Wellington Koo was absolutely in the hands of Chang Tso-lin, who was a military despot. Shanghai was full of excitement and rumors. Trade was continuing but nothing like normal.

Both Communists and Moderates had asked Eugene Chen to continue to act as Foreign Minister until the Nanking problem was solved. He was the man who started this affair and as he had all the information at his command it was deemed advisable that he should continue.

With regard to the relationship between Hankow and Nanking, Chiang Kai-shek knew that Eugene Chen was quite harmless and that he would not do anything against the Moderate party, although just now he was under the thumb of the Communists and could not declare his intentions openly.

Asked why Eugene Chen did not go over to Chiang Kai-shek, my informant said that the Communists would not let him out of Hankow.

He continued that there was much misunderstanding in this country on the question of the civil war. Everyone here compared it with civil war in this country and America, but it was no such thing. Here it was province against province, but in China it was people against militarists. He himself, for instance, lived in Central China. His brother's family lived in Eastern China and for ten years he (the student) had been working in Northern China. Despite present day trouble, he could travel anywhere and everywhere in China so long as he did not enter one of the barracks. That was the difference between civil war in China and in Europe.

China Will Ultimately Emerge a Second Japan.

Four years to settle down! What a prospect for those who have large forces, naval and military, in China. Are they to squat behind the barbwire at Shanghai for four or five years, watching this chaos alternatively boiling up and simmering down, until someone at last stamps out the fire underneath the pot or it goes out from lack of fuel?

As to what will utimately happen to China, there cannot be much doubt. Under some victorious leadership or other, she will emerge from the jungle at a point well on the road to becoming a second and more formidable Japan. All her civil leaders are men trained in Western ideas. They are fully alive to the impossibility of maintaining the independence of China without training her people in Western methods and ideas and equipping them with Western means, industrial and military.

Here are some significant sentences from a recent Kuomintang proclamation sent to England: "Nationalist China will not return

Hoover, Directing Flood Relief, Follows Method He Evolved In China, Belgium and Russia

Mississippi Valley Problem Not Hard for Him in Light of His Achievement of Feeding 12,000,000 at One Time in Europe.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 30.

HERBERT HOOVER, now engaged in directing flood relief work along the Mississippi River, brings unique qualifications and experience to his task. In recent history, no other person in the world has done more to alleviate misery brought on by war, famine and disease. The persons who have benefited by Hoover's relief activities are numbered by tens of millions. In fact, his present work, when compared with his operations in Belgium, Central Europe and Russia, is relatively small when only land area and the number of persons affected are considered. In Belgium alone, he fed 10,000,000 people, and in Russia, at the peak of the famine in 1922, he fed 12,000,000.

Hoover began his relief work when he was only 26 years old, and a struggling mining engineer in China. Then as now, his efforts were directed toward the relief of Americans. This first relief enterprise was occasioned by the Boxer uprising in 1900 when the foreign settlement at Tientsin was besieged by Chinese troops. Hoover and his foreign assistants mobilized a number of pro-foreign and Christian Chinese, built barricades, fought fires, resisted the Boxers and otherwise helped the authorities withstand the siege, which kept the settlement under continuous bombardment for more than a month.

Fed Refugees at Tientsin.

When the uprising was put down, Hoover established his first food relief station at Tientsin and distributed food regularly to the Chinese refugees.

At the outbreak of the European war in the autumn of 1914, Hoover was again called upon to help his compatriots. By that time he was an established mining engineer with headquarters in New York and San Francisco and offices in England, Russia, and other parts of the world. In the spring of 1914, he had left California to interest Government officials and industrial leaders of France, Germany and England in the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held in San Francisco the following year. He was in London at the outbreak of the war. Thousands of Americans were stranded without money in various parts of Europe because of the suspension of banks and the dislocation of transportation. The American authorities appealed to Hoover to do something for these frightened travelers.

At this trying time he evolved a plan which he followed effectively in his later operations. He formed an American relief committee, of which he was chairman, and through the personal guarantees of himself and his friends, he advanced hundreds of thousands of dollars to American travelers on their own checks. More than 160,000 Americans were benefited by this plan.

His Work in Belgium and Russia.

Hoover's first big relief task began when he agreed to provide food supplies for the city of Brussels after the occupation of Belgium by the German army. From Brussels, the work extended to all Belgium and after the war, to the Central Powers, the Baltic states and some of the Balkans.

When the famine struck Soviet Russia in 1921, Hoover, regardless of the fact that he was not in sympathy with the Russian Government, entered that vast country with his trainloads of food and medical supplies and relieved the sufferers of the greatest natural disaster in recent years. It is impossible to estimate the number of lives the Hoover Organization saved in Russia. Some writers declare the famine death toll would have been in the millions if American aid had not been given. Even with Hoover relief, the famine is said to have been responsible for half a million deaths.

From 1914 to 1923, Hoover developed the technique he will undoubtedly apply to the Mississippi flood regions. He has already accepted Henry M. Baker, Red Cross, director of disaster relief, as "dictator." This was his method in Russia, where Col. William N. Haskell was the sole arbiter of what should and should not be done. Likewise, to the chiefs of the American relief administration missions in Central Europe were given wide discretionary powers for the operations under their jurisdictions.

How Relief Work Is Managed.

Relief work, whether necessitated by war, famine or flood, is divided into four general sections: Investigation, transportation, co-operation and rehabilitation. Hoover has developed an extraordinary technique in all these general branches. In Europe he was dependent upon the reports of trained experts for investigation. For this work he selected only those men who would give him impartial, accurate information. In the present disaster he is making his own survey to find out what is needed.

Hoover is on his own ground when transportation and co-operation are concerned. From 1907 until 1914, he was consulting engineer for great transportation enterprises throughout the world.

Of all his attributes, his ability to obtain co-operation from his associates is outstanding. Regarding this, the National Cyclopedia of American Biography says: "He has to an unusual degree the gift of inspiring loyalty and co-operation among his associates, and men who have worked with him in his mining enterprises, in European relief, in the food administration and in the Department of Commerce became devoted to him."

Inspires His Assistants.

An example of this loyalty and co-operation came to the notice of the writer in a talk with one of Hoover's brilliant young executives in charge of the Austrian mission of the American Relief Administration. He had developed a formula which he declared helped him to arrive at his best judgment on any trying situation.

"When I have a choice of several courses," he said, "I can always give myself confidence by asking, 'what would Mr. Hoover do, if he were in my place?' and by following my own answer to that question."

This was the type of co-operation Hoover obtained when we began to provide food for 10,000,000 Belgians, through the commission for relief in Belgium. Transportation and co-operation played a tremendous part in the program. When it became apparent that the enterprise could not be financed by charity alone, Hoover negotiated loans on guarantees of Belgian banks; neutral securities held in Belgium were bought and sold in foreign markets, and finally members of the commission were compelled personally to guarantee large sums to insure a flow of supplies into Belgium. Ultimately Hoover obtained subsidies and gifts from the allied and neutral governments.

Spent Nearly a Billion.

At one time the commission's monthly budget exceeded $25,000,000. The total loans negotiated by the commission aggregated over $900,000,000.

It was one thing to buy the

Our Entry Into the World War.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN your issue of 3d inst. you publish the replies received by the New York World from many noted leaders of the war period in answer to its inquiry as to what they thought the United States accomplished for civilization by its entrance into the war. Among the replies is one from Gen. Erich Ludendorff, who is quoted as maintaining that "the Jews, Freemasons and Jesuits forced the United States into the war, and that the intervention was a crime against the German people."

One need not be in the least surprised at any manifestation of profound ignorance emanating from that source with relation to America. The crime against Germany was committed by Ludendorff and his military staff. They determined upon a course which they knew would bring America into the war against them, unrestricted submarine warfare, that is, such warfare not only against enemy ships but against neutral ships on the high seas. It was the greatest miscalculation of comparative values that was ever made in war; the belief that by such methods they could starve England into submission before America could appear on the battlefields of Europe.

This course was pursued when least urgent. The Russian revolution had taken place, the Czar had been deposed, and although peace between Russia and Germany had not yet been declared, it was certain that Russia was finished and would soon be off Germany's and Austria's backs. Under those conditions England and France could not possibly have dislodged them from the western front. In fact, the war was lost to the Allies had it not been for the 2,000,000 young, fresh, irresistible American boys whom Ludendorff's folly had forced to come "over there." "It is a race between Wilson and Hindenburg," cried Lloyd George in his call for help when the great German push was on in the spring of 1918 with the English army suffering tremendous losses in casualties and prisoners. America answered the call with adequate man-power, and the geography of the earth was changed.

A monument to Ludendorff might fittingly declare that his act led to the defeat of Germany, the destruction of the Monarchy and the establishment of the Republic.

Where Borah Erred.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been waiting for the editor of the Post-Dispatch, who knows more about the Federal Constitution and the principles upon which it rests than most Senators and a few American Presidents, to point out the flagrant heresy uttered by Senator Borah in the debate with Dr. N. M. Butler. I refer to the following: "If the Constitution of the United States, as construed by the highest judicial tribunal be disregarded, then there is for our people no rule of conduct, no order, no restraint, no protection, no stability, no government."

Good Heavens! No rule of conduct, no order, no restraint for our people! Constitutions are written for the purpose of restraining stupid or tyrannical governments and not the people. The eighteenth amendment has no proper place in the Constitution because it does restrain the people; because it does set forth a rule of conduct for the people.

The above heresy is in the class with an utterance made by ex-President Harding shortly before his death, to the effect that the several states derive their powers from the Federal Government.

To Decorate Ex-Service Men's Graves.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT is the earnest desire of the American Legion to have the graves of all ex-service men fittingly decorated on Memorial day. In the past, our efforts have been severely handicapped, as the legion has no record of the location of some graves.

To insure the proper remembrance of all the dead on Memorial day, the American Legion respectfully requests that the relatives of all deceased ex-soldiers send the name of the soldier, the cemetery where the grave is located, the section, the lot and the grave number, to S. R. Vandewater, chairman of the Mortuary Committee of the American Legion, 5052A Page.

The American Legion desires this information as soon as possible, since any names sent in must be checked against our present list of graves, and lists of graves in the various cemeteries must be compiled for the different posts.

If the relatives or friends of deceased ex-service men will co-operate with us to the extent of giving us names and the fullest possible detail on the location of graves, we will be greatly aided in our efforts toward a proper observance of Memorial day.

KILLING THE SOUL OF ST. LOUIS.

A great city should have not only the material things that contribute to comfort, convenience and business prosperity, but it should have a soul.

More than in anything else, the soul of St. Louis was expressed in the Art Museum, Public Library and the Zoo. The people of St. Louis deliberately, with intelligent judgment touching the higher interests of the city, decided that they would grant these institutions, devoted to art, literature and natural history, an ample income, independent of politics, the needs of the city administration and the uncertainties of the general revenue. They wanted them to have an abundant, increasing income for their continued development and for the highest possible service to the public.

Special taxes voted for these institutions were determined after careful deliberation. The elections were preceded by thorough campaigns and were decided by decisive majorities.

The Art Museum was planned before the World's Fair. It was embodied in an ordinance requiring the World's Fair management to make its art museum building permanent, for the benefit of St. Louis. Subsequently, the special tax was voted for its support. That vote by the people of St. Louis marked the highest point of popular support for a museum of art recorded in any city. The special tax relieved it of dependence upon either the City Hall or private philanthropy. Its future growth and usefulness were assured so far as the people could assure them.

So of the Public Library. The original gift of Andrew Carnegie of the library buildings was supplemented by a special tax of four cents, double that of the Art Museum. By that vote the people of St. Louis deliberately determined that the Public Library should be put upon an independent basis, with an assured increasing income, devoted wholly to adequate collections of books and to efficient service.

The special tax for the Zoo was voted after a vigorous organized campaign in which the school children were enlisted and took an active part in convincing the voters that St. Louis should have a thoroughly equipped and stocked zoological park, for the instruction and entertainment of the people. The voters overwhelmingly approved the plan at the polls.

Nothing that St. Louis has done has better expressed the high ideals, aspirations, intelligence and culture of St. Louis than the voting of independent incomes for the support of these institutions. Nothing has gained for St. Louis greater credit in the estimation of the people of the United States and elsewhere. They have been distinctions worthy of pride.

Now, ruthlessly, without even a hearing, without any consideration for the people, these expressions of the soul of St. Louis have been killed by Mayor Miller and the Board of Aldermen. The mandates of the voters at special elections have been nullified. The will of the people has been defied and trampled under foot, for the benefit of the politicians and the City Hall.

The taxes voted by the people for these institutions have been eliminated and the money granted to them by popular vote has been turned into the general revenue, to be expended upon spoilsmen, barnacles and fatter jobs.

Never was the will of the people of St. Louis or any other city so flouted by officials elected to do their will and to serve them. We do not believe the decision of Mayor Miller and the Board of Aldermen will stand. We do not believe they can nullify the mandate of the voters and ignore their deliberate will expressed at the polls. We believe the courts will sustain the results of popular elections and special taxes voted by the people. But a mortal blow to the Art Museum, Public Library and the Zoo has been attempted by the Miller administration. The people have to resort to the courts to establish their rights to levy special taxes upon themselves for the support of institutions they want. Meanwhile, the institutions will be dependent upon the politicasters of the City Hall.

A NEW CRIME.

The original statesmen of the little republic of Poland have invented a new crime. From now on, if they have their way, it will be illegal to say that their President is not as beautiful as a Greek god. They have drafted a bill which provides that "attacks on the President's personal appearance shall be punishable by imprisonment up to five years."

This sort of thing may be all very well in Poland, where they have dictators, military coups and so on, but we sincerely trust it will not be imported by our own statesmen, who also have a deplorable failing for legislative fandangles. Consider what it would do to political criticism in this land! It would do just about everything to it by causing the jailing of all the ablest and most outspoken critics.

Such a law would hardly be on the books before Frank R. Kent would land in jail. He was the first to explode the Coolidge myth, and he is forever calling Cal a "little" man. Along with him would go Samuel Hopkins Adams, who, in his sensational "Revelry," mentions the "fishy eyes" of the Vice President of the last administration. But these would be only a beginning. A fair sized bastile might easily be filled with persons who have criticised the Coolidge pulchritude or lack of it. There would have to be a prison for ladies, too. Who doesn't remember the remark of an estimable Washington hostess, that the President looked like he had been weaned on a dill pickle?

But what worries us most about the possible importation of this Polish invention is the terrible effect it would have on American cartooning. There would, in fact, be no cartooning at all under such a law. Forced to choose between picturing an American President as an Apollo Belvedere or going to jail, what cartoonist but would gladly accept incarceration?

OUR IMPOTENT JEFFERSONIANS.

One of the ironical phenomena of our present-day politics is the fact that the revival of interest in the principles of Thomas Jefferson has been unaccompanied by any constructive efforts to put those principles in practice.

Upon every side statesmen are declaring that in Jeffersonianism alone may we find the solution of all our pressing governmental problems. By reactionary and radical alike the principles which the sage of Monticello left as a splendid heritage to the American people are hailed as the ideals toward which all wise statecraft should aspire. But the utterance of fervid declarations and highflown generalities are as far as the worshipers of these ideals have yet gone toward realizing them. The nation has lately celebrated another anniversary of the birth of Jefferson, with the usual ecstatic hymns and oblations, but with quite as little attempt as ever to offer suggestions for making his principles effective.

Is it not about time that we either try to make the political faith of Jefferson a living and directing faith, or abandon our pretense of worshiping it? Is it not time for all who worship it either to admit that they are insincere, or else to point the ways by which it may be made an effective force?

These ways are so clearly defined that it is difficult to understand why our professed Jeffersonians have not found them. The principles of Jefferson are, as everybody knows, in the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and his brief and pithy body of declarations on State's rights and simplicity in government.

Ways to make the Bill of Rights more effective suggest themselves immediately. We should repeal laws which infringe it, and enact legislation to penalize its violation by public officials. Surely there is nothing unreasonable about the latter suggestion. We have found it natural and easy to enact laws against violations of property rights. Would it not be quite as natural and easy to penalize violations of the right of free speech, of free press, of assemblage, and so on?

Nor is it difficult to determine means by which the Jeffersonian ideals of state autonomy and simplified government may be attained. These means are, again, the repeal of existing legislation and the enactment of new. We should wipe from our statute books the measures which have permitted the tide toward Federal Empire to rob the States of their constitutional functions. We should adopt a plan of Federal reorganization which will transform the present blunderbuss at Washington into a simplified and efficient organization, freed of the bureaucratic excrescences and human barnacles which now impede its operations, burden the taxpayers, and foster all varieties of corruption.

If our Jeffersonians expect to make their political philosophy an active and guiding force in the America of today, they should at once realize that, like religious devotees who wish to propagate their faith, they must become as strong of flesh as they are of spirit.

"IZZY AND MOE."

"Izzy and Moe" have applied for reinstatement in the prohibition enforcement service, and since the office at Buffalo, N. Y., is ready to employ them we hope they will be put back on the job. They did effective work in the early days of prohibition. They showed courage, initiative and versatility of the kind found in detective fiction rather than in prosaic police fact. They brought zest, raillery, clownishness to the cause. They were, so to speak, the Marx brothers of the movement. Some of their exploits were worthy a Milt Gross chronicle. They snitched and snooped and spied, but they did it merrily. Perhaps prohibition enforcement is no laughing matter. We believe, however, that the dry powers that be will be well advised to strike a note of comedy now and then in their solemn enterprise. Those two Jews, Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith, can be counted on, as enforcement agents, to contribute to the gayety of the nation.

MUSSOLINI SCORES AGAIN.

To view the new treaty between Italy and Hungary as other than a victory for the imperialism of Mussolini would be to admit one's self as ignorant of the ends and methods of that imperialism. To regard that treaty as other than another threat by Mussolini to the peace of Europe would be to brand one's self as unacquainted with the plain intent of its terms.

The aims of Mussolini have long been evident. He would establish a Caesarean empire in the Mediterranean, and he would make the Adriatic an Italian lake. His means of attainment have been two, and both have been directed chiefly against France, the Power which obstructs his paths to his ends.

He first relied entirely upon sword rattling and outright aggression. Thus he seized Fiume, on the one hand, and flooded the African protectorates of France with Italians, on the other. But when force had failed, when he had at last realized that he must have allies as well as enemies, he had a sort of inspiration, albeit, in the light of history, a very evil one. He abandoned force as his chief weapon, and turned to secret diplomacy.

His first victory by this new weapon was an agreement with England, formed during conversations with Secretary for Foreign Affairs Chamberlain, whereby each Power seemingly agreed to co-operate in sustaining the policies of the other in the Mediterranean. England has there an empire to maintain, and Italy desires to secure one.

His second achievement by diplomacy is the present pact with Hungary. For two reasons it constitutes a momentous menace to peace. First, it completely disregards the League of Nations as an instrument for the settlement of disputes between nations. Secondly, it obviously obliges Hungary to favor Italy in any future conflict between the latter and France.

While France's own post-war history has not been highly distinguished for decency and co-operation in foreign affairs, she is today practicing both these virtues. She is growing less imperialistic and militaristic, more considerate in her treatment of Germany and more respectful toward the attempts of the League to maintain peace and to establish a sound basis for disarmament. In his new treaty with Hungary, Mussolini has attacked both this new spirit of France and the League itself.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

COUZENS OF MICHIGAN.

FRANK R. KENT in the American Mercury.

THE extraordinary thing is that the burly virility of this man—James Couzens, Senator from Michigan — the amazing facts about his Senate career, the real drama of his blazing feud with the saintly Secretary of the Treasury, the awful blow he gave the good Calvin in the Warren fight, his splendid isolation as the one multi-millionaire who opposed the first Mellon bill, his distinction as the only vastly rich man in the country who doesn't belong to the union—it is astonishing that these things, together with the present effort of Mr. Mellon, through the governmental machinery, to make him pay $10,000,000 and more of alleged back taxes, have not kindled the spark of popular interest and made of him a really national figure. * * *

But that's the way things break for Senator Couzens. Every time a question of right or wrong comes up in the Senate he finds himself against the Republican position. It is, some think, a pity he can't take the regulation narrow, smug and partisan view of these matters. But he can't. That's all there is to it—he just can't—and he doesn't want to, either. Before his Internal Revenue Bureau investigation ended he made a striking and pregnant remark often quoted in Washington. "Give me control," he said, "of the Internal Revenue Bureau and I will run the politics of the country." What he meant by that, he said, was that this bureau has not only the power to reward, but also the power to punish. A large proportion of the big financial interests, rich newspapers, and wealthy corporations and individuals come to it to get adjustments on their taxes. Millions are often involved in a single case. It is not necessary to do anything crooked. Mr. Couzens does not charge that. What he points out is that every claim for adjustment can be decided in any one of at least three ways, all entirely legal and defendable. One way can save the claimant much money, and the second can give him an even break, and the third can take his shirt. "Give me," he says, "this unlimited power to reward and punish, and I will run the country. I won't even have to use it either—at least not much or often. All I need is to have it generally known that I have it."

EQUAL SUFFRAGE IN BRITAIN.

From the Kansas City Star.

UNIVERSAL and equal suffrage in Britain is promised in the Baldwin government's new representation of the people bill, to be put through parliament at the next session. It will bring the voting age of women from 30 years, where it now is fixed, down to 21 and add 5 million feminist votes to the present total. But we wonder if the feminists who have so long been demanding equal suffrage, will point out to Mr. Baldwin that suffrage will not be equal under the proposed bill, since in the aggregate the women will have 2,000,000 more votes than the men. Will the feminists spurn the bill, refuse the enfranchisement it confers and resume the picketing of Downing street because of this discrimination against the men? If it was a monstrous inequality for the men to run the country, surely it would not be less so for the women to run it; and as there are more women over 21 years of age in Britain than there are men, the complete enfranchisement of the former will put the men in a political minority.

THE MAKERS OF CHAMPIONS.

J. C. KOFOED in Elks Magazine.

AMERICAN sport, probably as much as any section of our national life, owes a big debt to men nobody knows. Champion of champion makers is Stewart Maiden, whose name is hardly known outside of his own Atlanta and who is never entered in competitive golfing lists—but who has been responsible from their earliest days for the development of Bobby Jones, Watts Gunn, Alexa Sterling Fraser and Perry Adair. To Keene Fitzpatrick, athletic trainer at Princeton, who receives only rare mention in the football news, credit for a big part of the Tigers' gridiron success is due. Fitzpatrick is not content with keeping his boys fit during the football season, he is after them during the balance of the collegiate year, and when they go off on summer vacations they carry dietary lists and instructions from him. The trainer writes to them, checks them up, encourages them while they are away. * * * Few sport fans ever heard of George Conway. But Conway, the unknown, was the trainer whose delicate handling made Man o' War into the greatest of race horses, while the jockey received the plaudits of the crowd. Another shadowy figure today is Ira Thomas, old catcher and now coach of the Athletics, who is credited by those who know with "making" Lefty Groves. And in pugilism there were Tom O'Rourke, who literally drove George Dixon into the featherweight championship, and Walter Watson, mediocre boxing master, who developed Jim Corbett solely for the purpose of using him as a weapon to pay off a boxing grudge.

charms for the heart in love's thrall,
I know you are fairest of mortals—the lass
I adore is my all;
I know I can sing your sweet praises and
bliss in the singing be mine,
The love in my heart makes me mad, dear,
and quickens my pulses like wine;
With moonlight and roses and you, dear,
and love in my heart to inspire
I had not a claim to your love, lass, could I not awaken the lyre,
Yet songs that I sing will not please you;
too swiftly the spirit shall pass—
I've moonlight and roses, and you, love, but what has become of the glass?

FABLE.

Now it so happened that the lovely lady of infinite charm had many suitors. But though she was approaching the age at which even the loveliest and the most charming are referred to as "bachelor girls," and though she was urged into matrimony by her parents, friends, enemies and relatives, yet she would not consent to become any man's betrothed.

About this time came another suitor. And though no one conceded him even an outside chance, in about six months the lovely lady of infinite charm became his bride. Wherefore, all of her friends being curious, one of them, more bold than the rest, said, "Look you! Suitors have come bearing rich gifts; suitors have made the air unseemly with the din of automobile horns; suitors have come better able to provide, yet you reject them all, and do as you have done. In the name of Hymen, why?" Then the lovely lady of infinite charm said, "All these others vowed they loved me and wanted only me. Then, to prove it, I suppose, they tried to remodel me into something entirely different from me. He, alone, was content to have me as I am."

Moral: No man ever tried this plan, but it may work.

U. R.'S DEFENSE OF PROPOSED 30 YEAR FRANCHISE

Attorney Tells Investment Bankers New Grant Is Needed to Acquire Additional Capital.

CONTENDS IT ALSO IS BEST FOR CITY

Denies Obligation to Pay Mill Tax Which Company Nevertheless Agrees to Pay—$5,000,000 Needed for Improvements.

An extended analysis of the proposed 30-year street railway franchise was presented from the standpoint of the United Railways Reorganization Committee Thursday at a meeting of investment bankers at the Missouri Athletic Association by Stanley Clarke, attorney for the committee. As the members of the committee include the principal financial interests which will be in control of the St. Louis street railways after the formality of a receivership sale is gone through, Clarke's arguments may be taken as those of the management of the new company.

He appeared with City Counselor Muench to discuss the franchise ordinance, and many of his statements were in reply to Muench or an elaboration of points mentioned by Muench. The two were in agreement as to the provisions which should be included, except on the subjects of valuation, on which earnings will be based, and on the rate of return which should be permitted, the vital points. Clarke said in part:

"Mr. Muench said that the franchise was perhaps not ideal, but the best which could be had under the circumstances. It certainly is not ideal from the standpoint of a corporation. It hands entire control of the service over to the city, with the sole protection to the company of arbitration in the event that the demands of the city deprive it of its return on property value. I think that if anyone present has read this franchise he will agree that it could not be satisfactory to anyone acting as counsel for a public utility who hoped to retain his job. Mr. Muench stated that this franchise gave as much power and right to the city to direct the operation of the property as could be had without actual municipal ownership. In my opinion Mr. Muench is entirely correct and it must be noted that the city has these powers without the investment of a nickel.

"Mr. Muench stated that Service at Cost was in reality very similar to regulation by the State Public Service Commission except that the long and costly delays ensuing upon referring every matter to the Commission were eliminated. While agreeing in general on this point, I must point out that under Public Service Commission jurisdiction if a company during a period of time earns less than the amount required to pay the cost of service, including a fair return to it, this deficit is "over the dam" and the company is not in the future permitted to earn a sufficient amount to reimburse it for those losses, and that likewise if during a time a company earns more than enough to pay the cost of service, including the fair return, so likewise this excess is "over the dam" and it is permitted to keep it. Under the provisions of the franchise as drafted, any deficiency in cost of service is paid out of the Barometer Fund and any excess over the cost of service is paid into the Barometer Fund.

"Mr. Muench states quite truly that the only points on which the new company or its representatives have not yielded to the wishes of the city are two. In addition to these points there were, let me say, a multitude of others. Now, these two points are, as stated by Mr. Muench, the question of what valuation should be inserted in the proposed ordinance under property value in the space which is left blank for such insertion, and also what rate of return the company should be permitted to earn on its property value for the first five years. Referring to the valuation, Mr. Muench has suggested a figure between $52,000,000 and $53,000,000. The committee has heretofore, and I presume would at this time be willing to agree on $58,500,000. Both Mr. Muench and I are referring to property value, excluding therefrom, however, the Missouri Electric Railroad Co. (to-wit: 'the line from Wellston to St. Charles) and excluding therefrom nonoperating property as found by the commission. In 1923 the commission found the value of the United Railways property as of 1919, exclusive of the said Missouri Electric and of nonoperating property, to be $51,781,000. Since that time the commission's audit recently completed shows that $6,300,000 has been spent in additions and betterments to operating property. It is true that during that time there has accumulated in the depreciation reserve fund as a book entry nearly as large an amount. This depreciation reserve fund setup means that while authorized to set up as an operating expense $1,500,000 a year for depreciation, the actual charges against that setup for property charged off amounted over a period of eight years to approximately $6,000,00 less than the aggregate of the $1,500,000 per year setup over that period.

"The discussion of whether or not such reserve is deductible is a good illustration of my point that Public Service Commission jurisdiction differs considerably from the results which would be arrived at under operation of such a franchise as we have before us. Commissions have held, and now must hold because of the ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Public Utility Commissioners v. New York Telephone Company, decided April, 1926, that since public utilities have not under decisions of that court been permitted to add to investment losses sustained in the past by reason of the public not having paid sufficient rates to pay the cost of the service, so likewise where a company has earned more than enough to pay the cost of service, such excess earnings are not deductible from investment.

"The above mentioned case flatly holds that "property paid for out of monies received for service belongs to the company just as much as does property purchased out of proceeds of its bonds and stock," and that a commission or court in viewing the situation at the present time must determine what is the fair value of the property owned by the corporatin, regardless of its source; the case flatly holding that accrued depreciation reserve, whether held in cash or used to purchase additional property is not deductible from property value, and, further, "that the property or the money of the company represented by the credit balance in the Reserve for Depreciation can not be used to make up the deficiency in earnings," as was proposed by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners in this case.

"I mention this to emphasize my point made above, that under this proposed franchise, the company and the city, representing the car riders, would be on a different basis than under public utility regulation as prescribed by the rulings of the commissions and the Supreme Court of the United States. Under the proposed franchise only actual charges for property actually retired constitute that part of the 'operating expenses usually called "depreciation," and any cases of earnings over and above an amount sufficient to pay for the actual cost of the service must be paid over into the Barometer Fund. If it is not too technical a point to mention here, I would say that on no basis of fairness could the book entry of accrued depreciation be deducted in toto by the Public Service Commission in arriving at a fair value, even if the law permitted, because of the fact that this sum was not earned during the eight-year period over and above a fair return to the company on the value of the property as previously fixed by the commission.

"Much comment has been made on account of the fact that the receiver of this property has stated in his application to the commission that it is worth not less than $75,000,000. This statement is absolutely true if one were to apply to this property the rules for valuation as laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States. In fact, the receiver was modest, because if those rules were applied the result would be nearer $84,000,000 than $75,000,000. However, the question of what the ultimate valuation of the property might be does not really concern us in the question of what value might be agreed on with the city on a compromise basis to go into this ordinance. From the time that the ordinance took effect, the future basis would be the actual number of dollars put in and taken out. Now, referring to the valuation again, if the theory of reproduction cost were eliminated and there was used in its place (except as to land) the original cost of the property which still remains in service, the value as of today would be at least $58,500,000. So much for the valuation question.

"Now, as to the rate of return. The fathers of early service at cost franchises (such as that inaugurated in Cleveland in 1910 and called the Taylor Grant) saw that a fixed rate of car fare was a fallacy, in that no man could predict for a long period of years what any given commodity would cost. They failed, however, to see clearly an additional factor which was just as important, and that is, that no man could foresee what it would cost a public utility to get money to furnish service. In other words, they did not foresee that the rate of return to which investors should be entitled must necessarily vary over a period of years. In Cleveland, for instance, it was provided that the return should be upon the amount of capitalization, and this return on capitalization was set at six per cent. This was wrong for two reasons. First, that six per cent which seemed a very liberal return on stock in 1910 became absolutely inadequate during later years when investors could secure the protection of a mortgage bond bearing six per cent interest; and since the Taylor Grant provided that the stock could not be sold for less than par, there were many years when no new money could be secured for the Cleveland property. Second, the Cleveland setup was wrong because it based the return on capitalization instead of on the value of the property. From the car riders' point of view, it makes little difference how many bonds or shares of stock are outstanding against the property (except that the bonded indebtedness should not be so large as to result in danger of receiverships and foreclosures in the event of falling off of earn-more, communism is not on the program of the Soviet leaders at least for a generation to come. Every person in Russia gets a graded money wage for labor and pays money for all that he consumes.

Soviet Government Stable, Noyes Says

What has happened has been, as I said before, the nationalization of industrial equipment to as great an extent as possible (over 90 per cent). But that is not a new principle. It is only going farther along a road which most Governments have trod a certain distance. The shock to Western nerves did not come so much from nationalization as from the method employed by the Bolsheviks to accomplish it. After the revolution all means for production and distribution were confiscated by the Russian Government, a proceeding which hardly fits the psychology of other countries. The Bolsheviks answer, "It was that or no nationalization. Russia is too poor; we could not, never could, pay for these factories and railroads."

Again, I had thought of Russia as a country with an unstable government and chaotic social conditions—a land of ever-threatening revolution, where a discontented population writhed under the tyranny of new masters and those masters, some fanatic, some dishonest, were too busy heading off counter-revolution to give any considerable attention to the prosaic details of efficient government or constructive statesmanship. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Few governments in Europe are as stable as the present government of Russia. Few are giving such meticulous attention to the detailed development of economic and social organization— to education, health, art and rational amusement. Few are in as little danger of being upset by politics or coup d'etat. A larger proportion of the population than in most countries is, I believe, supporting the present government. Russia today is orderly. Life is safe as in the United States and safer than in some of our cities.

To appraise the soviet regime honestly, then, one must realize, first, that they are not now murdering people in Russia; second, that it is not an experiment in communism, but in the nationalization of industry; third, that the present government is stable, and fourth, that all the energy and ingenuity of this new autocracy—for autocracy it is, though called a benevolent autocracy by its sponsors—is directed toward keeping political power in the hands of the working class to the end that the products of labor shall all go to the laborers.

In judging the means employed to attain their ends, account must be taken of the history and temperament of the Russian people. Beneath their fatalistic stoicism the Slavic race is emotional and dramatic.

The Red Flag Above The Kremlin.

One evening just at dusk I was standing in front of the more-than-Oriental Cathedral of Basil where Ivan the Terrible used to sit of a morning while a few unfortunates were brought out and their heads cut off just to give the old rascal a zest for his day's work. Suddenly, as I stood there, a huge red flag arose and unfurled itself in the darkness high above the great tessellated wall of the Kremlin. From somewhere below a powerful unseen light gave to the bunting a quality of red I have never seen before. As it swung to the breeze, coiling and uncoiling like serpent, its folds appeared luminous, almost incandescent. It seemed a billowing scarlet cloud, a mystic sign, hung in the sky above their holy of holies, the sacred Kremlin, to remind the Russian people of their tragic past and the grim work of the morrow and many tomorrows if they would emerge from their slavery.

From the great bazars crowds poured into the Red Square and gazed silently up at the flag. I asked a soldier what it meant. He said, "Krassin is dead." Another of those men who led this population out of the servitude and misery of Czardom and who are expected to lead them out of the poverty which has followed, was dead. As I walked back to my hotel red flags were appearing everywhere.

While in Russia I sought to find the real mind of the people. After their experience with military communism followed by a not too prosperous State socialism I was keen to learn whether the people still believed in socialistic theories. Did they still believe in their leaders? And did those leaders still believe that prosperity could be attained without private capitalism or that ultimate political power could be kept in the hands of the proletariat?

2,200,000 Crowded Into Moscow.

I talked with many leaders and laymen. I spent evenings with families, some who had been, before the war wealthier, others poor. I ate their simple evening meal with families of four or five all living in a single room. For Moscow has expanded since 1917 from a city of 900,000 to 2,200,000, and throughout the city entire families have no more than one living room and a hallway leading to a kitchen common to six or eight other families.

I found an answer which satisfied me—a very mixed answer. The old bourgeosie have accepted the inevitable but secretly are not pleased. Now they must all work. Among the poorer classes I found much indifference but enough earnest belief in the new order to effectually leaven the whole mass.

I was espehially interested in the arguments of a girl student who was sharing an apartment with a family of four. She was not of the poorest class before the revolution. She told me that in her chemical work at the university she had accidentally discovered a very cheap new disinfectant which her professor declared would make her fortune. She intended, however, to turn this over to the Government because she did not wish "to get into money-making."

Her ambition was to pass from college to the experimental department of some big factory where she could continue her education and at the same time work for the common good. I argued that if she accumulated independent means first, she would be able to continue her studies and work later on with greater advantage to herself and to the nation.

New Outlook on Life.

She would not have it so. Said she knew that if she got started in money-making, she would never break away from it. She wished to take no chance. The other life seemed much more worth while. There was no sentimentality in this girl's argument, but her estimation of human values was amazingly simple in its complete reversal of all our Western standards.

I found this same reversed psychology in many places; in a teacher at the academy whose salary was low but whose eyes sparkled with enthusiastic pleasure in describing the work he was doing; in a young Ukrainian who had served as interpreter with our captured troops during the revolution and whose greatest ambition was to become a member of the communist party. I also saw among the men and women higher up many unmistakable evidences of this spirit of detachment from self-interest and eager longing for a new era wherein happiness could be brought to the lives of millions.

On the other hand I am of the opinion that Bolshevik leadership is now in the hands of very practical, level-headed men and that the hard school of experience has taught them many things which they would hardly dare explain to their not yet disillusioned followers. Openly they say that many sacrifices of socialistic theories must be temporarily made in order to get their economics on an even keel.

Red Fades to Pink.

Secretly I believe that their former redness has faded to a pink so light in color as to shock the fanatics who still abound in Russia. In fact, I suspect that several whose names are still used to frighten Americans about Mexico are spending much more thought on how to get their Socialist balloon safely back to earth than they are worrying about the proletariat of other countries. I do not mean that there does not still exist in the Bolshevik leadership much loyalty to new social ideal and a remnant of Utopian hopes, but these men now realize how essential capital is to human labor and are not so sure as they were that this capital can be created by nationalistic enterprise, at least without the co-operation of a capitalistic outside world.

As to the mass of the people the working class seems hopeful and much happier than before the revolution. The best opinion I could get as to the peasants, places the poorest class of farmers not quite so well off as before, the medium efficient about the same as under the old regime, while the better class are very much more prosperous. All the peasants, so I was told by one who lives among them, are happier and cling to a faith that the new regime will somehow improve their lot.

As to political organization, there is little which has not already been told. Three great corporate bodies dominate the life of Russia. The A. R. U. S. R. Congress (the All-Russian Union of Soviet Republics) which is elected by universal suffrage (excepting that employers, those who employ more than two workers, have no vote), is the official governing body. Then the Central Executive Committee of the Trade Unions, which claims membership of about 6,000,000, has a wide field of activities as also does the Central Committee of the co-operatives whose membership is nearly as large.

But over all three of these stands the Central Executive Committee of the Communist party, which absolutely dictates policies. The Communist party is practically a closed corporation—a well organized, well disciplined body of about 1,000,000 men and women scattered throughout Europe and Asiatic Russia and distributed among the workers of every factory and institution. Three waiters and two chambermaids at my hotel were pointed out as communists.

The recent split of the Central Executive Committee which resulted in the ejection of Trotsky, Kamenef and five other of Lenin's original associates, arose from violations of the new traditional rule of the party that after a matter has been decided there shall be only one opinion in the committee—and a common will. Trotsky and his associates were always strong for propaganda in foreign lands. Stalin had said: "Possibly within 20 years time we can afford to spend money on revolutionary work outside Russia. For the present let us keep our money at home until we get our economics righted."

There was another cause of difference. Trotsky proposed that by heavily taxing the peasants and charging them high prices for machinery they be made to bear the burden of a rapid development of Russian industries. Stalin said. "Impossible! The peasant farmers represent a large and important a factor in Russian life." Stalin carried the day, but Trotsky, defying tradition, continued to publicly advocate his plans. He and those who worked with him quickly found themselves disgraced and were expelled from the committee. Had they not humbly recanted, they would have found themselves very soon outside the Communist party.

I visited many factories, some of which I knew well under the old regime. They were all busy and on the whole well managed. I saw new machinery bearing German nameplates and was surprised at the ultra-modern factory construction of many additions.

At the old Westinghouse plant—now called Dynamo, I found 50,000 square feet of the most up-to-date factory construction had been added; a concrete building, sprinkled, with good light and air, and fitted throughout with the latest conveyor systems.

In a large rubber factory which turns out 30,000 pairs of galoshes a day, I verified from the pay roll 90 per cent piece work. As we walked through the plant, I noticed that the superintendent spoke in a friendly way to every workman he met. This, I believe, is one of their rules. That superintendent, by the way, gets a salary of only 225 rubles a month because he is a communist, while the workmen get up to 180 rubles, the foremen 250 rubles and the engineers 500 rubles. No communist receives more than 225 rubles a month.

The shop committees are very active and are furnished with excellent meeting rooms. I asked for one of the large posters, mostly handmade by workmen, which adorned the walls of the factory, and was obliged to wait until the shop committee got together and voted permission. The members of this committee were very friendly and on the whole intelligent-looking fellows. The posters were, in the main, not bolshevik propaganda as I anticipated, but cartoons illustrating the results of carelessness and shiftlessness among the workmen.

Ultimate Result In China Is Clear, Says Lloyd George

to the darkness of the past. Nationalists China is fully aware of the modern science and technique of the West, which must be used by China. We do not turn away from them. On the contrary, we wish to take them over from the nations of the West. The thousands of Chinese students who have, during the last few years, received their training in Western seminaries have gone back to their own country full of the marvels of the countries where they secured their training."

Learned Military Tactics Under

But the extent to which soldiers of the Chinese armies have learnt war on the battlefields of France is a fact which seems altogether to have escaped comment. A prominent British General who commanded in France said to me the other day:

"The real origin of the discipline in the Cantonese army is due to the fact that the basis of the army is formed from the labor battalions which fought with the British army in France during the late war. These were drawn from Hongkong and Shanghai and were trained under British officers. They have retained the lessons of organization which they learned during that period and the Chinese Nationalist army is largely built up upon the methods and habits of the British army. The formation of the Nationalist army is quite different from the old idea of the Chinese mob army. The Chinese labor battalions in France learned how to make bomb-proof shelters, understand barbed wire and have imported into China all the lessons which they learned in the war."

Industrially, Western capital is developing Chinese industries. It was inevitable when China had a growing demand for goods and an infinite reserve of the cheapest and most hardworking labor in the world on the spot. Hence the mills and factories that have sprung up everywhere in the great towns where there is sea and transport. Hence also the fact that there are over 1,000,000 trades unionists in China.

The ultimate future in China,- anyone can forecast. But what of the immediate future: the next 12 months or five years?

Hoover's War Experience Helpful in Flood Relief

food and another thing to deliver it. The commission met this problem by operating its own fleet of 200 ships, together with canal boats, railways and warehouses. In Belgium it requisitioned numerous mills, bakeries, factories and abattoirs. The food was distributed by communal committees through kitchens and stores.

The Belgian organization functioned so efficiently that it was continued after the war and under purely Belgian management. It extended its activities to the work of rehabilitation. As a result of this continued and enlarged activity, Belgium recovered from the war more quickly than any other belligerent European nation.

With the experience gained in Belgium, the Hoover relief workers applied the Hoover organization methods to post-war work in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Austria, Esthonia, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Jugo-Slavia and other countries.

During the winters of 1920 and 1921 about 6,000,000 persons, mostly children, benefited by this program.

In Germany and Austria, native organizations continued the work started by the Hoover organization The American relief forces were evacuating Europe, when Russia raised her cry for help. Famine and disease were stalking through the land.

237 Answering Russia's Call.

With the help of other relief organizations and Congress, Hoover raised almost $70,000,000 for Russian relief. Within 60 days, he and his associates had established a distributing system involving the creation of 20,000 feeding stations operated by 120,000 native workers for the feeding of 12,000,000 people. The Hoover organization imported into Russia almost 1,000,000 tons of food and medical supplies.

In addition to the famine relief, the Hoover organization made a systematic fight against epidemics of typhus, typhoid, smallpox, cholera and malarial fever. More than 7,000,000 people were either inoculated or vaccinated, and 14,000 hospitals and institutions were re-equipped with medical supplies. The organization left Russia in 1923, when it was apparent that conditions had turned for the better and the Government could look after persons needing help.

In the Mississippi work, Hoover will have expert assistance from the War, Navy, Interior and Agriculture Departments, the Coast Guard, the Public Health Service, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Red Cross and the Salvation Army, besides the local organizations.

At first glance it would seem that it would be a Herculean task to co-ordinate all these activities, but obtaining co-operation from numerous and sometimes conflicting agencies is Hoover's forte.

After the relief job is finished, the people of the Mississippi Valley may have another reason to thank Hoover. His associates in Washington are already predicting that he will not be content merely to alleviate the present distress. They point out that he is an engineer and is deeply interested in waterways transportation. In Europe he pointed the way to rehabilitation and left it to the judgment of the European Governments whether they should follow his advice. In the United States he is in a position to develop the fourth branch of relief work—rehabilitation—and, as Secretary of Commerce and an influence in the administration, help make a recurrence of the flood impossible.

U. R.'S DEFENSE OF PROPOSED 30 YEAR FRANCHISE

ings). It is only the actual value of the property, or, in the case of such a franchise as is proposed here, the actual number of dollars spent to acquire that property on which the car rider should be required to pay a return.

"Further referring to the question of rate of return and the new company's stand that it cannot afford to take less than a 7 per cent return for the first five years, the advocates of a return of 6 per cent for that period have cited two cities in which the rate of return is based, as it should be, on property value, not capitalization, and where that rate was fixed at 6 per cent. I may say here that there are eight or 10 other cities where rate of return is based upon property value, not capitalization, and where it varies from 7 to 8½ per cent. The two cities above referred to are Montreal, in the Province of Quebec, and Pittsburg, Pa. The Montreal franchise is a good one, and, above all, it has worked, but it is not accurate to say that the return to the company was limited to 6 per cent on property value, because during the period of the first few years under its operation, when the company was going through rehabilitation, an additional return over and above the 6 per cent was allowed it, and further, unlike the proposed franchise for St. Louis, the entire excess revenue over and above the cost of service was not required to be paid into the barometer fund, but the company was allowed to participate in that surplus.

"In Pittsburg, where the valuation of the property was relatively higher than the one proposed for the St. Louis franchise, the company is also, in addition to the 6 per cent return, allowed to participate in the surplus. Also, in Pittsburg, the company was allowed to pay off injury and damage claims accrued prior to the service at cost agreement and to charge the payments of these claims against operating expenses as defined in the service-at-cost agreement; and, lastly, in Pittsburg, the company was allowed to pay off its indebtedness to the city in annual payments charged against operating expenses under the service-at-cost agreement. Taking this last item alone, the proposed franchise provides that the new company must pay the mill tax judgment against the old company, with interest, and that it must make these payments out of its return. These payments will amount during the first five years to approximately $600,000 annually, and so the return which will be left to the company will actually be no more than 6 per cent.

"It has been suggested that the same arrangement be made in St. Louis as was in Pittsburg, towit, that the payments to the city be paid, not out of the company's return, but as an operating expense and that under such an arrangement the company could afford to take a 6 per cent return. So it could and would, but the accusation would justly be made that the car riders, and not the new company, were paying the indebtedness of the old company to the city. I say the accusation would justly be made, but by that I do not mean that I personally believe that the new company is in justice bound to pay this judgment against the old company, although it would agree to so pay it under the provisions of the proposed new franchise.

"The new company is not legally bound to pay this judgment, since the city is a general creditor and has no lien upon the property which the new company will purchase at foreclosure, any more than the purchaser of a house at a foreclosure sale would be legally bound to pay the indebtedness of the previous owner to the butcher and the baker. The new company is not morally bound to pay this judgment against the old company because, although during the period when the mill tax constituting this judgment accrued, the city appointed the old railways company its tax collector, it did not add the price of the taxes to the car fares, and so the old company as a collector never actually collected. However, it makes small difference as to what the legal and moral aspects are of the mill tax judgment matter. The new company, at the demand of the city, has stated its willingness under the proposed franchise to pay the judgment against the old company, perhaps for the same reason that we pay our last year's tailor's bill before we ask our tailor to make us a new suit.

"So much for the two points mentioned by Mr. Muench on which the new company has not agreed with the city. Perhaps you gentlemen will not be interested in all phases of the following discussion, yet you will in the first phase which I mention. You have been or will be called upon to put money into the transportation system in St. Louis. Under the new set-up, the funded debt of the new company will be approximately $40,800,000; add to this the $5,384,000 of new preferred stock to be issued in adjustment of the old Transit bonds, and the aggregate is $46,184,000. The property value, if inserted in the franchise at $58,500,000, would leave an equity for the new common stock of approximately $12,000,000. This equity belongs to the new common stockholders, and the new common stock which they hold represents this equity in the same manner that the old preferred stock did, except that the old preferred stockholders, in order to obtain this new common stock, were required to pay an assessment in cash, which, of course, added to their equity, since it was used in part payment of obligations having seniority. Just what this new common stock is worth, you may figure out for yourselves. Certainly it is worth more than the cash actually paid for it by the old preferred stockholders or they would have been damn fools to pay the assessment.

"In the event of a compromise figure such as suggested in the proposed new ordinance, you may be able to predict the value of this stock, but in the event of failure to agree, then you will know that under the law as laid down by the Supreme Court of the United States and because of the earning power of the property, the equity represented by the common stock would be far in excess of any $12,000,000.

You investors may well ask, "Then why agree on a compromise figure and the ordinance promulgated by the city administration?" I think we should agreed because of the following reasons: The United Railways carries in a year approximately 270,000,000 revenue passengers and approximately 146,000,000 transfer psasengers. (Let me interrupt myself here to say that the number of transfer passengers carried is more than half the total revenue passengers carried, and so when Cleveland is cited to us as having a 7-cent fare, we may well say that if permitted to charge 1 cent for transfers, as is true in Cleveland, we would obtain as much revenue as we would obtain from a 7½-cent fare where no charge is made for transfers; and further comparison with Cleveland would show that we might even better their cost of service if we paid in taxes only 6 2-3 per cent of gross revenue instead of 12½ per cent of gross revenue.)

"Now, these passengers carried by the United Railways and which the new company hopes to carry, average over 1,000,000 per day. What they want is more comfort and more speed so far as safety will permit. We ought to give it to them. Can we do so without a new franchise? It seems doubtful. In addition to the benefits which will accrue to car riders from co-operation between the city and its transportation system, the proposed new franchise would permit the new company to secure from investors the large additional sums of money needed to make the improvements which are necessary in the service.

"Perhaps as much as $5,000,000 should be spent at once for new equipment and in rerouting the present tracks and making extensions. There is no justice in the thought of some people that the expenditure of additional sums of money requiring a return to be paid on them would increase the car fares. This money under the supervision of the city would be expended in such a way as to speed up the service and to carry more people, with the result that the gross revenues would be increased and the operating expenses reduced because of elimination of car hours resulting from increased speed. Of course, to the extent that the public demand it, a great improvement in the kind of service might result in their being required to pay more for a superior kind of service, but the city and the company should ascertain first whether the community wanted the higher price service before investments were made of a nature which would raise the price.

"Now then, another reason why the new company needs this franchise before it can start in to do a real job is because the 4 per cent bonds, about which all you gentlemen are fully informed, mature in 1934, and we do not suppose that you or any other investors would finance a refunding of those bonds except at very high prices if we asked you to take a long term bond of a company which had franchises maturing prior to the maturity of the bonds. I need not describe the situation in Chicago to you, but will recall to your mind that the Chicago company, earning far and above an amount sufficient to pay its interest and dividends and carrying in the year 1926 56,000,000 more passengers than in 1925, has first mortgage 5 per cent bonds selling on the market at around 77 or 78 because of the fact that its franchises have expired.

"No one reading a draft of this proposed franchise for St. Louis can pick out one single provision which is unfair to the interest of the public. It has been suggested that St. Louis, although being a fan-shaped system, will probably in the future require a large part of the present surface system—but that, nevertheless, since it desires rapid transit, it should not put itself in a position where its car riders will be required to pay for that part of the system which would become obsolete in the event that rapid transit came. We are of the opinion that rapid transit should come as soon as the public is able to pay for it, but we are also of the opinon that under the proposed franchise such great strides could be taken toward speeding up the service without saddling much additional cost on the public, that the first thing to do is to pour some gasoline into what we might call the automobile we now have and see how fast it will go before we decide to buy a new and expensive automobile on the deferred payment plan.

"But let's see how much "dead horse" the car riders would be required to pay for in the event that rapid transit came to St. Louis. Taking the report of Maj. C. E. Smith and the proposal contained therein for the initial step in rapid transit, we ascertain the property value of the lines of track and paving within the district where surface lines could be eliminated after the initial subways were built, to be less than $1,000,000. Suppose that these initial subways were completed in five years, or, as seems more likely, in ten years. If, as provided in the proposed franchise, the company were permitted to charge the retired property as an operating expense over a period of time, then if we amortize this $1,000,000 over a five-year period, it costs the rider at the rate of two-thirds of a mill in each fare, and over a 10-year period at the rate of one-third of a mill in each fare. Meanwhile, he is getting the use of this property which he is paying to retire at the rate of a fraction of a mill. I point this out in order to show the absurdity of the contention made. Of course, actually such an amount of retirals is a very small portion of the retirals which are now actually made each year.

"Now, with further reference to rapid transit, if the city insisted on making the new company continue under the franchises which it will inherit from the old company, to-wit, the transit franchise expiring in 1939, and the Central Traction franchise expiring in 1948, it would not have the opportunity during the 12 years under the transit franchise or the much longer period under the Central Traction franchise to bring about the initial step in rapid transit and co-ordinate with it the present surface system and the busses; but under the proposed franchise it could do all these things. It should be noted that the proposed franchise would extend for 18 years beyond the term of the transit franchise and nine years beyond the term of the Central Traction franchise, so that in considering this question we should weigh the advantages to be gained by the city immediately instead of waiting for the expiration of those franchises.

"Of course, it might be said that the company should do everything that the city asked it to even without a new franchise and while continuing to operate under the old. Under the low of self-preservation this should hardly be expected, for with a gun at your head you are bound to get as much protection as you can, which means that the new company would be bound in good faith to its security-holders to get as high a valuation and earn as much thereon as the law would permit and spend as little money as possible in order to pay out before it was told "to get the hell out of here."

The speaker's analysis of the franchise ended here. He then gave his views as to the duties of the public, the city officials, the company and the press, and concluded:

"So if the management does its public duty and more; if the Transit Commission has patience, tact and industry; if the public and the press have patience, sympathy and helpfulness, then this proposed franchise will work and there will permanently be established in the popular mind the principle upon which it rests—i. e., JUSTICE."

PLANS MUSEUM FOR NEW MASONIC TEMPLE

B. L. Tatman Appointed Chairman of Committee to Collect Historic Relics.

A Masonic museum is planned for the new St. Louis Masonic Temple of such scope as to focus the attention of the order, not only nationally, but internationally, upon St. Louis.

B. L. Tatman, Past Grand Master of the Grand Council of Missouri, has been appointed chairman of a committee to take charge of the collection. "Missouri, rich in Masonic material, is yet sadly remiss in its preservation," Tatman said. "No great temple existed in which it could be housed. Now that the Freemasons of the State have achieved their ambition and erected one of the most magnificent temples in the country, the task of assembling a museum should be pressed with great vigor."

Outline of the character of articles desired specifies historic trowels such as that used by the Grand Master in laying the cornerstone of the State capitol; Masonic jewels, gavels, Bibles, aprons, etc., either antique or of historic value; autographed letters and manuscripts from famous Masons, especially those relating to Freemasonry, philosophy, religion, music and poetry; personal articles once owned or worn by great statesmen, military heroes, authors, Presidents, kings, scientists, explorers, etc., who were members of the Craft; oil paintings depicting persons or scenes interesting Masonically; curious Masonic trophies of wood or metal, Knights Templar swords, loving cups, Scottish Rite patents, etc., of exceptional interest; archeological and art objects engraved with symbols and emblems connected with religious rites, initiation into ancient mysteries, etc.; Indian relics pertaining to religion; trophies from Chinese Masonry; carved stones from the temples of the Mayan, Aztec and Incan civilizations; authentic articles connected with the religion of the ancient Pharaohs of Egypt, the gods of Greece, Rome, Persia and India, the worship of Brahma, Buddha, etc.; articles from the time of Solomon and Hiram of Tyre; articles connected with ancient Jewish worship and early Christian worship; relics of the Knights Templar of the middle ages; the Rosecrucians, the Stenmetzen of Germany, and the cathedral builders of France and England; Masonic mememtoes of the Revolutionary and Civil Wars; medals commemorating great Masonic events; models of great works of architecture, and Masonic teachings symbolized in bronze and marble.

WABASH TO RUN EXCURSIONS IN MUNICIPAL OPERA SEASON

All Ticket Agents Instructed to Direct Passengers' Attention to Summer Amusement Here.

The Wabash Railroad, co-operating with the Municipal Theater Association, has announced a series of 15-day excursions from various points on its lines, including Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Omaha and intermediate points to St. Louis during the Municipal Opera season this summer.

An advertising campaign emphasizing the opera as an excursion attraction has been started and ticket agents of the road have been instructed to point out to passengers that by arriving in St. Louis on a Saturday, three different operas may be seen before the 15-day limit expires. Agents also have been authorized to arrange reservations for opera performances and round-trip tickets will be sold for a little more than the regular one-way fare.

The Municipal Opera Association is also endeavoring to interest other railroads in the opera as an attraction for excursionists, and Mayor Miller has invited passenger representatives of various roads to a conference for discussion of plans for other opera season excursions.

Every ticket agent employed by the Wabash throughout America is directed to call attention of persons purchasing tickets to St. Louis, or through St. Louis, from June 6 to Aug. 28, to the opera performances, distribute literature concerning it and offer to make seat reservations for the travelers. If the other railroads can be persuaded to adopt a similar course, it will mean that thousands of railroad agents throughout the United States will become boosters for the opera and the city.

OAD TAX CHANGE IN ILLINOIS IS PROPOSED

Would Increase Share of Cities When They Are Included in Townships.

LOOMINGTON, Ill., April 30. roposed legislation in Illinois ing highways is being closely ed by motorists and others are interested in their main ance.

ouse bill No. 176, introduced Representative Weiss in the affects the tax collected in nship of which a city is a . The township road and ge tax now is levied on the nship at large, including the which is a part of it, but law requires that 50 per cent he money so collected be turned to the municipal authorities an equal amount to the Town Highway Commissioner.

Lessen Commission Percentage.

This bill would amend the law that 85 per cent of the road bridge tax collected would go the city and 15 per cent of it the Highway Commissioner. In ition to this, the latter would at his disposal all road and ge taxes collected in the town outside of the corporate limof the city.

nder the proposed measure, the of the road and bridge tax goes to the city might be exed for improvements of roads, ts or bridges, at the discreof the City Council or comoners. The jurisdiction of City Council would be extendto highways outside the city s and would undoubtedly conwith that of the Township hway Commissioner. But pron is made that no money may pent on roads outside of the except with the commission's oval. The proposed bill profor a sliding scale distribuof the tax money by population. A city having a population 5,000 or more would receive per cent of the money collected. ity with 7500 population and than 35,000, distribution will from 65 to 75 per cent, while 7500 it will be 60 per cent. re is small likelihood of this becoming a law, but it has cted attention to the Highway missioner system and created derable comment that may be hful.

Save Thousands of Dollars.

Many students of the Illinois dirt system earnestly believe thous of dollars of public money be saved annually and Illinois greatly improved if the law ended to abolish highway missioners and to provide for mployment by township superof men to take care of the . It is contended that highcommissioners, in too many nces, are simply bosses who oy others to do the work and little themselves. Highway comoners' salaries are said to from $600 to $1100 per year. also contended that if supers controlled the dirt roads, and money now paid to highway missioners went to men actualengaged in improving the dirt ways, results would be far satisfactory.

$3,000,000 More for Roads.

There are 3000 townships in Illiand nearly $3,000,000 paid any in salaries for work that ld be handled by supervisors out additional salary allow Thus, this $3,000,000, if paid aders and other maintainers ly engaged upon road imement, could effect vast imment upon many dirt highwhich are in a deplorable dition.

USE OF CHROMIUM MAY GIVE WEARLESS AUTO

Cars That Will Not Wear Out, Possible by Use of This Metal.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Sooner or later every annual creation of the automotive industry assumes the character of a harbinger of what is to come.

The automotive engineer, of course, is the prophet, and the car his medium of expression.

Because it is not particularly conspicuous, it is possible that one of the most important features of the current automotive product in possibilities be missed.

This feature is the growth of chromium plating, a process which is used mainly as coating for the exterior of radiator shells and, to a limited degree, to pump shafts.

Not to Affect 1927 Car Buyer.

Chromium plating—developed as it undoubtedly will be—may result in the relatively wear-proof automobile, a vehicle which will last perhaps five times as long as the present car—so long, in fact, that an owner may sell it because it has gone out of style rather than because it has worn out.

It should be pointed out, however, that chromium is not coming so quickly as to affect the 1927 car buyer.

What is chromium? It is the hardest metal yet developed, except carborundum, emery and similar materials. It is hard, brittle and white. It is used as a plating for other metals. If the metals covered with it are sufficiently hard, a nearly wearless unit has been produced. A chromium-plated surface is also corrosion proof.

Limited to Radiator Shells.

It is estimated that the life of various parts of a car can be lengthened two to 25 times if the chromium-plating process is developed to a point where it may be applied to a greater number of units. At present, it is limited to radiator shells and to pump shafts where impact and pressure are not sudden or great.

Its use on parts where stress and strain are great is dependent upon much further development.

The next use of chromium-plating is expected to be in valve stems and guides, clutch plates and brake drums.

It is a matter of making the metals now used in these parts sufficiently strong to support the excessively hard surface created by chromium. The covered metal must not "flow" if the benefit of the hard surface is to be achieved fully.

Next in order in the readiness with which they lend themselves to chromium treatment come camshaft and crankshaft journals and king and tie rod pins.

Much Research Necessary.

Considerable research will be necessary before these parts can be plated with chromium and much more must follow before pistons, cylinders, gears, crankshafts and other parts subjected to heavy work and wear will lend themselves to it.

In spite of this, chromium-plating is one of the big developments of recent automotive times.

One of the beauties of chromium-plating when it comes into its own on a large scale will be that if the surface of a part does wear out, because of insufficiently hard metal beneath it, the whole unit need not be discarded. Replating is all that will be necessary to make the part as good as new. There will be no limit, of course, to the number of times it may be replated.

So when one sees a chromium-plated radiator shell, one should realize that he is looking at the metal that one day may be used to make an automobile that will not wear out.

Not this year, maybe not in five or even 10 years, but chromium is coming.

MISSOURI ROADS ARE IN BETTER CONDITION

All Divisions Travelable, Except No. 10 in Southeast Missouri Flood Area.

Fair weather the past week has served to better Missouri road conditions. Flood waters have receded little, but gravel roads are in good condition and dirt roads are drying.

All concrete and gravel roads in the Webster Groves division, including 11 counties surrounding St. Louis, are travelable. The same holds true for other divisions except Division No. 10, of which Sikeston is headquarters. This division is in the center of the Mississippi River flood area in Southeast Missouri, so road conditions there are virtually the same as for the past 10 days.

Ferry Service Not Resumed.

The Mississippi and Missouri Rivers have not receded enough to allow use of the State's four principal ferries to be resumed. These ferries are on U. S. 60, across the Mississippi River from Birds Point, Mo., to Cairo, Ill., on State Highway 94, across the Mississippi from West Alton, Mo., to Alton, Ill.; on State Highway 47, across the Missouri River at Washington, and on State Highway 56, across the Missouri River at Hermann, Mo.

In Division 10, Federal Highway 61—the St. Louis-Fredericktown-Sikeston-Arkansas line route—is blocked for five miles on each side of New Madrid by flood water, and there is no detour available.

In the same division, Federal Highway 60—the Birds Point-Sikeston-Poplar Bluff-Springfield route—is blocked by high water at Birds Point. Some cars are getting through, but it is hazardous to make the attempt. Motorists insisting on going through will be aided by maintenance men who are prepared to pull cars through the water on the highway.

The ferry across the Mississippi at Birds Point may be resumed today if river conditions permit, S. H. Clelland, division highway engineer, said yesterday. If it is not resumed, motorists will be forced to continue use of the old Missouri Pacific ferry, a mile north of Birds Point.

No. 25 Still Impassable.

State Highway 25—the Festus-Perryville-Jackson-Kennett-Arkansas line route—is still impassable in the main. Between White Oak and Holcomb high water is blocking the route. The flood area extends two miles east from Holcomb.

High water again blocks No. 25 at Delta, and the same condition exists from Dutchtown to Delta.

U. S. 66 ASSOCIATION TO MEET TOMORROW

Highway Boosters, Gathered at Springfield, to Plan for Early Completion of Route.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 30. —Highway department officials, political and civic leaders and others are on the program of the U. S. 66 Highway Association meeting tomorrow at Springfield.

The purpose of the meeting will be to complete plans for the early concreting of the entire 2212-mile route of U. S. 66 from Chicago to Los Angeles. Estimates of the cost of building uncompleted sections of concerte in several states are being prepared and will be submitted to the delegates.

After the meeting officers of the association will seek the aid of county and state officials in carrying out the building program.

The meeting tomorrow is the second held this year, the first conference having been at Tulsa, Ok.

Present officers are John T. Woodruff of Springfield, Mo., president; H. B. McDaniel, Springfield, treasurer. Vice presidents are: George Spiva, Joplin; J. N Wells, Baxter Springs, Kan.; Cyrus Avery, Tulsa; J. W. Knorpp, Groom, Tex., and Edgar Knight, Albuquerque, N. M. E. Bee Guthrey, Oklahoma City, is executive secretary.

SEAGRAVE PREDICTS CARS WILL SOME DAY DO 150 M. P. H. ON ROADS

AUTOMOBILES traveling at 150 miles per hour on the general highways are foreseen by Maj. E. O. D. Seagrave, English speedway ace, who recently drove his 1000 horsepower, 24-cylinder car at a speed of 203 miles per hour, at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Maj. Seagrave, before his return to England, said engineers who perfected his car had the idea in mind that within a quarter of a century it would be of practical use.

The secret of his car's success, he said, was in its six-foot blunt nose, which covered the wheels.

FREE HEADLIGHT TESTING SERVICE AT Y. M. C. A. SCHOOL

The Y. M. C. A. Automobile Training School, 1610 Locust street, has installed a headlight testing board, which will be free to all motorists in St. Louis who want their headlights focused, or corrected. The board was installed to teach students proper focusing of automobile headlamps. The work is done under supervision of instructors of the school.

The Y. M. C. A. Automobile School recently was equipped with modern machine tools and has enrolled about 85 student mechanics.

HEADLIGHTS EASILY ADJUSTED FOR SAFETY

Tester at St. Louis City Hall Warns Against Too Bright or Too Faint Lights.

Too much light and too little light are the causes of accidents due to automobile headlights, according to Joseph Burns, headlight tester at the City Hall.

"Safety demands proper adjustment of light so there will be neither glare nor weak lighting of the road," Burns says. "Everyone who drives on city streets or country highways knows not only the inconvenience, but the danger of blinding and dazzling headlights.

"In some states an automobile driver is expected to dim his lights when meeting another vehicle. One would not think of passing an approaching car at 30 miles an hour with eyes blindfolded, yet that is exactly what often happens when a driver suddenly dims his lights. When one suddenly, dimming cuts down the light produced by his headlights, it requires two or three seconds for his eyes to readjust themselves. In this time he has traveled 100 feet or more, practically blinded.

"Dimmers, furthermore, after dark, provide insufficient light for the motorist to see objects clearly, particularly persons in dark clothes who may be on the street or highway. According to accident statistics from all over the country, more serious and fatal accidents are caused by lack of proper light than by too bright or glaring lights.

"If, then, a glaring light is dangerous and a dimmed light is equally if not more dangerous, what type of light should a careful, law-abiding motorist use? He should have a light which, when the bright lights are on, will throw a direct beam for some distance along the road in front and on both sides, while at the same time not rising so as to glare in the face of the driver of an approaching vehicle. Such a light is available through a few simple adjustments. From a selfish standpoint, if from no other, a proper headlight is highly desirable.

Designs Noiseless Car.

A railroad engineer in Sweden has designed a railway motorcar said to attain a speed of 50 miles an hour with no more noise than the clicking of the rails. The silent car has an underslung engine, entirely separate from the frame of the car. Power is supplied to the drive wheels from the engine by distinct sets of gears, all in simultaneous use.

DIAMOND T TRUCK CO. NOW IN MODERN HOME

Occupies Building With 125x 145 Foot Floor Space at 2135 Morgan St.

A new one-story building, having a 125-foot frontage at 2135 Morgan street, and a depth of 145 feet on Twenty-second street, is now the general sales and office headquarters of the Diamond T. Motor Truck Co. of St. Louis, formerly located at 3229 Locust street.

The building was erected at a cost of $110,000. It has a display room 50 feet deep, occupying the center 75-foot portion of the Morgan street entrance to the building.

To Carry $60,000 Parts Stock.

Adjoining the display room on the east side is a stock room, accessible both from display room and rear shop. The stock room has steel fireproof bins and skylights, and will be stocked with approximately $60,000 worth of truck parts.

The garage proper, in the rear of the building, has a floor space of 10,000 square feet, and is large enough to store 100 trucks at one time. It is equipped with all modern repair and handling devices and has radiator repair and welding facilities.

The executive offices occupy a space 15x75 feet back of the display room.

Produce Eight Models.

The Diamond T. Motor Car Co., produces eight truck models ranging from one ton to seven tons, and a full line of tractors.

George C. Stevens is manager of the branch here, which is one of a number maintained in all large cities in the United States. The home office of the company is at Chicago.

The new building was built from plans drafted by Stevens.

INDEPENDENT REPAIRMEN AT PARTS BUREAU MEETING

Approximately 150 independent automobile repairmen of St. Louis were present at a meeting of the Replacement Parts Bureau of the Automotive Accessory Association at the Missouri Hotel. A large number of automotive salesmen and executives of St. Louis accessory houses also attended.

Thomas O. Duggan, merchandise director of the National Standard Parts Association, of Detroit, spoke on "The Necessiay for Better Service." He told how independent repair shop operators could improve their financial condition without charging car owners any higher prices for work than are now charged at any first-class shop.

A movement is under way to organize a bureau of the Automotive Accessory Association to be known as the Independent Repair Shops bureau.

Capt. Robert E. Lee, manager of the Automotive Accessory Association, presided at the meeting. Brief addresses were made by Charles A. Marien, of the H. & H. Machine Co., and Walter T. Mills, of the Auto Parts Co.

LEE MAKING RESERVATIONS FOR SPEEDWAY AUTO RACES

A number of reservations for the Indianapolis Speedway Automobile Races of May 30 have been made with Robert E. Leee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' association.

The St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association is organizing a special train to leave St. Louis the evening of May 29 and return to St. Louis about 9 p. m. May 30. It will be an all-steel Pullman train.

The reservation includes fare and berth to and from Indianapolis, meals on the train, luncheon at noon in the race track, a box seat in the grandstand directly in front of the start and finish of the race, the use of club car.

The train will be parked at the entrance to the Indianapolis speedway grounds on the Big Four siding.

The total cost of the trip, including admission to the grounds and box seat, is $51.

Savannah Gets Highway Convention.

The annual convention of the United States Good Roads association will be held with the Bankhead National Highway association from June 6 to 11 at Savannah, Ga.

REO SPEED WAGON JUNIOR DESIGNED FOR FAST WORK

The Reo Motor Car Co. held a special display of a new commercial model, the Speed Wagon Junior, at the Chicago Retail Delivery show in the Sherman Hotel.

The new Speed Wagon has been designed to meet today's merchandising problems and traffic conditions. The truck is built, not merely for speed on the straight-away, but for speed throughout a delivery route. It is long enough to provide ample load capacity, but short enough to handle quickly in congestion.

"The trim appearance of the Speed Wagon Junior is important in its effect on the drivers," according to W. C. Parker, manager of the Speed wagon division of the Reo Motor Car Co. "A driver can't be expected to elevate his personal appearance above that of the truck he drives. But the driver is the last point of contact between merchant and customers."

REO TO ANNOUNCE ANOTHER QUALITY CAR

New Line, Priced Around $1200, to Be Companion to "Flying Cloud."

Reports that the Reo Motor Car Co. is soon to announce another new quality car, somewhat smaller and lower priced than the Reo "Flying Cloud" models, have been verified.

May 7 has been set as the date for announcing the new car. It is said that the car will have a six-cylinder, 7-bearing crankshaft motor of ample size and power, with bore of 3¼ inches, developing 50 horse power.

Neither in size nor in price is the new car designed to compete in the small, low-priced field. On the contrary, it is said, it will be priced approximately at $1200, and, while shorter and smaller than the Flying Cloud, will be longer than most cars now selling in the $1200 class.

Officials of the Reo Co. say it will in every way be a fit companion to the Reo "Flying Cloud."

FORD BUYS BACK BUILDING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 30. — The Ford Motor Co. has repurchased a building which it erected several years ago in Long Island City, N. Y., for use as Eastern assembly plant and in 1920 sold to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. when the Ford factory at Kearney, N. J., was built. Shortly thereafter the Goodyear company sold to Durant who used it for Eastern operations.

The Durant Building as it has been known, has 500,000 square feet of floor space.

FRITZ NOW MOON DEALER

Carl Fritz.

C. W. Burst, manager of Moon Motor Sales, Inc., the new wholesale organization handling Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois for the Moon Motor Car Co., announces appointment of Carl Fritz, former branch manager of the old Moon City Sales Co., as a local retail dealer in Moon and Diana cars.

Fritz will operate his retail store at 3114 Washington boulevard on the same direct factory contract as the other dealers in the city and territory, with Igou Motor Company, 2918 N. Grand boulevard, Knight Motor Co., 1645 S. Grand boulevard, Geo. C. Porter Motor Corporation 901 Bellevue avenue, Richmond Heights, and St. Clair Motor Sales Co., 510 Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, Illinois.

St. Louis and its suburbs are thoroughly covered by Moon representation with an adequate force of neighborhood dealers and service. The Moon factory service station at 3114 Washington will operate as a co-operative organization to supplment the regular service of these Moon dealers and assist in other essentials as well as in resale of Moon and Diana cars.

"Free Oil" Costly.

Believing they were getting something for nothing, motorists at Nunda, N. Y., helped themselves to spilled oil when a railroad wreck occurred, overturning several tank cars. Much of the oil was promptly transferred to crankcases of automobiles. The oil, however, was in a new state, and the natural paraffin in many cases "set" the pistons.

The standard sedan averaged 44 miles per hour for the dis nce, covering 1642.58 miles in 24 hours.

The Stutz with Weymann body eraged 67.17 m. p. h., making a al of 1612.23 miles.

A third Stutz—a sports model th a so-called "Black Hawk" dy and a special gear ratio of to 1 ran as a special. It av ged 71.35 m. p. h., covering 2.45 miles. For 1000 miles the ck Hawk" Stutz averaged 72.44 p. h. It averaged 79.6 miles hour for 100 miles and 81.50 p. h. for 50 miles.

Facts on Gear Ratios Used.

The run was made as the first the trophy recently offered by muel B. Stevens of Rome, N. Y., the fastest 24-hour run by a ck car on the Indianapolis eedway, which has a roughish ck surface, 4 rather sharp turns, d comes nearer to simulating d conditions than any other ing course in this country.

Stevens' deed of gift permits a mpeting car to use any gear ra , or an auxiliary gasoline sys m. Otherwise cars competing st be stock in every way and st carry all parts and equipment at are standard.

The Stutz cars did not use aux ary gasoline systems. They used dinary exhaust mufflers.

s to gear ratios, the Stutz Mo r Car Co. made the following atement to a representative of he Post-Dispatch: "The gear atio of real stock Stutz eight osed cars is as follows: With eyman body, from 4 to 1 to 4½ 1; Stutz standard sedans, from to 5 to 5¼ to 1. The customer y have any of these, so they are standard. Stutz used nothing the competing cars that cannot bought on any stock car on any les floor. The 'Black Hawk' has no fenders, no wind ield, no top."

The Stutz 5-passenger sedan had gear ratio of 4¼ to 1. The Stutz eymann body had a gear ratio 4 to 1. The gear ratio of the "Black Hawk" Stutz, as has been ated, was 3¾ to 1.

These gear ratios were certified, d accepted as standard, by the merican Automobile Association presentatives who supervised, med and checked the cars and e run. They are reasonable gear tios. Cars with them are sold gularly in St. Louis.

Other Cars to Try to Beat Stutz.

Charles Merz, who began driv g in 24-hour races in 1909 and as one of the first to handle a cing Stutz, and John Jenkins ve the standard Stutz sedan. e Weymann body Stutz was iven by Bruce Keen and Harold sher.

The "Black Hawk" Stutz was iven in turn by three veteran cing drivers—"Tom" Rooney, "Gil" Anderson and L. L. Corum.

The Stevens trophy is a perpetual allenge cup, and may be taken om the Stutz Co. any time another anufacturer can make a stock r average better than 68.44 m. p. for 24 hours on the Indianapolis ack.

It was indicated at the speedway llowing completion of the 24-hour n that other manufacturers were eparing to try to beat the Stutz cord.

A special dispatch to the Post-Dispatch said that it was understood that Stevens would make anges in the provision in his tro y deed of gift whereby any gear tio may be used in the 24-hour ock car run. Otherwise a car ng as high as a 2-to-1 gear ratio ght be entered to beat the record the Stutz made with a ratio of to 1. It also is understood that provision that auxiliary gaso e systems may be used will be anged, as the Stutz cars did not ke advantage of this clause.

Story of the Stutz Cars' Run.

Following is the story of the 24- ur run as told by the Indianapo News:

"Running the gamut of weather nditions from balmy spring on own through chilling winter rains, riving, stinging snow pellets and bnormal temperature conditions, o stock Stutz sedans gave a -hour demonstration of stock car eed and stamina at the Indianap Motor Speedway Thursday and iday that is likely to stand as a cord for some time to come.

"One of the cars—a standard e-passenger sedan—averaged .44 miles an hour throughout the monstration. The other—a Wey nn five-passenger sedan—aver d 67.176 miles an hour. To make s average speed, these cars were ven at times as high as 80 miles hour.

"Thursday afternoon, when the n was started, there was a black ll over the sky that presaged a rm. In spite of the threatening ditions, F. E. Muskovics, presi of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of erica, Inc., decided not to post ne the start, even though the weather bureau had informed him that he could expect rain until the next morning.

Never Mind the Weather.

"Our car owners don't wait for fair weather when they drive their cars, and while demonstrations of this sort are usually made under the most favorable conditions, I think we had better just carry on, Muskovics said. Accordingly, Val Haresnape, secretary of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, under whose auspices the demonstration was held, gave the word to get under way.

"In addition to the two stock sedans a third Stutz car, a Black Hawk, sports car, which is a chassis with a two-seater open body and without fenders, was also run for a 24-hour speedway record, though under the rules of the A. A. A. it did not come under the stock car classification.

"The value of the Stutz demonstration to the automobile industry and the public lies in the fact that the cars used carried the same equipment carried by stock cars that are bought from the salesroom floor.

"No fenders were removed to give the cars from five to six miles an hour greater speed. No devices were put on the engine to speed it up. No special gasoline feed was used to force the gasoline into the motor. No extra gasoline tanks were aboard to lessen the number of stops for fuel. The cars did not use racing hubs to change wheels more quickly. Nor did they use specially prepared tires to make them wear longer. A strict adherence to stock car specifications was the thing that makes the demonstration interesting and instructive.

"The gasoline used was not a hopped up preparation, but gasoline obtained direct from the tank wagons of the Standard Oil Co.

"Oil used in the motors was the same oil used in regular stock cars, and was not a special racing oil.

"Not content to pour rain down, the weather man varied the program with gusts of flintlike snow pelets. The drivers of the sedans were protected from the atmospheric onslaughts, but it was impossible to see through the rain and snow and the speed was reduced materially. There was no protection for the Black Hawk drivers, however, who sat out in the open and took snow and rain full in the face.

"Wrapped in slickers, Rooney and Andersen and Corum braved the gale. Goggles steamed on the inside so that it was necessary to drive 70 to 80 miles an hour with no protection for the eyes. When the rain slackened the drivers increased their speed, when it beat down they dropped the speed somewhat."

HUDSON GASOLINE ECONOMY PROVED BY IMPARTIAL TEST

Extra Power that levels hills with ease

Proven Tests
in St. Louis
Last Week

Hudson's gasoline economy, road speed and hill-climbing power were proved in tests made in and around St. Louis April 23, 24 and 26. A stock Hudson coach ran 100 miles without stopping or gear changing in exactly 92 minutes with a non-professional driver at the wheel. It averaged a mile every 53 seconds. The last three miles were run in 45, 46 and 47 seconds. A mile was timed at 79 miles per hour.

The Hudson averaged 19.6 miles per gallon of gasoline for 104.3 miles on concrete and gravel roads.

Notorious Tucker Hill, at Gray's Summit, was made by the Hudson in high gear from a standing start.

The Hudson used in these tests was a standard stock model. It had stock 4 5-11 to 1 gear ratio, and carried bumpers, trunk on rear, spare tire, tools, tire chains—in fact, everything sold with a standard Hudson.

NO WONDER EVERYONE CALLS IT THE "WORLD'S GREATEST VALUE"

The same gesture of ease for the lightest task or the hardest is the distinctive mark of Hudson performance.

Its source is sheer extra power delivered with the same silent certainty and silky smoothness, from a force that would move a knitting needle to the full flood that soars easily up the steepest hills.

And this extra range and activity of power, as everyone knows, are advantages exclusive to the patented Super-Six principle.

With it you get a chassis, engineered to provide safety, continuously and economically, for the speed, power and stamina of the motor.

69 HAMMERS IN NEW $1,250,000 FORGE SHOP

Willys-Overland Plant Has Some That Strike 12,000-Pound Blow.

The new forge and heat treat department at the Willys-Overland plant in Toledo, O., recently completed at a cost of more than $1,250,000 will increase production 100 per cent, company officials declare. This department is now equipped to turn out all the forgings necessary for a car. It has a capacity of finished parts for 1500 cars daily. Formerly the forge shop capacity was parts for only 800 cars per day.

12,000-Pound Hammers.

The new forge shop has 69 hammers ranging in size from 1000 to 12,000 pounds each in falling weight. Formerly much of the heavy forge work was done elsewhere.

The concrete foundations for the large hammers are 22 feet long, 18 feet wide and 10 feet thick, the bottom of the foundation being 18 feet below the surface of the floor. On the concrete is laid a mat of 16-inch by 16-inch timbers bolted together in three layers, forming a wood cushion between the base of the anvil and the concrete base. This pad acts as a cushion as the hammer strikes.

Modern Heat Treatment.

To fire the boilers in the forge shop requires 15 tons of coal each hour, for when the forge shop is running at capacity it requires 4000 to 6000 boiler horsepower.

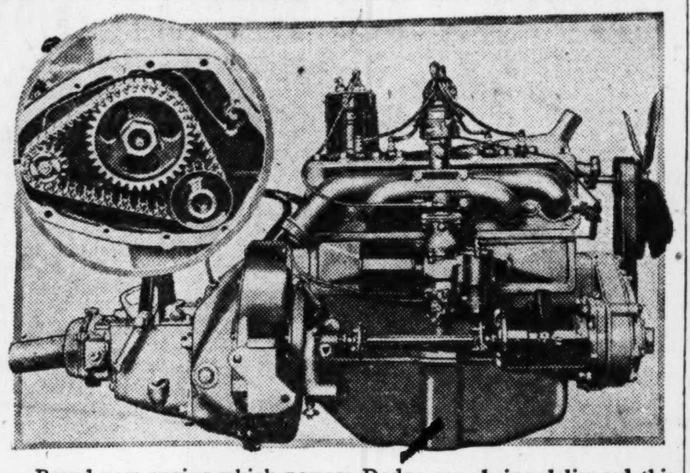
About 75 per cent of the entire factory is heated from the exhaust steam coming from the hammers in the forge department. This reuse of the steam effects a saving of thousands annually in fuel bills.

The old forge shop had 50,000 square feet of floor space as compared with the 125,000 square feet in the new department. Also there are thousands of square feet of space in the basement for storage.

The heat treat department is one of the most modern in the industry. As parts are forged they are passed on to expert handlers for the heat treatment which gives the parts the proper temper and hardness. Then, by conveyor, the parts are carried to the new pickling department which can handle 96,000 pounds of steel per day.

From morning to nightfall, even far into the night, the thud of the hammers may be heard in all parts of the forge shop.

Brand New Engine in Dodge Cars



Brand new engine which powers Dodge cars being delivered this week. It has revolutionized the performance of Dodge cars.

Insert in upper left corner: Timing gear chain which replaces timing gears.

New Engine Gives Dodge Cars Far More Power

Performance of Dodge Revolutionized, Test Run Shows—Gear Shift Is Standard in Cars Now Being Delivered.

By "SPENCE."

A new, more powerful and far more smoothly running engine has been put into production by Dodge Bros., and cars powered with it are now being delivered in St. Louis.

This new motor has a Ricardo head, which is a notable improvement; chain instead of timing gears, and carburetor on the right-hand side. Balance of moving parts has been further perfected. Bore and stroke remain 3⅞ by 4½ inches, and the five-bearing crankshaft which was introduced not long ago has been retained.

Standard Gear Shift Now.

Another important change gives the new Dodge cars the standard gear shift. Shifting gears on a new Dodge is just like shifting on any other car. The lever works easily and smoothly; it really can be worked with one finger and it is possible to shift from high to second when running at 30 miles per hour, a stunt, however, that is not to be recommended, as it entails a serious strain on engine, clutch, gears and transmission.

The instrument board on the new Dodges has been rearranged. A new type of speedometer is standard. The choke is now on the right side of the dash. A new keyhole ignition switch has been provided. The control of headlights and other lights is now on the steering column, convenient to the hand. The coil is right under the instrument board, instead of on the engine.

Wholly New in Performance.

The performance and operation of the Dodge car have been revolutionized by this new engine. This was proved in a test run Saturday by B. R. Ford, general manager of the Tate Motor Co., Inc., and the writer.

The Dodge got away in traffic and passed other cars on the road with a "pep" and sure power of acceleration that one is wont to associate with the "big car" class. It no longer was a case of stepping on it and waiting for the Dodge to gather speed. Instead, the car was up and away from there the instant the throttle was pressed down. At all speeds from 5 to 25, 30, 35, 40 and 45 miles per hour, the new Dodge ran smoothly and quietly.

In other words, at all speeds the Dodge was a wholly new car. It handled with an ease to make it an excellent city car. It ran so smoothly that it would be well nigh impossible for anyone to dispute an assertion that a 6-cylinder engine had been installed in it, unless he lifted the hood.

Further, the car swept up and over hills on a number of the county roads in real big car style. On one hill that the writer uses to test acceleration on such grades as one will encounter in average paved road touring, the Dodge picked up steadily from 25 miles per hour until it was running 43 as it went over the top.

Numerous improvements have been made in the engine chassis and appearance of the Dodge car in the past year and a half; only recently the engine was improved by installation of a 5-bearing crankshaft. But the new engine that powers cars delivered within the past few days has done more for the Dodge performance than all the oher improvements put together.

Sailing in a Flying Cloud

You "sail" in a Flying Cloud, whether you're drifting along at a sight-seeing pace, or hurtling home in the grip of a storm. No other word but "sailing" so describes the comfortable, sporty travel in store for those who ride in the finest, fastest model of America's longest lasting car—the Reo Flying Cloud.

In it, both power and speed, both daintiness of design and ruggedness of construction have finally been combined. And whether you're at her helm or just lying back, watching the miles go by, you'll feel a new ease that even the roughest road can't disturb.

Hudson Coach Runs 100 Miles in 92 Minutes

The 98th Mile made in 45 Seconds—Car Also Averages 19.6 Miles to the Gallon in 104-Mile Economy Test.

In three tests made the past week a Hudson Super Six coach, with stock gear ratio and standard equipment, including spare tire, performed as follows:

Ran 100 miles in 92 minutes without once stopping, the last three miles being driven in 45 seconds, 46 second and 47 seconds, respectively.

Averaged 19.6 miles per gallon throughout a 104-mile gasoline economy test.

Climbed the mile-long Tucker Hill, at Gray's Summit, in high gear from a standing start.

Each of these tests was carefully observed, timed and checked by a representative of the Post-Dispatch automobile section. The car was driven by an executive of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., distributor of Hudson and Essex cars.

Carried Full Equipment.

To determine just what the Hudson can do in the hands of a non-professional driver, it was decided to hold it at speed for exactly 100 miles, and that the driver at no time should touch the clutch or stop.

The 100 miles was made without a stop in just 92 minutes. The average was a mile every 53 seconds. The ninety-eighth mile was driven at 79 miles per hour. The 100th mile was run at 76 miles per hour.

The Hudson coach used in this and the other tests was the same car—a regular stock model sold in St. Louis. It had the stock gear ratio of 4 5-11 to 1, the stock bore of 3½ inches and stroke of 5 inches, and piston displacement of 288 cubic inches. It carried bumpers, spare tire, trunk on rear, full set of tools, bag of tire chains—in fact, everything sold with a stock Hudson coach.

The speed run was made to prove the assertion that in one of the new Hudson cars an owner-driver may hold his own anywhere against any car, and can drive as fast as he pleases as long as he wants to.

Gasoline Test.

The gasoline consumption test was made on Federal Highway No. 66—the St. Louis-Springfield route—between St. Louis and Onondaga Cave at Leasburg, Mo. The speedometer reading for this trip was 104.3 miles, of which approximately 60 miles was concrete and the balance only fair gravel.

While 19.6 miles per gallon was the average for the entire run, mileage above 20 miles per gallon was averaged on several stretches of slab. But, surprisingly, at no time on the run, even over the gravel stretches, was less than 18.5 miles per gallon obtained. Hills on the route, of course, were an advantage to the pilot, and the car was allowed to coast on the steep grades. But an average speed of 35 miles per hour was maintained, and an accurate measuring of gasoline consumption was made each hour of the run.

At the beginning of the run the tank was filled until it ran over, the same thing was done at the end of the test. Precautions were made to see that every bit of gasoline possible was got into the tank.

All gasoline put in the tank was carefully measured. A stop was made at the end of each hour to replenish the supply. Knowing that the maximum capacity of the tank was 18 gallons, the filling station attendent would be instructed to refill the tank to capacity. The mileage per gallon was then averaged by the amount of gasoline put into the tank, and checked as to total consumption at the end of the run.

Hill Climbing Test.

In the hill-climbing test the Hudson coach was made to take the notorious Tucker Hill at Gray Summit. The start was made from a standstill at the point where the new right-of-way of Federal Highway No. 66 will intersect the present road north out of Gray Summit.

After being shunted to high gear, the Hudson was doing 25 miles per hour. For the first quarter-mile this speed varied to 24 miles per hour, the second quarter-mile to 22 miles per hour, and the car rolled over the top of the hill at 17 miles per hour.

AMERICAN CARS DOMINATE AUTO SHOW IN GERMANY

Form Nearly 90 Per Cent of Exhibits—Win Favor by Dependability.

American cars dominated the automobile show at the Leipzig Fair in Germany this year, forming almost 90 per cent of all exhibits.

The exhibits demonstrated that American automobiles are well established throughout Germany, and more than hold their own in competition with foreign makes. Each year finds an increasing number of American manufacturers represented at the fair.

The cheapest car sold in Germany is a one-cylinder model priced at a little over $500. The native-built Opel car brings $800. Among foreign-built low priced cars the Ford readily leads in popularity, and is everywhere in evidence. Because of the high tariff Ford runabouts and commercial cars sell for about $1000.

German manufacturers are hard at work on problems of quantity production, but as yet cannot compete in this respect with the American producer. Few German-built cars are exported at present.

American cars have won widespread popularity in Germany because of their good appearance, but chiefly on dependability. New parts for American cars can be readily obtained at reasonable prices troughout Germany. American cars are considered easy to run.

FRANKLIN ENGINEER WINS CLEAR VISION FRONT PATENT

Right of proprietorship in the principle of automobile closed-body construction known as the "clear vision" front, has been awarded William H. Emond, body engineer of the Franklin Automobile Co., by a basic patent recently granted.

The Emond idea has to do with corner elements that have a transverse sectional dimension smaller than the normal distance between the pupils of the eyes. Corner groups of this kind obscure no part of a driver's view because the line of vision of each eye focuses around the corner instead of being stopped by it.

A Message of Importance to all MOON and DIANA Owners

BEGINNING today the Moon Motor Car Co. inaugurates a new sales and service policy for the benefit of Moon owners in St. Louis and the surrounding territory.

Moon Motor Sales, Inc., assumes the wholesale distribution of Moon 6-60, "A" and Diana "8" in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. It will continue the present establishment at 3114 Washington Avenue with greatly improved facilities.

C. W. Burst, the works manager of the Moon plant, will be the general manager of this new organization, assisted by A. H. Rederer, district manager of Moon for Southern Illinois.

The new personnel and policy insure the closer supervision and coordination of the Moon factory in the interests of Moon owners and dealers. Service will be rendered by factory trained mechanics who have learned the design and construction of Moon cars at first hand; thereby insuring skilled workmanship of a high order.

We feel this is due the 5000 satisfied Moon-Diana owners in the surrounding territory for the purpose of increasing their enjoyment of Moon ownership. We also want every dealer, particularly the suburban and out-of-town dealers, to feel free to utilize this factory service as a supplement to his own personal equipment.

A full line of the new Moon "Six" and Diana "8" models will be on display at wholesale headquarters and dealers show rooms listed below. We cordially invite every Moon owner and dealer to call on us and to learn at first hand our plans for their better interests in St. Louis territory.

Once again Champion reminds you that to enjoy maximum engine performance during the next twelve months you should install a complete new set of spark plugs now.

Car manufacturers recommend and hundreds of thousands of motorists are changing spark plugs every year to insure better and more economical car operation.

This is true, even of Champions, in spite of their world-wide reputation for remarkable long life.

If you have used your spark plugs more than 10,000 miles, a new set of dependable Champions will restore power and speed and save their cost many times in less gas and oil used.

PACIFIC COAST LONG DISTANCE CAR RECORDS

Chandler, With 3 to 1 Gear Ratio but Stock Otherwise, Did 86 M. P. H. for 1000 Miles.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—Following are the facts as to long-distance stock-car records made on Pacific Coast tracks:

Sept. 24, 1924, a stock Chrysler car was the first to compete for the trophy offered by the Los Angeles Times for the fastest 1000 miles by a stock automobile on a speedway. Cars competing for this trophy are permitted to run without top or upper half of windshield, and with wire wheels. Otherwise they must be standard, including gear ratio.

The Chrysler averaged 59.52 miles per hour. But accounts caused delays of 33 and 49 minutes which were counted against the car. Up to the first accident, Ralph de Palma drove the Chrysler 500 miles at an average of 66.11 m. p. h. He drove the last 100 miles at an average of 70 m. p. h. and made a lap in 49.2 seconds.

Dec. 21, 1924, competing for the Los Angeles Times trophy, a stock Cleveland touring car averaged 61.31 miles per hour for 100 miles. Ralph Mulford, the driver, was forced by police to rest for two hours during the run, and this time was counted against car, so the car ran only 22 hours, but its average was figured as if it ran 24 hours.

Feb. 1, 1925, Ralph Mulford drove a Cleveland six, fitted with a special 3¼ to 1 gear ratio, 1000 miles at an average of 80.6 miles per hour.

Feb. 15, 1925, Mulford drove a Chandler six, which had been fitted with a 3 to 1 gear ratio, 1000 miles at an average of 86.96 miles per hour. This run was made on the Culver City speedway. Harry Miller, noted racing-car builder, tore the car down and certified that it was stock, except for the gear ratio.

This month, an Auburn eight competed for the Los Angeles Times trophy. American Automobile Association officials observed, timed and checked the run, and certified that the Auburn averaged 68.37 miles per hour for the 1000 miles and was stock in every way.

Then the Studebaker Commander, running under A. A. A. sanction and supervision as a strictly stock car, averaged 62.12 miles per hour for 5000 miles on the Culver City track. The Studebaker made 2975 miles in 48 hours, averaging 61.98 m. p. h.; 3102.5 miles in 50 hours; 4414 miles in 72 hours, averaging 61.30 m. p. h. The Studebaker's average for 2500 miles was 62.16 m. p. h., and for 3500 miles for 61.62 m. p. h.

NEW DODGE SIX STARTLES ST. LOUISAN BY PERFORMANCE

Tate Co. Manager Drives It on Factory Track—Hopes to Show One by May 10.

B. R. Ford, general manager of the Tate Motor Co., Inc., while at the Dodge factory recently drove one of the new Dodge six-cylinder cars, which are to be introduced soon as a companion to the Dodge four.

"I got the thrill of my life out of it," said Ford. "I was out in a chassis with a board seat with board back. The track is a mile long, with turns so sharp I had to slow down to 25 miles per hour or so to make them, though the factory men take them at 45. I tell you my back was actually sore when I got out—from bumping the seat back when I stepped on it as we came out of the turns. The car has speed to burn, and if there is a smoother-running engine in any car, I never saw it.

Ford said he saw several hundred chassis of the new model waiting for bodies. The factory plans to begin shipping the new six to dealers, for showroom purposes, on May 4. The car probably will reach St. Louis by May 10, and deliveries here should be under way by June 1.

Production of the new Dodge four is reported around the 750-a-day level. The factory expects to be making 300 of the new sixes a day soon after May 4.

How to pay for the highway building programs which are planned all over the world is to be the message of John N. Willys, chairman of the foreign trade committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, in speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce Meeting at Stockholm June 27-July 2.

Other delegates are to be Roy D. Chapin, president of the Automobile Chamber; Windsor T. White, chairman of its motor truck committee, and Alfred Reeves, general manager.

These men also will represent the motor industry of the United States at the Bureau Permanent International des Constructeurs Automobiles in Paris on June 18.

Don't ever bet you can beat a Chandler up a hill

FROM coast to coast people are congratulating Chandler for the charm and magnificence of the new custom body designs, and telling what a grand and glorious experience it is to get the feel of Chandler performance.

Time and time again Chandler reaffirms the invincibility of Chandler power by winning all kinds of hill-climbing contests.

Undefeated Champion of Pikes Peak

Chandler's record time up the craggy slopes of Pikes Peak—the world's loftiest automobile highway—continues to stand unbeaten and unchallenged!

With a motor designed to master this mountain of mountains, you can well understand why Chandler shows such easy mastery over all the hills encountered in everyday driving.

1000 Miles at 86.96 Miles an Hour!

And when it comes to traveling—Chandler holds the record for the fastest 1000 miles ever made on wheels—1000 miles in 689 minutes, a sustained average of 86.96 miles an hour!

This amazing feat of speed and endurance was performed and officially timed on the famous race track at Culver City, Cal.—and without a tire change or a mechanical adjustment!

Magnificent Royal Eights and Sixes

But Chandler's popular place among the finest of America's fine cars is fixed and maintained by many other attributes in addition to this recognized pre-eminence in power.

The outer resplendence and inner magnificence of the new Royal Eight and new Sixes by Chandler well tell the through-and-through quality that makes a Chandler a Chandler!

In the new Royal Eight and new Sixes alike you find the finest conceptions of decorous style expressed in custom body treatment, and the finest ideals of comfort and convenience carried out handsomely in appointments, dimensions and upholstery.

Instantaneous Chassis Lubrication

All the twenty-eight new models possess, in addition to Chandler's great Pikes Peak power principle, the inimitable advantage of "One Shot" centralized chassis lubrication.

The Royal Eight is priced from $2195 to $2295, and the Sixes from $945 to $1895, all prices f. o. b. factory. For years of pride and contentment in one car—buy yourself a Chandler. Come in and go out for a ride.

AGAIN Chrysler leads — this time by the addition of invar steel strut pistons to that long list of engineering and manufacturing achievements which has set the pace for the entire industry.

Like 7-bearing crankshaft, oil filter, air cleaner, no-side-sway springs, smaller wheels, 4-wheel hydraulic brakes, and countless other refinements which Chrysler pioneered, developed or perfected, this newest engineering advance — introduced more than a year ago in the Imperial "80"—is now included in all Chrysler six-cylinder cars.

Invar steel has been used for years in the manufacture of scientific instruments, in balance wheels of watches, pendulums of accurate clocks and in thermostatic metals and survey tapes, where extreme accuracy is required —an accuracy which varying temperatures cannot affect.

After long effort Chrysler engineers successfully applied an alloy of the invar type to their pistons.

The invar strut piston developed by Chrysler is the only type of piston which combines the advantages of aluminum — light weight and high heat conductivity—with the valuable property of cast iron—low expansion under heat.

Chrysler-developed invar strut pistons can be fitted to one-and-one-half thousandths clearance, as against a clearance of three one-thousandths for pistons of ordinary manufacture. Uniform piston expansion with the cylinder bore minimizes the danger of oil dilution. The pistons being lighter in weight, permit the use of lighter reciprocating parts, giving smoother and quieter operation. Their lightness, too, makes possible greater speed, as great as 300 to 400 revolutions per minute more than pistons of the ordinary type.

Such advantages of smoother and better performance and longer motor life serve only to accentuate still further that manifest superiority which sprang into being with the introduction of the first Chrysler.

Like so many other Chrysler features, it, too, in time will be adopted by others. For never has the far-reaching influence of Chrysler been more obvious than at this time.

Today, as never before, the industry benefits by the advanced improvements and refinements which Chrysler has been introducing during the past three years.

The public, in ever-increasing numbers, continues to recognize that there has not yet appeared a single car to give the results in performance, comfort, appearance, dependability and long life which only the combination of Chrysler design, the finest of materials and Chrysler craftsmanship has achieved.

No more all-embracing proof of this recognition of Chrysler's leadership can be offered than the irresistible tide of public endorsement which within the past three years has lifted Chrysler from 27th to 4th place in dollar volume of sales.

51 CARS FINISH RUN OF 1000 MILES IN EUROPE

Winner Averages 47.9 M. P. H. Over Course Traversing Mountains in Italy.

European countries still show the way to the United States in road racing, despite the recent record stock runs on the speedways at Culver City, Cal., and Indianapolis.

For example, 78 drivers started in a recent 1000-mile road race in Italy, and 51 of them finished. The best performance was that of an O. M. six-cylinder car which averaged 47.9 miles per hour, finishing the 1000 miles in 21 hours 4 minutes 48 seconds. Other O. M. cars were second and third.

The O. M., by the way, is the car which ran 9268 miles in 144 consecutive hours for a world's endurance record so far ahead of anything else that there is no comparison.

The course began at Brescia and traversed the Venetian plains and the Appenine mountains. It passed through numerous villages and cities, had many bad stretches, grades and curves in the mountains. To average 47 miles per hour over it was a very fine feat.

An Isotta-Fraschini straight eight averaged 45.9 miles per hour.

One of the little eight horsepower Fiats averaged 41 miles per hour for the 1000 miles.

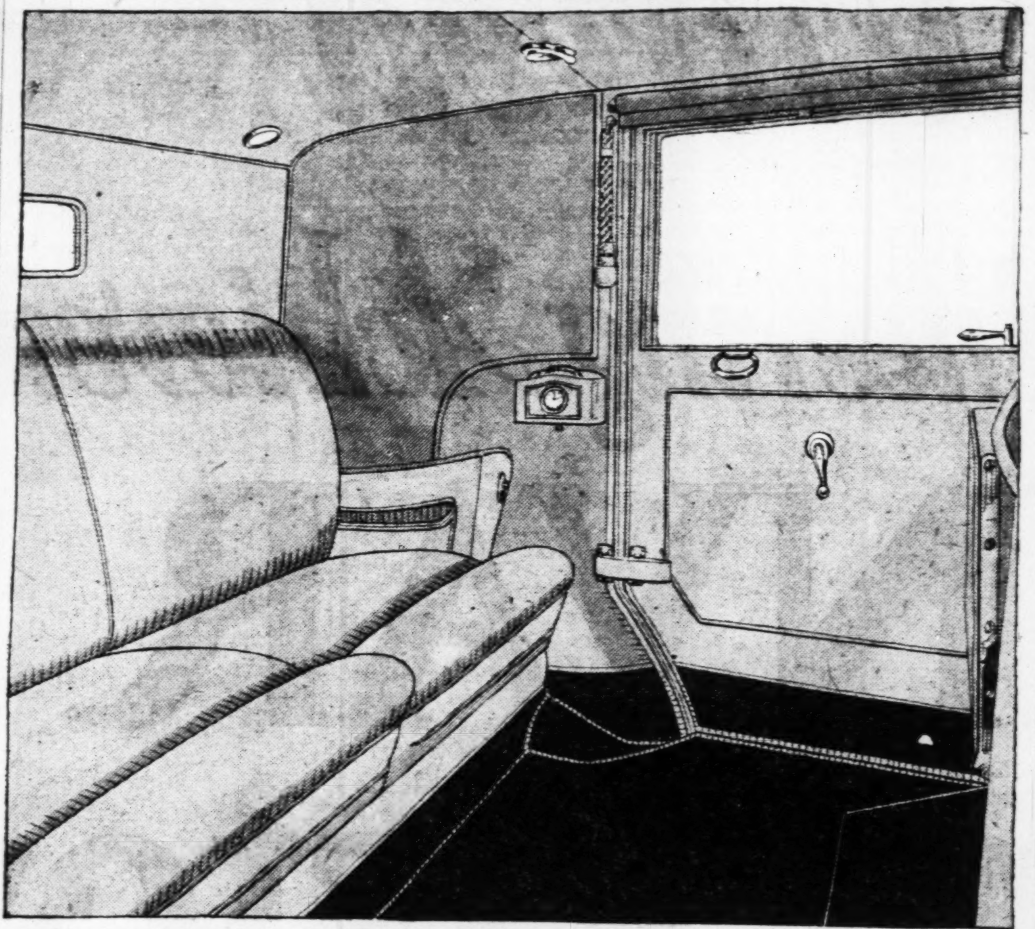
AUTO ACCESSORY AND RADIO FIRM OPENS NINTH STORE

The Star Square Auto Supply Company, which has grown to its present large size in only six years, has just opened its ninth store. The new store is at Virginia and Meramec avenues.

The firm's stores, including headquarters at 1129 Locust boulevard, carry automobile accessories, radio receivers, radio and electrical accessories and supplies. A feature of their radio departments is free installation of receivers and 30 days free service. The radio and electrical departments are attractively decorated.

Clarence Besterfeld, is manager of the new store at Virginia and Meramec.

Interior of Dietrich Custom Built Packard Model



Interior of one of the Dietrich designed all-weather cabriolets specially built for Packard chassis. Note the effect of dignified richness wrought through use of materials and lines that are almost severe in their simplicity. Ornamentation is restrained and therefore the more effective.

PAIGE 8 SAID TO GO FROM 5 TO 25 M. P. H. IN 5.6 SECONDS

The new Paige eight is said to accelerate from five to 25 miles per hour in 5.6 seconds.

In performance the new Paige eight has attracted national attention because of its smooth and efficient four-speed transmission," says the factory. In its laboratory test, the car traveled a mile in 47.2 seconds as easily as the ordinary car at 35 to 45 miles per hour. Paige engineers claim saving in gasoline of 30 per cent at high speed.

The high speed drive is direct, and in third speed the drive is through two pairs of internal gears, instead of through two pairs of external gears as in standard practice. Both third and fourth speed drives in the new transmission are obtained without using the countershaft. A high-gear rear axle is used, the ratio being 3.69 to 1, instead of the usual 4.5 or 5 to 1.

Third gear is actually a high-sped drive, the new gear arrangement making it available for long distance at high speed in third, where grades require it.

The gear-within-a-gear construction makes for silence in operation. The outer gear has only five more teeth than the inner gear, so the teeth are in mesh over a large part of their circumference. The efficiency of the gears is 98 per cent, only slightly less than in direct drive.

In fourth gear, direct drive, the high rear-axle ratio gives high car speeds at comparatively low engine speeds, thus saving gasoline and wear and tear on the engine.

Motorists Prefer Champion Plugs.

Surveys indicate that 63.5 per cent of all spark plugs used in America are Champions.

CHEVROLET OUTPUT HERE 1100 CARS DAILY

Increased Production at All of Company's Plants During April Is Reported.

Production has been increased at all Chevrolet plants in the United States in April. Partly, this increase was caused by addition of the new Imperial landau to the Chevrolet line.

At the St. Louis Chevrolet plant, daily production was increased to 1100 cars as against 1025 cars daily in March, according to O. E. Nunn, city sales manager.

This increase is not entirely due to Imperial landau production, as in April an average of about 20 landaus were produced daily. There was an increase in production of other Chevrolet models.

Imperial landau production will be increased to about 35 daily in May, and daily production of other models also will be increased considerably in May, according to Nunn.

Change Spark Plugs Each 10,000 Miles.

If you haven't changed spark plugs in the last 10,000 miles your car has been operated you will enjoy much better engine performance during the coming months if you install a complete new set now.

SPARK PLUGS FIRE 1500 TIMES EVERY RUNNING MILE

The reasons why it is economy to change spark plugs every 10,000 miles are easily understood when the part they play in general motor car operating efficiency is explained, says the Champion Spark Plug Co.

"Each spark plug in a motor car fires its charge about 1500 times for every mile the car runs, regardless of whether it has four, six or eight cylinders. To give efficient engine performance, each plug should furnish the strongest possible spark at the proper thousandth of a second. Throughout a driving season each plug is asked to continue this perfectly timed firing.

No automotive product has yet been produced which does not deteriorate to a certain extent in service. No matter how well designed or manufactured they may be, spark plugs are susceptible to deterioration the same as anything else. In 10,000 miles of driving each spark plug in a motor car fires 15,000,000 times. That means 60,000,000 electrical impulses go through the plugs in a four-cylinder car during 10,000 miles; 90,000,000 in a six, and 120,000,000 in an eight. Because not 1 per cent of the motor cars driven in this country are constantly kept in the best possible condition, the spark plugs' work is made harder.

"Naturally, the spark plug manufacturer is suspected of a selfish motive when he recommends the change of spark plugs every 10,000 miles. But no successful manufacturer of any commodity ever continued to prosper whose purpose was purely selfish. Four years ago, when the Champion Spark Plug Co. began recommending that spark plugs be changed every 10,000 miles, it did so because it had determined, by more than 2000 laboratory tests and many road tests, that the automobile owner would actually save himself money by so doing.

"The man who changes spark plugs every 10,000 miles more than the cost of plugs in oil and gasoline will also receive from better performance than not changed them."

An Answer to Thousands of Questions

THE announcement of a new lower priced car with a Knight engine has brought many inquiries from car owners who are familiar with this famous engine used for years in the finer cars of Europe and America. That such high quality could be produced in a six-cylinder car in the lower price range was not thought possible.

The Falcon-Knight car embodies a genuine Knight sleeve-valve engine of standard design and the high quality of manufacture which is expected in this type of power plant.

Those who are riding for the first time in the Falcon-Knight realize the degree to which power, instant acceleration, quietness and smoothness at all speeds—distinctive characteristics of this type of engine—have been developed.

Falcon-Knight cars in closed body types are now on display. We invite early inspection and an opportunity to arrange a demonstration.

WHAT'S NEWEST IN MOTOR CARS AND EQUIPMENT

La Salle Sport Phaeton Displayed

A new La Salle sport phaeton is on display at Olive Cadillac Co., Cadillac-La Salle distributor. The delivered price of this latest addition to the new La Salle line is $2675.

The body of the phaeton is light green; the hood, dark green, and the running gear, black. Louvres are stripped in white. Upholstery is light green leather to match the body shade.

A 2-inch ivory belt is carried around the top of the entire body, and contrasts pleasantly with the light and dark green body and hood shades.

The top is gray mohair.

Wooden wheels are standard, and are done in dark green, the spokes being striped with white.

Moon Royal Line Has Many Refinements

In the new Royal line just introduced by Moon to celebrate its 21st anniversary as a manufacturer, the cars are lacquered all over with a contrasting of moulding and a neutral-colored stripe through the moulding to accentuate the length and lowness of the car's appearance.

Even the lower-priced of Moon cars carry up-to-date refinements and conveniences that are found usually only in the higher priced lines. For instance, motors have air cleaners, crank case ventilators, oil filters, thermostatic control.

The lighting switch is mounted at one's finger tips on the wheel. All the dash instruments are centered under one glass oval. Cars have one-piece ventilating windshield and automatic windshield wiper.

The upholstery is of selected material of high quality and of the new plain-pillow type on certain models. In every item and refinement and finish, Moon and Diana cars reflect the modern spirit.

New Cadillac Sport Roadster Here

A new Cadillac sport roadster with rumble seat and wire wheels is on display at the Oliver Cadillac Co., Cadillac-La Salle distributor. The delivered price is $3975, fully equipped.

The new sport roadster has a body done in aluminum Duco, with hood top and rear deck in black. The running gear likewise is black. Upholstery is black leather.

A Hobart red block panel is inset into the tops of the doors, and a black panel 2 inches in width is carried around the entire body.

The collapsible top is of tan mohair.

A novel feature is leather arm pads on each side of the rumble well, designed to prevent marring of the rear deck and to provide greater arm comfort.

Rear trunk, bumpers and two spare tires set in fender wells are standard.

New Colors for Two Hudson Models

Two new color combinations on the Hudson Supersix standard five-passenger sedan and standard coach models are being displayed by Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributer. Other color combinations on these models will appear in a few weeks.

The standard sedan has body in Balerio cream, and a Pampas brown top, with the running gear in black.

The window reveals are in Pampas brown, as are the wooden wheels. Spokes and hood louvres are striped with maroon.

The touring trunk on the rear is in Balerio cream.

The delivered price is $1761, which includes Stafford tube bumpers and bumperettes.

The new coach color scheme is Alowley beige and varolia red. The body is beige and the top red, with beige window reveals. Running gear is black, as is the beading.

The coach is $1606 delivered, which includes Stafford bumpers and bumperettes.

New Jordan "Playboy" Here

An addition to the Jordan Line-Eight models is a new "Playboy" now on display at the Archer-Mann Motor Car Co., Jordan distributer.

The Playboy is a roadster with rumble seat, and $1740 is the delivered price.

The Playboy is done in Copenhagen blue. It has a top of black leather and blue wooden wheels. Tan beading with black center line effectively tones up the blue body color.

Upholstery in front seat and rumble compartment is mottled gray leather.

The car carries spare tire and bumpers.

New Chrysler Coupe With Rumble Seat Here

A recent addition to the Chrysler "60" line is a coupe with rumble seat at $1245 list, which is being shown by Midwest Motors, Inc.

The new coupe has a blue body with black running gear. Wheels are in blue and spokes are striped in gold. Hood louvres likewise are striped with gold. Body beading is black and striped with 2 blue lines.

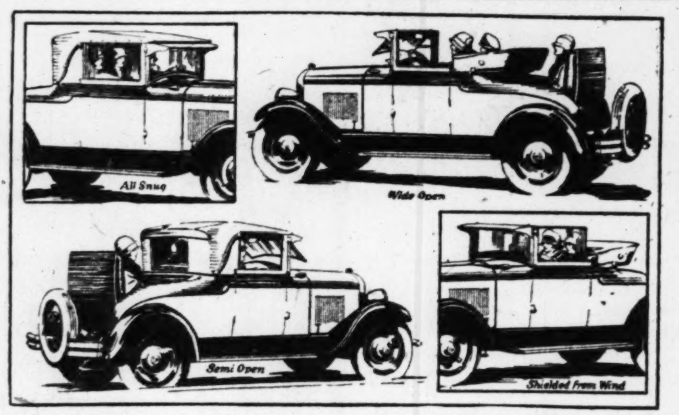
A distinctive feature of the new coupe is the little side windows. Window reveals are black. The older Chrysler models had only a large door window on each side.

The interior upholstery is velour, while the rumble seat upholstery is black Spanish leather.

Breaker strips are placed between all metal parts to prevent rattling.

The new Chrysler has the latest type Cadet sun visor.

Combines 4 Cars for All Seasons



Although the closed car has virtually supplanted the touring model in popular esteem, the new type cabriolet roadster, combining the advantages of both types, has rapidly gained an important place.

The drawings show the adaptability of the cabriolet to all conditions of weather. It can be completely closed as a coupe, or opened wide as a roadster, with other arrangements between these extremes. Modern design permits the owner to effect these changes with little effort and in a very short time.

The model illustrated has a special compartment back of the seat into which the rear curtain and its plate-glass window may be slipped when removed, and is arranged to permit the driver to unlock and raise the rumble seat by turning a handle at his side. The Paige 6-45 model was posed for the illustrations.

Jordan Little "6" Line to Arrive Soon

The first models of the new Jordan little "6" line of custom-built cars are scheduled to arrive next week, according to Archer-Mann Motor Car Co., Jordan distributer. The new line is to include five models. The entire new line will list at $1595.

New Lock on Hup Eights.

Hupmobile engineers have made an exhaustive investigation of theft prevention and as a result Hupp eight-cylinder cars now have a locking device known as electrolock.

Convenience is one of its features, the key being used only to unlock the car, the locking being accomplished simply by a push on the lock button, located on the grouped instrument panel, which stops the motor and automatically locks the car.

This device involves no extra effort by the driver to lock the car. Shutting off the ignition automatically locks the car. The lock is in the distributer circuit and protected in such a way as to render impossible wiring around the switch.

The lock is nationally legal, complying with city ordinances and not violating ordinances in many cities which prohibit locking of cars in such a manner that they cannot be steered and pushed out of the way in case of fire or emergency.

More than 1,000,000 American farmers, with the best radio sets available, are now receiving Government market news service through 95 broadcasting stations in 35 States.

First Falcon-Knight Brougham Arrives Here

The first of the new Falcon-Knight six broughams—a two-dor inclosed model, has reached St. Louis and is being shown by the De Luxe Automobile Co.

The price of this car is below $1000 list and it is a fit companion of the standard four-door sedan, which lists at slightly over $1000.

The brougham has wide doors, affording easy access to front and rear seats. Body structure is very sturdy.

A lively demand for this car is indicated, since it has six-cylinder Knight sleeve-valve motor and is an inclosed model priced below $1000.

In mechanical construction the new Falcon-Knight car has such high-priced car features as seven-bearing crankshaft and full force-feed lubrication.

The brougham is tastily fitted. Windows are wide and deep. The front posts are narrow, to give a clear driving view ahead and to eliminate the blind spot which occurs with wider construction in the posts.

All Falcon-Knight models carry a decorative radiator cap, the decoration taking the form of a Falcon ready for flight.

In addition to this new brougham, the De Luxe Auto Co., is showing the Falcon-Knight sedan, landau and coupe.

An average of 19.2 miles per gallon for a Falcon-Knight six and 19.4 per gallon for another, were made in a drive-away from the factory to St. Louis the past week. One of the cars was driven by Thomas J. King, of the wholesale department of the De Luxe Automobile Co., Falcon-Knight distributer. The two cars are being used as demonstrators.

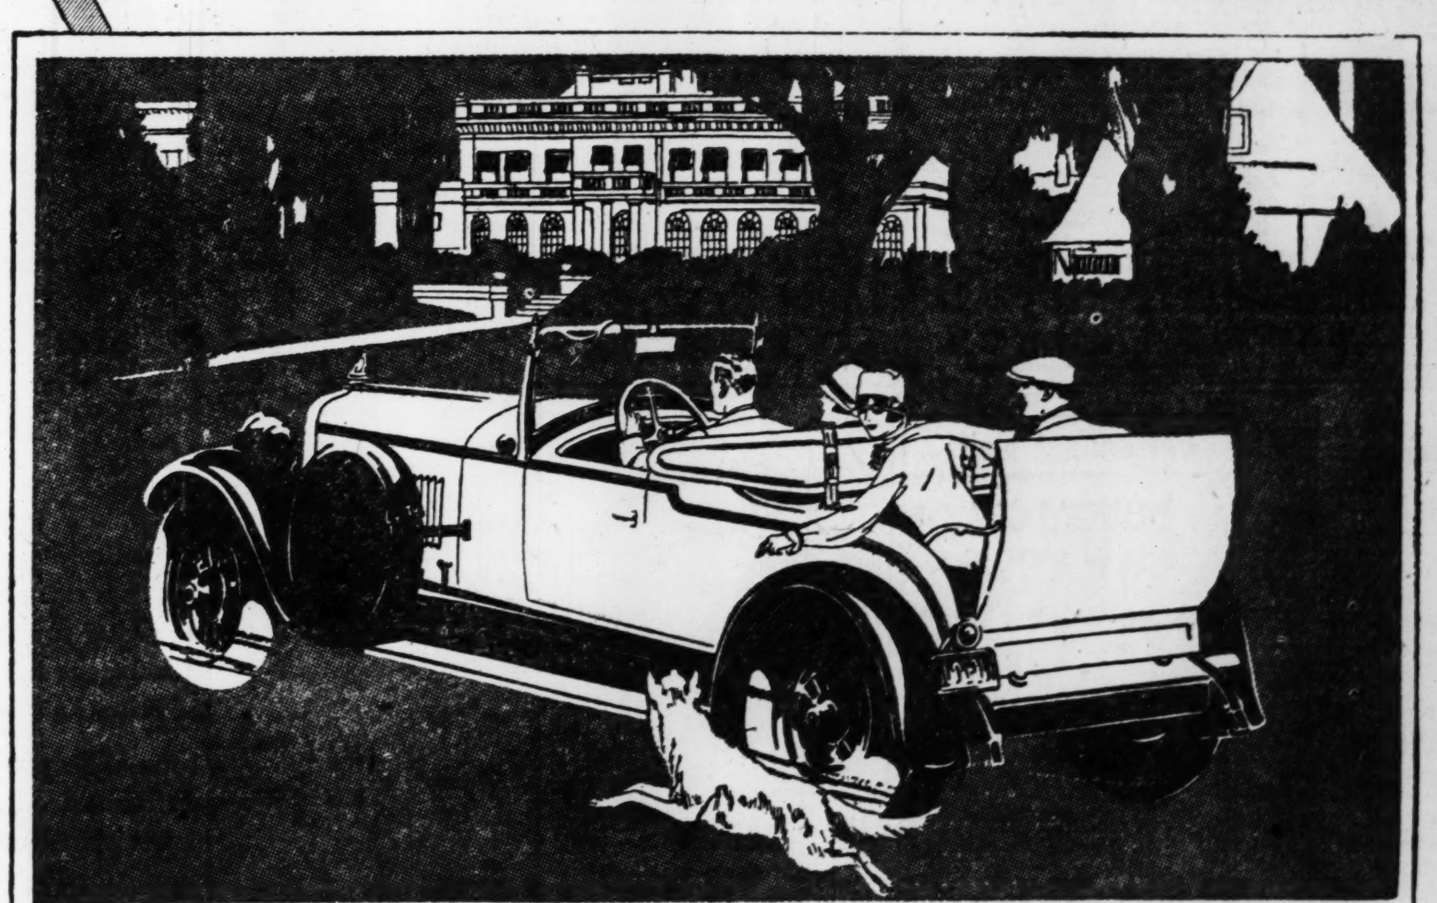
The New and Finer
PONTIAC SIX



Four Passenger Sport Roadster $775

Youthful, Rakish, Colorful-and low priced

Ever since the Pontiac Six flashed into the market, folks have been wondering, "When will Oakland build a sport roadster on the Pontiac Six chassis? How soon will Pontiac Six power, speed, beauty and endurance be offered in a dashing, low-swung two to four passenger type?"

Now . . . here it is! As lithe as a thoroughbred, as happy as a lark, as smart as a debutante just back from Paris.

Lucerne Blue is the prevailing color—Lucerne Blue Duco brightened by striping in Faerie Red. And just as far from the commonplace is everything else about the car—gray shark grain leather upholstery, nickel-plated windshield side arms, a completely removable top of double texture gray—and a swanky, flaring rear deck with a spacious disappearing rumble seat!

You never saw a sport roadster quite like this—quite as alert, as intimate, as refreshing to the eye. And if there's youth in your blood—or youth in your years—you'll be wanting it some day soon—because it's a splendid quality car, through and through—and sells for only $775.

ELECTRIC BRAKE TESTER SAID TO BE SAFETY AID

Machine Makes It Possible to Equalize Brakes Accurately and Easily.

Testing and adjusting of automobile brakes with the electric dynamometer have been proved in two years of use to have definite advantages, according to W. J. Chaudet, head of the General Brake Service Corp., who says his firm decided the old system was unsatisfactory and even unsafe.

"Until recently brakes have been tested for their ability to drag the wheels. Most mechanics are satisfied if they succeed in getting the wheels to drag together. This is called equalizing brakes. It means little, as many other things that determine proper brake action have been overlooked. Brakes that stop the wheels together may not remain so very long, if the co-efficients of friction of both bands are different, due to oil or other reasons," says Chaudet.

Brake bands must have proper clearance. Rods must work freely. A glazed or rough drum will cause trouble.

Too much or too thin oil in rear differential housing will leak out into brake bands and prevent them from functioning as they should. A smooth tread on one wheel and a new nonskid tire on the other give different road traction.

The dynamometer brake-testing machine takes these factors into consideration. With a car elevated and tested where a mechanic can see what the brakes are doing, accurate adjustment can be made.

A car is driven on to the testing machine, each wheel resting on a pair of rollers. These rollers are turned by an electric motor, and the action of the brakes is registered on dials.

Equalization can be easily obtained, as well as ratio between front and rear pairs of brakes without skidding the tires on the pavement."

When Tubes Remain Silent.

In many cases silent tubes are due to imperfect contact between the prongs of the tube and the spring terminals of the socket. This trouble can readily be eliminated by bending the latter up a

2030 TRUCKS VALUED AT $7,500,000 OWNED BY FIRM

A motor truck and bus "census" of the year just published by the White Co. shows the strides being taken in motorizing business and industry. It says:

Eleven hundred and four companies, firms and individuals in the United States, Canada and foreign countries owned 39,857 trucks and busses in fleets of 10 or more Jan. 1, 1927.

Total investment of $150,000,000 in transportation equipment produced by one manufacturer.

One fleet of 2,030 White trucks representing a single owner's investment of $7,500,000.

Seven other owners of fleets numbering from 525 to 1105 White trucks, each, with individual investments of from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000.

Fifty-four owners of White fleets of 100 or more, 146 in the 50 truck class, and 368 owning more than 25 each.

Net gains over the previous year's roll call of 143 White fleet owners and 4,102 units; more fleets added than at any time in 17 years, except 1923; a gain greater than the entire total of owners listed in 1916."

PLANS COAST-TO-COAST RUN IN 1919 STUDEBAKER CAR

R. G. Floro Declares He Will Attempt to Drive From New York to Los Angeles in 80 Hours.

Driving his 1919 Studebaker Special Six, whose speedometer shows 192,296 miles, Robert G. Floro of Los Angeles, was in St. Louis the past week, visiting the Weber Motor Co., Studebaker co-distributer. Floro, who also is known as "Old Broadgage," said he was on his way to New York to make an attempt to drive from coast to coast in the old car in 80 hours. Floro was accompanied by R. G. Carver, also of Los Angeles, who, he said, was to be his relief driver.

Floro has fitted his Studebaker with an extra tank holding 36 gallons of gasoline. With the aid of this, he said, he should be able to make the coast-to-coast run with only nine stops for fuel and oil. To make the run in 80 hours, Floro said, he must average 40 miles per hour all the way.

Floro said the 1919 Studebaker actually had run 194,172, as he broke a speedometer part in a desert run and was unable to have it repaired for 1876 miles.

He claims a number of records with his Studebaker. His best coast-to-coast run, he states, was in July, last, when he says, he made 3447 miles over a New York-Los Angeles route in 87 hours 27 minutes total time. In 1924, he made a speed run from coast to coast via St. Louis, his Studebaker carrying three passengers and a 1000-pound load.

Last April, he says, he drove the Studebaker 1205 miles from the factory at South Bend, Ind., to Jacksonville, Fla., in 48 hours 20 minutes, and 2687 miles from South Bend to Portland, Ore., in 103 hours 3 minutes elapsed time.

A test for a loose wiring joint is to grasp each wire firmly with a pair of pliers and shake it. The crackle will be heard loudest when the wire which contains the poor joint is shaken.

WILDGEN TAKES AUTOMOTIVE POSITION IN SOUTH AMERICA

John F. Wildgen, formerly plant manager for the Chevrolet Motor Co. in St. Louis, has been appointed regional production manager for South America for the General Motors Export Co.

Wildgen said yesterday that he would leave with his family for New York within a few days to sail for Montevideo, Uruguay, where he will have his headquarters. He is to act as production manager of the General Motors plants in Uruguay, Brazil and Argentina.

Wildgen was recently given a diamond ring by employes of the local Chevrolet plant where he had been since 1922.

GARDNER CAR TO MAKE TOUR

A Gardner eight-in-line 90 roadster has been chosen for a special tour between Chicago and Jacksonville, Fla., via Evansville, Ind., in which an attempt will be made to show that the best route from Chicago to the South is through Evansville.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Evansville, are sponsoring the run.

The Gardner is to leave Chicago, Tuesday, May 3, with E. S. Pride driving.

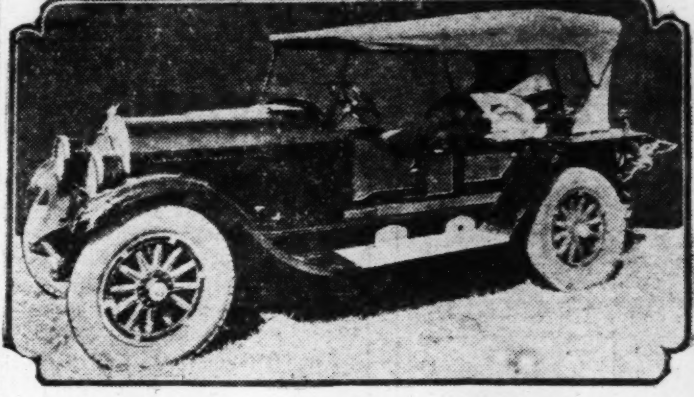
"Real Sport Model" for Texan



"Real sport model" built on a Chrysler "70" chassis for "Dick" Kleberg, foreman of the famous King million-acre ranch in Southwestern Texas.

The chassis was presented to Kleberg by a New York friend and he had the body built to his orders at Corpus Christi, Tex. It is said to be one of the most completely equipped hunting cars designed in this country.

Space is provided for everything necessary for hunter or camper. The seats fold to make a comfortable bed. A cabinet at the rear carries provisions and just back of it is another cabinet for surplus bedding. Cases strapped on the rear fenders carry guns and ammunition.

The King ranch specializes in Chryslers, which have virtually replaced horses for the diversified duties of ranch life.

Leading Public Preference In a Wave of Eight Buying

As predicted months ago, the Hupmobile Eight has not only precipitated a sweeping swing toward eights, but is making its influence felt in the matters of motor car prices and public preference.

Hupmobile proves that the finest eight performance has come down from the higher price ranges—that utmost motoring distinction and quality can be bought for $2500.

By its constantly refined engineering, by new beauties of line and color and by unusually complete equipment—added to its unsurpassed smoothness and ease—Hupmobile Eight continues today to increase its leadership among the eights.

It is supplanting both costlier eights and high-priced sixes, because it provides for the first time the embodiment of eight-cylinder superiorities with sound simplicity and exceptional economy.

A half-hour's ride in the latest series Hupmobile Eight will reveal new qualities of brilliant performance—will convince you that higher expenditure can bring no greater return in luxury motoring.

Fourteen Distinguished Body Types—priced from $1945 to $5795 f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax. Custom Bodies designe dand built by Dietrich.

FORD THAT COST $60 MAKES FAST RUN TO CALIFORNIA

Only 38½ Hours Consumed in Trip From Dodge City to Pasadena.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, April 30.—Driving a 1919 Ford that cost them $60, B. W. Cronne and L. E. Higbee made a fast run between Dodge City, Kan., and Pasadena. They made the trip over roads neither had traveled before, in 38½ hours, according to Crone.

"Our Ford was used previously by a Kansas farmer to haul dirt. We purchased the machine when he thought it was little more than a wreck. We went over it ourselves, built a home-made body for it, tinkered up the motor, and started for California.

"All parts we put in it were standard Ford parts, except the ignition, crankshaft, oil line and three-to-one gear."

Coming down the steep mountain grades, Crone says, the Ford exceeded 65 miles an hour. During this part of the trip the lights went out and the speed was reduced considerably. As soon as possible, repairs were made by setting up the third brush on the generator, and the trip to California resumed.

Crone says that they made the 110-mile run from Needles to Ludlow in two hours and 20 minutes. The mechanic at the Oasis Garage in Ludlow informed them that a high-powered machine had previously established the record run between these points in two hours and 28 minutes, so the $60 Ford set a new high mark on this end of the trip, according to the mechanic.

Upon arrival in Pasadena, Crone checked the time consumed on the trip, and found that he and his companion made the run in less time than is consumed by the crack train of a transcontinental railroad line that serves this territory.

INTERNATIONAL TRUCKS NOW AVAILABLE FOR EVERY NEED

International Harvester motor trucks new are available for virtually every hauling need, ranging in capacities from the ¾-ton special delivery model, to the 5-ton heavy-duty model, with a variety of chassis and body types to choose from. Recent important additions to the International line are two new types of chain-drive trucks with nominal ratings of 2½ tons and 3½ tons respectively and several new models of 4-cylinder and 6-cylinder speed trucks.

"Over three hundred different lines of business are utilizing Internationals," says the factory. All over the country International Harvester fleets are playing an important role in satisfying the exacting hauling requirements of their owners.

"The after-sales service that the Harvester Company provides by means of its wide-flung organization provides a special appeal to the fleet owner who operates in different sections of the country. With 136 company-owned branches all over the country, and with an extensive dealer organization, quick service night or day is possible."

Large automotive plants are operated by the International Harvester Company at Akron, Ohio, Springfield, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Indiana. Considerable sections of some of its other plants are also devoted to the manufacture of motors and other equipment.

CHRYSLERS FIRST, SECOND, THIRD AND SIXTH IN CONTEST

The Chrysler Corporation reports receiving cables that in a general petrol test at Sydney, Australia, Chrysler cars captured first, second, third and sixth places. Challenged by the Royal Automobile Club as to the possibility of any automobile making the mileage per gallon accomplished by the winning Chrysler "60," the same car went over the course again and exceeded it soriginal record.

On the Maroubra speedway in Sydney, a stock Chrysler "70" made 1000 miles in 955 minutes and 1468 miles in 24 hours, and also won first place in the official 10-day reliability contest at Coolangarta, which is regarded as Australia's biggest motoring event.

EARNINGS OF GENERAL MOTORS

Net earnings of General Motors Corporation, including equity in subsidiary operations, applicable to dividends for the first quarter ending March 31, 1927, were $52,551,408, according to A. P. Sloan Jr., president.

"This compares with $44,911,618 for the corresponding period of a year ago, an increase of $7,639,790. In this comparison has been included the minority interest in Fisher Body Corporation at that time outstanding. quarter of 1927 equalled $5.80 per share on common stock. In corresponding quarter last year, not including the minority interest in the Fisher Body Corporation, earnings amounted to $5 per share on the common stock then outstanding after making allowance for the increased number of shares resulting from the stock dividende paid Sept. 11, 1926."

NEW CHRYSLER DEALERS

Midwest Motors, Inc., Chrysler distributer, has appointed Chrysler dealers at Gillespie and Eldorado, Ill. The Edwards Motor Car Co., owned by George Edwards, is selling Chryslers at Eldorado.

The St. Clair Motor Co., at St. Clair, Mo., also is a new Chrysler dealer. Harry Kloppenberg is proprietor.

FRANCE HAS FEW MOTOR CARS

In all France the per capita ratio of automobiles is only 1 to every 30 persons, while in the United States it is 1 to every 5 persons, says the Michelin Tire Co., who is taking the initiative in a campaign to increase the number of automobiles in that country.

There are in France some 36,000 "communes" or townships. A roll of honor has been created on which are listed all communes that have a per capita ratio of one automobile to every 30 persons or better.

Why Firestone Dealers

The Mark of Quality

Serve You Better and Save You Money

WE know tire construction—tire and tube values and how to assist you in taking proper care of your tires. We sell Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Tubes which we consider the best made. We also sell and service Oldfield Tires and Tubes.

Both Firestone and Oldfield Tires are scientifically designed and manufactured by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company. Mr. Harvey S. Firestone is the President and active head of the Company and under his management many outstanding developments and improvements for economy, safety and comfort in tires have been made. He is the acknowledged leader in lowering tire costs and fought almost a lone battle to secure lower crude rubber prices from a foreign monopoly. He has saved and is saving millions of dollars every year for car owners.

With the many great developments and improvements in tires manufactured in the most modern and efficient Firestone Factories, having a capacity of 45,000 tires and 50,000 tubes per day, and with the Firestone policy of selling and distributing direct to dealers through 148 Factory Branches and Warehouses, we not only receive fresh, clean stocks of tires but the highest quality and most uniform product at prices which are the lowest in the history of the industry.

The result of this economy in the Firestone Factories is uniform high quality products at low costs which we in turn pass on to our customers. Our service also includes the most modern and efficient equipment for repairing tires and tubes, which places us in a position to serve you better and save you money.

Activities of Boy and Girl Scouts

WEEK-END TRIP FOR SCOUTS TO IRONDALE

100 of First Class to Have Opportunity to Pass Tests for Out-of-Door Badges.

A special week-end camping trip to the Irondale Reservation, official camping grounds of the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts, will be taken by 100 First Class Boy Scouts next Friday, Saturday and Sunday to pass the out-of-door merit badges, which are difficult to work on in the city. The camp will be in the charge of Educational Director William Puffer, assisted by most of the local headquarters staff, each of whom will assist with the subjects with which he is most familiar.

The boys will leave Friday evening after school on a special Missouri Pacific train, and return Sunday evening. While at the camp they will be divided into patrols, each with an elected leader, but individual accomplishment rather than group work will be stressed. The large staff is provided that every scout may receive individual attention in his work.

Wide Range of Subjects.

Special emphasis will be laid on the badges of Angling, Archery, Astronomy, Athletics, Bird Study, Botany, Camping, Carpentry, Conservation, Cooking, Forestry, Handicraft, Horsemanship, Insect Life, Mining, Photography, Pioneering, Reptiles, Signaling, and Stalking. Should a boy desire to pass any other badge, however, that requires no special equipment, he will be allowed to do so. Badges are expected to be completed entirely at the camp.

When a boy presents proof that he has passed part of the requirements for a badge, he will be allowed to finish the remainder.

Scouts Urged to Go.

Recreation will have its place on the program, as the work on the badges will be interspersed with games and contests. Baseball and volley ball games will be staged between patrols, and individual and patrol scouting tournaments will occupy their share of the time. The time-honored stunts around the council fire will not be neglected.

The cost of the camp, including transportation, will be $5.50, it has been announced. Without transportation it is $2.50.

Letters giving information about the camp have been mailed to all parents of first class scouts in the city, urging them to let their sons attend.

Boy Scout Troop Notes

West District.

Troop 90 of the Temple Shaare Emeth sent Junior Assistant Scoutmasters Carl Bauman and Myron Witt, and Senior Patrol Leader Joe Goldman to the recent patrol leaders' week-end camp at Irondale. These boys were given the outing in appreciation for their work in recent scout activities.

A series of spring and summer hikes are being planned, the second of which is being held today at Osage Hills.

Scouts of Troop 54 of the Temple Israel were guests of the Brotherhood at the Annual Father and Son's banquet last Monday night. Three prominent speakers of St. Louis appeared on the program: Judge Moses Hartman, Judge C. W. Holtcamp and Rabbi Leon Harrison. Each patrol of the Troop demonstrated some part of scout work. Scout Loon Epstein recited Edgar Guest's poem "Be More Than a Dad, Be a Pal to the Lad." Entertainment was furnished by Bob Sharp, a magician. B. E. Lemen sang a number of solos and had charge of the singing.

Troop 5, of the West Presbyterian Church, had the largest representation of patrol leaders at the recent week-end camp. Scoutmaster Stephens and two members of the Troop Committee drove the boys to camp Saturday morning. One of the patrols formed by Troop 5 made an exceptionally high score of 212 points, a total of 41 points above the score made by any other cabin.

Seven boys of Troop 23, under the leadership of Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Morris Olsancisky, went on a hike to pass second and first class tests. Twenty-seven tests were passed and the boys cooked their own meals. Ten more boys attend meetings of this troop regularly now than in December. A drill team has been organized by Assistant Scoutmaster Bill Dietrick and a first-aid team by Robert Craddock. Morris Olsanetsky gave a demonstration on photography at the last meeting. The scouts are planning to go on hikes every Sunday. Morris Olsanetsky has found an ideal spot for test passing and the troop will use it hereafter.

Troop 60 of the Union Avenue Christian Church held a meeting Friday night, after which the scouts took a hike through the park. Saturday the scoutmaster, two junior officers and an ex-scoutmaster went on an auto trip to make plans for a three-day hike.

Fox Patrol of Troop 46 demonstrated knot-tying, and the Stags undertook to decorate the walls of the meeting place with colored drawings showing the history of the flag, at a meeting of the troop a week ago Friday. This troop publishes a weekly paper, "The Hoot," which is available to any troop which wishes to exchange its paper. Max Wender, 4705 Newberry terrace, is editor.

Outdoor activities have had a prominent part in the programs of Troop 59 during the week. Last Friday evening each patrol participated in an observation hike. Points were given on scout discipline and proper formation and observation along a given route and in a selected window, each scout making a written report on what he saw. Saturday afternoon was spent at Kenwood Springs with 21 scouts, the outdoor committeeman and scoutmaster present. Twelve scouts passed 26 outdoor tests in cooking, fire building, tracking and pace. The junior officers assisted in the work. Two archery enthusiasts gave some demonstrations on the handling of a bow and arrow. An indoor ball game was on the program and participated in by all scouts. The annual Easter egg hunt concluded the program. The orchestra played at an entertainment given by one of the societies of the church last week.

Troop 101 of the West Park Baptist Church had as a visitor last week Aubray C. Lindsley, West District Deputy Commissioner. Lindsley inspected the troop and gave a short talk on interpatrol contests. His talk resulted in the inauguration of a two-month miniature bridge-building contest. Lindsley also showed the troop some of his knot and rope games.

South District.

Troop 139 of the Meramec School went on a hike to a place near Ferguson called "Dead Horse Creek," last Sunday, where the Scouts found the bones of several dead horses. A prize was given to the four boys who had the best camp. Many tests were passed and games played.

Troop 77 conducted several first-aid contests between the patrols last Thursday, speed and accuracy being the points judged. Each patrol selected two scouts, one to be a patient, the other to tie the bandage. In this manner a patrol would send two different boys up for the various bandages. The last event of this first-aid contest was a firemen's lift relay race. Each patrol had to make eight trips to a certain place and back, the eight boys in a patrol taking turns representing firemen.

Troops 18, 34, 38, 68, 189 and 198 were guests of Troop 77 Sunday night at the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, 70 scouts, accompanied by their scoutmasters, being present in uniform. The scouts, led by Assistant Scoutmaster Norwood Markham, entered as the congregation sang "Onward Christian Soldiers." After the responsive reading, "Gloria Patria," Scripture reading, and a selection by the choir, Scoutmaster R. A. McCoy of Troop 18 led the scouts in giving the scout oath. Under the direction of Assistant Scoutmaster Norwood Markham of Troop 77, 12 different scouts gave the laws and brief explanation of each. This was followed by a talk on "Scouting" by Scoutmaster Rubey of Troop 38. Rev. L. V. Buschman, who has had seven years' experience as a scoutmaster, delivered a sermon on "The First Scout," in which he made the statement that Christ was the first and only scout who has lived up to the oath and laws. The Rev. Mr. Buschman urged the scouts to follow the example set by the First Scout. After the pronouncing of the benediction, "taps" was sounded by the bugler of Troop 198.

Troop 34 held an investiture ceremony last Tuesday night. 12 new scouts being taken into membership. One scout was presented with his second class badge. The troop also gave the regular flag ceremony for the monthly meeting of the Patrons' Association. The Father's Club of the troop has announced a surprise meeting for next week.

Troop 38 is now publishing a troop paper entitled "The Thirty-Eighter." The last issues contain a number of items concerning the local activities of the troop. At the last central court of honor Troop 38 was well represented with 21 members present, 16 of whom were awarded merit badges, as was the scoutmaster. Scouts of Troop 38 carried the colors and the Council Flag, this honor being the award for having the largest number of scouts present at the court to obtain merit badges. Troop 38 recently held a troop reunion at which time a number of old timers were present for the evening. Scoutmaster Rubey gave a talk on the different signs used by people in talking.

The Troop committee of Troop 194 assembled at the home of Scoutmaster Hacke Thursday. Mr. Shippey being present from headquarters to help them organize a standard troop committee. Plans were also made for future activities of the troop. Each boy will be urged to attend camp this summer.

Troop 155 put on an investiture ceremony last Tuesday evening for Troop 41, a new troop in the South District. Fifteen scouts, with Scoutmaster Pollack, were present at the ceremony. This troop plans to help the new troop in any way that they can in the future. At the last meeting of Troop 155 the scoutmaster presented a 100 per cent pin to Assistant Scoutmaster C. L. Faust. The latter has been with the troop since its organization and has been very faithful in his duties as assistant.

Troop 41 has been organized six weeks. About 100 parents and friends attended the investiture ceremony.

Suburban District.

Allan Gray, Barron Moody and Winfred Walker of Webster Groves 14 attended the Patrol Leaders' Camp at Irondale last week-end. The publication of the troop paper, "The Troop Bugler," has been changed from once a week to once every two weeks. The scouts practised for a Parents' Night Rally, which is to be held in the near future, at the meeting last week.

The scouts of Webster Groves, No. 9 who delievered telephone books last month were taken to the show last Saturday, and furnished "eats" after the show. A hike is being planned for the near future by Scoutmaster Seidell. Carl Hanson and Chick Fernald went to Irondale to attend the Patrol Leader's Camp last week.

Webster Groves No. 6 had its first overnight hike last Saturday and Sunday, although the weather was a little unfavorable. Scoutmaster Reinhart and Assistant Scoutmaster Buehl with 17 scouts attended the two-day camp.

Senior Patrol Leader Herbert Miller, Scribe Chester Cundiff, and Patrol Leaders Rob Grossembacher, Jim Patterson, Frank Shuttleworth and Oscar Sutter of Overland, took in the Leaders' Camp at Irondale last week, and brought back many new things for the troop.

North District.

William Herzog, formerly of Troop 3, has taken the scoutmastership of Troop 206. This troop is planning a hike to Falling Springs, May 8.

Seven members of Troop 99 took a hike to Kenwood Springs last Sunday. The hike was scheduled for 6 o'clock in the morning, and because of the threatening weather only the seven were on hand at the appointed time. Games and test passing, sandwiched between Sunday school services and meals, kept the boys busy during the day. Tenderfoot Alex Orr passed fire-making; Tenderfoot Warren Humphrey passed signaling; Second Class Milford Heyl passed cooking, and Clarence Johnson passed his last test in the tenderfoot class, cooking, and is now second class.

At the meeting last Wednesday the troop voted to donate $25 to the flood relief fund of the Red Cross.

Twenty-one Scouts were present at the meeting of Troop 3 Friday and six second class and two first class tests were passed. A talk was given by Patrol Leader Rhand on Comp Irondale; Scoutmaster Simmons also gave a talk about camp and urged the boys to join the Campers' Savings Club. Sunday the troop took a hike to Kenwood Springs, and tests were passed in fire-making, cooking and first and second tests. This troop closed its inter-patrol contest last week with the Flying Eagle Patrol first, Beaver, second, and Peacock, third.

Troop 47 of the Kingshighway Christian Church was the guest of the church at a special banquet and Boy Scout night last Friday evening. W. F. Puffer, educational director of the St. Louis Council, made the principal address.

Headquarters Notes.

The first showing of the moving pictures taken during the Patrol Leader's week-end camp at the Irondale Reservation a week ago will be shown at the North District Court of Honor at the Yeatman High School tomorrow night.

L. J. Lewis of scout headquarters is conducting a cooking hike this afternoon. All scouts interested in passing this merit badge will meet at Grand boulevard and Chouteau avenue at 1 o'clock.

The North District Court of Honor will meet Tuesday evening at the Yeatman High School, with F. H. Fahrenkrog presiding. Ben C. Overbeck, boy secretary of the North Side Y. M. C. A., will give the inspirational talk. The Rev. H. P. Crowe, pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist Church, will give the invocation and assist with the ceremony. Each troop having representatives present for awards is urged to have their troop flag in the opening ceremony, as troops will be called forward one at a time for the presentation of their awards, and the flag-bearer will join the scouts receiving badges. The American flag will be carried in the opening ceremony by the troop having the most scouts to receive awards, and the district flag by the one obtaining the most awards. This is made possible through the courtesy of Troop 130, in whose possession the North District Troop Flag rests, Troop 130 having made the greatest contribution to the success of the North District in obtaining the first quarter's objective.

Girl Scout News

Coenia Troop 56 has two new scouts, Wanda Klick and Agnes Gogolik, and others are expected at the next meeting. Father Stolke attended the last meeting of this troop to discuss plans for laying the cornerstone of his church. Next week the girls are going to pass First Class Signaling. They are also working for a troop flag. New officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Eva Mae Duis and Alice Heckle of Troop 12 passed the birds test for their second class badge at the last meeting of that troop. It has been decided that every other scout in the troop must finish this test by the next meeting or she will not be awarded her second class badge. Patrol 4 is again leading in an Inter-Patrol Thrift contest, with Patrol 1 a close second.

Troop 9 had initiation April 8, many of the scouts being put through the ceremony. Two baseball captains have been elected, Emma Jane Hazzard and Marion Lee. From the troop ball teams one first-class team, made up of the best players, will be chosen to play Troop 26, which has challenged them. The teams have been practicing in the park and in the church. Several members passed their tenderfoot tests last week.

Troop 57, of the Walnut Park School, gave a farewell party to Clara Glass last Wednesday, her last day with the troop. Farewell songs were sung by the girls, accompanied by the ukelele club. The scouts chose Arline Battell to present Clara with a token of remembrance.

Twenty-five girls and two leaders of Troop 54 went to the Chain of Rocks Saturday, April 23.

Nineteen scouts of Troop 13 of the Shepard School, with their captain, Miss H. A. Johnson; their lieutenant, Miss M. R. Vellner, and Mrs. Gall spent April 23 at Mrs. Gall's summer cottage at Fesson and Kennerly roads. The troop met at Gravois Park at 8:30 o'clock, took a car and then a bus to the Fesson road and hiked four miles to their destination. After they arrived, "hot dogs" were roasted over a campfire and Mrs. Gall served potato salad, cake and cocoa to the troop.

Miss Mullins, who is helping Mrs. Taylor with Troop 55, prepared several of the scouts for their tenderfoot test at the last meeting. They also played games and sang songs.

The weekly meeting of Troop 21 was held at the Y. M. H. A. April 25. The girls studied the compass in order to pass their tests, and at the conclusion of the meeting supper was prepared by a committee endeavoring to pass their cooking test.

Cardinal Troop 2 of Webster Groves voted last week to have a "buddy" system. The older girls are to be in one group, each girl having two smaller scouts as her "buddies." The troop will conduct a contest, in which points will be given for attendance, punctuality, inspection and originality at Day Camp, as well as other scout activities. At the end of the contest prizes will be awarded to the leading "buddy," the best captain and the best "buddy" group of the three.

LEARN AS THESE THOUSANDS HAVE THE VALUE OF SELECTING A CAR THIS WAY

Select... in the fullest, literal meaning of the term, which is "to choose by comparison."

TWO MONTHS AGO Oldsmobile offered this obviously sound suggestion —to select—to choose by comparison.

Thousands have adopted it. Thousands have compared the various degrees of value in moderately priced cars. Thousands, as a result, have selected their cars with confidence —undisturbed by any lingering doubts as to the wisdom of their choice.

They have come to our own showroom and looked at Oldsmobile, some seeking a personal car, some a car for the whole family. They have sat in the driver's seat and compared the many conveniences that make driving a pleasure. They have sat in the rear seat and compared the comfort. They have stood off and appraised its smartness. Their immediate impulse has been to drive this car they liked so well. And out on the road they have become certain of the wisdom of choosing an Oldsmobile.

Naturally this suggestion to really select was inspired by the belief that, in this process of comparison, Oldsmobile would win an outstanding share of approval. And it is a significant fact, that having been actually compared, more Oldsmobiles have been sold this spring than ever before in any corresponding period of time.

For thousands learned by this test of comparison that Oldsmobile possesses not only the known factors of motor car merit, but those qualities of beauty and luxury that gratify the finer tastes, those comforts and conveniences that mean so much.

Why, then, should they pay more? Or, why should they deny themselves this full measure of satisfaction for the sake of the slight difference in price if they paid less?

Learn what these thousands learned. See Oldsmobile.

Go over it, point by point. Drive it yourself —that is the final proof of excellence!

Then, and only then, can you know what it is possible to buy at a price so fair to your purse!

In his commemorative address Senator Hawes said in part:

Francis' Career Reviewed.

"I had for him both admiration and regard. My mind is more upon the man than upon his achievements.

"My thought is for the rounded career, his many-sided human characteristics, his bigness, his absorbing personality that drew to him all elements of society.

"Shut your eyes for a moment, think your own thoughts and let your mind visualize David Francis before Foreign Service had put its grim defacing hand upon his face and figure.

"There was never a finer picture of a real male man. No mollycoddle here, no sentimental theorist, no poser, no sycophant, no straddler, no hypocrite. He was a big man who had big conceptions, surrounded himself with big men and did big things.

Had Vision of Large Things.

"He had the vision for large things. He went to his objectives in a masterful way, sometimes with impatience, sometimes pushing aside without deference the obstacles that stood in the way.

"His designs were good and he gained his goal in straightforward combat.

"He enjoyed a cigar, a horse, a drink, delighted in a bright eye, a pretty ankle, responded to a good song, a good story and a good friend.

"He served his friends, he served his city, he served his state, he served his nation with both ability and distinction.

"There is no taint or blemish upon his escutcheon. There is no ugly whisper or scandal left to scar his memory.

Gave and Took Blows.

"He hit hard and took some good blows in return; and then reached out to help, to succor, to bind up wounds, to soften things and make life not only more pleasant but more honorable.

"He carried with him into adventures of great magnitude the heart of a boy. He saw the humorous, joyful things of life and, while demanding his full share, he was quick to divide his pleasures with others.

"He was a fighter when as a boy he crawled on a coach and sold papers during the war in a small Kentucky town.

"He was a fighter when in the closing years of his life he faced a mob in a foreign city and, with pistol in hand, defended the ancient 'right of castle.'

"Can you see him on Hospital Saturday, with some chosen friends, visiting the booths in the hotels and office buildings, covered with badges, smiling, joking, the picture of health, good spirits and the very embodiment of good fellowship, the leader, the inspiration of our most popular charity?

"Can you remember the old days at the Den in the Merchants' Exchange, the Veiled Prophet's ball, when he led in the queen and, in his inimitable way, made another queen of each maid and matron?

Knew Many Men by First Name.

"How he spread sunshine and good fellowship! He knew by first name more men than any other man in the city, and more men knew him and called him 'Dave.' The 'Dave' was not a familiarity; it was esteem, regard and affection.

"When the ball game was opened he was there; when a school was dedicated, he spoke; when a park was opened he presided; when a new union station was needed he led the way; when a bridge was required he made the plan. He built the very hall in which we are assembled tonight.

"This period came when the people made Rolla Wells Mayor, and with that came the inspiration for the World's Fair and the inspiration and the organization came from David Francis. He invited the world and the world came.

"The forward stride which we took then was necessary. It was not a mere plan of advertising: It was an awakening of the spirit of the city to do better things. It kept St. Louis moving forward when she might have stood still.

Inspiration to Progress.

"Our progress today may be attributed largely to the inspiration of Francis and the wonderful group of patriotic men who surrounded him and united with him in this great enterprise.

"When young David Francis first came to St. Louis, he found his career on the old Merchants' Exchange. That was the period when steamboats lined our wharves, when the Merchants' Exchange was the heart and center of every activity in St. Louis.

"It was the place where the Veiled Prophet's ball was born; where great public movements were inspired. As president of the Merchants' Exchange he quickly attracted city-wide attention. He was made Mayor of the city. As Mayor he grew in popularity in the State.

Time for Human Things.

"Francis attended the wedding. He kissed and danced with the bride. He sent the silver spoon or cup to the baby. He acted as pallbearer and followed the friend's body to the grave; he seemed to have time in the midst of a busy career to do these human things and become the best known man in St. Louis.

"Travel where you may in any part of the world and the query was, 'How is Gov. Francis?'

"His personality had carried far beyond the confines of his own State. In distant lands, wherever men travel, they knew the big Missourian.

"As Mayor of St. Louis he gave a business administration. He paved the city, reduced the rate of interest paid on the public debt bought the site for the new Waterworks at the Chain of Rocks, reduced the cost of gas, and forced a great railroad corporation to pay a million dollars into the city treasury.

"As Governor he attracted national attention by the vigor of his administration. He was a new kind of Governor for that day. Putting business methods into operation, he resurrected and put the National Guard upon a permanent basis, passed the Australian ballot system, created a schoolbook commission and uniform textbooks, created a geological survey, established stable State finances, and followed the same course he pursued as Mayor with industry and administrative understanding.

Popularized State University.

"He reorganized the State University, created an endowment fund and popularized that institution.

"As Secretary of the Interior he studied the problems of the West. His long and intimate knowledge of the farmer and grain was helpful.

During both administrations of Grover Cleveland he was his close friend and political adviser. Their contact was intimate, and the great New Yorker relied upon his judgment in making political appointments.

Ambassador to Russia.

"When he accepted his last political assignment, he was three score years and five. Far-seeing men at that time knew we could not long remain out of the struggle—the whole world was at war.

"We remember the attack of the mob upon the American Embassy in Russia. Our Ambassador sent the faithful Phil (his valet) for his gun. 'Stop!' commanded the Ambassador, facing the mob. 'This is not Russian, it is American territory; you cannot put your foot in here!'

Russian Mob Incident.

"But the mob pushed forward. Again he said: 'This is American territory. I will kill the first man that crosses the threshold!'

"The mob wavered. He displayed his weapon and the mob broke and went away.

"No marines were there for Francis; no policemen. With his own revolver he stopped the mob. It was the fine old spirit of the frontier. It was part of the best traditions of Kentucky and Missouri.

"At that time he was not an Ambassador; he was the frontiersman guarding the sacred threshold.

Suggestion for Statute.

"When St. Louis erects the statue to the Ambassador I would have it a reproduction of this scene in the land of the Czar and bolshevik. Francis on the threshold of an American domicile; Francis saying, 'This is American territory. I will kill the first man that crosses the threshold'!"

Breckinridge Jones presided. Rolla Wells, who was Mayor during the exposition period, also spoke. An address, made by Gov. Francis at the opening of the exposition, was read by Collins Thompson.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL GIRLS' CLUB ANNIVERSARY

May Festival to Be Held Thursday at Grand Avenue Community Center.

The twentieth anniversary of the Girls' Club of Christ Church Cathedral will be celebrated at the May Festival of the club next Thursday evening at the Grand Avenue Community Center, 1411 South Grand avenue. The club was organized with a few girls as members by Mrs. N. C. Broadix, the present director, and now has a membership of over 600 young business women in offices, shops, factories and schools.

The proceeds of the festival will go to the club fund for the Bishop Tuttle Memorial, where there will be a Girls' clubroom and also gymnasium and swimming pool for use of club members.

The festival will be followed by a dance, and admission tickets will be sold at the door. The program will include musical numbers, gymnastic dances and specialty acts.

"In an OldFashioned Garden" will introduce a coronation of two Queens, representing the Monday and Friday night sections of the club. Character dances and a "kid party" features are also on the program.

ticing stunts for a mother and daughter banquet, May 9.

The scouts of Troop 15 are practicing for a circus May 13. They are also working on the merit badges of Health Winner, Handicraft and Homemakers.

Lindenwood 1 cleared $40 from the sale of tickets and refreshments at an entertainment given at the Lindenwood Congregational Church last week. The skit was titled, "Clowns, Play, Music." Sandwiches and ice cream were sold between the acts.

Arrowhead Troop 7 has discontinued an inter-patrol contest that the girls might progress faster on scout work. As a result 11 girls have passed tests recently. Eleanor Burgarin, Madonna Curran, Junia Fulstone, Katherine Hoffmann, Lillian Coles and Marie Werth have passed a part of the second class test; Rosalyn Barmeier has finished her tenderfoot requirements and Jane Foster, Audrey Fey, Dorothy Keller and Helen Driftcamp have done part of their tenderfoot work. These latter girls were trained by Margaret Arand.

WEST DISTRICT WINS FIRST PRIZE AT WEEK-END CAMP

Suburban Boys Are Second in Contests at the Scouts Irondale Reservation.

Contest honors at the Patrol Leaders' week-end camp at the Irondale Reservation, the camp of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, last Saturday and Sunday, were carried off by the West District, which rolled up an average total of 84 points, eight points higher than the average of the Suburban District, which was second. The Westerners won the most firsts and seconds in the series of inter-patrol contests, were victors in volley ball and second in the indoor baseball series.

The Suburbanites took the baseball championship and were second in volley ball, the inter-patrol contest and stunt night.

BURLINGAME, DIRECTORY MAN, DISMISSED; NO PROSECUTION

Judge Gayer Criticises Better Business Bureau for Failure to Be Represented.

Fred L. Burlingame, charged with operating a business directory company here after his charter had been revoked, was discharged for want of prosecution in Court of Criminal Correction Friday.

Judge Gayer criticised the Better Business Bureau, which instigated the complaint, for not having a representative in court, remarking that it was "poor business" for them to be absent. Burlingame is now operating in Kansas City.

NEW BOY SCOUTS' BAND TO PLAY AT CHURCH SERVICE

Forty Members of 15 St. Louis Troops Sponsored by Men's Club of Grace Presbyterian.

An all-St. Louis Boy Scout band, composed of 40 boys from 15 troops of the city, will make its initial appearance this evening at a special Boy Scout service at the Grace Presbyterian Church, Clara and Ridge avenues. The band, which was organized only a few weeks ago, is sponsored and financed by the Men's Club of the church, but has the official sanction of local headquarters. Harley E. Olsen, director of the Soldan High School band, is director, and Russell Sherer, of Troop 125, Scout Director.

The services, to which all scouts of the city are invited, will be as follows:

Prelude	Scout Band
Scout Oath	All Scouts
Scripture Reading	Scout John Whaley
Prayer	Dr. Ralph Ward
Tenor Solo	Richard Klein
Scout Laws	Troop 125
Music	Scout Band
Remarks	W. S. Sandford President of Men's Club.
Song	Congregation
Address	S. C. Reaves Scout Field Executive.
Music	Scout Band
Scout Benediction	All Scouts

The purpose of the band is not only to furnish the local scouts with a musical organization, but to stimulate the interest of boys in the organization. Several boys already have become scouts because of the band.

It is not necessary for a member to be an expert musician, as Olson conducts a class for beginners before the regular rehearsals, held at 4 o'clock every Friday afternoon at the church.

FLYER TO TRY TODAY TO SET DEAD DROP JUMP RECORD

Jack Merrill Plans to Fall 6000 of 14,000 Feet Before Opening Parachute.

Jack Merrell, 4553 Lucky street, parachute jumper and stunt flyer, will attempt to break the world's record dead drop jump from an airplane, at Lambert Field at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Merrell plans to drop from a mail plane, piloted by Capt. Phil Love, at an altitude of 14,000 feet, and to fall 6000 feet before opening his parachute. It is estimated he will be falling at the rate of 204 miles an hour at the 6000-foot level. The record is held by Lieut. Ford, U. S. N., who dropped 4700 feet before opening his parachute.

SCIENCE DISCOVERS AMAZING NEW INVENTION FOR TIRES!

Seals Punctures Automatically Without Taking Tire Off the Wheel!

EXPERTS TEST IT ON TIRE PUNCTURED 987 TIMES—NO AIR LEAKS

Also Seals Slow Leaks, Valve Leaks, Etc. Prevents Rim Cuts and Flat Tires Caused by Punctures; Ends Annoyance, Expense and Drudgery of Puncture Troubles.

Car owners—now you are free at last from the worst nuisance of owning a car—changing punctured tires. Now your punctures can be sealed automatically, as they occur, without removing the tire from the wheel. Save time yanking at tight rims and bolts. Prevent spoiled trips or dirty hands and clothes. It seals nail holes, slow leaks, valve leaks, porous tubes, etc., instantly. 1,000,000 treatments sold last year. Read about the startling tests reported—just a few of the many. Air-Stop has successfully passed rigid tests made by the foremost authorities. And the inventor now challenges any car owner to test this way to protect tires. Read below how you can test Air-Stop at manufacturer's risk. Then mail coupon.

By George Hacket

FEW modern inventions have so mystified tire authorities as the remarkable discovery of Air-Stop—the magic fluid that makes punctures seal themselves. Heretofore it was considered unbelievable that any invention could make a tire puncture-proof against nails. And it was not until leading authorities tested Air-Stop that the truth became known.

PROOF:

In a recent issue of the India Rubber and Tire Review (famous rubber trade magazine), the results of the test were revealed: "The test described is believed to be the first of its kind—that is, to determine whether or not a tire can be made puncture-proof against nails. The results of the actual test are IN AGREEMENT WITH THE CONTENTION OF THE MANUFACTURER—that a pneumatic tire (meaning Air-Stop treated tires) has been produced that is practically PROOF AGAINST PUNCTURES FROM NAILS!"

How It Seals Punctures

Air-Stop is a simple, harmless liquid that is poured into the tube. It positively will not injure the tube or casing (as proved by the famous Benedict Laboratories, Chicago). In fact, it helps to preserve the rubber, and it will last the life of the tube. It seals punctures as large as a 20-penny spike, and as small as a tack. It prevents rim cuts and cracked sidewalls and prolongs tire mileage by preventing air leaks. It will not freeze in the winter nor boil in the summer. It can be installed in a few minutes without taking the tire off the wheel. It sells at a low price and will more than pay for itself very quickly by eliminating tire repair expense and labor and increased tire mileage. Actually pays a profit to the user!

No More Changing Tires

Think what a wonderful relief this invention means to car owners! No more changing tires and patching tubes on hot, dusty roads—in blazing sun, drenching rains or dark nights, or in freezing snow-storms. Women can now drive without fear of puncture accidents. And, in addition to the convenience, think of the economy. One noted expert says he believes Air-Stop will save American car owners $5,000,000 this year.

Doesn't Injure Tube

Most car owners shy away from using ordinary puncture-proof methods, as tire fillers, tire cement, etc., believing that they cause the tube to deteriorate. And in many cases they are right. But Air-Stop has been O. K.'d after exhaustive tests by a noted authorized chemical laboratory, the Benedict Laboratories of Chicago. They subjected three samples of Air-Stop to three distinct and standard tests to determine whether it had any effect on the tube. They found that in no case did it cause any loss of weight or change in appearance of the rubber and say that Air-Stop has no harmful effect on the rubber.

1,100 Nails in One Tire Without Air Leaks

So quickly and effectively does Air-Stop prove its story that Air-Stop representatives demonstrate its wonderful service by driving nails into their own tires and letting astounded car owners see the truth with their own eyes. N. T. Spiers drove over eleven hundred nails and spikes without a single leak. Buford Houska punctured one of his Air-Stop treated tires 150 times by actual count on a long trip. It is still standing up under full pressure. Many other car owners report similar remarkable experiences.

FREE OFFER

So marvelous has been the success of Air-Stop in protecting tires, that the inventors (a $50,000 corporation of Iowa) make the following challenge to every car and truck owner. They offer to send samples of Air-Stop to anybody. If your test does not prove its claims to your entire satisfaction, they will refund every penny of your deposit. Furthermore they will pay you for your time in testing Air-Stop if you are not thoroughly amazed and delighted with it.

Car owners and men ambitious to make money in full or spare time should rush the coupon at the right for Air-Stop's complete proposition. If you own a car, here is your opportunity to laugh at puncture troubles. Air-Stop sells at a low price. And by taking a few orders from friends who see how well it protects your tires, you can have Air-Stop protection free—and make big money besides. If you want to be an Air-Stop representative you don't need a car to make money. Just an old tube, a hammer and some nails will give you a handsome income. Act now.

Drive Nails in Your Old Tires they won't leak air!

Here is a typical demonstration made by a representative of Air-Stop, the magic fluid that seals nail holes, slow leaks, etc., automatically. He gathers a crowd around him then drives nails into an old tire before their astounded eyes. Then he passes the tire around to prove that it still holds all the air. E. E. Ahes made $562.00 in two weeks with this amazing demonstration.

Hammers 999 Nails Into One Old Tire Without Losing a Pound of Air

Des Moines, Iowa. One of the many startling tests of Air-Stop, the amazing liquid that seals punctures without removing the tire, is reported by George Seibel, Pollock, South Dakota. When he received his set, he made the first test in one of his own tires. He drove one nail into it and found that it did not leak a pound of air. He has continued making this same demonstration to friends until he has now driven 999 nails into one tire without losing a pound of air.

Another man, Paul White of Richmond, Missouri, writes: "I got an old tube that I had discarded, and if it had one hole it had fifty. I put the Air-Stop in it and it sealed all of them. I have since driven 25 or 30 nails into it and it still is holding air."

A. E. Blayney, Chicago, writes that he purchased Air-Stop and put it in his four Ford tires eight months ago. He has run his car nearly every day since and has never had a puncture.

Over a million Air-Stop treatments have now been put into tires by car owners all over the country and in Canada. Air-Stop representatives are making fortunes just driving nails into tires and showing the result to astounded car owners. One man, E. E. Ahes, sold 250 sets in two weeks at a profit to him of $562.00. L. B. Watson, North Dakota, sold 500 sets in seven days, working only part time, as he was employed in a bank. He has now quit his job and is devoting his full time to this wonderful money-making job.

Free Sample Offer

The inventors of Air-Stop are now making a daring offer to car owners and agents who want to clean up big profits in full or spare time. They will send samples to any man who wishes to test it. It is guaranteed not to harm the tube in any way; in fact they will replace any tube so harmed with the best tube on the market. It is also guaranteed to seal nail holes, slow leaks, valve leaks, etc.

If your tire loses a pound of air after being treated with Air-Stop, they will refund every penny—and pay you a cash forfeit of fifty cents. This is the offer now being accepted by thousands of car owners.

The Air-Stop Mfg. Co., also wants agents and distributors in every locality and guarantee to show you a money-making plan that should net you $75 to $150 in a week. Mail the coupon below.

BATHING BEAUTIES and women shoppers can now drive without fear of annoyance and inconvenience of puncture trouble.

Bank Clerk Makes Fortune Driving Nails in Tires

One of the many men who are cleaning up wonderful profits protecting car owners from puncture troubles is L. B. Watson, an ex-bank clerk of North Dakota. The first week he devoted only his spare hours and succeeded in selling over 500 Air-Stop treatments. His profits on this low-priced invention were so huge that he is now devoting all his time to demonstrating it.

The speed at which many men are making big pay with Air-Stop is amazing. A. Otis made $157 in two days. E. E. Ahes made $562.00 in two weeks. The main reason why is that Air-Stop sells itself to the car owner the minute he sees it demonstrated. There is no room for argument or question on the subject.

If you are interested in an easy way to make money, the inventors of Air-Stop have a simple plan for you that has worked wonders for other men. You don't need a car to demonstrate Air-Stop—an old casing and discarded tube will serve just as well. You don't need experience—you are given the full demonstration that sells every car owner. And you can work in full or spare time. Many spare-time workers clean up $20 to $50 in a week extra. Air-Stop also has a plan for car owners to protect their tires against punctures free of cost. Mail the coupon at the right for full details.

"Air-Stop Can't Injure Tire," Says Noted Chemist

O. K.'s Amazing Tire Fluid After Punishing Test

CHICAGO, April 3.—As further convincing proof that car owners can Air-Stop their tires against punctures without harming the tube or casing in any way, a secret test was recently made by the Benedict Laboratories, a noted organization of analytical chemists. In the test, three sample cans of Air-Stop were submitted to the standard experiments recognized as hard tests the claims made for Air-Stop.

"Our tests to show the effects of Air-Stop on rubber were in the following manner," says Mr. Benedict. "Sample No. 1 was soaked in Air-Stop at 18° to 32° above for one week. A microscopical examination of the rubber showed no loss in weight of the rubber. Sample No. 2 was soaked in Air-Stop at 100° F. for one week with no change in appearance or weight. And Sample No. 3 was allowed to stand at room temperature, approximately 70° for the same period."

"From the above experiment," he concludes, "our conclusions would be that Air-Stop has no harmful effect upon gum rubber."

Drive Your Car On Punctured Tires!

New Scientific Fluid Seals Holes Without Removing Tire!

Think of it! Puncture troubles banished! No more nail holes, slow leaks, valve leaks, rim cuts. No more wrestling with tight rims and bolts. No more changing tires on hot dusty roads, or bitter cold nights, or drenching rain. No wonder car owners have ordered over a million Air-Stop treatments. Read below how it works—what it has done for other car owners—how you can test it free of risk—and how you can make money with it in full or spare time. Then rush the coupon.

FREE Sample Offer

Just think what the discovery of Air-Stop means to any man or woman who drives a car! It seals punctures the instant they happen—so that you go spinning along without even knowing you have a puncture. It does away forever with the fuss and bother of changing tires and patching tubes on hot, dusty roads—in blazing sun, in drenching rain on dark nights or in freezing snow-storms.

No more slow leaks, valve leaks or porus tubes, either. Air-Stop seals them all and puts new life into old tires a surprising way. It prevents rim cuts and cracked sidewalls, too. And it increases tire mileage because it prevents driving with partly flat tires—one of the biggest causes of tire trouble!

Good-Bye Tire Worries

Air-Stop will seal punctures as large as a 20-penny spike and as small as a tack. The same air pressure is used as before—you ride on air just as you always have. Air-Stop will not freeze in the coldest weather, and will resist the heat of the hottest summer day. It has no injurious effects on casing or tube. Actually helps preserve rubber and will last the lifetime of the tube. Only a few minutes are required to puncture-proof four or five tires with Air-Stop.

Some of the letters received from auto drivers are simply astonishing. For example:

F. S. Brush writes that he pounded 16 ten-penny nails into an old tire and then drove his car over 200 miles on the roughest roads. Still this tire has not leaked a pound of air. J. W. Simpson writes that he has so far driven 987 holes in one tire without a single leak! And many other equally astounding reports continue to pour in.

Motorists Buy on Sight!

So marvelously successful is this new invention, that salesmen who introduce it to friends and motorists are piling up big liberal commissions for just a few hours' work. Their reports of earnings run all the way from $10 to $15 in an hour to $157 in two days. Every auto owner is vitally interested, whether he drives a Ford or Rolls-Royce—for every man detests the trouble and delay of changing tires and mending tubes.

AGENTS WANTED

If you have a car of your own, you can equip one of the wheels with an old tire to use for demonstrations. But you don't need a car—an old rim and discarded casing can be sufficient to bring you in $15 to $25 a day!

Mail Coupon Now!

Right now—to introduce his surprising invention, Mr. W. S. Hill (the discoverer), will send you a full-size sample at his own risk. This is an unusual chance to see for yourself how remarkable this new discovery really is—without risking a single penny. But that's not all—he will actually PAY you for your time and trouble in testing Air-Stop if you are not amazed and delighted with it. This generous offer is limited, so write at once for his liberal proposition. Be the Air-Stop man in your section and cash in big. Clip out the coupon now and mail it today!

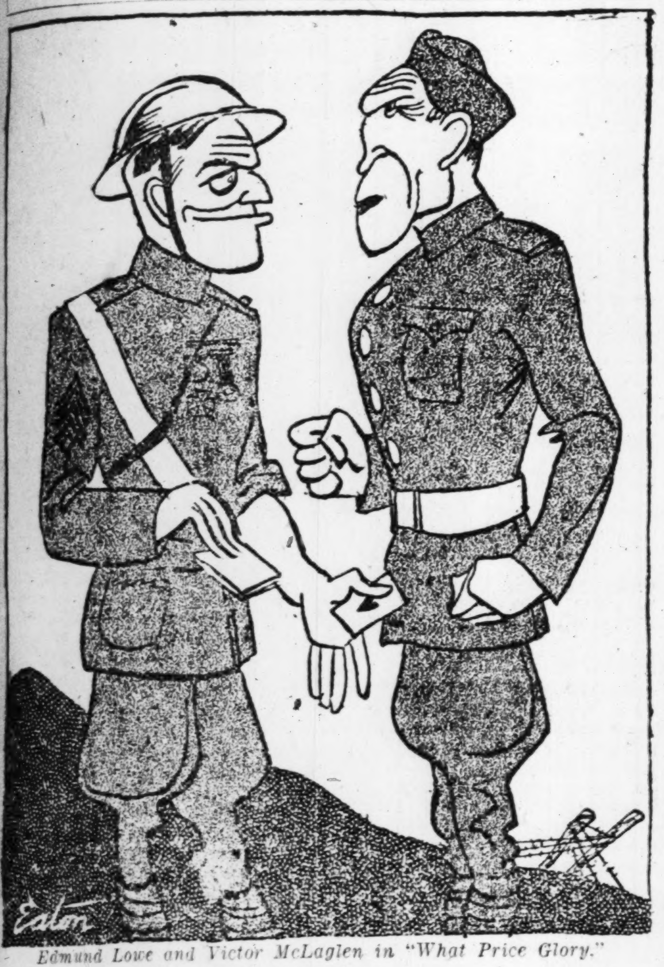
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

MUSIC-DRAMA-MOVIES

PART SIX — ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 1, 1927. — PAGES 1—4A

A Couple of 8-Minute Eggs



Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen in "What Price Glory." at the Shubert.

Bad Business Has Made Shorter, but Far Better Season for Show-Goers

WHILE the past season of dramatic offerings has been a short one in St. Louis it has been a season of fine plays and the prospects for next year are even brighter. Strange to say this condition of affairs has been brought about by the calamities which have overtaken the speaking stage. With the high costs of travel and production and the stern competition of the movies the managers in New York cannot afford to send on the road a play which is not almost certain of success—and the only really certain ones are the successful ones.

This has been emphasized several times this year. The good plays took in more money here during the past season than ever before. The records at the American Theater—where almost all of the worthwhile dramatic offerings were housed—were broken several times during the winter and out at the Shubert the better musical offerings played to tremendous business.

It used to be that everything which was produced in New York which managed to struggle through a few weeks, was sent on the road to keep the outlying theaters filled for 30 or more weeks. Today 20 weeks is enough for a theater—if those 20 weeks are good ones. The managers have discovered rather belatedly that attempting to keep their houses open for a longer time by booking in any old sort of a drama will soon eat up the profits of the good ones.

THE necessity, or what was once thought the necessity, of keeping the road theaters open most of the year, having passed there is no longer an attempt being made to force runs in New York and this season the metropolis has seen a tremendous number of shows fall by the wayside in quick time.

It was Henry W. Savage who once said that there are seven failures for every success in the gamble of theatrical producing. That was many years ago, but that the same ratio holds good today is indicated by some expert guesswork on the past season's events. A considerable number of producers, directors and critics, presented with a list of nearly 200 plays, 190, to be exact, produced on the New York stage since last August and asked to name the financial failures in this number, established the following symposium of opinion. Of the total number, 160 lost money for their respective managers.

Traditional is the cry in the hall bedroom of the struggling young playwright that managers know nothing at all about plays, made bitter often by the curt rejection slips accompanying their script from managerial domains. And many members of the theater-going public, recalling bad evenings at the theater, join in the accusation. But the general public too often is kept in a confused and ignorant state of mind concerning theatrical ventures by the "yes-men" who tout each new dramatic appearance to the skies while the failures quietly pass on in a hush of uncommented obscurity.

CERTAIN random comments gleaned from the above judges of the season's failures indicate that no safe criterions exist for determining a play's financial worth.

What Is Going On BEHIND THE SCREENS Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 30.

"MORE sinned against than sinning" cannot be said of George Bancroft, Noah Beery and Wallace Beery, a triumvirate that represents the "baddest" of the motion picture screen's bad men.

These three villains have killed more men than any other three actors in the business. And incidentally, they have been killed more than any other three, a recent movie murder census shows.

Bancroft leads in killings. Ninety-seven lives have been snuffed out by murderous hands or his trusty six-shooter. He was the leading killer in "Old Ironsides." He will soon take two more lives in his role of the master gangster in the picture, "Underworld." He has been killed himself sixty-nine times.

Noah Beery has seventy-five notches in his revolver. He has been killed in pictures fifty-two times, including his well-earned demise in "Beau Geste."

Wallace Beery, statistics show, still stands high in the list, although he has reformed now and become a comedian. Forty-five times he has done his opponents to death in films. Fifty-two times he has met death himself.

Other actors high in the list are Ricardo Cortez, Raymond Hatton, George Seigman and William Powell. The record of Powell is unique. He has killed only four times, but himself has died by violence seventy-six times.

Earle Williams, veteran actor, died here this week. Bronchial pneumonia was the cause. His condition became so serious over the week-end that it became apparent that his chances for recovery were very slight. Williams achieved his greatest popularity while with Vitagraph. In recent years he had been free-lancing. He was California born and was educated at the Oakland Polytechnic and the University of California.

D. W. Griffith has been made director-general of the Art Cinema Finance Corporation and resumes his position as an active independent producer of films for United Artists' release, according to formal announcement made by Joseph M. Schenck, president and chairman of the Board of Directors of United Artists Corporation.

Schenck said that Griffith will make independent productions for United Artists' release "as long as he makes motion pictures."

Griffith will make his first picture under the new arrangement at the United Artists Studio, Los Angeles. The story which Mr. Griffith now has in mind will occupy eight to 10 months in filming, according to Schenck, who said he was not at liberty to divulge the name or nature of the story. Griffith will direct the picture personally.

D. W. Griffith, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin and Douglas Fairbanks founded United Artists Corportation in 1919 as a releasing organization for their independent film productions.

Practically every magazine, newspaper and house organ has its questionnaire column in every issue. At every gathering—social, business or political—the question craze is the rage. Already its popularity exceeds that of the cross-word puzzle in its heyday.

Now the movie fan will have an opportunity to test his knowledge at the theater in a series of single reel subjects scheduled for immediate release. These will appear on the silver sheet under the screen name of "Now I'll Ask Some!"

Who said the movies weren't educational?

Additions to the cast of Louise Fazenda's new picture, "Simple Sis," were announced this week. Clyde Cook has a role in this forthcoming comedy and Myrna Loy, William Demarest and Billy Kent Schaeffer will also appear in it.

The old Belasco play, "The Heart of Maryland," will be Dolores Costello's next starring picture for Warner Bros. Production will start in three weeks' time. Jason Robards will appear opposite Miss Costello. "The Heart of Maryland" first brought Mrs. Leslie Carter into prominence as a favorite.

After negotiations extending over a number of weeks, contracts have been signed whereby Will Rogers will star in Charles Hoyt's "A Texas Steer." Production will be started in June when the company will visit Washington, D. C., and Texas to obtain original locations for the famous play. The titles will be written by Rogers in his own style.

Clara Bow, has at last emerged from the wilderness of serious activity and is planning a vacation. Recently she was appearing in three different productions at one time. Now she is completing "Rough House Rosie," her latest starring piece, and the motor is being tuned up for a long trip. Later, she plans a trip to Paris. Miss Bow has the leading feminine role in "Wings."

"The Drop Kick" is the title selected to surplant "The Substitute," Richard Barthelmess' next starring vehicle. "The Drop Kick" is the screen adaptation of the novel, "Glitter," by Katherine Brush.

The production of "Who's Your Friend?" Richard Dix's next picture has begun. This will be the first Richard Dix picture produced on the West Coast in two years.

How Business Men Handle Opera—And Make It Pay in St. Louis

WHEN Musical Director Louis Kroll lifts his baton to summon the opening strains of "Robin Hood" for the first presentation of Municipal Opera's ninth annual season in the vast Forest Park amphitheater, he will not be acting the role of one who magically and mystically creates a new world of enchantment for others. Rather will he signalize the crystalization of a year of patient effort by a group of St. Louis' leading citizens.

For Municipal Opera has gone beyond the point of hasty assemblage, individual effort, and haphazard method, and expresses in its performances the experience of years of production and a year's concentrated, sedulous industry.

As it is today, Municipal Opera owes its success to no one man. Rather does it lie in the spirit of St. Louis. For the Municipal Theater Association, which has directed the fortunes of this civic institution to proportions that have attracted the attention of the world, is composed of the city's leading business and professional men.

IN fact, Municipal opera's organization commands business ability and artistic judgment greater than that of any one institution in the city—an array of experts whose time and experience are worth far more than $1,000,000 a year. And it obtains their services without the expenditure of a dollar, for its 42 directors serve without pay.

These directors are chosen from the more than 200 members of the association, each of whom has agreed to make up a portion of any deficit that may be incurred in providing St. Louis with summer entertainment at a nominal cost. Fourteen members of the board are elected every year for a period of three years—a situation that assures the association of experienced directors and at the same time opening the way to new and fresh blood.

The directors in turn select the 13 members of Executive Productions Committee which attends to every detail of production and governs practically all the expenditures. At an early meeting the Executive Productions Committee meets and elects its chairman, who this year is Harry L. Salisbury, Director of Public Welfare in St. Louis, while other members of the committee include M. E. Holderness, vice chairman, vice president of the First National Bank; Nelson Cunliff, general contractor; Thomas H. Lovelace, Fidelity Bond and Mortgage Co.; Col. Joseph Gilman Miller, railway equipment; Fred W. Pape, Commissioner of Parks and Recreation; Otto E. Rugg, contractor; Arthur Siegel, General Outdoor Advertising Co., and Charles M. Talbert, insurance. The president, treasurer, secretary and manager are ex-officio members of this committee.

To the chairman falls the naming of the chairmen of the various subcommittees which handle the details of opera production, and the subcommittee chairmen then select the members of their committee.

MUNICIPAL OPERA has reached such a perfected state, however, that each year does not mark a new start. Even while last summer's program was being performed, plans were under way for the summer of 1927, and upon the successful fabric of past years has been built the only financially successful opera organization of the world.

With the organization of the Executive Productions Committee and the subcommittees perfected the problem of laying out the summer's program then arises. In this the committee works with the manager of the association, David E. Russell, an experienced theatrical manager.

What seems a simple matter to the lay mind viewing an opera performance develops on close examination into a comprehensive, complicated problem. But under the machine-like operation of the association, having at its call such a galaxy of able civic leaders, Municipal Opera advances quickly from the embryo to the full grown product that St. Louisans flock to see every summer.

The Executive Productions Committee must function quickly, getting under way its stage and musical organization, the chorus school, the budget, the selection of cast and repertory, and a thousand and one other details.

FIRST comes the choice of a stage and musical director, who this year are Charles Sinclair and Louis Kroll, respectively, and both of whom are known to St. Louisans through their work last year. These two men have all winter been training the chorus in the association's chorus school, more than 250 St. Louis boys and girls trying for places in the chorus of 96.

And then comes the preparation of the budget. A dollar is a dollar with the committee and artistic enthusiasm must frequently give way to practical considerations. It is here that the business acumen of its membership stands the association in good stead, for the appropriations to each subcommittee must be well considered so that the total does not exceed the anticipated revenue.

At this point the next opera season is really launched. Manager Russell having prepared a list of available operas, the Executive Productions' Committee resolves itself into a committee to decide upon next season's repertory. Each committeeman is free to suggest works; to condemn others for bad scores or poor librettos; and, finally from the compendium of opinion, a group of 12 operas is announced for production.

Every opera, however, must be performed by a cast. But not every artist can perform an opera in the Municipal Theater. Eddie Cantor can't be called upon because his salary is too high. And Metropolitan Opera company stars won't sing every night for 12 weeks. Still other light opera performers couldn't master 12 operas in 12 successive weeks.

SO the Cast Committee, composed this year of Col. Joseph Gilman Miller, chairman; Nelson Cunliff, M. E. Holderness, Arthur Siegel, Otto E. Rugg and Manager David E. Russell, must limit itself to artists who can be engaged. With these limitations in mind the committee takes itself to New York and for day on day hears artists who would like to join the Municipal Opera cast. And finally from more than 300 applicants the Cast Committee this year selected: Myrtle Schaaf, prima donna soprano; Dorothy Seegar, ingenue; Jocleta Howe, soubrette; Anne Yago, contralto; Allan Rogers, tenor; Robert Pitkin, comedian; John Dunsmure, basso; Wm. J. McCarthy, second comedian.

While these matters are being taken care of, still another committee is functioning to make certain the ultimate presentation of municipal opera—the Finance, Membership and Guarantee Committee, composed of M. E. Holderness, chairman; Eugene Angert, Martin J. Collins, H. Worthington Eddy, Frank M. Mayfield, H. J. Pettengill, F. W. A. Vesper, who are insuring the integrity of municipal opera and St. Louis against a possibility of a deficit. In past years the guarantors have not had to make good a loss except in 1919, for which they were later reimbursed.

If municipal opera adhered to the tradition of the ancient theater, only a few rehearsals would be necessary, but, as it doesn't, scenery, costumes, publicity and numerous other details must be considered.

For instance, the costume committee, comprising Charles M. Talbert, chairman; Sigmund Baer, Thomas H. Lovelace, Col. Martin J. Collins and F. A. Sudholt must select gowns and dresses that will be worn, and consider whether they fit the period of the opera plot. And under the direction of the Settings Committee, consisting of Nelson Cunliff, chairman, the

Some Screen Beauties Who Became Stars and Proved They Could Act

By NIE.

LONG before motion pictures were ever dreamed of there was a cigarette picture—ask Dad, he remembers—which used to fascinate the youth of the land. It showed a little girl, a pretty little girl, dressed as Cupid seated on a wall and reaching out for a butterfly. It was usually the prize of most collections and could be got only in exchange, from other collectors, for three Lillian Russells and five Pauline Halls. It was a picture of Fannie Ward, a St. Louis girl, born in "The Patch" who went on the stage and scored a success, more on account of her beauty than any great histrionic ability.

Times passed as they have a way of doing. Fannie Ward married a South African diamond millionaire and retired from the stage. Then she was left a widow and later married Jack Dean, a stage and screen actor. Fannie tried the picture game herself without any great success. Twelve years ago she "retired" again. Now, billed as the "everlasting flapper" or something of that sort, Fannie is back on the stage, in vaudeville, and today, coming to the Orpheum Theater, she is paying her first visit to her home town in 25 years.

Twenty-five years is a long time, you say, in the life of an actress. It doesn't mean much to Fannie, however, for, although she is still playing flappers and, according to report, looking the part, she is 62 years old.

ANOTHER old-timer—nothing like as old as Fannie, to be sure, but old in the rather youthful motion pictures—is Clara Kimball Young, who is also in St. Louis this week making personal appearances at the St. Louis Theater. Every picture fan remembers Clara Kimball Young who was one of the first stars of the cinema and who has spent most of her life on the stage.

Her childhood was spent with the old repertoire company of that fine actor, John Kimball. While Mr. and Mrs. Kimball were playing some of the standard tear-creators of the day, their baby daughter Clara used to entertain herself in the dressing room, dabbling in the make-up boxes and trying on her mother's stage wigs. Finally, at the age of three, the child who had lived entirely in the theater atmosphere, decided that the time was ripe to begin her career.

The play was "Hazel Kirke." The scene was that tense moment when the old couple are preparing to meet their daughter who had been away for 22 years. But instead of the usual sobs and sniffs, a great wave of laughter went up from the audience. There trotted out from the wings a tiny figure in a plaid shawl and white wig, who announced in a prattling voice, "I wanna' act, too." It was none other than Clara Kimball.

"It spoiled the play," says Miss Young, "but the next night they let me go on for a scene in 'Peck's Bad Boy,' and I did a song and dance. From then on I did character songs all through my early childhood and in singing such old hits as "All Coons Look Alike to Me.' I was called the miniature May Irwin."

LIKE Fannie Ward, Clara Kimball Young was one of the beauties of the screen on which she was first shown in 1912. So speaking of beauties, it is no step to a discussion of Corinne Griffith, whose latest picture, "Three Hours," is at the Ambassador. For Corinne got into the camera's eye on her looks alone, by way of a beauty contest. Her ability to act for the screen came later.

Corinne was born in Texarkana,

Work for Girls In the Movies Close to Home

Business End of the Theaters, Not Acting, Opens Up a New Field for Young Women.

GIRLS who are longing to pack up their trunks and start for the studios of Hollywood, Cal., with the hope of a spectacular job of acting "in the movies" may not care much about hearing it, but there are thousands of good, substantial jobs opening up for women in the motion-picture industry right in their own home towns, or in near-by cities if the towns are merely a blot on the map. So says Janise Rentchler, graduate of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, who has charge of a new department created by Skouras Brothers for their movie houses in St. Louis.

According to Miss Rentchler 83 per cent of the patrons of the movie houses are women which has caused the powers that be in the local theater field to believe that a woman should be put in the position of creating interest among other women in the pictures. Now Miss Rentchler has the job and she goes to women's clubs and other organizations of that sort and talks up the shows which are on view when the pictures have some special appeal to the 83 per cent.

This is called "public relations" work. Few women, as yet, have gone in for it, but some of them have created interesting, lucrative and constructive work in this field. Every owner of a large theater, or chain of theaters, is potentially in the market for a woman to do this sort of work, especially if the theater caters to a "neighborhood crowd."

"They can get the experience as they go along," says Miss Rentchler. "They will have to do it anyway—for the work in every individual theater field would be different. Also because there are few women at present in this work, few precedents have been laid down.

"The motion-picture theater needs a direct point of contact with the important element of the community in which it operates," she said. "One of the greatest problems tha tconfronts the exhibitor is that of bringing into his house the people who will be especially interested in the picture he is showing. The theater manager who does this increases the patronage of his house and the good-will of his patrons.

"The two biggest public relations jobs in the country have been created by and are held by women—one in Washington and one in California. These women, working from the theater out to the public, bringing church people into the theater to see pictures of a religious or moral nature, notifying the schools when a program has special educational value, telling mothers what pictures are especially fine for children and warning them against one made for the adult audiences, are, as valuable employes of the theater, rendering a service to their community, and—which is not to be overlooked—making a comfortable living.

"They run Saturday morning matinees for children and act as consultants, bureau of information and publicity agents of a specialized type. The work calls for initiative, originality and energy."

Miss Rentchler, in her own work, has had an opportunity to watch closely the growing interest of schools in motion pictures used for classrooms and in school auditoriums. In it she sees a great future for women who want to go wisely about the building up of useful "jobs" for themselves.

"The use of motion pictures in the classroom is coming, and coming very rapidly," said Miss Rentchler. "The school systems that are using pictures most successfully have visual instruction departments with a person in charge giving all his or her time to the selection of visual aids, to correlating them with subjects taught and to the mechanics of routing and showing them in the schools. The use of visual aids to teaching is still new enough to be somewhat experimental and, therefore, elastic. In this field, as in that of public relations, women can find work in their own towns—work that demands initiative and creative ability—pioneer activity in work that in the next few years will be enormously important.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By Alexander Woollcott

NEW YORK, April 30.

THE week just closing brought two musical comedies to town—one an importation from the shores of the blue Danube, put on at the Winter Garden, the other a home-made piece staged at the Belasco. The former is "The Circus Princess," a merry, tuneful Kalman operetta at which the goings on of such comedians as George Hassell, Poodles Hanneford and George Bickel kept your correspondent in such a state of chuckles that he quite forgot his habitual disdain for this form of entertainment.

The other is "Hit the Deck," a musical version of an erstwhile Belasco production called "Shore Leave." A good many of Mr. Belasco's portly argosies have come to grief on the rocks in the past two years, and he himself has been laid up for weeks after an automobile accident, so that when "Lulu Belle" finished its long run here the other night, he had no production ready to take its place. Therefore, he gratefully took in this passing musical comedy, the first time a musical comedy has ever been lodged in his theater and only the second time in 20 years he has had to rely on the productive energies of someone other than his amazing self to keep his stage busy and his beloved curtain up.

"SHORE LEAVE" was no great great shakes when it was new and by the time the librettist, in the process of reshaping it for musical comedy, had thrown most of the original away, he must have shared my old wonder in such cases as to why he had not been permitted to start from scratch. I have not had a chance to attend "Hit the Deck." I gather, however, from the reviews by other pundits of the press that it's nautical but it's nice.

"Shore Leave" was an uneventful comedy, the last of Mr. Belasco's many desperate efforts to find a profitable play for Frances Starr. So impish, so urchin, so perverse is the human memory that though Miss Starr, I am sure, played exquisitely in its leading role, though James Rennie lounged virilely through its romance and though its Wizard, of course, lavished endless care upon its least detail, the only thing I recall distinctly about "Shore Leave" was that it was during its dress rehearsal in Atlantic City that Mr. Belasco fell off the stage into the orchestra pit. He injured his hands a little in the fall and that night at the first performance, when, according to imemorial custom, the star led the reluctant Wizard from the wings to acknowledge the plaudits of the audience, the hands were still swathed in bandages. It made an affecting picture, so good a one in fact, that though the hands had sufficiently recovered to be busy next day at a thousand tasks, back they had to go into those bandages the next night in time for the curtain calls. And so on, I was told, throughout the week in Atlantic City.

It is the scandalized omission of endearing anecdotes like this one which so impoverishes the sundry Belasco biographies. He has told his own life story to several historians, rescuing himself and them from boredom by making it quite a story each time, but the resulting chronicles have all been so circumspect that only dull books have thus far been written about one of the most fantastic, delightful, entertaining and fabulous beings who, both for themselves and for the onlookers, have relieved the tedium of being alive in twentieth century America.

IN the dearth of new plays I have been to a movie and am irrevocably on record as having been made just a little sick by it. This was the gospel according to Hollywood, the already celebrated picture called "The King of Kings" which the mighty Cecil De Mille conjured up from a scenario written by Matthew, Mark, Luke, John and Jeanie Macpherson. Now, in a theater just across the dorrsill from the passing Broadway through while soft, music from muted strings and choirs invisible caress you, the screen tells in its own way the tale of the betrayal, the torture, the crucifixion and the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

It is my guess that "The King of Kings" will girdle the globe and I have heard it predicted by the sages that the multitude will still be flocking to it in 1947. In an age when a whole generation has been bred to receive no impressions from printed or spoken word half so vivid as those they receive from pictures, I think it more than likely that the Gospel according to Cecil De Mille will reach and color more minds than any other.

SINCE much of the picture is beautiful and all of it interesting, I have been at some pains to guess at the cause of my own stubborn resistance to it. I share none of the deep, ingrained notion (far more widespread than we Broadwayites are wont to suspect) that the theater is really a house of shame and that there is an inherent impropriety in its daring to lay hands on a sacred relic. We have allowed this tale to be told in gaudy chromos. Surely the movies should be suffered to have a go at it.

I think my own resistance derived in part from the inevitable belittling of the story when (by dealing, perhaps necessarily, with its externals) that story is reduced to a conventional melodrama of betrayal, with Caiaphas as the leering, Faginesque villain and the Magdalene thrown in for sex appeal. Here is the deathless story told without so much as a hint of the woeful understanding that Christ was crucified by the machinations of no mere ten, twent', thirt' villain, but by all the smugness and meanness and poltroonery that was in the Jerusalem of His time, just as ever since in every land and every age. He is crucified afresh. And certain it is that "The King of Kings" carefully avoids lingering on His doctrines, notably those firebrand doctrines which the greater part of Christendom for 2000 years has found it so convenient to forget.

BUT chiefly, I think, I was disaffected by an utter inability to forget for one moment that this was none other than the Jimmy Valentine of yesteryear, none other than our old friend, H. B. Warner, rigged out in a beard and some draperies and acting away for dear life for so much a week. When this figure is seen at a distance—when it is glimpsed, for instance, in a flash of lightning as a white, bent, piteous body nailed to a cross—the illusion is created, the spell is woven.

But the close-ups! Those close-ups of Christ! I am haunted now by the memory of them, the industrious Warner's prodigies of facial expression, registering benevolence till one's face fairly ached with sympathy. When Warner was watching Ernest Torrence deny him for the second time, I could think of nothing except the amused pat-on-the-head compassion of Sherlock Holmes watching Dr. Watson in the throes of trying to think.

IT is the smell of grease-paint, the aroma of Hollywood which comes as a strong, dismaying whiff from the screen. It is something that must, I imagine, be utterly lacking from the peasant pieties of Oberammergau. And so potent is the human imagination when playing fondly with its tattered dolls, not all the sorcery of De Mille nor all the fortune at his command could make of H. B. Warner a figure half so illusive, half so full of wonder, as the streak of light that used to come out of the wings in "Ben-Hur."

All of which hemming and hawing might be reduced to a faint protest against an animated Bible which gets its Christ from the Lambs' Club.

Forest Park Highlands To Start Season Today

Among the new amusement devices installed at Forest Park Highlands, which opens today in the inauguration of its thirty-first consecutive season, is an exciting apparatus known as Tilt-a-Whirl, which consists of 12 coaches each seating four passengers, these coaches being on a revolving disk with a jumble attachment that is straightened out after a bit and then the coaches shoot along an inclined track until they arrive at another jumble when the merrymakers are wobbled about from side to side.

The fun house has many new things for merriment, the dance pavilion will have a new summer dance orchestra, the "rides" are all in place, there will be band concerts at Tokio Gate pavilion by Phil Baxter and his Texas Tommies who dispense jazz; there will be vaudeville twice daily, the racer dips are to be in full operation and the circle swing will add its quota to the excitement.

Although Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky have announced their engagement, the newest pictures of the pair present the lovers opposite Dolores del Rio and Ronald Colman, respectively. Rod is starred in "Resurrection," with Dolores del Rio, and Vilma is co-featured for the fourth time with Ronald Colman in "The Magic Flame."

With the Amateur Players

THE LITTLE THEATER, of Washington University will present Philip Barry's "The Youngest," at the Artists' Guild, Union boulevard and Enright avenue, the evenings of May 5 and 6. This production marks the second of Little Theater's presentations of this year. The play is a comedy of modern American life written by the author of "You and I," and "In a Garden."

The production has been in rehearsal under Miss Marian Epstein and Harry R. McClain, for the past eight weeks. The cast follows: Nancy Blake, Carol Crowe; Muff, Maxine Goldman; Augusta, Dorothy Braudenburger; Mrs. Winslow, Genevieve Harnett; Maid, Ruth Moore; Richard Winslow, Bill Heuer; Alan Martin Gardener; Mark, Martin Gardener; Oliver, Jerry Gruner and Oliver, Paul Chamberlain.

The executive staff for the play consists of Henrietta Neuman, Sally Hutchinson and Eugene Baher.

On Wednesday night the Young People's League of Salem Evangelical Church, Shreve and Margaretta avenues, will present "A Full House," a farce in three acts by Fred Jackson.

Those in the cast are: Arthur Schneider, Esther Becker, Mrs. Richard Dammkoehler, Hildegarde Krause, Alice Davis, Emmett Ganninger, Fred Brueckner, Frank Klockmann, Alfred Beckman, William Lodl, Fred Sickerman, Sophia Naar, Melba Lotze and Doris Gerdel.

"The Ace of Clubs," a three-act mystery play, will be presented by the Perpetual Help Young Men's Sodality tonight and Wednesday evening, at 8:15 at the parish hall, Twenty-first street and Linton avenue. Dancing will follow the performance.

The Players of Holy Family Parish, under the direction of Rev. Charles P. Schmitt, will present Booth Tarkington's famous play, "Seventeen," at their hall, Oak Hill avenue and Humphrey street, tonight and Tuesday night. Francis B. Gerst will play the leading role of Willie Baxter, and will be assisted by Glen Saxton, Larry Bannes, Sylvester Kuntz, Dan Beffa, Ed Blumfelder, Bill Krull, Josephine Gerst, Carrie Free, Gertrude Weber, Helen Bannes, Hildegarde Krull and Marie Cowie.

HOW MUNICIPAL OPERA IS PUT ON IN ST. LOUIS

art director is laying out models suggested by the committee, and after approval is turning them over to the carpenters to build.

CERTAIN showmen have declared that the theater business is a matter of detail. So it seems to the members of other committees, just as important, whose work can not be pointed to specifically on the stage. The administration committee, including W. B. Weisenburger, chairman; John B. Strauch and Paul J. Wielandy is, for instance, preparing the budget, auditing accounts, paying debts, and maintaining offices.

In their province rests the problem of ticket reservations—a mammoth one, indeed, when one considers that Municipal Opera has more reserved seats than Barnum and Bailey's circus combined with Ringling Brothers, and handles more tickets in a night than the average theater does in a month.

All orders must be taken care of flawlessly, and to its credit Municipal Opera has built up the most comprehensive system of reservations in the world, one that includes more than 2500 season reservations usually made before one season has ended.

On May 1 the ticket problem becomes even more complex with the opening of the main ticket offices in the lobby of the Arcade building. Here one may buy tickets for the twelfth week—a condition not existing in any other theater.

In the meantime the publicity committee, G. A. Buder, E. Lansing Ray, Elzey Roberts, and Joseph Pulitzer with Arthur Siegel as chairman, is with its salaried publicity manager devising means of keeping Municipal Opera before the public.

NEWSPAPER stories, both in St. Louis and out of town; billboards within a radius of 75 miles; circulars distributed by stores; bus advertising; and bus and railroad co-operation are among the means of acquainting the world with Municipal Opera. And that the world has been reached is attented by the numerous staff men sent here to cover opera and the columns of free publicity received in out-of-town newspapers.

By May 1 the chorus has begun intensive drilling for its summer's work. The cast arrives two weeks prior to the opening of the season. But even yet Municipal Opera is not ready. The Auditorium Committee, headed by Fred W. Pape, is attending to the physical structure of the theater, rushing the completion of recent improvements and engaging ushers so that 10,000 may be seated nightly without any inconvenience.

The Charities Committee, with Thomas H. Lovelace, chairman; Robert D. Corlett, Walter S. Donaldson, Arthur Kocian, B. H. Pollock and Charles Welsch as members, is receiving applications for free tickets, and arranging to accommodate inmates of city institutions on Monday nights, more than 22,000 enjoying Municipal Opera through this committee's work last year.

The Entertainment Committee, comprised of Herman Spoehrer, chairman; Charles M. Talbert and Robert Brooks, is also making arrangements to entertain the cast and chorus during the summer.

By this time rehearsals of cast and chorus have become a daily routine. The dress rehearsal is set. It is over. And the first night is imminent—an evening that seems wondrously smooth to the thousands of spectators, but one that has demanded infinite care and attention from certain citizens who are making their dream of entertainment beauty come true in an institution "of the people, by the people and for the people," and one that has sent the name of St. Louis around the world as a truly great art center.

Facing the Music

TODAY marks the beginning of the fourth National Music Week. The Music Week idea has made tremendous strides since its inception some eight years ago. One of the earliest Music Weeks held anywhere was observed right here in St. Louis the week of Nov. 4, 1919. In 1924 Music Week became a national institution and its observance has been proportionate, the last year's celebration embracing over 1300 communities.

During the past week preparations have been under way to make the local observance a worthy one. In schools and studios, in the theaters and the movies, special programs are under way to emphasize the value of music to the community. Some portion of every church service will be devoted to extolling the power of music as the handmaid of religion.

The climax of the local Music Week observance will be reached in the Festival Concert to be given next Saturday night, in the Scottish Rite auditorium under the auspices of the Musicians' Guild of St. Louis and the Scottish Rite Cathedral. The program follows:

Eight Piano Ensemble.

The Musical Research Club will have its New Members' day at the home of Miss Effie Less, 6210 Westminster place. Members taking part on the program are Miss Sylvia Walden, Mrs. H. Rubelman Walden, Mrs. K. Buchanan and Mrs. J. L. Bowling. Mrs. Hugo Wiemers, president, will give a report of the biennial convention held last week in Chicago. On May 10 the annual concert will be given in the form of a musical tea to be held at the Forest Park Hotel.

The pupils of Miss Laura Boette will give a violin recital Saturday afternoon, May 7, from 2:30 to 4:15 p. m., in the music hall of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney.

The Cherniavsky Trio will appear in recital as the last number of the Principia Concert and Lecture Course, in Howard Hall, The Principia, Friday evening, May 6, at 8:15.

The musical program at the Church of the Messiah today as the official opening of Music Week, will be under the direction of William John Hall, with an organ recital by Mr. Hall.

BAD BUSINESS AND BETTER ROAD SHOWS

"An American Tragedy," though enjoying 229 performances, was termed a mediocre success. "The Constant Nymph," with big success in the first four weeks, just got by for the remainder of its 146 performances. "The Donovan Affair," with 131 performances to its credit, made money the first five weeks and lost thereafter. "If I Were Rich," with 92 New York performances, never had a winning week, financially. On the other hand, "New York Exchange" did very badly the first two weeks, and, moving to a new house, did good business. Then there are plays such as "The Ghost Train," "Honor Be Damned," "The Honor of the Family" and "The Judge's Husband," which played to profit out of New York and were dismal failures on Broadway. And two plays are given the distinction of having played to a gross profit of over $10,000 weekly, to fail nevertheless, due to an excessively high cost of production, "A Woman Disputed," and "Yellow."

THE list of 190 plays compiled for the judgment of the managers, directors and critics, excluded musical plays, productions held over into this season from the last, and plays which have just opened and therefore cannot be judged as successes or failures, as the case may be. Of this list, then, more may be said. Many will have it that the length of a play's stay on Broadway is no index to its worth, but it may be of interest to note the short runs of the past season, to offset the box scores of long time runs, registering numbers in three and four figures. Below is listed play, playwright and number of performances, from that number of productions which did not last beyond the three weeks' mark in a play's life.

Spellbound—Walter Elwood ...	3
Babbling Brookes—E. D. Thomas	3
The Black Cockatoo—Samuel Ruskin Golding	4

Treat 'Em Rough—Frederick and Fanny Hatton	24

It is a long list—this list of absolute failures. Though the reader who happens to go to New York during the present theatrical year may pause to shed a tear over some of the plays included therein as deserving of a less sudden swan song, he may remember that many other productions, in his mind less worthy though enjoying a longer run, were quite as dismal failures. Certain it is he may be tempted to question the judgment of the managers who produce successes so very infrequently in the course of a season.

Eula Guy to Play Rosalind at Garden

Thomas Wood Stevens, production director of Garden Theater, has selected Eula Guy for the part of Rosalind in "As You Like It," with which the season will open June 7. Miss Guy has appeared in this in New York and Chicago and in other parts of the country.

Flint Garrison, general manager of the theater, hopes to keep Miss Guy in St. Louis for the entire season. She will play in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," in which her work attracted attention here last season. Other parts she created here will be entrusted to her once more, if she can be persuaded to stay for the entire season.

Preceding the Garden Theater season, Guy Golterman will present "Madame Butterfly." Upon the close of the season, the Fashion Show will be given, as usual.

Tex., and after attending school her home town was sent by her parents to finish her education the Sacred Heart Convent in New Orleans. Soon after graduation she allowed her name to be suggested as candidate for Queen of the Mardi Gras, and was the unanimous choice of the judges, thus gaining the first public recognition of her beauty.

Later she went with her family to California and lived at Santa Monica, where occasionally she played extra parts for the Vitagraph company. She had no intention at that time of following a career as an actress, but played the small parts in the pictures purely for amusement.

Again her beauty caught the attention of a director, who advised her to become a member of the stock company at $15 a week where, he told her, she would have a better opportunity to advance in the profession. She accepted the offer and in a few months was entrusted with more important parts.

THE Vitagraph company was then controlling studios both in California and New York. Miss Griffith was elevated to leading roles in the pictures made in the West, and then followed a more attractive offer, which she accepted, to go to the Vitagraph New York Studios, to be featured and later starred in more important pictures being made in the East.

From then on her career was assured. She continued with the Vitagraph company for some months, and later became identified with the Selznick company. Under this company's banner she was starred in "The Common Law" and "Six Days." Leaving the Selznick company, she became identified with First National Pictures, and since then all of her starring vehicles have been released by this organization.

Her initial First National picture was Frank Lloyd's "Black Oxen." Then followed "Single Wives," and in turn "Declasse," "The Marriage Whirl," "Infatuation," "Classified," "Mademoiselle Modiste," "Into Her Kingdom," "Syncopating Sue" and "The Lady in Ermine."

Miss Griffith in private life is Mrs. Walter Morosco. Her husband is the son of Oliver Morosco, former stage and screen producer. She is considered one of the wealthiest of all screen stars, having successfully invested her earnings in Southern California and real estate. She owns considerable property and land in Hollywood and Beverly Hills, and in the latter city she holds title to a business block, named after herself, as well as several homes. She is also the owner of "The Wanderlust," one of the swiftest and most pretentious yachts on the Pacific Coast.

"White Collars" to Be Acted.

A three-act comedy, "White Collars," will be presented at 8 p. m. Wednesday at Pilgrim Lutheran Sunday School auditorium, Fair and Florissant avenues.

The late Richard Harding Davis was the author of Vera Reynolds' next starring feature at the De Mille studios. "The Bar Sinister" is the story, although this title will be changed, and actual camera work will begin within a week.

BUDGET OF $146,500 TO PROTECT HEALTH

Anti-Tuberculosis Society Appropriates $15,500 More Than Last Year.

The Tuberculosis and Health Society will intensify its activities along some lines this year, with a total increase in the annual budget of $15,500 over last year. The announcement was made following a directors' meeting yesterday. The total appropriation is $146,500.

Health education was the heaviest item, with $45,000 set aside for it, an increase of $5000 over last year. The object is to demonstrate the value of antituberculosis and health work so that gradually all the activities of the society may be taken over by city, county or State departments. It inaugurates new projects, but intends at the earliest possible stage to turn them over to the proper authorities for continuance.

Although open air school work is one of the most important of the health promotion and disease prevention activities of the society, the budget for this work has been set at $34,500, while last year's budget was $37,000. The decrease, however, was not due to less work in this department, but to the fact that more families are paying for the meals of children now than formerly.

The Night and Day Camp, 9500 South Broadway, which is maintained the year round for self-supporting girls and young women who are physically run down and in need of rest to rebuild them in health, last year cost the society $10,005. This year's estimated expenditure for the camp is set at $12,000.

Medical work and medical social service will also be expanded this year, an appropriation of $7500 having been made for these departments. Last year $5500 was spent by them. Health projects of State and national scope have been given a budget of $9000. Last year $6500 was apportioned this work. An appropriation of $2500 has been made for emergency work.

Health activities in St. Louis County, which include the employment of two nurses, one to do tuberculosis work and the other preschool age work, in co-operation with the County Health Department, have been given a budget of $7500 this year, an increase of $2000 over last year's. Other county activities include dental inspection and stimulation of health education in schools.

General administration requires 10 per cent of the budget allowance, according to the report. The receipts of the society last year were $125,354.35. The principal sources of revenue are the Christmas health seals and the midsummer benefit ball game, while about $10,000 is donated by interested individuals.

The society is not a member of the Community Fund. It is indorsed by the Charities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought in any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Bring Out the Hidden Beauty

A face which is aged, faded or discolored is never a pretty face. There are many kinds of ugly complexions, and the causes are infinite, yet to use a trite phrase, "Beneath that old, withered complexion is one fair to look upon," is only repeating what women in high social positions have known for generations. To reveal the beautiful under the skin, you must peel off the outer skin. You can do this quickly, surely and safely, at home, with pure mercolized wax.

Purchase an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter. Apply like a cold cream to face, at bedtime, for a few nights; washing off in the morning. Tiny invisible flakes of skin are regularly washed away with the wax. Freckles, blackheads, liver spots, moth patches fleck off and skin imperfections disappear like magic. No pain and no inconvenience. Soon the young, live underneath skin appears clear, soft, girlishly charming and enchantingly beautiful. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Country Club Opens For "Little Season"

THE interim between the arrival of the elite from their winter homes and their departure not many weeks hence to their mmer abodes is made more pleasant each ar by the spring parties at the various untry clubs.

Last night the St. Louis Country Club, in a attire, gave its opening dinner of the "little season." Flowers decorated the bles, some of which were laid on the veran-, and dancing followed.

Among the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman of 32 Westmoreland place, who entertained some of the debutantes of the past winter: Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Anerson who had a dinner for 75 guests; Mrs. loyd P. Wells, Mr. Louis Werner, Mr. and rs. Eugene D. Nims, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammar, Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson Lamert, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Clark, Mr. and rs. William H. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul kewell Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett, r. and Mrs. Firmin V. Desloge, and Mr. and rs. Harold Simpkins.

The Bellerive Country Club opened a week o, and the first spring dinner dance at nset Hill Country Club is scheduled for dnesday.

The opening dance at the Glen Echo Coun- Club will take place later this month.

MISS ELAINE MABLEY, daughter of Mrs. Fanny Woodward Mabley, has chosen May 11 as the date of her marriage to ank Schramm of Burlington, Ia. The cereny will take place at the College Club, 28 Delmar boulevard, at 8 o'clock in the ning, the Rev. Dr. George R. Dodson of Church of the United officiating. A reption will follow.

The bride will be attended by her sisters, s. F. Leonard Hall, formerly Miss Frances bley, and Mrs. Warren Clark of Burling-, formerly Miss Hilda Mabley; her cousin, s. Alf Gunderson of La Cross, Wis.; Miss rolyn Schramm, sister of the bridegroom, d Miss Alice Clark. James Schramm will his brother's best man, and Mr. Clark, Hall, Sterling Lord of Burlington and F. Bell Hawkes of Buffalo, N. Y., will be groomsmen.

Mr. Schramm will take his bride on a motor trip in the West for their wedding trip and they will reside in Burlington.

Among the pre-wedding parties planned is a buffet supper at which Mrs. Mabley will be hostess, at the College Club for the bridal party.

Mrs. Clark and her small daughter, Judith, will arrive tomorrow from Burlington to remain for the ceremony.

Miss Mabley and her fiance are graduates of the University of Wisconsin. Miss Mabley is a granddaughter of the late Prof. Calvin M. Woodward of Washington University.

PROMINENT women, who are members of the Garden Club of St. Louis, are devoting time to preparations for the Eighth Annual Amateur Flower Show, to be held at the Missouri Botanical Gardens, Saturday, May 21, and Sunday, May 22.

There are special awards for flower boxes, and for miniature gardens which are made of artificial materials on small trays. Members of the Garden Club will not compete with the public for the ribbons, and there will be separate classes for city and county exhibitors. Mrs. Edward J. Walsh and Mrs. James T. Drummond are co-chairmen of the show, and other committees are headed by Mrs. Charles M. Rice, Mrs. W. N. Mathews, Mrs. Frederick von Windegger, Mrs. Edmund H. Simmons, Mrs. Herman von Schrenk, and Miss Katherine Perkins and Miss Grace Morrill. A premium book may be obtained from the Missouri Botanical Gardens.

Mrs. Albert D. Nortoni will give a luncheon for Mrs. Smith at the St. Louis Woman's Club Thursday, and Mrs. Scott Porter will give an informal luncheon at the Forest Park Hotel Friday. Wednesday Mrs. Fred Howe will give a similar affair.

Miss Marie Nugent Becomes Bride of Thomas M. Conroy

THE charm of spring was emphasized in the wedding of Miss Olga Marie Nugent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent of 5228 Westminster place, and Thomas Michael Conroy of Cincinnati, O., which was solemnized at St. Peter's Episcopal Church late Wednesday afternoon. The services were read by the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Travers in the presence of a large and fashionable gathering. The chancel was banked with palms and cybodium ferns and vases of snapdragons adorned the altar, while hydrangeas were used at the altar rail.

The bride was attended by an attractive group of young women. Her sister, Miss Edwine Nugent was maid of honor, Mr. Conroy's sister, Mrs. Harold R. Le Blonde of Cincinnati, O., matron of honor, and Miss Jane Parsons, Miss Marie Carr Taylor, Miss Janet Wallace, Miss Estelle Manville of New York, Mrs. David Randolph Calhoun of Chicago, and Mrs. Samuel Fitzhugh Gordon were bridesmaids.

The bride was beautifully gowned in ivory tinted satin fashioned with a deep square bertha of duchess lace and long close-fitting satin sleeves. The two-piece skirt was caught at the front in a circular drape and held in place by an ornament of slug pearl, crystals and rhinestones. A graceful flaring court train five yards in lengths, in which was inserted a scarf of duchess and rose point lace and lined with shirred puffings of ivory chiffon, depended from her shoulders. Her diaphanous veil of tulle fell from a duchess lace and tulle coronet. She carried lilies of the valley.

The youthful maid of honor wore a white chiffon frock with a lace bertha draped in the back to form a blouse. The skirt was three tiers of French pleated chiffon and her girdle was of chiffon ending in a soft bow. She wore a silver and white hair braid hat trimmed in a narrow silver ribbon and carried Shasta daisies tied in silver. The bridesmaids were gowned in lettuce green chiffon with full skirts held in place by imported girdles in three shades of green taffeta. They wore large hair braid hats to match and carried lavender sweet peas tied with silver.

The bride's gift to her attendants were black moire vanities with gold monograms. Mr. Conroy gave his bride a pearl bracelet fastened with an emerald and diamond clasp and gave his groomsmen silver banded [illegible]

Weddings and Engagements Of the Week

Miss Susan Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas S. Lewis of 4322 Washington boulevard, became the bride Thursday evening at St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church of William H. Petring, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George H. Petring. The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt performed the ceremony. The chancel of the church was covered with smilax and palms, and a single cluster of Easter lilies formed a background for the bridal party, with a standard of candles at each side.

The bride wore white georgette, adorned with old family duchess lace and orange blossoms. The skirt was made in tiers with an uneven hemline, and there was a sheer white georgette train with a panel of rare duchess lace, and the whole bordered with satin. Her veil was held by a lace bandeau and orange blossoms, and fell all around her like a misty cloud. Her only ornament was an old-fashioned pearl necklace, and she carried lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Mansur Tebbetts, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and she, with the bridesmaids, Miss Emma Petring, Miss Claudine Fay, Miss Virginia Becker and Miss Alice Strauch, were gowned alike in cream lace over lettuce green satin. The maids carried spring blossoms, and the matron of honor pink roses and baby's breath, tied with green. Dr. Barrett Brown was best man, and the groomsmen were John Lewis, Harold Hungerford, Wesley Lieders and Mansur Tebbetts.

After the ceremony the members of the bridal party met at the Lewis home informally, and Mr. and Mrs. Petring departed for Hot Spring, Va., where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside at 6253 Southwood on their return. Both are graduates of Washington University and the bride is an alumna of Mary Institute.

Announcement was made Wednesday of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Phillips, daughter of Douglas A. Phillips of 5528 Pershing avenue, and Carl F. Meyer, also of this city. The announcement was made at an informal tea given by Mrs. Thomas M. Meston of 501 Clara avenue, sister of Miss Phillips, for the close friends of the bride-to-be.

Miss Phillips was graduated at Mary Institute and has been popular socially since making her debut. Mr. Meyer is the son of Mrs. George A. Meyer of 470 Lake avenue and a brother of Mrs. John A. McKay of 5133 Westminster place. The wedding, which will be a social event of the early summer, will take place at the home of Mrs. Meston.

An interesting spring wedding was that of Miss Emily Nash Mullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mullen of 5729 Cates avenue, and Dr. Goronwy Owen Broun, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Broun of Mobile, Ala., which was solemnized Friday morning at St. Rose's Church, the Rev. Father J. J. McGlynn officiating. The altar was adorned in masses of greenry combined with dogwood blossoms and iris.

Mrs. William Howard Arnold, wife of Lieut. Arnold of Jefferson Barracks, was her sister's only attendant. Dr. Broun had for his best man his brother, Oscar Broun of Leake, Miss.

The bride was gowned in white georgette made with a bolero bodice and a two tiered skirt with an uneven hemline. The sleeves were puffed to the elbo and close fitting to the hand. The girdle was of chiffon held with an ornament of pearls. There was a chiffon court train and the tulle veil was held to the bride's hair by a tulle cap banded with dutchess lace. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was gowned in beige chiffon and chantilly lace with a girdle of peach blow satin, and a beige hair braid hat trimmed with a single beige rose. She carried butterfly roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bride's parents. The receiving party stood before the mantle banked with roses and snap dragons and more of the same blossoms were used on the dining room table.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Ruth Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Henri Wilson of 7454 Hazel avenue, to James Hartigan Ready of St. Joseph, Mo., at a bridge luncheon given by Miss Wilson in the Italian room of the Forest Park Hotel.

The table was decorated in red roses, white sweet peas and blue delphinium and was lighted by red, white and blue candles. The places were marked by small flags and colonial corsages were given as favors. A tiny document tied in ribbons of the national colors, told the news of the approaching wedding, which will take place early in June. The military motif was employed in the decorations for the party due to the fact that Mr. Ready will enter the service of the Government following his graduation in June from the St. Louis University Medical School.

Twenty guests were invited to the luncheon.

The engagement of Miss Dorothea Protzmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L Protzmann 10927 Riverview drive, to Fred C. Klingbeil was announced at a bridge-luncheon given at the Missouri Athletic Association.

The table was decorated in showers of Spring flowers and at each guest's place was a bouquet of spring flowers in which was a tiny card bearing the names and disclosing the announcement.

Mr. Klingbeil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klingbeil.

The marriage of Miss Adele Eugenie Stocking, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert E. Stocking of DeSoto, Mo., and John Marshall Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Thompson, of Tulsa, Ok., took place Tuesday at the Hotel Coronado. Dr. Clarence Burton, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of DeSoto, who married the bride's parents, performed the ceremony. Only members of the family and a few friends were present.

Miss Stockings is a graduate of Washington University and is a member of the Delta Sorority. Mr. Thompson is a graduate of the Duncker School of Business and Public Administration of Washington University and is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left on a motor trip through the East and will make their home in DeSoto.

The engagement of Miss Arline Lecoutour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lecoutour of 4162 Flora place, and Charles E. Briner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Briner of 17 Aberdeen place, was announced yesterday at a bridge luncheon at the Forest Park Hotel. Miss Lecoutour is a graduate of Washington University, class of 1926, and is a member of Delta Gamma. Mr. Briner is also an alumnus of Washington University and a member of Theta Xi Fraternity. The wedding will take place in the fall.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Barnes, formerly of Jackson, Tenn., but who has been living at Hotel Chase for several months, to Mr. Frederick E. Rixmann of 476 West Lockwood avenue, took place Tuesday evening. The Rev. A. C. Ernst, of Cleveland, O., performed the ceremony which was quietly celebrated. Mr. and Mrs. Rixmann departed later in the evening for a trip to Florida, and upon their return will make their home in Webster Groves.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Ida Scheiber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Scheiber of 1285 Hamilton avenue, and William Levitt, son of Mrs. Clara Lipschitz of 4959 Cote Brilliante avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

The marriage of Miss Edna Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Bauer of 2007 Virginia avenue, and Carlisle J. Forbes, son of Mrs. E. Forbes of 2600 Michigan avenue, was made at a bridge luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Bauer at Town Club. The wedding took place Jan. 19.

The luncheon tables were decorated in spring flowers and the news was written on tiny marriage licenses to which small boats were anchored. Sixty guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Forbes are making their home for the present at the residence of the bride's parents.

Dr. and Mrs. Broun are passing their honeymoon in Chicago, Atlantic City and New York and upon their return will make their home temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Mullen. The bride is a graduate of Sacred Heart Convent and completed her education in foreign travel. She is a niece of Gen. William H. Cocke of the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va. Dr. Broun is a graduate of the St. Louis University Medical School. He has held appointments at the Rockefeller institute in New York and the Harvard Medical School in Boston. He is now an associate professor of medicine at St. Louis University.

The marriage of Miss Urilla Gwendolyn Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Wilmot Eckert of 220 East Washington avenue, Kirkwood, to Clair A. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John David Anderson of Tulsa, Okla., took place Thursday evening at the Kirkwood Methodist Episcopal Church, with the Rev. William E. Cullens, officiating in the presence of a large number of friends. The church was beautifully decorated with ferns and spring flowers. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marjory Hill Eckert. Mr. Anderson was attended by A. Wray Huckins. Following the ceremony at the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mrs. Anderson finished her education at the University of Missouri and at the University of Colorado. Mr. Anderson was graduated from the Rolla School of Mines, and is now located at Coffeyville, Kan., where he and Mrs. Anderson, will make their future home after a short honeymoon trip.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Tucker of 1429 Arlington avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter Rose to Irving B. Waldman of Boston, Mass. No date for the wedding has been set.

Mrs. T. Berlin of 5592 Pershing avenue has announced the engagement of her daughter, Bernice, to Ben Wetheimer of Birmingham, Ala. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex G. Cochran of 7 Westmoreland place departed yesterday for a week's visit in Kansas City.

day afternoon at a bridge luncheon at her home.

A shower was given in honor of Miss Mildred Schmiedeskamp by Miss Sarah Jane Creaghan at the home of Miss Creaghan's cousin, Mrs. F. W. Lindhorst of Maplewood, Thursday, April 28. The wedding of Miss Schmiedeskamp and Paul Schattgen will take place June 8.

Mrs. John Felix Valle of 20 North Kingshighway gave an informal luncheon Thursday at the St. Louis Country Club in honor of Miss Genevieve Barnickel of 70 Arundel place, whose engagement to John Valle Janes of Webster Groves was announced last Sunday.

Mrs. George D. Markham of 4961 Pershing avenue will give a dinner next Saturday evening at the St. Louis Country Club for the debutantes of the season and their escorts.

Due to reconstruction of the Midland Valley Country Club house, the bimonthly bridge parties have been held at hotels during the winter months. The first spring bridge will be held at the clubhouse early in May. The Midland Valley bridge party committee is composed of J. L. Benas, chairman; T. J. Hargadon and G. P. Shean.

Mrs. Harry Hyer of 2731 Shenandoah avenue entertained the following guests at her home over last week end: Mrs. Charles Manley of Chicago, Mrs. George J. Baker of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grimes of Perryville, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Grimes and son of Janesville, Wis.

The St. Louis Social, Dance and Outing Club will give a dance Monday in Architectural Hall. Those interested may attend.

The St. Louis Lonely Club will hold its weekly meeting at the Italian Fraternal Hall, 626 North Vandeventer avenue.

The annual vaudeville show at Webster College will be presented Monday and Wednesday nights at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium. Miss Margaret Reddin is in charge of the dancing; Miss Juanita Abell directs the choruses and Miss Dorothy Monarch is in charge of arrangements.

The Frocks Pictured Above:

Three-piece model. Ecru lace and eyelet embroidered blouse, French blue jacket and skirt of Georgette. Replica of a successful Paris creation.

Lovely Frock of Valencia blue Georgette, skirted with tiers of tiny accordion pleats. Pearl studded buckle on girdle. Ruffled lace trim.

Ingeniously corded fringe, tucked blouse, gilt belt and "shaggy" flower feature this two-piece effect in rose beige Georgette, for all daytime wear.

A delightful collection of intriguing modes for afternoon, street, party or evening . . . many fashionable modes for wear to the races or other sports events. There are Georgettes, crepe Romaine or Elizabeth, crepe Jolly, veiled prints, flowered or printed chiffons, lace combinations—a dozen or more delightful, seasonable fabrics.

More than a hundred styles, few of any one kind! Every imaginable new Summer shade, also white, navy and black. Costly designs, Paris lines, high quality workmanship; in fact, every detail such as you would expect to find in Frocks priced to $69.50!

The Larger Woman Will Be Highly Pleased

The maker of these Frocks creates exceptional slenderizing modes and many of these will be found in this event, in both half and quarter sizes.

So remarkable are these values that few, if any, will remain at closing time Monday.

Misses' Sizes, 14 to 18....Women's and Extra Sizes, 36 to 52½

Dress Salon—Second Floor

Very smart model with embroidered beige flat crepe jacket, buttoned at the hipline, blouse a shade lighter, tied with the darker shade.

Two-piece tea rose Georgette. Eyelet embroidered blouse. Collar, cuffs and band at the hip line, of two-tone belting ribbon.

Scalloped tiers of tiny accordion pleats, youthful girdle and large crystal ornaments accentuate the charm of this French beige Frock.

GO BY YOURSELF

THESE days, when a woman wants to go to Europe she doesn't have to wait for her husband, her family or a friend. She just goes.

Our service is planned to make the woman who travels alone completely comfortable. She has privacy, ease and flawless service.

One woman found her trip so delightful that she wrote a pleasant little book. We have published it under the title—"and so she sailed for Europe!" May we send you a copy?

Please address Dept. N, White Star Line, Louderman Bldg., 11th and Locust Sts., Ground Floor, St. Louis, or authorized agents.

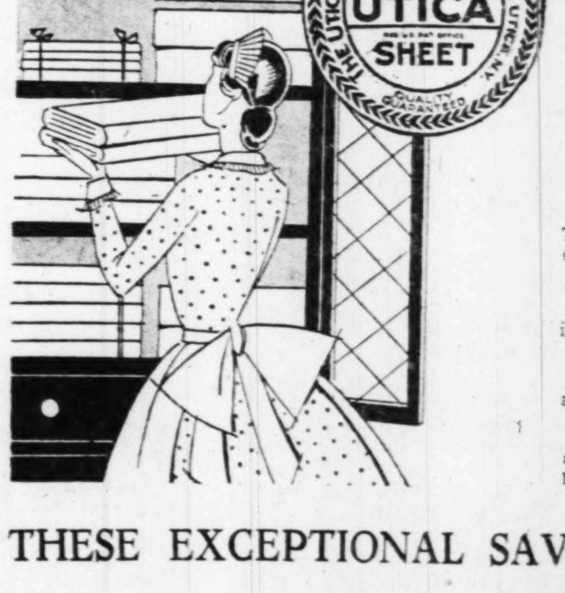
Buying the Utica Brand Is Always Sound Economy—These Special Prices Make It Doubly Interesting

Replenish the Linen Closet!

Monday we begin our special offering of Utica Sheets—the quality and superior wearing qualities are the same as before, but the prices are lower. Utica Sheets and Pillowcases, made of the finest cotton yarns, closely woven in a firm, even texture, are not high priced even at regular prices.

At these special prices they offer a value that no economy-wise housewife can overlook! Check over your needs and choose at the prices listed here.



Facts About Utica Sheets!

Only the strongest of long staple cotton is used in the making of Utica Sheets and Pillowcases.

They are woven with round threads instead of flat threads, a feature that assures strength.

The fabric is pressed smooth. The weave is even, close and fine (141 threads to the square inch).

No filling or dressing is used in Utica Sheets and Pillowcases.

Utica Sheets and Pillowcases are torn from the fabric—not cut.

Utica Sheets have scored the high awards in laundering tests and laboratory tests for tensile strength.

Now—this safe way gets clothes whitest yet

No more washboard scrubbing—no boiling

INSTEAD of rubbing out dirt (and rubbing out the life of your clothes!) try this gentle new soak-and-rinse way!

Just use Rinso in place of ordinary soap. It's all you need. It gives thick, creamy suds even in hard water. Not frothy soap bubbles—but suds.

A tubful of these sparkling suds will soak your wash spotless. No boiling, no scrubbing, no washboard—just soak and rinse! See if this safe, easy Rinso way doesn't get clothes whiter!

So easy on hands, too. Keeps them from getting red and washworn.

Great in washers! The makers of 30 leading machines endorse it.

Rinso

The granulated soap that soaks clothes whiter—no scrubbing

"No Comparison"

"There's no comparison," says exquisite Miss Juanita Thompson, Kayford, W. Virginia, "in the way my complexion looks and feels now I'm using Black and White Skin Soap and the way it was when I depended on just any soap I happened to find in the bath room! This delicately fragranced soap, lathering so quickly and plentifully never dries or irritates my skin, but cleanses it into immaculate freshness, and keeps it always smooth, clear and dainty."

Aged and milled thoroughly, so it lasts twice as long as ordinary soaps, the 25c cake of Black and White Skin Soap is the choice of discriminating women everywhere as an economical bath, shampoo and facial soap of highest quality and excellence. 80,000 dealers recommend and sell it.

Best results come from using Black and White Skin Soap along with the Black and White Beauty Creations.

The Clotho Club was entertained by Mrs. J. T. Addis at luncheon at Hotel Saum. After lunch the regular meeting was held in the ing room. An idea of happi was given in answer to roll , which was taken seriously by of the members quoting from the Bible and the philoso . There were reports of the Literature and the Press committees, the Chamber of Commerce and reciprocity meetings. Mrs. LeGear read a paper on "Radio and Its Possibilities" and Mrs. J. A. Lemp reviewed an article on "Physiognomy as Related to Character."

Mrs. Edwin Neihaus will be hostess at the next meeting.

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

There is a difference in Permanent Waving

AT YOUR beauty parlor, or in an advertisement, all permanent waves may look alike. All may look equally well even when they leave the hairdresser, after being freshly waved. Yet there is only one method which is really scientific, which does not treat all hair alike. There is only one with scientific research and authority behind it. It is the one which has always been in the lead since 1905—the Nestle Wave. And the Circuline Process is the latest! You may have had a permanent wave before and never repeated it, even though it was given you in what you thought "a first class parlor". Charles Nessler, the original inventor of permanent waving, who has for thirty years been studying hair, is the authority behind the Nestle organization.

No ammonia or other injurious chemicals are used in the Nestle Circuline Process.

a paper on "The Day on Oriental Music" and will also play Japanese Tone Poems by Koscak Yamada. The annual election of officers will take place at this meeting.

The Twentieth Century Art Club met Monday at Jefferson Memorial. The program for the day, "Florentine Furniture and Interiors" and papers were read on the subject by Mrs. Louis Schoenfeld, Theodore Steel and Mrs. Homer B. Dickey.

The retiring president, Mrs. H. M. Whelpley, installed the following officers: Mrs. Samuel Williams, president; Mrs. T. E. Francis and Mrs. Frank R. Amlar, vice presidents; Mrs. J. Findley Smartt, recording secretary; Mrs. Homer B. Dickey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Kenneth H. Cope, treasurer, and Mrs. Mary E. Gravely, auditor.

Tea was served at the social hour by the following, who acted as hostesses: Mrs. Edgar Paul Sommers, Mrs. M. C. Younglove and Miss M. Lorraine Meyer.

The College Club of St. Louis will elect officers at its annual meeting Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. Tea will be served from 3 until 3:30 o'clock, with Miss Viola Kilgen, Mrs. John O. Price, Mrs. F. J. Denver, Mrs. Marshall Crouch and Mrs. Frank E. Williams as hostesses.

Miss Norma Schultz has been appointed chairman of a committee formed to sponsor "College Club Night" at the Garden Theater Wednesday night of each week of the Garden Theater season. The committee includes Miss Lyda Long, Miss Helen Bechtell and Miss Mignon Rosenthal. The ticket committee follows: Mrs. W. T. Nardin, Mrs. Milton Lauenstein, Mrs. W. C. Roplequet, Miss Edith Glatfelter, Miss Margaret Shapleigh, Mrs. Oreon E. Scott, Miss Marguerite Fisch, Mrs. Edgar Swift, Miss Charlotte Gerhard, Miss Sena M. Sutherland, Miss Anne M. Evans, Miss Hildegarde Frerichs, Miss Marguerite Grimmer, Miss Cornelia Brossard, Miss Viola Kilgen, Mrs. R. McCormack, Mrs. Edward Curtis, Miss Lulu Kilpatrick, Mrs. F. M. Stancliff, Miss Gertrude Prack, Miss Gladys Morey, Miss Lucille Papendick, Miss Emma Petring, Miss Alma Schwiete, Miss Violet Withrow, Mrs. Herman Miller and Miss Adelle M. Geogan.

The following other activities are scheduled for the week:

Civics Committee Luncheon tomorrow at 1 p. m. when Dr. Harriet S. Cory of the Social Hygiene Bureau will speak about her work.

Special meeting of the Legislative Committee tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. Miss Mary Ames will report on the A. A. U. W. Convention and plans for next year will be outlined tentatively.

Tuesday, at 2:30 p. m., Music Study Group business meeting to consider a program for next year.

Members of the Fiction and Drama Study Group will present "The Pot Boiler" at 3:30 p. m. Friday. The play will be followed by a tea and musical program. Members of the cast include Mrs. John O. Price, Mrs. Elmer English, Mrs. L. D. Tilton, Miss Lucille Pappendick, Mrs. Lawrence Hilt, Miss Virginia Black and Mrs. John Boulden.

The State Board of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs will convene in annual session in St. Joseph from Tuesday to Thursday. This meeting combines the regular board meeting with a spring council. The purpose of the plan is to somewhat take the place of the district meetings which have been postponed until October. The first session will be held Tuesday evening. The tentative program follows:

Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.—Board session. Wednesday, 9 a. m.—Board session; 2 p. m., council meeting, open session; 6 p. m., dinner, followed by evening program in charge of the clubs of St. Joseph. Thursday, 9 a. m.—Council meeting, open session; 2 p. m., "Literary Vespers" in charge of fine arts department, adjournment.

Club women from all parts of Missouri will be present.

The Gardens of the World will be represented Friday evening, when the entire building of the Young Women's Christian Association at 1411 Locust street, will be thrown open to the public for an entertainment.

Miss Margaret Kuettner of the A. A. A. Club will be Chairman of the 20 guides who will escort the public on the trip around the gardens. These guides will be gowned in appropriate garden costumes.

The girls of the Federated Clubs are busy making preparations for their exhibits in the Gardens of South America and the British Isles under the supervision of Miss Leona Miehe of the O. H. Club, Miss Lydia Borgelt of the W. K. U. K. Club, Mrs. Adelaide Stewart of the I. S. C. Club and Miss Lela O'Neal of the Liloia Club.

Miss Adelaide Strubbe and her World's Fellowship Committee are planning the Garden of India, in charge of the board of directors and the Personal Service Committee, where the principal entertainment will be held. Miss Bertha Muehlenbrock is chairman of the World's Fellowship Committee which is giving the entertainment to raise funds for the support of a trained Christian worker in India.

The annual meeting of the conference of Jewish Women's Organizations was held Thursday afternoon. The new president, Mrs. I. Greenfield, was installed. An interesting program was presented.

mittee of the Eighth District of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. S. A. Weintraub is chairman, met Thursday at the Kirkwood High School. The Flag Club gave a drill which was followed by a luncheon in the school cafeteria. The last meeting of the season will be held May 10 at 10:30 p. m. at the Congress Hotel. There will be a luncheon for Mrs. P. S. Harvey of Liberty, Mo., state chairman of press and publicity.

The woman's auxiliary of the Jewish Hospital gave a tea Friday afternoon for the student and graduate nurses.

The St. Louis unit of the Women's Overseas Service League will meet at the College Club, 5428 Delmar boulevard, Tuesday. Miss Cornelia Young will be hostess for the evening, and following the dinner at 6:30, Dr. M. Ashby Jones will address the club on conditions in Europe as observed by him on a recent visit. All women overseas in the allied service during the war are eligible to attend the dinner and become members of the unit. Call Forest 1689W.

The Monday Charity Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Buckingham Hotel Monday noon. Mrs. George Feanley will be the hostess. The last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Francis.

In observance of Health Week the Woman's Chamber of Commerce is planning a program for the regular monthly meeting on Thursday. This meeting will be held on the thirteenth floor, City Club, at 12 o'clock. Health, "the world's most important commodity," will be discussed. Dr. Max Starkloff, health commissioner of the city of St. Louis, will speak on prevention and control of various diseases and will tell why St. Louis is the healthiest city in the United States. H. E. Wiederman, State chemist of the Missouri food and drug department, will have for his subject, "Natural and Synthetic Foods." On account of the educational value of this program, there will be guest privileges. During the luncheon period Mrs. C. P. Strother and Frank Kulla will present a group of songs, Frank Gerak at the piano. At 11 a. m. there will be a business meeting for all members at which Mrs. Adolphe Neuville, president, will preside.

The park and playgrounds division of the Woman's Chamber of Commerce is planning an outing May 19.

The May meeting of the St. Louis Branch of the League of American Pen Women has been postponed until June, the delegates to the National Congress having remained over two weeks in Washington, D. C. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. P. Sommers in Vinita Park. The St. Louis Branch, which has just completed its first year, gave one of the outstanding reports at the National Congress. Mrs. S. Louise Marsh is president of the St. Louis Branch.

St. Louis Chapter, Daughters of 1812, will meet May 11 at the home of Mrs. William Stine of Webster Groves. Mrs. L. Barber and Mrs. H. W. Choat will be the assistant hostesses.

The Denton J. Snider Association held its annual luncheon in honor of Shakspeare's birthday at the Gatesworth Hotel. William F. Woerner, president, presided and introduced the following speakers: Percival Chubb, Dr. W. L. Sullivan, Richard Spamer, Dr. Daniel Johnson and Cyril Clemens, historian of the association. Mrs. Curtis W. Parker read a poem written by a member of the association in honor of Dr. Snider, and Mrs. E. P. Sommers read an original poem on Shakspeare. The regular weekly meeting of the association was held at the Cabanne Branch Library yesterday.

The Tuesday Club of Kirkwood met at the home of Mrs. John L. Tait. Mrs. A. W. Pearsall was the assistant hostess. Current events were given in response to roll call and a paper on "Educational Institutions Supported by the State" was read by Miss Frances Brunner. The reports for the year were given by the officers and chairmen of the committees.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Frank E. Andrews; first vice president, Mrs. E. P. Dickson Jr.; second vice president, Mrs. J. H. Armstrong; recording secretary, Mrs. W. M. Stringer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. J. Lewis, and treasurer, Mrs. L. W. Coste.

The club voted to increase its subscription to the Scholarship Loan Fund and to send a donation to the relief fund for flood sufferers. The next meeting will be held May 10, at the summer home of Mrs. Robert Powell.

The quarterly meeting of the Good Shepherd Mothers' Club will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Convent, 3801 Gravois avenue. The sisters will entertain the club and guests at luncheon, following the meeting. The Rev. Father J. O'Regan, S. J., will address the meeting.

The Capt. Robert McCulloch Chapter of the United Daughters of Confederacy will meet at the home of Mrs. L. L. Bergfeld, 5631 Chamberlain avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Confederate veterans will be guests of honor.

St. Louis Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederatcy, will be guests of Mrs. William Goldsworthy, 720 Interdrive, for the May meeting tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. C. B. Williams and Mrs. John E. Stoker will be the assistant hos-

Florence Burner with outer jacket cut away to show how flame is focused on the cooking vessel. There is no wick, for the Florence operates on the most advanced principle of combustion engineering, mixing the vapor from kerosene with heated air. This assures full combustion and intense heat.

Grid-Top Model with Giant Burner

Note the new, improved, all-grid top on this range. No up-to-date gas range has a better one. Deep—long—level—sturdy. Plenty of room for dishes that are simmering or keeping warm while you are cooking over the burners. See also the single giant burner under the oven. This replaces two standard burners on former models and makes this range the equal of the old-style five-burner range. Gives you a high-speed burner for quick boiling or frying. This model in 3- and 4-burner sizes only. Other models in 2-, 3-, and 4-burner sizes.

Cut down your kitchen hours ... use this quick-cooking focused heat

HERE is an oil range that will bring you out of the kitchen sooner. It is the quick-cooking Florence, the range with Focused Heat. This is the kind of heat that goes straight from burner to cooking utensil. No waste heat. No stray heat. All heat concentrates on the spot where it will do the most good.

Note in the picture how close the burners are to the cooking top—only 2½ inches away. They focus the heat—at close range—on the bottom of the cooking vessel. The utensil meets the flame at its hottest point. The Florence flame sends more heat into the cooking in a given time from a gallon of kerosene than any other high-power oil range—quick-cooking heat, yet very economical. See this wonderful range today at any good hardware, furniture or department store. Phone or write if there is no dealer near you.

St. Louis Circle No. 37, Grand Army of the Republic, will give an entertainment for the Camp Jackson fund Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the Wednesday Club Auditorium, Westminster and Taylor avenue. The program will be under the direction of Olivia Gregory, teacher of dramatic production.

The Morning Etude Music Club will close the season with a luncheon in the Congress Hotel tower room, Wednesday, at 12:30 p. m. The hostesses will be Mrs. Howard Watson, Mrs. Edna Ely Weatherford, Mrs. Frank Davidson, Mrs. W. Hardy, Miss Clara Bardenheier and Miss Louise Clemens. Entertainment is in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. W. E. Hindle, Mrs. Julius Feydt Jr., and Mrs. Oma Culbertson Prescott.

At the conclusion of the luncheon the following members will present a program: Mrs. Joseph Huber, Mrs. John Eggert, Miss Louise Evers, Miss Hazel Ford, Mrs. Louise D. Gardner, Mrs. J. Agatstein and Alma Russell Morse.

During luncheon the newly elected officers of the club will be inducted into office. They are: Mrs. W. K. Roth, president; Mrs. Frederick Niemoeller Jr., Mrs. H. D. Lamb and Mrs. Augusta Clemens Lipp, vice presidents; Miss Minna Braun and Mrs. John Niemoeller, secretaries, and Mrs. Charles E. Zelle, treasurer. Mrs. Emma Wilkins and Mrs. A. E. Meisenbach are the new members of the executive board. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Charles E. Zelle and members will be permitted to bring guests, provided reservations are made for them previous to Wednesday.

The St. Louis Book and Flower Guild will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. P. Tobin of 6335 Westminster boulevard, at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Members of Sorority Circle were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martha Proetz at Glen Echo Park. The forestry week proclamation of President Coolidge and a poem entitled "Trees" were read by Mrs. Berry Moore. There was a free-will offering for the Red Cross relief fund for the flood sufferers. A playlet, "Mrs. Willis' Will," was given by Mrs. P. M. McBride, Mrs. W. W. Walters, Mrs. Edith Kemp, Mrs. E. L. Steward and Mrs. L. B. Schultz. Dorris May Blanton, granddaughter of the hostess, gave a group of readings. Mrs. L. E. Melick and Mrs. Homer Bailey were assistant hostesses.

The West End Women's Republican Club met Wednesday at the Gatesworth Hotel. The president, Mrs. O. S. Ledman, presided. Mrs. John P. Thomy spoke on "World Politics as Seen by an American Traveler."

Standlee Ledman, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Ledman, formerly of the St. Louis Municipal Opera, entertained the club with vocal numbers, accompanied by Mme. Clara Thoms.

The St. Louis Story Tellers' League was entertained at a springtime program at the last regular meeting. Miss Emma Clerc, who presided, was assisted by a group of her kindergarten pupils. Some wore caps of crepe paper to represent flowers and others came as bluebirds and robins. They sang springtime songs about birds, flowers and animals. The story tellers were Miss Hazel Grimes, Miss Anne Vogler and Miss Mamie Owen, all of whom are kindergarten teachers. Miss Vogler had gifts for the children from the fairies she told about in one of her stories. After the program, a short business session was held.

The next meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday at the Town Club, and will be an open session.

The Program Committee has announced that the evening's program will be in charge of the Health Committee, of which Dr. Marie Heising is chairman. Dr. Heising and Dr. Maud Bartlett will speak on "A Perfect Day for the Business Woman."

Miss Gertrude Ryan, who was a delegate to the State convention at Chillicothe, will give a report, and describe the work which the State Federation has been doing. Miss Cora Roop, who was in St. Louis during the Mid-West Conference some months ago, was re-elected State president at the convention. The meeting Tuesday evening is to be a social affair and anyone who is interested may attend.

The regular meeting of the St. Louis Council of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Assembly Room of the Board of Education. Officers will be elected and other important matters will be considered. At the last meeting the Council voted to send its president, Mrs. Fred A. Fuller, to the Annual Convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which will be held in Oakland, Cal., May 21 to 27. Mrs. Fuller will join the Parent-Teacher Special at Kansas City, May 17.

Two sections of the Scottish Rite Woman's Club will meet next week in Scottish Rite Cathedral. The Art Section, of which Mrs. John Bueschen is chairman, will meet Wednesday afternoon, at 1 o'clock. After the business session, at which officers will be elected, a program will be given.

The Social Section, of which Mrs. John A. Hillman is chairman, will meet the same afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. The business session, featured by election of officers, will be followed by a card and lotto party in the ladies' lounge. The following will serve as hostesses: Mrs. R. E. Sisson, Mrs. C. J. Koertel, Mrs. E. G. Quade, Mrs. Robert Fisher, Mrs. W. R. Harris and Mrs. George W. Burrows.

The Webster Groves League of Women Voters has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. Jasper Blackburn, president; Mrs. Louis Martin Wolf, first vice-president; Mrs. W. M. Billups, second vice-president; Mrs. C. R. Littlefield, treasurer; Mrs. J. L. Gillaspy, coresponding secretary; Mrs. E. J. Dunn, recording secretary, and Mrs. G. W. Stephens, auditor.

Chapter DQ, P. E. O., was entertained Tuesday by Mrs. D. H. Doane, 6408 Cates avenue. After luncheon the regular business meeting was held, and plans were discussed for the State Convention to be held in St. Louis Tuesday and Wednesday. A paper on "Literature of Missouri" was read by Mrs. F. K. Strider.

The second annual convention of the St. Louis County League of Women Voters was held at the City Hall in University City Tuesday, with the chairman of the County Board, Mrs. Edward Thurman Smith, presiding. Delegates and many guests from the 11 county leagues were in attendance. The Rev. John F. Caskey of the University Methodist Church offered the invocation and Mrs. T. W. Hardy of Normandy, gave the greetings, which were responded to by Mrs. Willard Smith of Maplewood. Mrs. Oscar A. Doerman of Normandy, presented the proposed program of work for the ensuing year.

At a luncheon at the Castlereagh Hotel, the mayors of five county municipalities spoke.

Flowers were presented Mrs. E. T. Smith, retiring president of the County Board. Mrs. J. H. Herron explained the financial needs and plans of the State and County and Mrs. E. F. Cushing discussed the proposed State constitution and by-laws. Mrs. E. W. Peabody presented the County League's recommendations for the program of work.

The following officers were elected to serve on the County Board during the coming year: President, Mrs. J. H. Herron of Kirkwood; first vice-president, Mrs. G. W. Haverstick, of University City; second vice-president, Mrs. Clarence Eldredge of Normandy; recording secretary, Mrs. W. M. Billups of Webster Groves; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. H. Sentenne of Meramec Windsor; treasurer, Mrs. George Percival of Wellston.

LABORATORIES URGED FOR LEGAL RESEARCH

Harvard Law School Outlines Motive for $5,000,000 Endowment Fund.

A plan to eliminate many elements of waste, delay, friction and uncertainty from the administration of justice in this country is outlined in advance proofs of a pamphlet entitled "For the Safety of the Citizen and the Protection of Business," which is soon to be issued in connection with the effort of the Harvard Law School to raise an endowment fund for legal research.

"Why is it," asks the pamphlet, "that America, a leader in so many other important fields, is lagging behind in such vital matters as the maintenance of public order and the safe charting of the legal course of business and industry?"

The answer is declared to be that there has never yet been applied intensively, in the field of law, the method which has proved most effective in medicine, in engineering and in business administration—the method of continuous, scientific investigation, at first hand as well as in the books.

Meaning of Legal Research.

Explaining what is meant by legal research, the pamphlet says:

"Few need to be reminded how many terrible scourges—hydrophobia, typhoid, diphtheria, yellow fever, diabetes—have been brought under control through the patient searchings of men like Pasteur, Reed and Banting. And similarly, in the technical field, most people understand how Michael Faraday developed, through research, the principle of electro-magnetic induction, which has made possible every form of electric power, bringing untold benefits to mankind. Of this Secretary Hoover has said: 'Our banking community does not do the public service in a year that Faraday's discoveries do us daily.'

"Few diseases threaten civilization more persistently than the manifold forms of anti-social action which we call crime. Few obstacles impede business and industry more seriously than the waste, friction and uncertainly involved in the present functioning of our legal institutions.

Sporadic Attempts to Remedy.

"And yet—strangely enough—only the most sporadic and incidental efforts have as yet been made to apply in the field of law the proved methods of Pasteur and Reed and Banting and Faraday. Up to this time attempts at remedy have been for the most part of the catch-as-catch-can variety, a feverish piling up of 12,000 or more new statutes each year, and the creation of innumerable administrative boards and commissions."

In law as in medicine, the pamphlet says, permanent cures can be expected only upon the basis of thorough diagnosis. The need, therefore, is for the establishment of great law laboratories for institutions manned and equipped to search out the underlying causes of existing legal difficulties, and to develop methods of betterment which will be founded upon sound principles.

Task of Directed Effort.

This task of legal research can be best undertaken by the national law schools of the country, according to the pamphlet, not only because those institutions have great libraries and trained personnel, but also because such institutions can carry on the work under the necessary conditions of permanence, independence and impartiality.

The Harvard Law School's effort to raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000 is largely for the purpose of inaugurating a comprehensive program of scientific investigation in five fields which are considered most prolific sources of legal difficulties. These are criminal law, legislation, judicial organization and administration, legal history and comparative law.

The effort is being sponsored by such leaders of the bar as Elihu Root, Charles Evans Hughes and George W. Wickersham.

SUE UNDERTAKER WHO MOVED FATHER'S GRAVE

Marie and William Klinick of East St. Louis Seek $1000 Damages.

Because George Brichler, undertaker, of 126 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, moved their father's body from one grave to another in Mount Carmel Cemetery without their consent, Marie and William Klinick have sued the undertaker for $1000 punitive damages in East St. Louis City Court.

The father died last Aug. 27 and was buried beside his wife. Brichler explained yesterday that he sold the lot to the Klinicks by mistake, forgetting that he had already sold it to a woman whose husband was buried in an adjoining lot. He sought to reach an amicable agreement with the Klinicks, he declared, but on their refusal was compelled to move the body and surrender the lot to the first buyer.

GENERAL ELECTRIC BUILDING PLANS SPUR INVESTORS

Homeseekers Also Active in Securing Lots Near 155-Acre Site of Proposed $5,000,000 Plant.

RENEWS INTEREST IN NORTHWEST SECTION

Industrial Development Also Given Impetus — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. a Purchaser.

By Berry Moore.

Real estate in and adjacent to the northwest industrial district is commanding renewed attention. Interest is notably manifest in ground in the vicinity of Bircher street and Goodfellow avenue, which comprises a large area available for houses, flats and apartments, as well as manufacturing sites.

This obviously is predicated on the supposition that plans will take definite form by construction of the proposed $5,000,000 plant of the General Electric Co., with the bill passed by the Board of Aldermen authorizing the vacation of a section of Bircher street in behalf of the project. Under the ordinance, construction shall be launched within two years.

Site Comprises 155 Acres.

The General Electric's site comprises 155 acres fronting on both sides of Bircher street, and on the east line of Goodfellow avenue. Involving a cost of $500,000, it was purchased by the company in December, 1925, as a result of the joint efforts of the Mississippi Valley and the Mercantile Trust companies.

The site is larger by almost one-half than that of the General Motors, which is 105 acres, at Union boulevard and Natural Bridge road. It is als· larger than any other site owned b. the General Electric, except that of its main plant at Schenectady, N. Y. It is west of the tract occupied by the Pullman company.

Working Staff to Total 25,000.

The plant, as proposed, it is estimated, will give employment to approximately 25,000 persons, who will be potential buyers or builders, to say nothing of renters, in that section of the city. With the advent of the plant national importance will accrue over night to the northwestern industrial district, which had its inception with the erection of the General Motors Plant. It is anticipated that construction of many other large industrial plants in that locality will follow rapidly.

Kenwood Homesites, comprising 500 lots, a comparatively new addition, extending from Edgewood to Bassett avenues, and from Melrose avenue to the Kirkwood-Ferguson line, is one of the most buoyant sections of the vicinity, presumably in response to developments in connection with the General Electric's plan. Sales of lots in that addition have doubled and trebled, with the result that more than half of the lots have been absorbed, according to officers of the Olive Street Realty Co., which is marketing them.

Homeseekers and Investors.

The lots are being bought in Kenwood Homesites both by homeseekers and investors, to say nothing of speculators, and are available at relatively low prices and on unprecedented terms. This addition is just a short distance from the General Electric site.

Homesites, situated at the northeast corner of Natural Bridge road and Goodfellow avenue, also reports notable activity. This is another development of the Olive Street Terrace Realty Co., which has been enlarged by addition No. 2 and 3, in order to supply the demand for homesites.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has purchased several lots in this addition on which buildings are being erected to increase its facilities.

to Construction Activities.

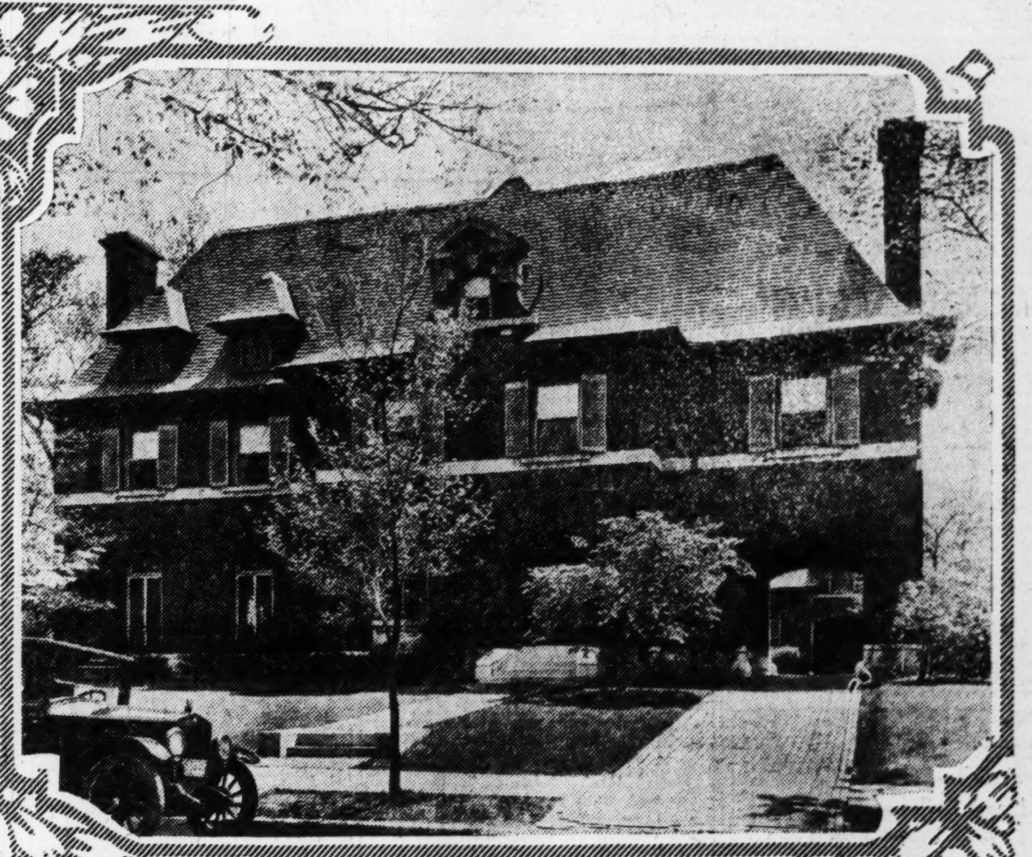
These developments of the Olive Street Terrace Realty Co. comprise a total of 300 acres, all of which is available for immediate building purposes. This concern, which has large resources has been a factor in suburban development for 20 years or more.

Electra Park, another addition in the northwest section, placed on the market by the Busch-Burns Realty Co., is also characterized by brisk sales. More than half the lots in this development have been sold, with an increased demand which is ascribed to the preparatory plans of the General Electric.

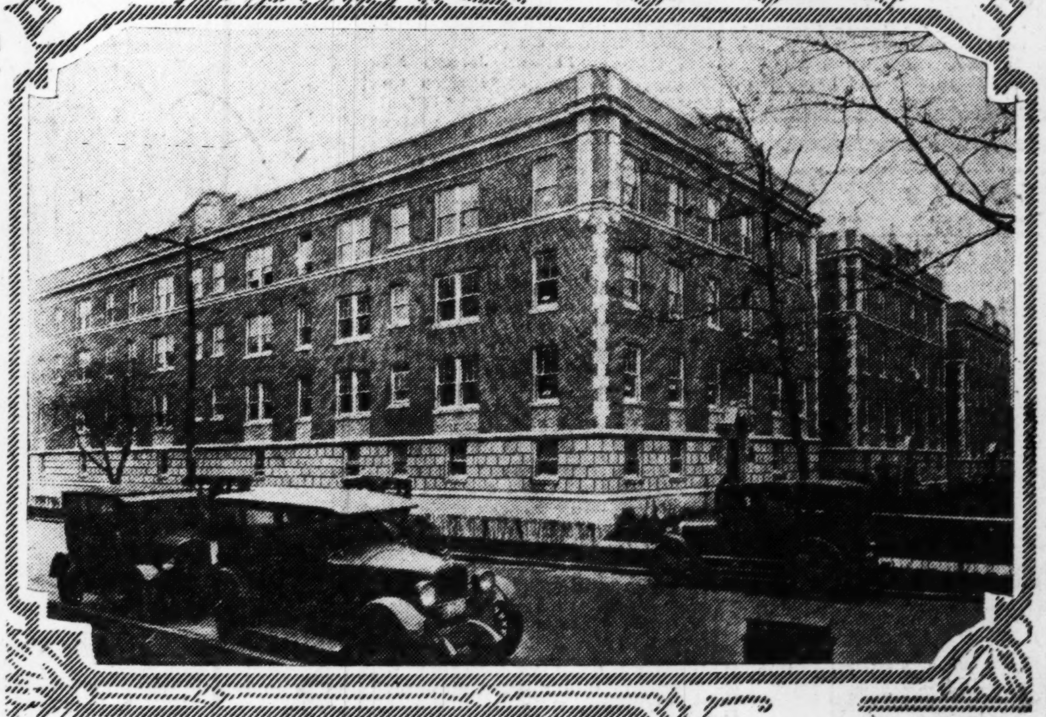
Construction of flats and apartments and business buildings along Natural Bridge Road from Union boulevard to Goodfellow avenue has been on an extensive scale. This refers especially to Mars place, which has been enlarged by another addition, so urgent has been the demand for sites for buildings of these types on this thoroughfare.

Residences and Apartments Mentioned in Week's Transactions

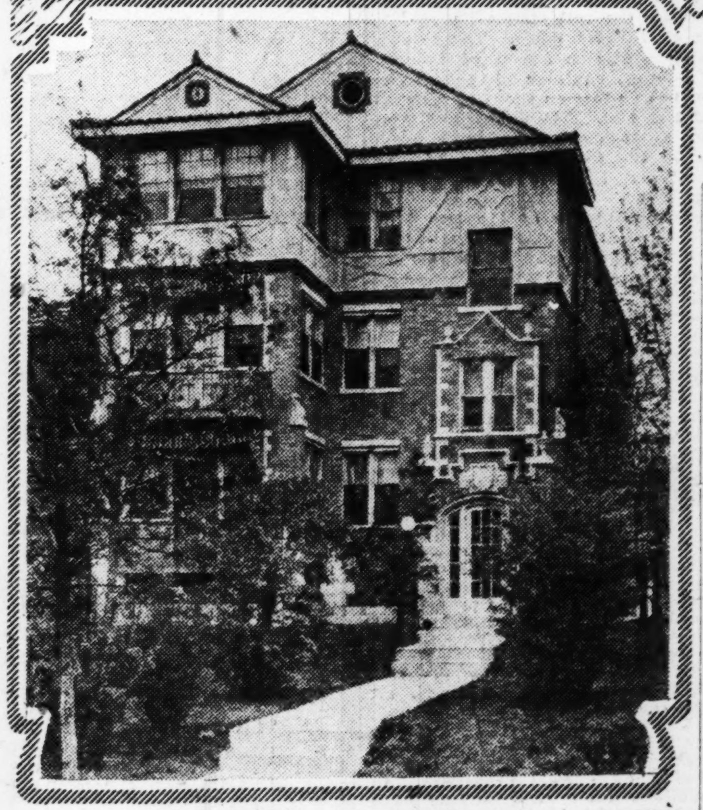
Residence of Earl Stanza at corner of Greenway and Overhills drive, University Hills—T. P. Barnett Co., architects.



Residence of Philip B. Fouke, at 20 Westmoreland Place, sold to J. Clifford Rosengarten.



Apartments recently completed at the southwest corner Enright and Clara—David R. Harrison, architect.



Apartment building at 6647 Kingsbury boulevard, sold by Rogers Hornsby to Nathan C. Berger.

MO. PAC. BUILDING BIDS NEXT THURSDAY

Bids for erecting the superstructure of the new Missouri Pacific Railroad building, Thirteenth, Olive and Pine streets, will be received next Thursday. If a satisfactory bid is obtained, work under the contract is expected to be started by July. The railroad plans to move its headquarters there one year from now, in May, 1928, when its lease on space in the Railway Exchange Building expires.

Eleven bids for the superstructure were received three weeks ago, but all were rejected because the prices were considered too high. The specifications have been revised somewhat, by eliminating a useless but ornamental tower, all corridors above the first floor and finishing of the second, third and fourth floors, which will not be required for use immediately. Elimination of the corridors will permit free circulation of light and air. There will be few private offices.

The revision reduced the estimated cost about $100,000, to a total of about $2,500,000. Height of the building to the top of a large, ornamental penthouse, which will take the place of the tower, will be 270 feet, or 22 floors and the penthouse. There will be setbacks over the second, twelfth, eighteenth and twenty-second floors. At some time in the future, eight stories will be added, which will make the eventual height 395 feet. This will be 15 feet higher than the Civil Courthouse now being erected, which in turn, rising 10 over the Bell Telephone Building, is to be the highest structure in town for the time being.

Work on the foundation contract, somewhat delayed because of conditions due to the heavy April rains, is expected to be finished by the end of May. The steel framework is being fabricated and shipped here, and 25 of the main columns had been erected up to the first floor level by noon Friday, when rain forced a temporary suspension of work. The steel will all be in place, it is expected, by September. The heavy piers on which it stands go down into bedrock.

SELLS SOUTHWEST CORNER OF CLEVELAND AND VANDEVENTER

The Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. reports having sold the southwest corner of Cleveland and Vandeventer avenues in the Shaw tract just east of Vandeventer and Kingshighway to Ferd G. Joly. The lot has a frontage of 210 feet on Vandeventer and 125 feet on Cleveland avenue.

The firm also reports having negotiated, in connection with this sale, the lease on part of this property to the King-Van Service Station for a period of years. The total valuation of the properties involved in the deal amounts to $70,000.

Included in the above transaction was the sale for Ferd G. Joly to a client of four parcels of real estate, "303-05 Humphrey street, four-family flat; 4923 Theodore avenue, modern bungalow; 109 feet of ground on Midland and Tennyson avenues, St. Louis County, and 100 feet of vacant ground on Midway avenue in Orchard Hill subdivision.

TO BREAK GROUND FOR CONVENT WEDNESDAY

A new convent, to be known as Mount Grace Convent of Perpetual Adoration, will be established at Warne and Zealand avenues, it was announced yesterday by Mother Mary Ancilla of the Convent of Divine Love, Philadelphia, Pa. Arrangements have been completed for the erection of the building, ground for which will be broken next Wednesday.

The official name of the sisterhood, which was introduced into the United States from Germany 12 years ago, is the Sister Servants of the Holy Ghost of Perpetual Adoration. The sisters are cloistered and have no direct communication with the outside world.

The convent will stand on the crest of a section formerly known ·College Hill, overlooking the Mississippi River and the lowlands of the Illinois shore. The building will be cruciform, of an architecture suggestive of the northern Italian Renaissance. The total length will be 142 feet and the width across the arms 157 feet.

The lower stem of the cross will be occupied by the chapel, while the parts corresponding to the arms and head of the cross will be occupied by the convent proper. The structure will be fireproof and faced with brick and terra cotta. The chapel will be open to the public at all hours of the day.

The order depends for its support upon the dowry which each sister brings to the convent, and upon the help of friends and benefactors. Remuneration is also received for vestments and other liturgic pieces of handiwork which the sisters supply.

WEINBERG AND WEINBERG REPORT SALES FOR MONTH

The Weinberg & Weinberg Realty Co. reports that sales have reached $100,000 for the past 30 days. Among the sales were:

1314 South Broadway and 1321 Merchant street, sold for Sadie Cohen to Harry Schneider; 3800 Kosciusko street, bungalow, for Walter Helbig and Laura Rose Helbig to Etta Sommers; 7139 Alamo avenue in Hi-Pointe, four-family apartment flat, for Joe Fremder to a client of the De Martini-Zerega Realty Co.; 505 Park avenue, for Frederick Cornwell and wife to Wasyl Marciszko.

Also reports the sale of 127 feet at Thirteenth and Morgan street, 20 feet from Charles Hezel Inv. Co., being lot 10; the western 15 feet 3 inches from Leopold Loewenstein estate; also the eastern 15 feet 3 inches from Harry Koplar and Mendel Fry. The purchaser being Henri Chouteau. Also purchased 21 feet, being lot 14, through the Cornet & Zeibig Trust, and Keane & Franke Realty Co.; also Grace Realty Co. assisted in the purchase of 55 feet 6 inches, being lots 12 and 13, for Henri Chouteau.

Weinberg & Weinberg report a strong demand for flats and apartments as well as houses. This concern has a wide choice of investments available at prices involving decidedly speculative advantages. These include flats, apartments and business property.

$100,000 Loan on Building.

One of the largest loans reported last week was one of $100,000 for three years at 5½ per cent interest, recorded as a first lien on the southeast corner of Olive and Sarah streets, a modern building consisting of stores and offices. The loan was made by Ida Weimberg and others to the Edward K. Love Realty Co. for G. H. Dudley.

WOOLWORTH CO. TO ESTABLISH SECOND STORE DOWNTOWN

The Martin & Breitt Co. reports negotiation of a 99-year lease involving a gross rental of $1,000,000 for the property located at 206-8½ North Eighth street to F. W. Woolworth Co.

Martin & Breitt leased the southeast corner of Eighth and Olive streets some time ago to the Woolworth company. It consists of a lot having a frontage of 76 feet on Olive street by 127 feet on Eighth street. The lease recently closed consists of a frontage of about 42 feet on Eighth street with a depth of approximately 127 feet. The property now is being vacated by Greenfield Brothers Clothing Co.

The Woolworth Co. plans to remodel the first floor and basement and to combine the three constructions together to make a modern store. It will retain its store at the southwest corner of Broadway and Washington.

Alterations will be started this week.

FORMAL OPENING FOR FRANCISCUS OFFICERS

The enlarged quarters of the Franciscus Real Estate Co., 804 Chestnut street, will be formally opened Tuesday. The concern will occupy the second and third floors of the building, the quarters having been reconstructed to meet its requirements.

The building has been given an ornate facade in the Spanish style of architecture, an attractive feature which gives it individual distinction.

The company, of which James M. Franciscus is president, is one of the longest established and foremost in realty circles. As loan correspondent of the Prudential Insurance Co., the concern has large resources available for real estate loans.

The company is composed of James M. Franciscus, president; J. Lindsay Franciscus, vice president; James M. Franciscus Jr., second vice president; Louis A. Maginn, treasurer; John D. Franciscus, secretary; Leo J. Courtney, assistant secretary, and Myron D. Obernier, auditor.

ROGERS HORNSBY APARTMENT SOLD BY EPSTEIN & SON

J. I. Epstein & Son report as a feature of the week's realty news the sale of the three-family apartment building at 6647 Kingsbury for Rogers Hornsby, ex-Cardinal manager. This is one of the most artistic apartments in Ames place being constructed of yellow brick and situated on a lot 200 feet in depth, in the rear a three-car brick garage. The entrance is given a unique and pleasing torchiere effect by the presence of two arc lamps, which augment the marble walls and stairway. The individual suites consist of living room, dining room, breakfast room, sun parlor, kitchen and three bedrooms, in addition to two tiled baths, each equipped with showers and heated by an automatic oil burner.

The annual income is more than $8000 and the building was constructed at a cost of $55,000 by Harry Hays, the architect. It is now less than two years old and was purchased by Nathan C. Berger and wife for a combined home and investment. J. I. Epstein & Son represented both parties.

The firm also reports the sale of 4966 Bancroft avenue, a two-story, 7-room bungalow, with sunroom, tiled bath, hot water heating plant, two-car garage, lot 40x120, sold for account of Jess A. Etter to a client of the Southampton Realty Co.

5 HOMES SOLD THROUGH MULLIN-WALTERS REALTY CO.

The Mullin-Walters Realty Co. reports the sale of four residences in the last week, as follows: 4211 Flora place for Charles B. Hardin to Denzil M. Hollingsworth; 3958 Flora place for Samuel A. Humphrey, who was represented by the Henry Hiemenz Realty Co., to Charles M. Walters Jr. of the Mullin-Walters Realty Co., who will occupy it as a home; 3516 Victor street for a client to Gabriel McDonald and Mrs. Rosalie Virginia East, his daughter, who were represented by the Henry Hiemenz Realty Co.; 431 Laurel avenue for Joseph Berkowitz to Jerome Burke.

Mullin-Walters also reports the sale of the property at the northeast corner of Cherokee street and Ohio avenue for the second time within a week. This property formerly was occupied by the Dau House Furnishers and was sold for Mrs. Dora Lautner to A. A. Grainick, who sold it to Mitchell Schenberg. The sale also is announced of a triangle piece of property bounded by the Terminal tracks and Brown and Geraldine avenues to Joseph Berkowits.

NEW CLOTHING FIRM TAKES LEASE IN ARCADE BUILDING

Isaac T. Cook & Co. report having closed a lease with I. Spiro and George H. Kerr for a large room on the third floor of the Arcade Building for a men's clothing shop.

Spiro has been a buyer of men's clothing for Greenfield Brothers for many years. Kerr, the other member of the firm, has been connected with Greenfield's for the last 13 years in the clothing department.

The Cook firm also reports having leased the garage building at 4437-39 Manchester avenue for Sophie Lerner to Paul R. Welch for a long term of years. The E. M. Thomas Dress Co. has taken a new lease on the third floor of the Sesame building at the northwest corner of Seventh and St. Charles streets. Shu Styles, Inc., has leased the store room at 502 North Fourteenth street from the Fourteenth Street Investment Co. in addition to the store room they now have on the southeast corner of Fourteenth and Washington avenues. The Ideal Filter and Dryer Co. has leased the building at 505 South Third street for manufacturing purposes. This property is owned by E. T. Reinhart, client of Coo & Co.

P. B. FOUKE RESIDENCE AT 20 WESTMORELAND SOLD

Albert T. Terry & Co. reports having closed, through its residence salesman, Whitelaw Terry, a deal whereby the residence at 20 Westmoreland place has been transferred from Philip B. Fouke, formerly of St. Louis, now of New York, to J. Clifford Rosengarten, who, with his wife, will occupy the house next fall after making certain changes.

The house is of semiold English architecture, red brick, and was originally known as the Chauvenet home. It includes 14 rooms, with large tiled halls on first and second floors, five bathrooms, laundry and garage built together, with men's quarters over the garage. The lot is 150 feet front.

MOST OF HOUSES IN NEW DIVISION SOLD

96 Buildings Being Erected in Woodland Park—Various Types of Architecture.

Woodland Park, Federer Realty Company's subdivision extending from Rhodes avenue to Gresham street and from Macklind avenue to Hampton avenue is one of the most extensive bungalow sections of the city.

Except for ten flats on Lisette avenue, this subdivision of 50 acres containing 400 lots is being built up entirely of bungalows. Practically all houses built during the last fall and winter have been sold and are occupied.

The 96 buildings being erected by Joseph Berger, Paul Bulla, Eli Contarini, Frank Darr, John P. Fendler, Gordon-Horen Investment Co., Otto F. Lohaus, Joseph McAlpine, Phoenix Construction Co., Rothmann-Stamm, August Stohlmann and Tyrer-Schulte present the greatest number of bungalows ever offered in one section for the spring market.

In this group will be found four, five and six-room buildings of California, Spanish and English type, covering a wide range of price and wide choice of arrangement.

Woodland Park, which has paved streets and other improvements was placed on the market less than a year ago. It is well served by transportation lines, stores, schools and churches.

Most of these bungalows will be ready for inspection today and Federer Realty Company will have a special force on the ground to serve visitors to this new bungalow land.

RESIDENCE OF S. F. HILL, 4259 FLORA PLACE, SOLD

One of the biggest southside residence deals of the year was closed yesterday by the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., involving the residence of S. F. Hill at 4259 Flora place. The consideration was in excess of $25,000. The house contains 10 rooms. The lot has 60 feet on Flora by a depth of 193 feet. The living and dining room is of African mahogany, while the floors in the butler's pantry and kitchen are of inlaid cork.

The residence of the late Mrs. Elise Lungstras at 3661 Castleman avenue purchased by Arthur C. Fischer through the Deckmann agency. The transfer of the Lungstras home marks the sale of the third residence on Castleman avenue by the Dickmann company in the last ten days.

The Dickmann firm also closed the sale of a bungalow at 2754 Hanley road and a flat at 4810 Arsenal street.

RENGEL-WEBER CO. MOVES TO GRAND AND GRAVOIS

Due to increased business the Rengel-Weber Real Estate Co., has leased for offices the large store building at 3535 South Grand boulevard, northwest corner Grand and Gravois. The company recently has added more salesmen to their sales force, and its new location gives them greater space to handle all business efficiently.

The company reports much activity in South Side realty in the last week, having received earnest money on several properties. In addition, final negotiations have been completed on the following sales:

Seven-room bungalow, 4920 Itaska, sold for John W. Franz to Chester W. Brown, 5-6 room flat, off Grand, at 3648 Humphrey, for Julius J. Beneke to Edward Kane; 5-room bungalow, 3656 Keokuk, for a client to Paul A. F. Morgenroth; cottage, 3026 Caroline, for Walter J. Miller to Anna Gerken; 5-room bungalow, 4753 Rosa, for Jos. M. Conrad to Rosa Dannenberger; 4434 South Spring, cottage, for a client to John J. Parks.

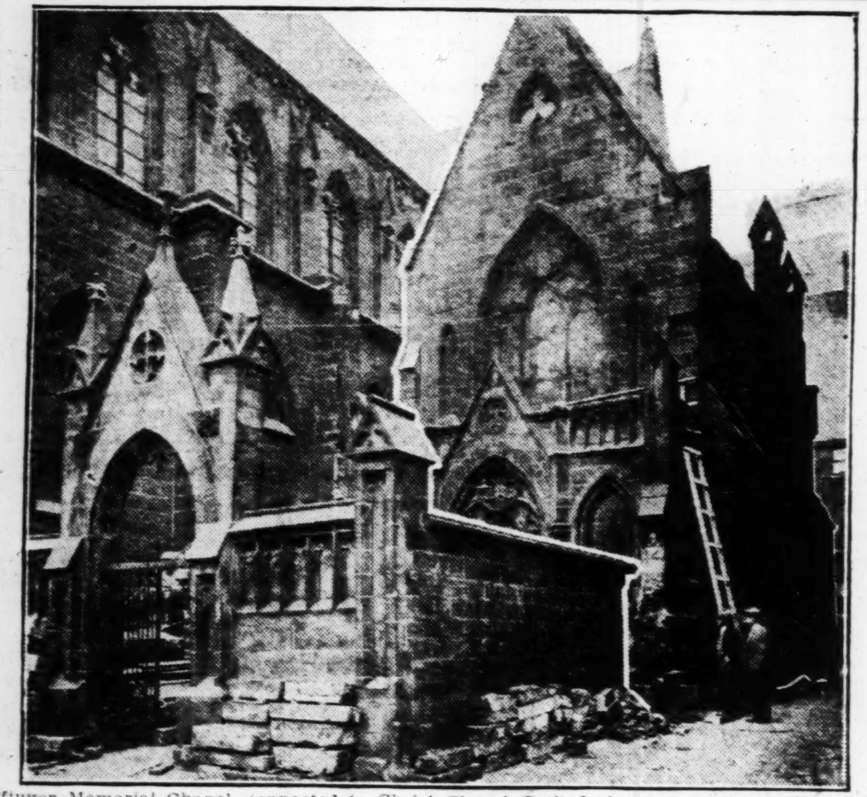
DR. I. A. BASS SELLS OLIVE STREET PROPERTY

Arthur C. Moyle reports closing the sale of 3808 Olive street, a two-family flat on a lot of 30 feet front by a depth of 152 feet.

The property was sold for Dr. I. A. Bass and the purchaser was Mrs. Mary Hayes. Mrs. Hayes is the proprietor of a beauty parlor. She will remove her establishment into the property about May 30.

FAMOUS OLD LANDMARK MOVED 110 FEET



Boffinger Memorial Chapel, connected to Christ Church Cathedral only by a stone wall, was recently cut loose and moved up 110 feet, to be made a part of the church proper. The chapel is 25 feet by 72 feet. It is built of sandstone. Though the walls were badly disintegrated, and only braced at floor and roof, the moving was done without materially damaging the building. The beautiful hand-carved marble altar was not disturbed. This work was done under the supervision of Jamieson and Spearl, Architects, by

Come Out Today to Bungalow Land

See its 4-5 room bungalows, distinct in design and floor plan, illustrating the newer ideas of construction.

Woodland Park

(Rhodes to Gresham, Macklind to Hampton).

Is this wonderful bungalow land. Paved streets, all improvements, deep building lines, transportation, stores, schools, churches, miles away from smoke; acres of open territory, where children really enjoy freedom.

The bungalow you want is here at a price and terms to suit you.

WHAT PEOPLE THINK

We have talked to many people, enough to qualify us as capable of saying what they think of Pasadena Park. Shall we tell you what they say? They say it is a private residential park beyond comparison. They say the houses are attractive looking and well built of the best materials. They say they would like to live there, but: Now there's the vital point. Some say and many think the prices are high. Lets analyze this a minute. There is a big difference between a high price because the article is superior, and well worth the price, and too high a price because the article is not worth what is asked for it. Most people admit Majestic Homes are worth the money, when they learn how good they are. Try this for yourself. Visit the furnished display bungalow at 810 North Hills Drive and if you want a real home in a delightful community, with all public improvements and priced from $9000 to $15,000 then let us show you how you can own one of these and pay for it while you live in it.

OUT WHERE THE BLUE BEGINS!
And yet within the easy reach of the heart of the city is 1262 Boland drive.
This new house, situated on the top of a hill 4 blocks south of 7800 Clayton rd., has 6 rooms, hot-water heat, enormous bath with tile walls and shower—in fact, the material and finish used in the most expensive homes—and, yet this can be bought for $13,000.
See this today if you are seeking a fairly small new house built as well and as attractively as it is possible to build, and situated just past the city's smoke and yet with bus service to the door.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY TO SUE TO RETAIN TAX

Public Library and Art Museum Boards Likely to Join in the Action.

The St. Louis Zoological Society will begin its fight tomorrow against City Hall control of zoo funds.

George E. Dieckman, president of the society, will endeavor to call a meeting of the St. Louis Zoological Board of Control, some time tomorrow. He will ask the board, of which he is vice president, to bring mandamus proceedings in the State Supreme Court for a ruling on the legality of special taxes for the Public Library, Art Museum and zoo, which were omitted in the annual tax levy bill approved by the Board of Aldermen Friday.

The Zoological Society has retained attorneys and will volunteer to pay all expenses of the litigation. Should the city officials who control the Zoo Board decline to approve the proceedings, the society will back a suit by Dieckman as a taxpayer.

Members of Zoo Board.

The Zoo Board, consisting of nine members, includes five city officials—Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte, vice president Neumann of the Board of Aldermen, Park Commissioner Pape and President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service. Dieckman expects they will approve his proposal, inasmuch as Mayor Miller has expressed himself as desirous of testing the special tax law in the higher court.

The Public Library Board will meet Tuesday to discuss the tax problem and the Museum Board will meet either today or tomorrow. The question at issue is whether more than $900,000 a year in special tax revenue shall be controlled by the City Administration or by the board of control of the various institutions.

The special taxes, voted by the people of St. Louis, provide that eight cents of the $1.35 maximum levy on the $100 valuation be used for the three institutions—four cents for library and two cents each for museum and zoo.

Omitted From Tax Bill.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, consisting of Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, in drafting this year's tax bill, omitted the special taxes, providing a levy of $1.35 for general municipal purposes. They propose to put the entire proceeds in the municipal treasury and let the library, museum and zoo compete with various city departments in the fight for appropriations.

21-DAY TRIP TO ALASKA IS PLANNED BY C. OF C.

125 Persons Expected To Make Journey—Party Will Leave St. Louis in July.

Plans for a Chamber of Commerce see-America tour to Alaska were announced yesterday by F. W. A. Vesper, chairman of a Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the trip. About 125 persons will take the trip, leaving July 28 and returning Aug. 19.

Leaving St. Louis by train at 2:15 p. m. July 28, the party will travel 21 days and traverse 7315 miles. The first stop will be at St. Paul, from where the party will cross the great wheat belt of Canada, Moose Jaw and Medicine Belt, to Banff, thence to Sicamous, through the Thompson and Fraser canyons, arriving at Vancouver, Aug. 3.

From Vancouver the party will take the steamship "Princess Charlotte," visiting Alert Bay, a salmon fishing village, Prince Rupert, B. C., fur center, thence to Ketchikan, Alaskan gold center.

On Aug. 6 the party will visit Juneau, capital of Alaska, thence to Skagway, with an inland rail journey to historic spots in the Klondike, finishing their tour with a trip through the Alaska islands.

PURSE SNATCHER CAPTURED

Negro Arrested After Robbing Woman of $5.

Sam Willard, 20 years old, a Negro laborer, held up Mrs. Minnie Ezie, of 3027 Utah street about 10 o'clock last night, near Biddle and Wash streets, snatched her purse containing $5 and trinkets, and fled. As he ran along High street, he encountered two detectives who stopped him for questioning. He admitted the theft of the purse and led the detectives to the alley in which he had hidden it.

Mrs. Ezie later identified him at the Carr street station, where he was locked up.

WENDES MARRIED 55 YEARS

Seven Great Grandchildren Help Celebrate Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wende celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary yesterday in the presence of four children, 14 grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren at the home, 4326 Beck avenue.

Wende, a cabinet maker, 79 years old, settled in St. Louis when 20 years old, coming from Germany, where he was born. His wife, 74 years old, was also born in Germany, coming to St. Louis when she was two years old.

INDICTED BANKERS GIVE BOND ON KANSAS CHARGE

Walter Cravens and R. W. Street to Furnish Bail on Missouri Indictments This Week.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 30.—Walter Cravens and Ralph W. Street, executive heads of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank returned after a conference with investment bankers in New York on their hydro-electric project at Bagnell, Mo., a $25,000,000 dream, to give bond in Kansas City, Kan., to day for $10,000 each on United States court indictments. The indictment alleges that improper allowance of about $500,000 in mortgage commissions was given the Cravens Mortgage Co. of Salina, Kan. by the Land Bank. Richard J. Surface, insurance man of Salina, Kan., signed bond for Cravens, and William Blodgett, president of the Kansas City, Kan. Real Estate Board, for Street.

Bonds of $20,000 each for Cravens and Street on subsequent indictments returned by a United States grand jury in Kansas City, Mo., will not be required until early next week, probably Tuesday. The Missouri charge is that the Land Bank officers illegally diverted hundreds of thousands of dollars of its funds into financing the acquisition of Osage Valley land in four counties to be inundated by the 140-mile resort lake that would be created by the projected Bagnell dam.

"We are guilty of no wrong doing," Walter Cravens said.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

J. H. J.—The 1866 3c piece is probably worth 75c.

R. L. B.—The estimated population in 1926 of Birmingham, Ala., was 211,000; of Denver, Colo., 285,000; Indianapolis, Ind., 367,000; Des Moines, Ia., 146,000; Jacksonville, Fla., 96,500; Grand Rapids, Mich., 156,000; St. Paul, Minn., 248,000, and of Omaha, Neb., 215,400.

G. Y. Y.—The Ford Theater is still standing in Washington, D. C., though for many years it has been used only for Government offices. The Government closed it immediately after the tragedy of President Lincoln's assassination, and purchased the building in 1866. It was used for some time as the records and pension department of the War Department.

BELLE.—To make pound cake, cream 1 pound of butter, continue creaming as you gradually add 1 pound of sugar. When thoroughly creamed together, add the well-beaten yolks of 10 eggs, then add the stiffly beaten whites of 10 eggs and 1 pound of flour that has been sifted. Add ½-teaspoon of mace and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Beat the dough vigorously for 5 minutes and pour into a deep pan for baking. Bake the cake in a slow oven until done, perhaps 60 or 80 minutes.

QUESTION.—Easter day is the first Sunday after the Paschal full moon, that is, the first Sunday after the ecclesiastical full moon, appearing after March 21. This makes Easter fall on a Sunday between March 22 and April 25. The Paschal full moon is the fourteenth day of a lunar month, according to an ancient ecclesiastical computation and is not the astronomical or real full moon. Lent begins 40 days previous to Easter Sunday and the first day of Lent is called Ash Wednesday. Sundays are not counted in the 40 days. The earliest Easter on record since 1800 was that of March 22, 1818. The latest Easter since 1800 was on April 23, 1898.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

W. Mc.—You cannot compel the landlord to return rent that has been paid in advance.

C. P.—The employee must be given, without any penalty, four hours' time off, between the opening and the closing of the polls, in which to vote. This is the law in Missouri. The law is different in every State.

WORRIED WIFE. — B can get judgment against A on the note, unless A goes into bankruptcy. A would be entitled to an exemption of $400 worth of goods and 90 per cent of his wages would be exempt from garnishment.

TOM A.—It is not against the law to sell the astrology book.

M. W.—You do not have to renew your lease, but you cannot remain after the lease has expired without the landlord's or the agent's consent.

DAPHNE.—A barber's license is issued after examination and costs $5. The permit costs $2. You should inquire of the State Barber's Board, third floor, Granite Building, Fourth and Market streets.

B. B.—The Constable is bound to put the tenant out after the Judge has allowed judgment against the tenant. If he refuses to do so you can sue him on his bond. We cannot say what the room rent should be.

E. M. W.—In case the borrower fails to pay the interest on the loan when due, the pawnbroker can sell the article when 60 days have elapsed after such failure to pay the interest. The borrower can redeem the article at any time within the 60 days period.

MRS. F. V. H.—You cannot be held liable on the note, as you were a minor. You can get your piano back. You should consult a lawyer with regard to recovering the money your guardian spent. He might be prosecuted for his attempted attack on you.

CURIOUS.—The 2c gasoline tax became effective Jan. 1, 1925. The individual dealer pays the tax on gasoline shipped, transported or imported into Missouri and purchased by him in the original containers in which it was so shipped. The distributor pays the tax on all other gasoline.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

R. E. S.—There is nothing alarming in condition of your blood pressure, the figures not being excessive but only a fair average. Blood pressure is not a disease in itself, but only a result, when abnormal, of a diseased condition elsewhere and hence its importance is measured by the character of the disease producing it.

N. C. C.—From the description you give your baby probably has scabes or itch, and if so, the following ointment should be of benefit: precipitated sulphur 1 drachm, vaseline 1 ounce, mix and apply at bed time, then in the morning, a hot water and soap bath given with a complete change of underwear and bed linen for three consecutive days.

MRS. R. E. R.—Swelling of the eyelids may be the result of some trouble with the kidneys, liver, or heart and hence the urine should be examined as a means of a diagnosis, and the will be done free of charge by the City Chemist, Room 9, Municipal Courts Building. Hot compresses wrung out of a weak solution of boracic acid, a teaspoonful to a quart of water, and applied night and morning to the eyelids is often beneficial, this should be followed by bathing the lids for 5 or 10 minutes in cold water to create a reaction.

WORRIED SISTER.—The following ointment should correct the condition of the hands: Lanoline 100 drachms; liquid paraffine 25 drachms; extract of vanilla 1 drachm; oil of roses 30 drops; mix and apply night and morning. For cleansing the hands use wheat bran, instead of soap, and as little water as possible. Wear rubber gloves while baking. You are undoubtedly going through menopause and you must realize that during this period you are liable to develop an infinite variety of symptoms. The best that can be done is to bear up as well as possible and treat only such symptoms that become painful or occasion very great distress, being comforted with the assurance that when the period is passed you will be rid of all such pains.

Stone, special thanks to the Rev. Father Linck for his consoling words, the pallbearers and Kron Undertakers for their services.
MRS. ELIZABETH A. STONE, wife. (c)

To all our relatives and friends we wish to extend our heartfelt gratitude and sincerest thanks for their expressions of sympathy as well as the beautiful floral offerings tendered us in the time of sorrow caused by the death of our beloved husband and father, Matthaeus Haensel. Especially do we wish to thank Father Suessner of St. Agatha's Church for his prayers, the pallbearers for their assistance and Ziegenhein Bros., undertakers, for their friendly and efficient services.
MRS. HAENSEL AND FAMILY. (c)

We desire to thank all our relatives and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear mother, dear daughter and sister, Louisa Placke.

Especially thank Rev. Pleger for his consoling service, the pallbearers for their kind service, Kreighauser Undertaking Co. for their efficient service, and our many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.

The bereaved,
MARY T. and FREDERICK PLACKE, children; MARY RUPP, mother; WILLIAM and FRED RUPP, brothers. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my darling wife, Martha Kunz, who departed this life one year ago today. Sadly missed by husband, baby and all who loved her. (c)

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, Officer Carl T. Hunt, who departed this life May 1, 1925:
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND BROTHER.

In loving memory of my dear husband and father, George Buschmoehle, who departed this life May 1, 1925:
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND SONS.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Augusta Runde, who departed this life 2 years ago, May 2, 1925. May God bless her and rest her in eternity forever. Sadly missed by daughters and grandson, and those who loved her. (c)

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Josephine Henfling, who departed this life April 29, 1926:
"In grief comes the thought so solemn and deep,
She is not dead, but just asleep."
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN.

In loving memory of Margaret Gallagher, who departed this life 1 year ago April 29, 1926.
O, how we miss you
Since you went away,
No one really knows the heartaches
As we think of you today.
Sady missed by mother, father, sisters and brothers. (c)

In fond remembrance of beloved wife and mother, Helena A. Altheide, who passed away one year ago, May 1, 1926:
Not lost to the ones that loved you,
But, only gone on before
To the beautiful isle of somewhere,
Where parting is no more.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND SONS.

In memory of our beloved father, Jacob L. Spies, who departed this life one year ago, April 30, 1926:
The flowers we lay upon your grave will wither and decay,
But our love for you, who sleep beneath, will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER AND SON-IN-LAW.

In sad but loving memory of our dear husband and father, Officer Carl T. Hunt who departed this life May 1, 1925:
The month of May again is here
To us the saddest of the year,
Because it took from us away
A dear one, just two years today.
His loving heart is now at rest,
God took him home when he thought best.
When we are done with trials and care
We'll meet our dear loved one there.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND BABY. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my dear little mother, Anna J. Watkins, called home 14 years ago, May 2, 1913.
JOHN A. WATKINS,
Buckingham Hotel.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bernadine Guelker, who passed away one year ago, May 4, 1926.
We are lonely, yes, dear mother,
In the year that passed away,
And we know she'll always guide us
Until we meet again some day;
She is happily reunited with her pal,
our father, dear,
In that beautiful isle of somewhere
They wait their children there.
HER LOVING CHILDREN.

In memory of our dear son, Richelieu A. Heitrich, who departed this life May 2, 1926:
You were a flower too sweet for us,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked you when he gave you birth
And took you with a smile.
So earthly ties are broken;
In life we'll meet you no more;
Our thoughts are with you, dear,
May God grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, DAD, SISTER AND ALL WHO LOVED YOU.

In loving memory of Gertrude Langeneckert (nee Doebber), who departed this life two years ago, May 5, 1925:
Two long and lonesome years, dear Gertrude,
The time it goes so slow
And how our hearts are aching
No one will ever know.
We love to speak of things you did
We love to breathe your name.
We loved you dearly in this life
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by husband, mother, sister and brother and all who loved her.

In loving memory of my dear wife, Charlotte Dietz who departed this life two years ago April 30, 1925:
The moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave.
Where sleeps our dear good mother
Whom we loved but could not save.
Two years have passed
Our hearts still sore
As time goes on
We miss you more.
Your loving smile your loving face
No one can fill our vacant place
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND DAUGHTERS.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Henry Fischer, who died April 27, 1926:
Dear dad, can it be true
One year has passed
Since God called you?
In grief comes the thought
So solemn and deep.
You are not dead
But just asleep.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

In loving remembrance of Anthony Evertonishi Jr., who departed this life suddenly May 3, 1924:
Three long and lonesome years
The time it goes so slow
And how our hearts are aching
No one will ever know.
We love to speak of things you did
We love to breathe your name
We loved you dearly in this life
In death we do the same.
Sadly missed by his mother, father, brother and sister. Aniversary mass at St. Casimir's Church, May 3, at 8 a. m.

In memory of our dear sister and sister-in-law, Annie Weiss, who departed this life one year ago, May 2, 1926:
The golden sun is shining
Upon dear sister's grave.
One we loved so dearly,
Tried so hard to save.
When we lost dear sister,
We lost our dear est pal.
We love and miss you
And forever shall.
So rest in peace dear sister,
Your place in heavenly bower.
The day when we shall meet again
Grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by sisters and brother-in-law, Carrie Weiss and Bertha and Walter Spengeman and all who loved her.

New Subdivision
THE LOCATION IS RIPE
THE TIME IS NOW!
THE COMMISSIONS WILL BE YOURS.

AGAIN THIS COMPANY is opening a new subdivision at the right time and in the right place; right in the section where the most gigantic development that has ever taken place at any time in this city is under way—and under way now.

And added to this, a new main thoroughfare is being constructed right through the center of our property. About 5000 feet of the subdivision will face main thoroughfare.

We developed HI-POINTE, HI-POINTE ADDITION, DELMAR GARDEN, DeMUN PARK and NORTH-POINTE, the most successful subdivisions ever developed in St. Louis. This new subdivision is just one more instance of the foresight and judgment that was used in the selection of the above tracts. Our judgment is that this will be one of the most rapid sellers we have ever placed upon the market—just as Northwest St. Louis is entering into the greatest expansion ever known in St. Louis real estate—don't overlook this.

Owing to the splendid location of this subdivision and the tremendous advertising given us by the newspapers regarding recent developments, remuneration will be strictly on a commission basis.

Call after 10 o'clock Monday, 507-10 Carleton Building. See Mr. Lane. BETTER-BUILT HOME AND MORTGAGE COMPANY.

Beck & Corbitt Co.
3010 LOCUST ST.

We have opening in this department for salesmen who want to make a permanent connection with a real future and will work hard to prove their ability.

Predictions are that in 1927 sales in this fast-growing industry will be three times greater than in 1926.

The natural season is at hand. Avail yourself of this opportunity to enter a field in which advancement is practically unlimited.

Specialized training will be given those selected. Training course starts Thursday, May 5, at 9:30 a. m. prompt. For interview see Mr. Marshall before 10:30 a. m., or phone GArfield 2440 for appointment.

SALES

OUR SALES 4 TIMES LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

We are increasing sales every month and decreasing our sales force. Our policy is to keep a few good salesmen and furnish them assistance and co-operation so they can get more business than a large force of mediocre men. All the live leads you can handle—good salesmen sell half of them. If you made $5000 last year let me show you how to make $20,000 this year—associate with big caliber men—learn more—get more out of life. Many of the most successful sub-division men in St. Louis and other cities learned the business under me. I take pride in the success of my boys. Am discharging salesmen who are not up to our standard and will replace them with high-grade men. Drop in and talk to me any day between 10 and 2. Our property near new General Electric Plant.

WHEATON C. FERRIS,
1601 Boatmen's Bank Bldg.

CASE AGAINST SHIP SEIZED 300 MILES AT SEA DROPPED

But Treasury Department Expresses Astonishment That Panama Should Object to Capture.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Department of Justice has instructed the United States Attorney at San Francisco to drop proceedings against the Federalship alleged liquor craft flying the flag of Panama.

Seizure of the vessel 300 miles at sea has been the cause of controversy between the United States and Panama. The Treasury Department in a statement issued today indicated astonishment that Panama should object to the action of the coast guard in capturing the vessel.

"It is difficult to understand these protests on the part of Panama" said the Treasury, "since they are so inconsistent with Panama's position as a party to the anti-smuggling treaty of 1924 and with her sympathetic helpfulness in passing the act of December, 1926, against liquor smuggling ships under the Panaman flag. The treaty was not designed to be invoked to protect Canadian or American bootleggers."

Instruction of the Department of Justice that means no appeal will be taken from decision of Federal Judge Bourquin in San Francisco that seizure of the ship and its $1,000,000 cargo was illegal. The vessel was seized in March and her skipper and members of her crew were placed in jail in San Francisco. The Captain and crew were released following the Judge's ruling.

UNIFIED SEWER SYSTEM OPPOSED BY COUNTY C. OF C.

Opposition to the proposed county wide sewer district under the recently enacted Ralph Sewer Bill was expressed in a report formulated today by the Sewer Committee of the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce for the Board of Directors of that organization.

A petition favoring the creation of a single sewer district, comprising the entire county rather than the formation of a number of districts such as the Webster Groves Sewer District, or the Wellston Sewer District, was filed in the Circuit Court at Clayton Wednesday with 125 names signed to it. Dr. A. E. Walters, county health commissioner, its sponsor, declared that it would reduce the number of employes under the bill, and unify and coordinate the county sewer system.

The committee declared its opposition was founded on the belief that such a district would tax many for the benefit of the few.

Woman in Store Held Up for $89.

While Isaac Tucker, proprietor of a dry goods store at 1239 South Broadway, was on his way to the bank to make a $300 deposit at 11 a. m. Saturday a man who had entered his store on pretense of buying a pair of baby's shoes robbed Mrs. Tucker, who was left in charge, of $89. After warning her not to make an outcry he pocketed his revolver and fled.

The Famous Keeley Treatment for Liquor and Drugs

More patients came to The Keeley Institute in 1926—than in any year since 1917.

For more than 50 years, The Keeley Institute has been the Mecca for men and women facing physical, mental or financial ruin, because of drink or drugs. They have come to Dwight, and at the end of the treatment, have gone their several ways with no more desire for a drink or drug, than if they had never used it. COUNTERFEITERS' HEAD CRAFTSMEN GIVEN 12 YEARS

John H. Mayes, Disabled War Veteran, Pleads Guilty Within 24 Hours After Indictment.

ENGRAVED PLATES HE SOLD TO OTHERS

Arrested at Murphysboro Home; He Bragged His Work Was Equal to That of Government.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., April 30.—Less than 24 hours after he had been indicted for counterfeiting, John H. Mayes, disabled World War veteran who learned engraving at a government vocational training school and became master craftsman of a $600,000 counterfeiting ring, came into Federal Court here today and pleaded guilty.

He was sentenced to 12 years in prison and fined $5000. It is expected he will be taken soon to Leavenworth, where some of his associates already are serving terms.

Justice has been speedy with Mayes. He was caught just two weeks ago tomorrow as he sat unning himself in the front yard of his home at Murphysboro, Ill. He confessed immediately—in fact, he was rather proud of his skill in imitating Federal Reserve and gold notes of all denominations. His best jobs, he boasted, were as good as Uncle Sam could turn out.

Plates Found on Bridge.

Perseverance by Secret Service agents of the St. Louis bureau was responsible for his capture. "A bit of carelessness by his "customers" gave the investigators a clew.

A year ago a package of plates for counterfeiting bills, was thrown from an automobile on Gravois avenue, St. Louis. The thrower tried to hurl the plates into the River Des Peres, where they might never have been found. The throw was short; the plates landed on the bridge roadway.

Tracing these plates, agents working under Stephen A. Connell, in charge of the St. Louis Secret Service Bureau, learned similar plates had been acquired by a gang headed by Cal Morgan at Universal City, Ind.

The gang planned to pass all their counterfeits in one day—Derby Day at Churchill Downs, Kentucky. Unfortunately for them, they were all in jail on that great horse racing and betting day. Agents had seized them and their $220,000 in counterfeits. They pleaded guilty and went to Leavenworth.

Caught After Search.

Mayes proved elusive. They indicted him at Terre Haute, but catching him was not so easy. They found his wife at Ashley, Ill. She was in tears. She had just received a letter from Mayes in which he said he would never see her again as he was taking refuge in Old Mexico.

The agents were sympathetic, and unconvinced. They learned that Mayes and his wife were living at Jonesboro, Ill. Mayes skipped out. They heard he was in St. Louis. But where? "Look at 5109 Daggett avenue" was the word that came to them finally. They looked there 15 days ago, and the next day they hopped over to Murphysboro and found their man.

Mayes had been busy at his trade while avoiding the authorities. Plates sold by him were used by a St. Louis ring until last January when the plates and $290,000 in counterfeits were confiscated. Five men pleaded guilty and will be sentenced in St. Louis Wednesday in this connection.

Nine Others Indicted.

Mayes also did some printing on his own hook. He sold counterfeits at 50 cents on the dollar to Shelton-Birger gangsters and others. The Sheltonites used the moonshine money to buy good liquor in Detroit.

With the series of indictments for counterfeiting returned here Friday, the investigation of John H Mayes and associates nears an end. Besides Mayes, those indicted were: Emil H. Walther, grocer, of 5612 Vermont avenue, St. Louis, who printed couterfeits from plates supplied by Mayes; Fideli Guy Manelli 5109 Daggett avenue, St. Louis, where Mayes hid out for a while; Ralph R. Pate, horse and mule buyer of Centralia, Ill.; Gladys Crawford and Mary Ayers, Champaign, Ill., and Riley Simmons, Thomas Elliott, Blanche Tocco and Perl Wilson, all of Franklin County, Ill.

Returns Purse That Fell From Car.

While dispatching cabs for the Red Top Taxicab Co., opposite the Concourse at Union Station Friday afternoon, Leo Merinbaum, 2864 North Euclid avenue, noticed a purse fall from a window of a Southampton car. He recovered it and tried to catch the car but failed. The purse, which contained $68, a woman's watch and a bank book, was turned in to the taxicab company by Merinbaum, and later was restored to the owner, Miss Bertha E. Bosler of 4655 Delor street.

STIMSON CONFERS WITH DELEGATES SENT BY SACASA

President's Representative Tells Nicaraguan Liberals Free Election in 1928 Is Essential.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 30.—Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge today held a three-hour conference with delegates sent by Dr. Juan Sacasa, President of the Liberal Government set up at Puerto Cabezas, which is at war with the Conservative Government of President Adolfo Diaz at Managua.

The peace efforts were made between the American representative and the Liberals in a friendly and cordial manner and will be continued at a conference tomorrow. The Sacasa representatives, who met Stimson at the American legation, presented their contentions which Dr. Sacasa holds are necessary "for honorable peace." In turn they heard Stimson explain the result of his investigation here with his suggestions for a just peace. Stimson, it is understood, did not encourage them on the question of the resignation of President Diaz and informed them that the United States did not care to discuss either the constitutionality of Dr. Sacasa's claim to the presidency or the matter of the United States supporting President Diaz.

The delegates heard Stimson stress the question of guarantees for free elections in 1928 as a guarantee of justice for both parties and a remedy for the evil of civil war. Proper election supervision removes the previous virtual certainty that the ruling party can dictate its successor, the delegates were told, and thereby assured the Liberals of an "even break" at the next election.

VESPER BUYS PRIZE HOLSTEIN

"Avon Echo Daisy" Will Be Added to Herd of Champions.

"Avon Echo Daisy," champion milk-producing cow of Wisconsin, has been added to the Ten-Ton Holstein herd owned by F. W. A. Vesper, former president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Vesper purchased the cow and three others at a blue ribbon sale of Holsteins, which buyers from 20 states attended at Oconomowoc, Wis., last week. Under a year's test Avon Echo Daisy produced an average of 10 gallons of milk a day, or approximately 14½ tons for the year. The Ten-Ton type herd is so named because every cow in it has produced ten tons of milk or more in a year. It requires 10 ordinary cows such as are found on Missouri farms to produce a similar quantity of milk.

Taxicab Driver Finds Girl Infant in Market Basket.

A blue-eyed girl infant, said by doctors to be about one day old, was taken to City Hospital last night by Harry Turner, a taxicab driver, of 2028 Nicholson avenue, who found it in a market basket on the corner of California and Lafayette avenues. Turner said he had parked his cab to wait for a fare, when he heard the infant wail. He traced the wail to the market basket. The child was wrapped in a plain brown blanket, marked in thread at one corner with the initial "S."

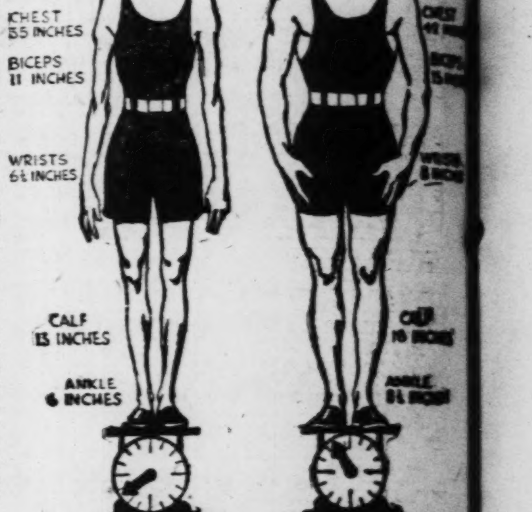
For "Firm-Flesh-Pep" "Stay-There" Strength And Super-Energy

Take ARIUM—Radium-in-Tablets—"Nature's Source of Vital Force"—Easy and Economical—Results Quick and Wonderful.

Thin, weak, nervous, rundown folks will find this simple test well worth trying. First weigh and measure yourself; see how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take ARIUM, two tablets with each meal three times per day. Then weigh and measure yourself again each week, test your strength again and continue taking ARIUM regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight, energy, endurance and "Firm-Flesh-Pep."



There is nothing like ARIUM Tablets to help quickly put color in your cheeks, power in your veins, strength in your nerves and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. Countless weak, wornout, prematurely ageing folks, who feared they were suffering from kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, have quickly gotten rid of headaches, lame back, dizziness, biliousness, sour stomach, lassitude and dullness by simply taking ARIUM. A multitude of alarming symptoms often quickly disappear. You should see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day. But it is not only a question of how much better you look and feel, or what your friends say and think—the scales and tape measure tell their own story. The test will surprise you.

Note: The Associated Radium Chemists, Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM, guarantees successful and satisfactory results from its progressive use in every case or money refunded, and also that A DEFINITE QUANTITY OF GENUINE RADIUM IS USED IN ITS PREPARATION. ARIUM is easy and economical to take, and while its amazing general health and vitality building value has been positively demonstrated by physicians and other users, IT SHOULD NOT BE TAKEN BY ANYONE WHO OBJECTS TO HAVING WEIGHT INCREASED TO NORMAL. Recommended and dispensed by all good druggists, such as Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., four retail stores, Walgreen Drug Co., Speckhart Bros., Medler's Pharmacies, Johnson Bros. Drug Co.

DATE YOUR WEIGHT AND WATCH THE RATE OF GAIN

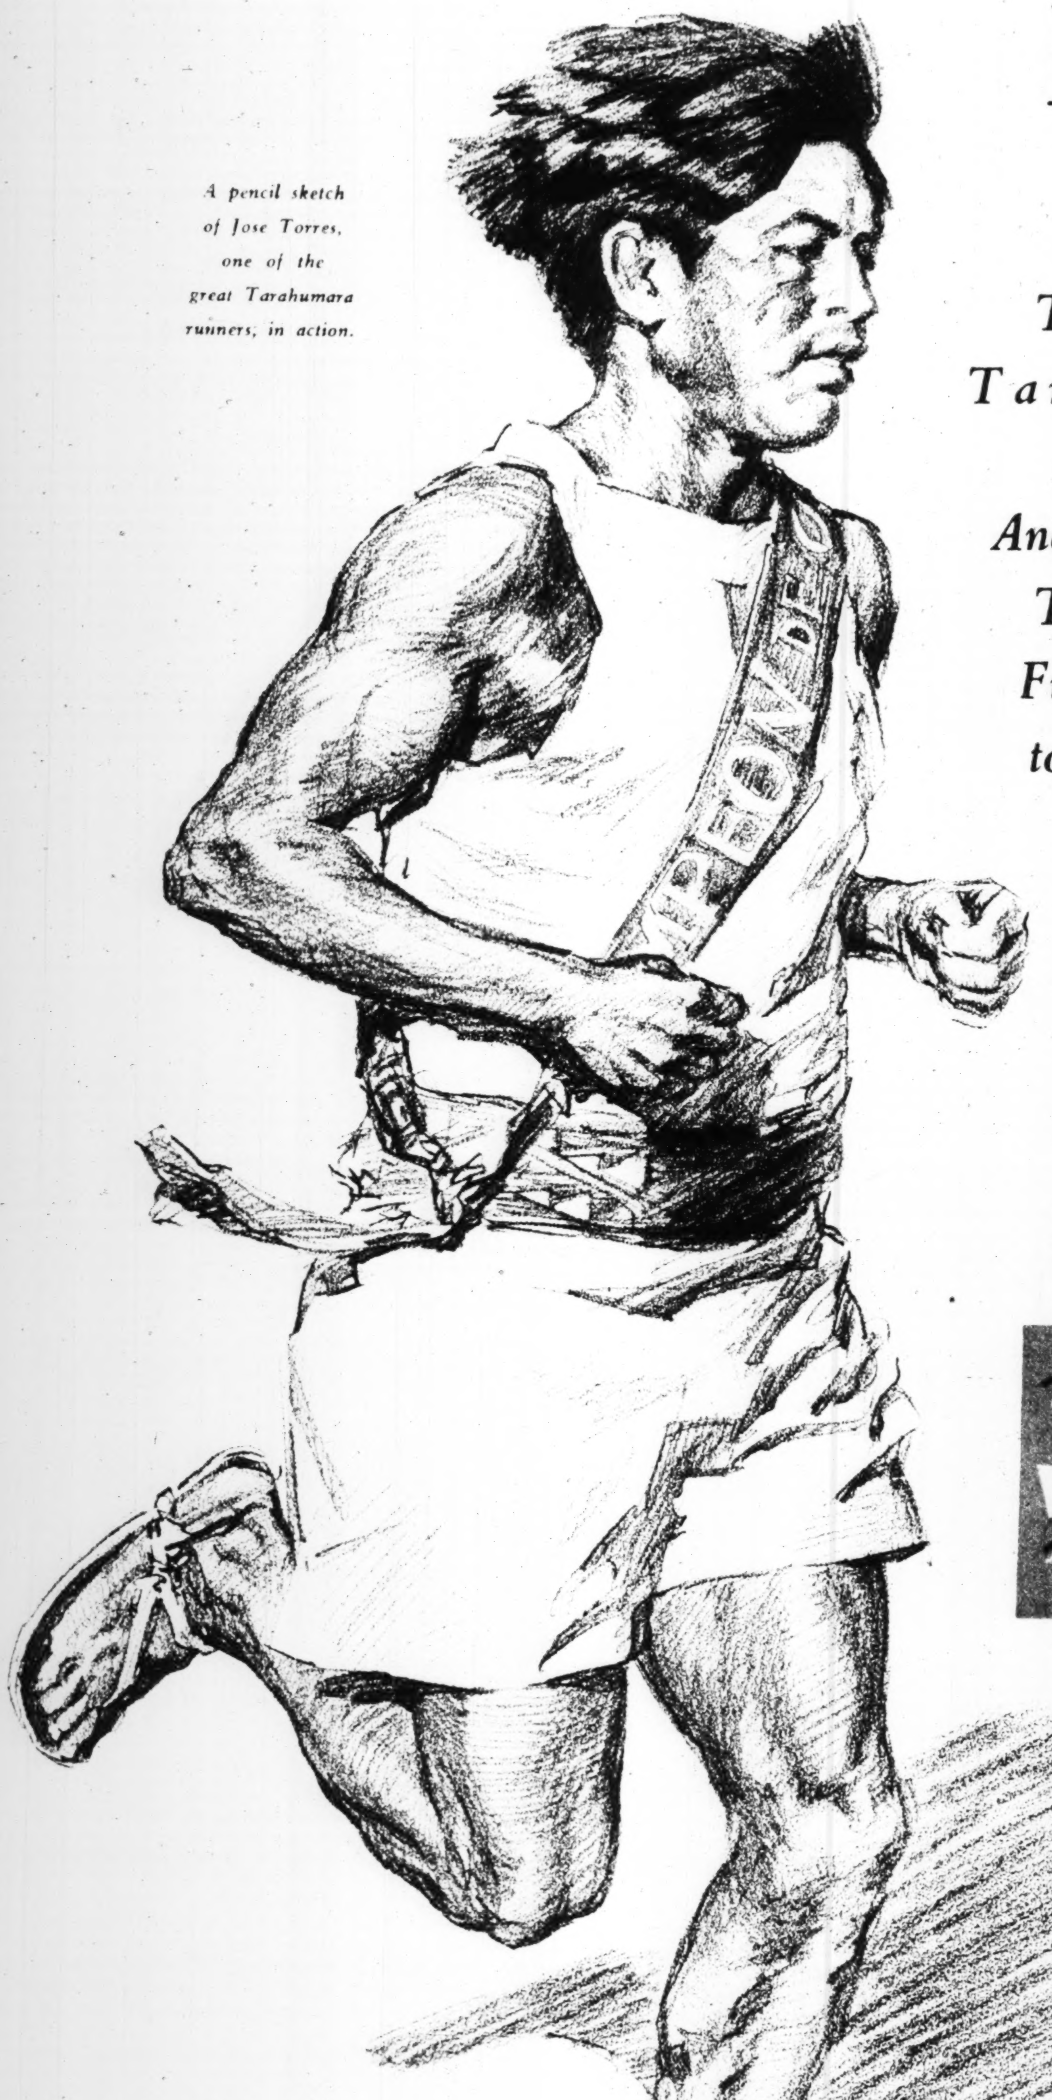
Indian Runners Make History

The Hardy Tarahumaras—Whose Ancestors Were Trained as Fish Bearers to Cortez—Burst Into the Limelight.



A pencil sketch of Jose Torres, one of the great Tarahumara runners, in action.

Tomas Zafiro.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

AUSTIN, Texas.

THE Tarahumara Indian runners, having broken all records for distance over an 89-mile course that started at San Antonio and ended at the University of Texas Stadium here, and having more recently taken part in the University of Kansas relay games, threaten to hold a permanent place in the world of sport.

It is reported that they will take part in the Amsterdam Olympic games next year.

It took a long time to persuade these lean, bronzed Indians to leave their mountain fastness in Mexico. They refused the cash offers that have lured so many athletes. They came only when a school was promised for their village.

But when at last they did consent, their achievement was astonishing. Jose Torres and Tomas Zafiro ran 89 miles in 13 hours and 40 minutes.

With them came three young girls, Lola and Juanita Cuzarere and Juanita Paciencia, who gave exhibitions of Marathon running only overshadowed by those of the men.

The stamina and endurance the runners exhibited over the 89-mile course is far greater than a horse is capable of. Their feat dwarfs the vaunted prowess of the athletes of ancient Greece, whose Marathon races covered a distance of 26 miles 385 yards.

Lola Cuzarere, well-built and strong, although only 14, finished her test of 29 miles so fresh that she insisted upon several turns around the track of the university stadium.

Six members of the tribe were brought here by the university to take part in the relay games. They entered this country under a special dispensation from the Government. They are among the fastest Tarahumaras—the fastest runners in the world—but they boasted of the feats of Jose Nevares, a triblesman who did not accompany them.

Nevares, it is expected, will enter the Olympic competition at Amsterdam in the 10,000-meter run. Present official title holders will have to look to their laurels.

In their cross-country runs the Indians wear wide sombreros, bright shirts and sweaters and blue denim trunks. Leather sandals are strapped to their feet as a protection against stretches of gravel, which made precarious the barefoot running they prefer.

In order to maintain a uniform pace the runners have small bells tied to their belts, the tinkling of which acts as a speed gauge for them. Each runner carries a short bamboo stick.

THE runners maintain an easy, long stride. They speed ahead through the cool of the morning, slow down a bit as the noonday sun begins to pour heat upon them and finally enter the home stretch like sprinters.

They did not appear in the least fatigued upon completion of the 89-mile run, which was begun at 3 a. m. in San Antonio. One runner, however, was forced to give up because of cramps when he had gone only about 28 miles.

Their diet is very light. They train entirely on toasted corn cakes.

Historical research reveals a curious reason for their extraordinary endurance and speed. Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, was fond of sea food. Inland, in the capital of Mexico City, his yearning for a tender scallop or a succulent lobster grew increasingly great.

The Tarahumara Indians were reported to the indomitable Cortez as a tribe noted for their swiftness and endurance over mountain paths. He promptly assigned them as a relay team, leading from the sea to Mexico City, to bring him sea food in the cool of the night.

This grueling task served as a spur to their natural powers, which developed through the centuries. Four relays were established. Baskets of fish, crabs and scallops were passed to the first runners as soon as caught. They dashed away, running up the foothills into the mountains, where the next relays were waiting to speed onward with a conqueror's breakfast.

Succeeding Spanish dictators maintained this custom, desiring to have an epicurean variety on their tables. The runners' duty passed from father to son among the Tarahumaras. It became a matter of tribal pride that everyone should be a good runner, women and children as well as the professional bearers. When the yoke of Spanish rule was lifted, they kept up running as a means of travel.

Many stories of epic runs, over distances ranging from 150 to 200 miles have been handed down by word of mouth from one generation of Tarahumaras to the next. The few persons familiar with the tribe say that the stories told are not exaggerated.

Torres and Zafiro, left to right, at the end of their 89-mile run.

ANOTHER interesting custom is preserved by the Tarahumaras. They practice trial marriage in a way somewhat similar to that advanced by modern sociologists today.

When a young man and a girl want to get married they go to their parents with their intentions. A family conference is called and the marriage date is set.

A first ceremony is gone through with and the couple live together for 12 days. Then another conference is called and the bride and groom are asked if they desire to continue the marriage relationship. Twelve days—in Tarahumara belief—is long enough to determine whether the pair are compatible and whether or not their chances for happiness together are good.

If either man or wife expresses a desire to end the relationship, the union is at once dissolved. If a child is born of the probationary wedlock it is tenderly cared for by the mother and no stigma is ever attached to its name.

Practically all trial marriages end successfully with the Tarahumaras. Promiscuity is unknown to the tribe. The Tarahumara is a loyal and devoted husband and works diligently to provide for all the needs of his family.

Their sense of justice is direct, swift and untempered with mercy. They often take matters into their own hands to right what they regard as a wrong.

Recently two youths of the tribe were brought before a bar of justice in the State of Chihuahua, charged with the killing of their great-grandmother. They told the Court that she was sick and that it had required their presence at home to care for her, whereas otherwise they might have been in the fields working. Their work in the fields was more important than that she should live, they told the Court. Consequently, they threw her over the cliff. It seemed a very simple problem to them. They were perplexed that the State considered their act a crime.

In addition to being fast runners, they are also fast workers and are eagerly sought by construction gangs near their native hills, for they labor long and hard and turn out a vast amount of work. As an instance of this, a Tarahumara can hew 30 railroad ties out of trees in a day, whereas the average Mexican laborer does well to hew eight or nine.

The Tarahumara uses an ax with a double edge on it and chops coming and going, and his workmanship is far better than that of any other of the natives in his region.

Withal, they are a clannish, proud race, friendly and hospitable enough if outsiders intrude, but anxious to maintain the solidarity of their tribal society against the invasion of civilization. But they are equally anxious for education, as is evidenced by the fact that they consented to leave their home to race in competition with strangers only on the condition that a school would be constructed for their village.

Hero of the Yellow Fever War

Now a Forgotten Invalid

John R. Kissinger Fights Off Adversity in a $10-a-month Frame Cottage.

ANDREWS, Indiana.

"NO MORE courageous act than this has ever been recorded in the annals of the United States army," said a report which went forward to the War Department from Quemados, Cuba, in the days of the yellow fever epidemic of 1900.

The writer of the report was Major Walter Reed, the army doctor who was to banish yellow fever from the earth. The great Walter Reed Hospital in Washington now stands as his monument.

The man about whom the report was written was Private John R. Kissinger of Indiana, the army hero of other days, the forgotten invalid of today. He lives in a $10-a-month frame cottage in the outskirts of this little village, esteemed by his neighbors for his honesty and eulogized by the nation for his bravery, but compelled to stake upon charity his only hope for a home. Here the writer of this article visited him recently to hear his own account of what preceded Major Reed's report and of what the ensuing years had brought the subject of that historic communication.

On a November evening 26 years ago two young men—a soldier and a civilian—walked through the darkness of Columbia Barracks, just outside Quemados, and up to the steps of the officers' quarters, where, on the screened porch, sat Major Reed and what was left of his Yellow Fever Commission. The pall of death was over the land. In their beds in the fever quarters men lay writhing in delirium, while just out of sight the quicklime boxes waited for their bodies.

Reed and his staff had been sent there to learn the cause of yellow fever and to stop it, but still the epidemic raged. During the war just ended it had killed more American soldiers than the bullets of the Spaniards, and now at San Cristobal de Habana, 40 miles south of Quemados, the civilian population was threatened with decimation. Since his arrival in midsummer, Reed had watched the new mounds appearing in the barracks cemetery. It was a solemn group of weary men the two visitors found there that evening listening to the deadly hum that arose at intervals in the air outside—the drone of mosquitoes.

Major Reed and his two colleagues, Dr. James Carroll and Dr. Aristides Agramonte, were in conference. They were discussing, as they had discussed earlier in the day, the dilemma that confronted the commission. Men were needed. Volunteers were wanted who, in the interest of science and for humanity, would lay their lives on the altar; who would submit to being bitten by the deadly stegomyia mosquito.

When their fellow worker, Dr. Jesse Lazear, had allowed a mosquito to bite him a few weeks earlier, just to see what would happen, and had gone down to his death a raving maniac, he had unmasked the insect as the fatal fever carrier. Dr. Carroll's voluntary infection had corroborated this finding. Now, in order that Lazear's life might not have been given in vain, further tests were necessary so that proofs might be furnished to the world. But it was a terrible thing to ask even of soldiers. Reed, a resolute scientist, but a tender-hearted man, wavered.

UP THE steps out of the darkness came the soldier and the civilian—Private John R. Kissinger of Indiana and Clerk John J. Moran of Ohio.

"Sir," said the soldier, "today we heard you say that men were wanted for infection with yellow fever. I am ready to volunteer and Moran wishes to do likewise."

Reed could scarcely believe it. He reminded them of the danger. He told them that in some fever epidemics as many as 85 out of a hundred men died and that in others the mortality ran as high as 50 per cent, but they knew of that already. Then he mentioned they would receive a reward of $200, possibly $300, apiece, authorized by General Leonard Wood.

"No," said Private Kissinger and Clerk Moran, "the one condition upon which we volunteer is that we receive no compensation whatsoever. We wish to do this in the interest of science and for humanity."

Reed, the Major, rose to his feet and saluted that humble private and clerk, and a month later, when they put the mosquitoes on Kissinger and he went down in a raging delirium, Reed stayed close by his bedside. Through the two weeks in which he fought his fight with yellow fever no private soldier ever had more tender care, but at the same time probably no fever sufferer ever came nearer dying without dying than did Kissinger. There were days when he was too far gone to know that the box of quicklime sat waiting for him outside or to try to brush away the mosquitoes which the scientists fed upon his blood for experimental purposes. When he was out of danger, Major Reed, who was a religious man, fell on his knees in thanksgiving, and to his wife in Washington he wrote: "I would rather the whole test had failed than that this heroic fellow's life had been taken."

BUT the test did not fail. Due to the experiments on Kissinger and on Moran and others who followed his example, yellow fever was reduced from a virulent plague, fatal to thousands annually, to a rare and almost forgotten disease. In 1925 only three cases were reported in both Americas, and these were in the tropics of Northern Brazil. For this sacrifice in the interest of humanity, what has been Kissinger's reward?

Far from the busier activities of men, he hides from poverty in this quiet little village, which is of such small consequence in world affairs that its name on an envelope is customarily followed by "Huntington County" to keep the mail from going to Anderson, a more conspicuous neighbor. As a result of his illness, he has been an invalid for most of the last 26 years. His sole income is a Government allowance of $100 a month, begun in 1911, and the sum total of his worldly goods comprises his modest household furnishings and a 1921 model Ford touring car. He has partially recovered from the spinal disorder which for 12 years made it impossible for him to stand on his feet, but at 50 he is still unable to work even at light tasks for more than an hour or two a day, and his wife, once a strong woman, able to do 12 or 15 washings a week and carry him up and down stairs, is suffering from an illness which not only impairs her earning capacity but presents the gloomy necessity of a surgical operation.

Almost forgotten by all except a small circle of scientists who repeatedly carried his case before Congress and stood by him with their purses open during the leanest years, he now is heard of again through the announcement that Professor James E. Peabody, head of the biology department of Morris High School, New York City, is leading a campaign for $5000, with which to relieve his financial burdens and buy him a home, a cow and some chickens.

HERE in Andrews, where everybody knows all there is to know about everybody else, they speak of Kissinger as a proud but modest man, who never courts notoriety; who is extremely sensitive about accepting anything resembling charity, and who never forgets a debt. Merchants with whom he has run accounts during his three years of residence here assert he is just as prompt with his payments as the Government is with his pension check. He comes to the postoffice to get it about the first of each month and pays all his debts before he goes home. Most of his fellow townsmen are of the opinion he has been too backward about asserting the merits of his case and hasn't had what he deserves from the Government. Others are not sure just what it was he did in Cuba or how well the Government has taken care of him, but know he "got awfully sick down there and came home a nervous wreck and hasn't been able to do any work to speak of since, though you'd think to look at him he was strong and able-bodied enough."

At first appearance he did look able-bodied when the writer called at his cottage here on the banks of the Wabash. His hair is gray and his face bears a sick-room pallor, but he looks somewhat less than 50 and his figure is not that of an invalid. He is of rather stocky build. After half an hour of conversation, however, the evidences of his infirmities begin to appear. He tires easily. His hands quiver. When telling his story he falters and there are moments of blankness when he loses completely his trend of thought.

According to a score or more of noted physicians who have examined him, this nervous disorder results from an attack of myelitis, or inflammation of the spinal cord, which rendered him helpless following the yellow fever tests and kept him in a wheel chair or crawling on his knees for 12 years. Of these physicians, one was no less a celebrity than Dr. Theobald Smith of Harvard University, the conqueror of Texas fever. Indeed, it was Doctor Smith to whom Kissinger now owes the fact that he still has legs to walk upon. When he was down and helpless many years ago, and there was little hope he would ever walk again, several doctors advised amputation at the knees to relieve him of what seemed a useless burden. Doctor Smith, however, held out against this, won the argument and proved the soundness of his judgment. That was entirely characteristic of Theobald Smith.

EXCEPT for shattered nerves, Kissinger seemed to be in good health when, at the expiration of his enlistment in November, 1901, he came back to his old home in Wabash County, where he had grown up, the youngest of a family of 11 children. He had $750 he had saved in the army. With this he made a payment on a farm in partnership with his brother, Will, and tried to make a go of the occupation of his boyhood, the only one he knew aside from soldiering. But he was too nervous and restless to make a success of farming, and, besides, the winters of Northern Indiana were too cold after three years in the tropics. He sold out the following spring and went to the State of Washington for his health. There he tried the restaurant business and half a dozen other occupations, with consistent lack of success. His home State saw him again in 1904, when he came back to work in a box factory at South Bend. On this homecoming he brought with him a family, for while in Washington he had married Mrs. Ida Johnson, a widow with three children. It was a pretty large brood for a sick man to assume responsibility for, but Kissinger never seemed to shrink from responsibility. He says now the children never caused him much trouble or expense and he thinks he was pretty lucky when he found a life partner who would stick to him through thick and thin and share his misfortunes with so much loyalty as Mrs. Kissinger was later to show.

Back in South Bend with his new family, he sailed into his factory job and except for days off now and then, when illness kept him at home, he stayed with it until he collapsed on the streets, to work no more.

That happened on September 5, 1906. How well Kissinger was to remember that date! He came home that evening feeling worse than usual and told his wife he guessed he would have to give it up. It was getting so he could stand on his feet only for an hour or two at a time. The doctor had diagnosed his trouble as locomotor ataxia and advised him to quit work at once. They started over to the home of his sister to talk it over, but on the way his knees gave out and he went to the pavement. He didn't know it then, but it was to be 12 years before he should rise on his feet again, and during those years he was to suffer more hardships than he had ever suffered in the fever camp of Columbia Barracks, even when they fed 200 mosquitoes on his body. His wife dragged and carried him home.

THERE was a gloomy conference in the Kissinger cottage that night. Mrs. Kissinger called in Wallace Teeple, friend of her husband and fellow war veteran. Teeple brought along Doctor E. R. Dean, who examined the sick man and pronounced his illness to be myelitis. It was doubtful, he said, whether the man ever would stand alone again. The yellow fever attack had so affected his nervous system that his legs were useless and without feeling. At least he was spared physical pain. That was something.

A few days later three nerve specialists arrived from St. Paul, Indianapolis and Chicago. They all agreed with Dr. Dean's diagnosis. Then they took him before a medical conference in session in South Bend, and 25 or 30 more doctors examined him. Finally, from Boston came the noted microbe hunter, Dr. Theobald Smith. He had heard of Kissinger's plight and made the trip at his own expense as a token of admiration for the ex-soldier's courage at Quemados. Doctor Smith put a stop to the amputation idea, but beyond that he was able to do little. The Chicago-New York Limited made a special stop at South Bend for him next day, and he went back to Boston.

Left to their own devices, the Kissingers looked out upon a hopeless future. As far ahead as they could see stretched a dreary road of invalidism and poverty. Illness had taken all their savings, and now upon the shoulders of Mrs. Kissinger fell the double burden of supporting the family and nursing a helpless husband. She rallied to the occasion by getting a job in a shoe factory. For a year she toiled at the factory by day and did her household work by night while the doctors were trying to induce Congress to take notice of the case. When finally the Government did respond, it voted him a pension in the good round sum of $12 a month.

Even $12 a month helped, but it was not a living. Mrs. Kissinger still had to make that. She worked on in the shoe factory. Then she worked at a woolen mill. Later she got a job as a charwoman in the postoffice and finally, when her husband's condition became such as to require her constant attention, she took in washing so she could remain at home. For three years she did a dozen or more washings a week, and lean years they were, all of them. Many a time, in winter, Kissinger says, their stove was cold, and on other days they got along with a dime's worth of coal purchased by the scuttle. While he was barely able to sit up he used to help his wife with the washings. But it was Mrs. Kissinger who told me about that.

"Dr. Dean was always saying to my husband: 'Don't leave your chair, but keep quiet,'" she related. "But as soon as the doctor was gone he would be dragging himself around trying to help me. With pillows I would prop him up so it wouldn't hurt him. Then he would lean on the washboard and wash clothes until he was so exhausted he would crawl away and cry. That is the way we lived day in and day out. We had no other way to live."

They shudder to think what would have become of them in those days of distress had not friends come to their relief. But late in 1908 Doctor Howard Kelley and Doctor Caroline Lattimore of Johns Hopkins University took the case in hand and sent them $50 a month, which they paid out of their own pockets or raised by private subscription among friends. These payments continued until 1911, when, after several years of effort, Congressman Barnhart and Senator Shively of Indiana obtained for Kissinger an annuity of $1200 by special act of Congress. It replaced the $12 a month pension and it meant the beginning of better times.

IN 1914 the Kissingers moved to Honor, Mich, where they increased their income slightly by keeping summer boarders. After years of destitution they were able to live on $100 in what seemed a fair degree of comfort. It was then they took to live with them a young grandson of Mrs. Kissinger, Robert Lobaugh, to keep them company. Then, to make life still more sufferable, Kissinger got rapidly better. By 1917 he was able to hobble about on crutches helping with the Liberty Loan campaigns of World War days. Two years later he discarded his crutches and walked on his legs unassisted. Thanks again to Doctor Theobald Smith.

Kissinger's unpopularity with a liquor element in Michigan as a result of his prohibition activities contributed to his return to Indiana. Political enemies, he says, threatened his life and stirred up trouble for him repeatedly by misrepresenting his physical condition to Government authorities and causing him to be called frequently before pension examining boards. In 1923 he moved back to Indiana and sought economical accommodations in this little town, which has enjoyed the lowest of rents since the collapse, several years ago, of a brief railroad boom.

Here he lives in his $10-a-month cottage, striving to make ends meet on the $100 a month, which doesn't mean quite what $100 meant back in 1911. Against the advice of physicians, he still tries now and then to make a few dollars at clerking in stores, and the grandson, now a 17-year-old high school student, contributes a little to the family income with a newspaper route.

Professor Peabody, who has corresponded with Kissinger for 15 years and has extolled the exploits of the Cuban yellow fever heroes in several biology textbooks, started the $5000 fund campaign last fall, following an unsuccessful attempt to have Kissinger's annuity and those of the widows of Walter Reed, James Carroll and Jesse Lazear increased to $250 a month. The three widows now receive $125. Mrs. Reed also receives $100 a month from a fund raised for her benefit by an organization of scientists several years ago, but has been forced to supplement her income through art embroidery work.

RECENTLY she wrote to Kissinger:

"It has always distressed me to know how little value our Government has placed upon your wonderful heroism, and I have always felt that had Major Reed lived he would have had due recognition taken of you.

"I have had to bear, too, the great humiliation of the indifference of Congress on my behalf. I sincerely hope that Prof. Peabody may be able to gain financial help for you to such an extent that you may be able to spend the rest of your days in comfort.

"I feel assured that you have never regretted the sacrifice you made, and though it was at Major Reed's request that human beings offered themselves for the experiments, I have never regretted that the experiments were made, as such glorious results followed.

"But it is very distressing that such heroes as you men were couldn't have escaped sound and healthy to enjoy the fruits of their noble work. I pray that the needed help may soon come to you."

Last September the New York Association of Biology Teachers sent Kissinger $75 as a token of its appreciation of his services to science and at various times other contributions have come in. For these the veteran has been grateful, but, he says, he hates to feel that he is accepting charity. And he hates, also, to have the public think, as he believes it does, that he is receiving the benefits of so many fund campaigns. From numerous campaigns announced as being in his behalf, he declares, he did not receive a cent.

He is looking forward hopefully, however, to ownership of a home, which is already in prospect with the growth of Professor Peabody's fund. Never in his life has he owned one. Repeated efforts in the past to buy a cottage have had but one result. With a cow, a garden and some chickens, he believes he and Mrs. Kissinger can live in comfort, find plenty of work to do and forget the privations of the past.

"Richest Bachelor's" Estate Sough by His Daughter

Ghosts Began to Walk in Spencer, Iowa, When Elsie Edwards Filed Suit, Saying Marion Griffin Was Her Father.

Elsie as a child.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

SPENCER, Iowa.

GHOSTS are rising out of the past to assail the memory of Marion Griffin, pioneer citizen of Spencer, Iowa, who died two years ago, a bachelor and possessor of the title of "Clay County's richest man."

Erect, white whiskered and ruddy-faced, Marion Griffin was president of the bank, firm supporter of the church and a respected solid citizen. But now the hitherto unknown chapters of the old man's life are revealing a romance that prove again that what is apparent is not always real.

The voice from the past is that of Miss Elsie Edwards, Chicago school teacher, who has started a suit for the three fourths of the immense Griffin estate, offering proofs that she is the daughter and legal heir of Spencer's richest bachelor, who courted her mother for 50 years under her husband's roof.

And citizens of Spencer are now considering in amazement the apparent fact that a Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde lived among them for half a century unsuspected, held up as a model for all ambitious Spencerian young men.

The story of a man who frowned most righteously upon the goings-on of the hard-beset younger generation, who talked long and earnestly to the youth of Clay County on the merits of the straight path and the narrow way, and who, decrying all things of the flesh, is said to have left a trail of amours across Iowa, is the more amazing because the colorful episodes of his private life have not become public until two years after his death.

Even more remarkable is the fact that Miss Edwards, who lives alone in the house at 6541 Greenwood avenue, Chicago, that the banker bought for her mother more than two decades ago, feels no resentment toward the man who admitted that he was her father, but refused to give her his name.

"I think I have always known that he was my father," said Miss Edwards, "but I loved him deeply. The affection between us has been one of the greatest things of my life. I always called him grandpa rather than father."

Elsie Edwards.

THE suit filed by Miss Edwards against the estate, amounting to more than half a million dollars and willed in the most part to charitable institutions of Iowa, is scheduled for trial this month. And in the meantime relatives of Mrs. Annie Edwards, mother of Elsie, have broken their silence of 50 years and told for the first time the story of the strange romance that existed for the supposedly ascetic bachelor banker and the charming and talented wife of "Dolph" Edwards, newspaper publisher, Alaskan explorer and pioneer resident of Spencer.

Mrs. Edwards came to Spencer with her dashing young husband in 1869, so the old residents of the town say. She was very young and very pretty. Not only that, but she was a "good manager," knowing how to turn her hand to whatever turned up, whether it was keeping house or helping her husband in his business. And in between times she painted and wrote.

Spencer adopted her unanimously, as it did also her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Smith, who moved to the little Iowa town from Paola, Kansas, a few years after their daughter's advent there.

Spencer was a typical farm community, and its people were hard-working, thrifty, harsh-spoken folk, who worshiped above all things the god of work, and measured a woman by the whiteness of her starched Sunday petticoats and her husband's collars.

Annie Edwards came up in all things to the community standards. No boiled shirts could be whiter than those in which Dolph Edwards appeared each week at church, and no butter was yellower, no biscuit lighter than that turned out by the capable hands of his young wife.

So it was only natural, reasoned the townspeople, that Marion Griffin, even then beginning to make a name for himself as a shrewd business man, should see and admire such sterling qualities. His visits to the Edwards home, therefore, went apparently unremarked. And besides, who would say a word when Dolph Edwards, who would surely be the first to object if anything were amiss, was so smilingly oblivious.

"I knew pretty soon after the start how things were going," said Mrs. Edwards' brother, C. M. Pinneo of Spencer. "You could tell that Mr. Griffin was completely gone on Annie, and that she was beginning to care for him, too. But you couldn't have made her admit it—not then. She was too proud, and too loyal to Dolph. Even if I am her brother, I can say that Annie Edwards was one of the finest women that ever lived."

The struggle that the bewildered young wife must have had trying to reconcile her sternly inbred beliefs with the new emotion that was coming into her well-ordered life can only be guessed.

BUT after several years of life in Spencer, Dolph Edwards went to the Black Hills and started a newspaper. His two brothers-in-law, H. W. and Frank Pinneo, went with him—and his wife stayed behind.

Even then the Spencerians were given no plausible grounds for gossip. For the visits paid by Mr. Griffin upon Mrs. Edwards were entirely formal, wholly discreet. And it was always "good morning, Mr. Griffin," and "good day, Mrs. Edwards," throughout the fifty years of their romance.

Three years passed, and Mrs. Edwards, hoping perhaps to run away from the thing that seemed foreign to all conventional laws of her nature, joined her husband in the Black Hills, where he had started two daily papers, the Lead City Tribune and the Deadwood Pioneer.

On her heels came Marion Griffin, who announced to all and sundry that he had come to visit at the Edwards home, and proceeded to make good his word. After a time he returned, as brisk, as brusque, as businesslike as ever, continuing the even tenor of his way, looking after his business of banking and buying up tax titles, at which he was eventually to amass Clay County's largest fortune.

"Annie came back to Spencer the next spring, in 1883," said Mr. Pinneo, "and shortly afterwards the child, Elsie, was born."

THE night of her birth was described in detail by the Chicago school teacher, who had heard the story so many times from her mother's lips that it seemed that she was remembering it.

"They tell me 'grandpa' was there at the bedside when I was born," said Miss Edwards, now a strong-faced, rather lonely woman in her forties. "There was a woman doctor officiating, Dr. Mary Frain, now nearing 80 years of age, and seriously ill in Los Angeles."

She was to form one of the chief witnesses to establish proof of Mr. Griffin's paternity. But when four attorneys, two representing Miss Edwards and two the executors of the Griffin estate, journeyed to California a week or so ago to take her deposition, they were told that the aged woman was unable to be interviewed. And so some of the most important evidence may be lacking when the case comes to trial.

In a bedroom of the old white frame house, still standing at the corner of West Third and State streets in Spencer, that night so long ago, was enacted the climax to this austere Iowa drama.

Mrs. Annie Edwards and Elsie.

Lamplight cast distorted shadows about the room. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, the aging father and mother, stood helplessly about, feeling that all was not right when an outsider stood in Dolph Edwards' place at their daughter's bedside, but not daring to put their vague doubts into words.

Thus, into an atmosphere of questioning and of veiled fears Elsie Edwards made her entrance into the world—Elsie Edwards, who has lived a life of semi-seclusion because it was known that she was somehow different from other girls with happy, normal parents—Elsie Edwards, who now, at 44, is asking her share of her father's wealth, in order, perhaps, to take up a rather belated youth.

"I will not have you misunderstand my mother," said Miss Edwards, in sturdy loyalty. "She was the truest, finest person in the world. In talking to her you would have thought that she erred on the side of prudery, so rigid were her standards, so inflexible her ideals.

"She used to talk to me about the trials that are the lot of women, and she always spoke of the love of men rather as an inescapable evil than a thing to be sought. She was afraid of life, perhaps, which had treated her so strangely, and she wanted to shield me from all contacts which might hurt me as she had been hurt."

Throughout their lives, up to the time of the death of Mrs. Edwards, in 1917, the mother and daughter were inseparable companions.

"I don't know how they worked it out," said Mr. Pinneo, continuing his narrative, "but Dolph didn't leave his wife after the baby was born, although he knew it wasn't his. Maybe he loved her enough to want to stay with her in spite of everything. Maybe he was blessed with an unnatural understanding of human weaknesses. Anyway there was no divorce."

Mrs. Edwards made no attempt to conceal the fatherhood of her child from her husband, and when the little girl grew old enough to talk she taught her to call the man who was ostensibly her father, "Dolph" and to greet the whiskered and genial Mr. Griffin, who was such a frequent visitor to their home, as "grandpa."

Probably a stranger domestic situation has never existed than this Iowa triangle in which the successful rival entered the home of the wronged husband as a welcome guest.

ACCORDING to all the sacred rules of melodrama, the two men should have met in mortal combat for their honor's sake and the love of the lady fair. There should have been blood, and thunder and high hysterics.

But, unaccountably, there were none of these.

The three principals in this seemingly hopeless tangle of lives and loves looked at the thing calmly, and with the greatest degree of philosophy went quietly about their chores.

Mr. Griffin continued to live in the two rooms in back of his bank, which he clung to even after his fortune swelled to imposing proportions. Dolph Edwards went philosophically about his work as publisher of the old Lead City Tribune and Deadwood Pioneer, and Mrs. Edwards returned to her husband's roof, finding ample work to keep her from thinking too much.

There were frequent visits from "grandpa," who was always welcomed as a beloved friend, and greeted with shouts of joy by Elsie. But persistent rumors came to Elsie's mother of further amours of the patriarchal Mr. Griffin.

It was whispered once that there was another little girl in a nearby town who called the upstanding old bachelor father, and stories, vague and tantalizing as aimless winds, were wafted about of the monthly allowance he gave to the support of more than one Iowa family.

But any doubts that Mrs. Edwards or her small daughter may have had were always dispelled when "grandpa" came, bearing gifts and breathing an air of the very soul of integrity.

A firm affection is said to have existed between Elsie and her father. A life-size painting of the little girl hung over Mr. Griffin's bed, and he, admitting his fatherhood, provided liberally for her education.

It was Griffin, rather than Dolph Edwards, who, in the eyes of the world, was her father, who laid down the rules of Elsie's conduct, Griffin to whom she looked for advice and counsel, Griffin who paid for her red-topped shoes and blue-backed school books.

ELSIE EDWARDS grew up in comparative seclusion, with her mother and "grandpa" her only confidantes.

Then came the exodus of the Edwards family to Orlando, Fla., where Dolph started a daily paper. For twelve or fourteen years, while Elsie was growing into young womanhood, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards lived in apparent harmony in the Everglades State, she securing a position as postmistress at Sanford, a nearby town.

There were occasional visits from the white-bearded Iowa bachelor and Elsie often spent her summer on "grandpa's" ranch, near Greenville, Iowa. During these visits the girl and the old man were inseparable, and the matrons of Spencer smiled benevolently and remarked on what a kind man Marion Griffin was.

For the position of M. E. Griffin as a pillar of church and community had never wavered. Ambitious mammas long had thrust marriageable daughters invitingly under his nose, and sighed resignedly as the thrusting appeared all in vain.

So Marion Griffin went his seemingly solitary way.

And his townspeople for the most part would have decried as blasphemy any slurs on the private life of their richest citizen.

Elsie was sent to St. Mary's Academy of the University of Notre Dame, and later was graduated from the University of Chicago.

LONDON.

THE auctioneer's hammer beat upon the block in front of aristocratic Spinfield Park, Marlow, the other day, and the contents of one of England's most opulent old homes passed into the hands of the highest bidders. Rare old furnishings came down from the walls and, amid the chatter of the auction-going bargain hunters, went their separate ways to seek shelter in more permanent if less pretentious domiciles. It marked the final step in the dissolution of the home of Lord Terrington, second Baron of Huddersfield, whose romancing brought upon him evil days of late, and who, after a year's sojourn at Monte Carlo with another man's wife, now is coming back to his native land a bankrupt and a prisoner.

Indeed, some doubt exists as to whether he will arrive even as a prisoner. Broken in health, he collapsed recently in Boulogne on his unhappy return trip and has since lingered between life and death in a French hospital, nursed by the companion of his romantic but disastrous flyer to Monte Carlo. Daringly romantic the pair appeared when they passed through Boulogne a year ago bound for the freedom of the Mediterranean coast, but hardly romantic is the picture now. A more convincing exhibit of social, financial, professional and physical wreckage than that presented by the one-time dapper Lord Terrington would be hard to find, even among those outward bound from Monte Carlo.

Little more than a year ago Lord Terrington, whose name is Harold James Selborne Woodhouse, held a high place in finance, politics and society. At least he held a position of importance in politics and society, and he was reputed to be a millionaire. He had built up a fortune said to exceed $2,000,000 in the legal profession and held large stocks in shipping and publishing corporations. He had a reputation above reproach and, to all appearances, had a happy home. To his prestige as one of England's most successful solicitors was added the reflected glory of his wife.

LADY TERRINGTON was among the first four women to hold a seat in the House of Commons and was known as the "best-dressed M. P." At 36, she was noted far and wide for her beauty and the charm of her attire, and her following, both political and social, was large. Their home life at Spinfield Park was believed to be unruffled.

Then another woman entered the case and London enjoyed one of its racy scandals. This flare was particularly luminous because of its sudden appearance, its unexpectedness and the prominence of its principals. The woman in the case was Mrs. Rena de Vere Humphrey, a society leader almost as well known as Lady Terrington herself. She also was 36, pretty and had a husband with whom she appeared to be on friendly terms.

How long the affair had been going on unobserved will never cease to be a source of painful speculation to the gossips. When a good scandal flares up so suddenly as did that occasioned by the elopement of this pair, there is always the likelihood that a lot of the preliminaries may have been overlooked. Special efforts to fill these gaps, therefore, have been exerted ever since. But apparently nothing was known or said about the attachment of Lord Terrington and Mrs. Humphrey until both of them packed up a few belongings one day last spring and, without the formality of a divorce or a forwarding address, hied themselves to the Mediterranean coast. A few days later came Lady Terrington's suit for divorce, naming Mrs. Humphrey as the corespondent and alleging about every form of misconduct that even Monte Carlo might afford. As an alimony settlement she received a substantial part of Lord Terrington's property, and that seems to have been the percursor of the many financial ills to follow.

WHILE Lord Terrington was playing about Monte Carlo, his legal business, left to its own devices, soon fell into irreparable decay. Then, certain investments into which he had plunged hundreds of thousands suffered appalling reverses. And along with these losses, his living expenses attendant upon his impromptu honeymoon with Mrs. Humphrey mounted against an ever-shrinking principal, with no income to balance them. Finally came the inevitable crash. To the wall went the Earle's Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, Ltd., and to the wall went also the Eastern Morning and Hull News Co., Ltd., in both of which Lord Terrington was director and principal stockholder. The total of his debts ran up around £400,000, nearly $2,000,000. In less than two years he had squandered or wrecked a fortune he had spent about half of his 50 years in building, and with the fruits of his own work went everything he had inherited from his father except his name and title. His father, a wealthy lawyer and railroad man, was created first Baron of Huddersfield in 1918. He died in 1921.

Ordered to return to England for examination in the bankruptcy courts, Lord Terrington continued to find reason why he should stay at Monte Carlo. One of the principal of these reasons was his health, or that, at least, was the plea he made to the authorities. His return was postponed from time to time, until finally he was advised that further delay would result in steps to have him extradited and brought back to face his creditors. He then announced his readiness to return if he might be allowed $100 for his traveling expenses, but when he still failed to arrive, detectives were sent to Monte Carlo to have a look for themselves.

The detectives couldn't find him at first. They found his flat vacated and the report was broadcast that Lord Terrington had fled to Italy. Then somebody espied his motor car one day and trailed it to Cap d'Ail. There they encountered Mrs. Humphrey as she was leaving the machine at the Chalet Rustique, the home of a Mrs. Alexander, an elderly British resident of Monaco. Mrs. Humphrey was very courteous to the detectives and showed them her prettily furnished home, for which, she told them, they paid 19 shillings a week rent. She told them where the furniture came from (it was supplied by the mother of Lord Terrington, she said) and told them everything else they wanted to know except where Lord Terrington was. That, they would have to learn by their own efforts if they could; so they set a watch on the place.

THIS watch proved to be worse than a failure. The detectives not only failed to find a trace of Lord Terrington. They lost track of Mrs. Humphrey as well. She disappeared from the chalet with a smoothness and dispatch that would have done credit to a "Slippery Slim." Apparently, Lord Terrington, if he had been in the chalet at all, went out of it with her, for neither was to be found when the detectives at last determined to make a search.

It was this disappearance which led to Lord Terrington's arrest and the most embarrassing complications in Boulogne. Advised that the pair had fled from Monaco, the British authorities issued an order for his extradition and the French authorities were notified to arrest him if he tried to cross the boundaries of France. What the British really meant was that he should be arrested if he tried to cross into Italy, Spain or Germany. Above all, it was not intended to put any obstacles in his path if he seemed to be traveling in the direction of England. But the dispatch to the French police failed to make that clear and the French interpreted "boundaries of France" to include water as well as land frontiers.

Accordingly, when a dignified looking man in a tall silk hat attempted a short time ago to take passage to England at Boulogne, a French detective walked up to him on the station platform and clapped a hand on his arm.

"Are you the man the English police are looking for?" he asked that surprised gentleman.

"I don't know," replied Lord Terrington.

"Then you had better come with me and find out," said the detective, and with Lord Terrington protesting and Mrs. Humphrey spluttering about police stupidity, he led them into a little waiting room and "called the wagon." They rode to the station in a police automobile, with four gendarmes hanging on the running boards, and Lord Terrington said he thought it was scandalous treatment. Mrs. Humphrey spent most of her time in argument with the officers over whether or not she could remain with Lord Terrington. She declared she would stay with him if they locked him in a dungeon.

But they didn't lock him in a dungeon. He looked so frail and weak they took him to a doctor and the doctor forthwith sent him to a hospital, and there he has been ever since. The next day after his arrival he had suffered a severe heart attack as a result of the excitement and was unable to leave his bed. The error of the French police had defeated the very end the British authorities had been trying to accomplish. Had he not been arrested in Boulogne he would have sailed that evening and would have been in London the next morning. Now he was bedfast in a French hospital, growink weaker every hour and his arrival before the bankruptcy court postponed indefinitely. Regardless of his willingness to return to England, his arrest had now made necessary the extradition proceedings which the British had intended to avoid if possible. And there was the further possibility he would never be able to return at all. It seemed for several days he would not leave the hospital alive.

Still ignorant of why he was being arrested at all, the French kept him under heavy guard for a week. A gendarme, armed to the teeth, even sat beside his bed when he was asleep, thinking that maybe here was a desperate criminal who might be shamming illness and would try to escape.

WHATEVER her erstwhile female friends in England may have said about Mrs. Humphrey, let it be said to her credit that she was not the woman who would be a quitter in the face of trouble. Her devotion to Lord Terrington during his illness even won the admiration of the gossips. He was a broken man, financially and physically, going home to ruin and disgrace, but she would stick by him to the last. Every minute of the day she spent by his bedside or laboring to make him as comfortable as possible. She brought special food to him and kept him supplied with newspapers and magazines and when there was official business to transact she went to the front in his place. It was through her that he issued the following statement describing his peculiar involvement with the police:

"Within three days after appearance of the news that extradition had been applied for," he said to a correspondent, "I left Monte Carlo, as advised by my doctor, by motor car instead of by train, to make the journey to Paris by easy stages. I telegraphed meanwhile to my solicitors in London that I was on the way.

"The journey, nevertheless, caused me considerable physical and mental strain, and so I rested in the environs of Paris while Mrs. Humphrey went to England to ascertain the exact status of the case. She made an arrangement whereby there were to be no passport difficulties if I returned to England voluntarily.

"Having obtained the funds necessary for the trip, we left for Boulogne and were proceeding through the Gare Maritime to the boat when a French official examining passports stopped me and said I was being looked for.

"At my request he immediately sent for the British Consul and a doctor, the latter of whom in two seconds perceived my cardiac condition and ordered my removal to a hospital. Here I have remained ever since in a private room, with the embarrassment of a gendarme sitting there all the time, the gendarme being changed every six hours.

"THE Procureur has informed me that mine is the first case under the new extradition law and that although I was anxious to proceed to England and waive extradition formalities, I could not be allowed to do this and would have to go to Douai and be interned somewhere there while the court considered the case, which probably will take some time. He emphasized the fact that no willingness on my part to waive such matters would be of avail.

"This seems to me to be entirely a waste of time, besides being extremely detrimental to my health, in the face of the report of the independent doctor on my heart's condition. I am willing to agree to any conditions that may be imposed to insure that I go straight to England. It was perfectly obvious I was on my way to London without any attempt to conceal my identity when my arrest occurred."

Waiting for the authorities to straighten out the extradition tangle, Lord Terrington reads in the London papers the daily accounts of the auction of Spinfield Park and its contents. Perhaps there is some consolation in the intelligence that his properties are commanding good prices, even if he is to see nothing of the proceeds.

THE house, which stands near the bank of the Thames, in Marlow, was the first item sold. It was purchased by a hotel syndicate for a price said to have been about $75,000. His motorboat, White Knight, which had provided the means of many a gay excursion in past years, followed, and then came the furniture, flowers, art treasures and silver. Over a period of four days, these articles sold at a lively rate, the receipts running from $10,000 to $15,000 a day. Among the furnishings were many pieces which attracted considerable attention as antiques. There was a seventeenth century Italian tortoise shell cabinet, a Florentine piece of the same period, with classical and symbolical groups of nymphs and satyrs, Queen Anne and Georgian mirrors, cupboards, chairs, an eighteenth century leather screen and a highly valuable Chippendale table. Old English silver plate also brought handsome returns. A coffee pot by Paul Lamerie, 1733, sold at 125 shillings an ounce, bringing more than £149, or about $745. A Queen Anne plain caster was knocked down at £38, or about 100 shillings an ounce. A pair of Queen Anne candlesticks by H. Payne, 1704, sold at 105 shillings an ounce, or about $410. Carnations from the green houses were sold in lots of 25 each and chrysanthemums, of which there were enough to stock a nursery garden, also helped to round out the auction proceeds.

Spinfield Park was purchased by Lord Terrington in 1918 when he married his former wife. She was then the widow of Guy Sebright, who ended his life in 1912. Already active in politics, she rose to a position of still greater prominence with her second marriage.

She was elected to Parliament in 1923 after campaigning in the rural districts of her constituency on horseback. She served two years and in 1925 engaged in business with a beauty parlor, a venture which caused almost as much discussion as her libel suit against the Daily Express which grew out of a charge by that paper, made during her campaign, that she was a "vain, frivolous and extravagant woman unfit to be an M. P." With all her business, political and court activities, however, she found time to make herself a popular hostess at Spinfield Park.

The sale was conducted by the trustees of the marriage settlement of Lord and Lady Terrington to realize on numerous articles claimed in the settlement. Comparatively little of the funds thus derived will find its way to the creditors of the bankrupt shipping and publishing firms. These claims, so far as the bankruptcy court can now determine, must go unsatisfied. If Lord Terrington recovers sufficiently to return his presence will have little bearing on the status of his neglected interests. It will be simply to face whatever charges are made and witness the windup of his career as a powerful figure in London's business life. His year or two of roaming has done for him.

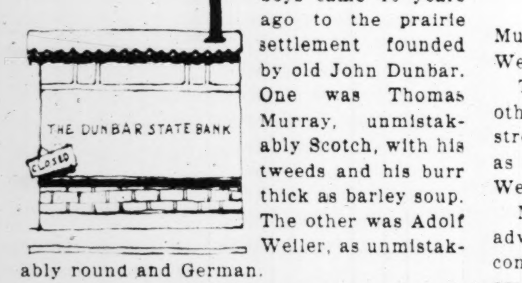
Mrs. John Murray.

By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

DUNBAR, Nebraska.



TWO green emigrant boys came 40 years ago to the prairie settlement founded by old John Dunbar. One was Thomas Murray, unmistakably Scotch, with his tweeds and his burr thick as barley soup. The other was Adolf Weiler, as unmistakably round and German.

Murray, having been apprenticed as a bookkeeper in a Scotch woolen mill, got a job in the general store.

Weiler, too, found work. He lived sparingly and saved thriftily.

Ten years later both young men were prospering. The country was opening up, crops were good, money was easy.

Weiler had started a butcher shop and saloon. Murray was cashier and a leading stockholder in the newly organized bank.

Twenty years saw the transformation to prosperous American citizens complete. Murray retained his burr, Weiler his slight accent; otherwise they were leading and prosperous townsmen of an American community, anxious for the upbuilding and progress of Dunbar.

The banker was willing and able to help the butcher. The butcher banked with his friend. If they were rival candidates for the position of leading citizen of the town, they were friendly rivals, eager and able to turn an occasional deal together into cash.

While Murray was more genial, a better mixer, with a way of getting himself into people's good graces, Weiler was more earnest, determined and indifferent to difficulties.

BOTH had married and had begun the rearing of their respective families. Murray took as his wife Lou Westbrook, the daughter of a well-to-do family of the town. Weiler wed a German farm girl. Their first child, a girl, the Murrays named Arvilla.

Weiler's saloon license expired at about this time. Under the State law he required a number of signers among the citizenry to renew it.

He went to Murray and asked him to sign the petition. For some reason the banker refused. Weiler was infuriated.

"I'll start a bank and run you out of business," he threatened.

"You can't do it," Murray said. "You owe me $24,000."

"I'll pay that back before sunset," the German butcher countered.

And he did. Before the doors of the bank were locked for the night he had raised the money.

An open rivalry that amounted almost to hostility sprang up between the two. Weiler began at once to construct concrete bank vaults in the building that adjoined his butcher shop. Within a week he had sufficient backing to start a rival institution, which he called the Farmers' Bank.

Another five years saw the two in a neck-and-neck race to control the community. If Murray had a growing insurance and stock and bond business as well as his bank, Weiler controlled the leading store.

Weiler was an elder in the Presbyterian Church. Murray was an elder in the United Presbyterian Church.

Another daughter had been born to the Murrays, Janet, an incurable invalid. Weiler had three sons.

Their prospective banks faced each other on opposite sides of Main street. Murray was as regular and as methodical as a clock. So was Weiler.

Murray had one advantage. His congenial temperament, his convivial habit of opening a bottle of Scotch on any and all pretexts won him a much wider popular following. His insurance business was an advantage, too, for it gave him an opportunity to know the farmers in the surrounding country. In contrast to this, Weiler's business methods, if more obvious, were more often effective. He had debtors signing on the dotted line before they realized what it was all about.

Both men were known as good providers. They did not stint their families. Murray built a spacious white frame home. Weiler erected a dwelling slightly larger and more ornate. Mrs. Murray was known as the best cook in town. Mrs. Weiler had the reputation of being the most efficient and economical housekeeper.

Social lines were drawn by the bank ledgers. If a townsman did his banking with Murray he and his family associated with the Murrays and went to the United Presbyterian Church, and vice versa. When Murray put a new front on his bank, so did Weiler. The two men spoke to each other when they met, but their cordiality stopped at that. If Murray was known to say the longest grace at table, Weiler's invocations at prayer meeting were notably eloquent and long.

Another decade and the competition was more relentless. Murray's political power had grown. He had been elected president in 1916 of the State Bankers' Association. His reputation and his name had spread far beyond the bounds of town and county. State political leaders began to seek him out. He made frequent trips to Omaha and Lincoln on political matters and in connection with land deals. He never missed a chance to make a speech or preside at a banquet.

MURRAY had a car and he employed Burton Gorton, a young townsman, to drive it for him. Murray's oldest daughter, Arvilla, fell in love with Gorton and they were married. A son had come, too, Thomas Jr.

Murray's activities expanded. He sold stock in an oil company and he promoted a concern to manufacture containers for ice cream.

Weiler concentrated his energy locally. He expanded and enlarged his general store.

The race centered about a lumber company, the only one in town, which was offered for sale. Weiler won out. Murray started another firm and added a grain elevator company to his list of activities, putting his son-in-law, Gorton, in charge.

Murray went as a delegate to the last Republican national convention. It is said that he was responsible for getting the vice presidential nomination for Charles G. Dawes. He had known Dawes when the latter had been a banker at Lincoln.

He returned from his political triumph to learn that things were not going so well. His bank had lost considerable sums of money on frozen loans. It was a dry year, crops were bad and money was tight. His lumber company was losing and he was forced to sell it.

It began to look as though Weiler, who had been more conservative in the matter of loans and whose lumber company was thriving, would take the lead.

Murray's pride—everyone in town agrees that the Murrays always thought they were a little better than everyone else—could never permit this. The grain market occurred to him as a way to recoup his loss. His friends in Omaha and Lincoln made money—big money—by speculation. It looked easy. He bought a tip service for $25 and interested his son-in-law in similar ventures. For three years they speculated.

The Murray home.

ON MARCH 14 last the genial, jovial Tom Murray waved a farewell to his friends along Main street and departed for Texas, on a land deal, he explained.

Two weeks later the vice president of Murray's bank, Henry Westbrook, Mrs. Murray's cousin, received a letter from Denver in which Murray confessed to forging a series of notes which he had sold to banks in Nebraska City, Omaha and New York, to cover up his losses on the grain market. It was the letter of a desperate, beaten man who pleaded for help. Westbrook took the matter up with the directors of the bank and for a few days the thing was kept silent.

Mrs. Murray received the following telegram:

"I am sick in Denver under a nurse's care. Meet me here at the Albany Hotel.

"DAD."

Going to Denver, she heard the story of his failure to save his pride and his position. She pleaded with him, she says, to come home and face the music.

"You must go your way and I must go mine," Murray told her, she said on her return: "We may be able to meet again in six or seven years, if I can make up these losses."

The Guaranty Fund Commission stepped in and took charge of the bank, under Nebraska's law, by which all depositors will be fully protected. Auditors are sorting out the tangled and complex snarl that Murray left behind. The loss to the bank is estimated from $50,000 to $200,000. Many of Murray's banker friends in Omaha and Nebraska City will lose sums ranging from $3500 to $20,000 on personal notes which they indorsed for or accepted from Murray without question.

GORTON was arrested and charged with embezzlement of the funds of the grain elevator company. This is the story Gorton told upon his arrest:

"Murray came to me and asked if I wanted to make some easy money. I told him I did.

"I had no desire to be wealthy, but I was in debt for my home, and thought it would be nice to have it paid for and a little money on the side. With a good job, then, I would be in nice shape.

"He showed me a letter he had from a tip service on the grain market. It looked good to me, and I relied on Murray's business judgment, not because he was my father-in-law, but because he was a rich man. I told him I had no money to start with and he said he would lend it to me. All I had to do, he said, was to sign a note in the name of the grain company and then he would attend to disposing of it.

"I won several hundred dollars, but then it got so that every time I won $50 I lost $500. I guess it was the same way with Murray.

"I just kept playing on, hoping some day to make a 'cleaning' and square up everything. But it seemed that we were never on the right side of the market. I never thought I was doing anything wrong."

The town is inclined to believe him when he says he was innocent of any wrong intention. He is a big, friendly man, not particularly shrewd. Two daughters have been born to the Gortons, one 8 years old and the the other but 7 months. He has entered a plea of not guilty to the charges against him, which include the embezzlement of about $16,000 of the elevator company's funds.

MRS. MURRAY, upon her return, took her invalid daughter, Janet, now 27, and went to the Gorton home, deserting the high, white house that had been her pride so long.

She has not been seen on the streets since coming back. It is said that she has not left the darkened room in which she shut herself away from all eyes.

Tom Jr., 16 now, has taken a part-time job while continuing high school. If the worst comes to the worst, he says he can support the family. The banker deeded their home to his wife before he left.

There are various conjectures as to Murray's whereabouts. It is said that he has gone to Australia, to Canada, back to Scotland. Posters have been spread over the country and on all steamships offering a reward for his arrest.

"The County of Otoe, in the State of Nebraska, will pay TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS' REWARD for the arrest and detention of one THOMAS MURRAY," they read. "Description: Age 58: Height about 5 feet 6 inches; Eyes blue; Weight about 180 pounds; Build stout; Complexion sandy and bald-headed; Smooth shaven and always well dressed; Peculiarities: Scotch brogue, pleasant talker; inclined to be mirthful and jovial; will be found in good company at the best hotels and clubs."

Murray's disappearance and the subsequent revelations have not meant a flushed triumph for Weiler. Under the State banking laws depositors may not withdraw their money from a bank that has been taken over by the Guaranty Fund Commission. Murray's following cannot, if they would, rush post-haste to Weiler's side.

The whole affair has bred a great skepticism of banks and bankers. If depositors can't take their funds out of Murray's bank they can and are taking their hoardings from Weiler's vaults. They are taking their money to Nebraska City banks or they are putting it in socks and teapots.

Weiler is so distressed by all this that he has brought a serious illness upon himself and yet so keen is his loyalty to his bank that he drags himself each day to the chair set off within the walnut railed space marked "President." It is generally believed that he is gravely ill.

If Murray has lost, Weiler has certainly not won.

By BARRY BENEFIELD

The FIFTH in the Series of the Year's Best Short Stories.

ON A Saturday afternoon Paul Darnell was coming back from the cemetery, where he had gone to shout at the deaf sexton a message from his mother about the rose bushes on the family lot, when the impulse seized him to turn into Carrie Snyder's yard and ask for a drink of water. Though it was May, Northern Louisiana was already in the midst of summer. Paul was very thirsty and he had the small boy's impatience with postponement of gratification. Besides, he felt the lure of the forbidden, for at some time during his 10 years of life in Crebillon he had gathered, somehow, the notion that Carrie's yard was not a proper place for a little boy to enter.

So he hesitated by her front fence of broad palings, close behind which was a thick row of evergreen shrubbery.

Paul heard someone singing out behind Carrie's little yellow cottage, and pulling his straw hat hard down over his eyes he cautiously opened her front gate, walked softly around the house, and stood under a huge, fan-shaped chinaberry tree near the well in the back yard, where the grassless ground was hard and white and swept as clean as a floor until it merged into the garden. The singing woman was in the garden that came up almost to the well, but she wore a sunbonnet and her back was turned to the house. She had not heard or seen her chance visitor.

Because there had always been, even to his innocent intelligence, sinister implications in all the remarks he had heard about Carrie, he did not dare raise his voice to attract her attention. That would be venturing entirely too far. But it was cool in the shade of the great chinaberry tree; it was good just to be sitting down anyhow; he was burning with thirst; he did not want to back down from his enterprise now that he had come so far, and so he waited.

Presently Carrie stood up straight, pushed the sunbonnet back off her head until it hung around her neck by its strings, and came toward the house. Seeing Paul, she stopped in amazement. She was not accustomed to visitors of such tender years. She surveyed appreciatively the handsome little boy with brown eyes, widely set, and the curly, brown, closely cropped hair. A small scar in the middle of his left cheek made a shallow dimple, which would deepen delightfully when he smiled; but he was now fearfully solemn.

"Could I have a drink of water, please?" he asked, scrutinizing her face, though after all it appeared to be a very pleasant face.

Paul had never before been so close to Carrie Snyder.

"Sure, you can have a drink of water. Wait, we'll draw up a fresh bucket from the very bottom of the well, where it is dark and deep and cool." It occurred to Paul that she wasn't terrifying at all. He liked the straight look in her eyes and the lift of her hearty voice.

THE rusty iron windlass screeched under her vigorous manipulations, and within a minute the wooden bucket, old and black and dripping deliciously, stood on the shelf at the top of the curbing. Carrie unhooked a long-handled tin dipper from the side of the well, filled it and offered it to him.

"Won't you have some, Miss Carrie, first?"

"Thank you, I will."

Presently Paul's thirst was copiously satisfied. Carrie hesitated a moment, and then drawing a rake from under the back porch she went again to the garden to collect the wilting weeds. The little boy sat down on the box once more and watched her round, brown arms handling the rake. He had nothing further to say, but he stayed on. Nor did she say anything immediately, though Paul knew she wasn't willing for him to go away.

But he was glad she did not ask him if he went to school, did he love his teacher, did he go to Sunday school and did he love his teacher there, and so on and so on. He abominated questions, especially questions that everybody asked. And Carrie was glad that he did not begin at once to cross-examine her; she would have expected that any little boy would do that. No, it was somehow good for these two to be together. They were instantly comrades without strain. It was friendship at first sight.

Carrie finished her work in the garden, took off her bonnet, brought a rocking chair and a small sewing table with folding legs out under the chinaberry tree, and sat there playing solitaire.

Carrie hummed bits of tunes, and Paul stayed on nearly two hours. Twice he walked over to the well and drank, first asking her if she wouldn't have water; and then he said, "Well, good-by," and went home.

The next time he came he was asked a question, but now he did not mind because he felt that he and Carrie had known each other a long time and were pals.

"Do you know who I am?" she asked, not raising her eyes from the work in her hands.

"Yessum; you're Carrie—Miss Carrie."

"How did you know my name?"

"I hear the men downtown say when you pass, 'There goes Carrie.'"

"And do they laugh when they say it?"

She bent lower over her needle.

"Yessum, they do. Why do they do that, Miss Carrie?"

Carrie did not answer, and he did not think it strange; often he himself let questions go unanswered if he possibly could.

After a month, on his fifth visit, Paul asked Carrie a question, just as if he were continuing a conversation a second old, instead of four weeks old.

"And do you know who I am, then, Miss Carrie?" He looked eagerly over at her from his box; she took pains to sit four or five feet away from him always.

"Yes, you're Paul Darnell, son of the hardware man, and you live in the big, white house across the street from the Baptist Church. Does your mother know you come here?"

"I never told her; she never asked."

"If she does ask, will you tell her?"

"Yessum, I reckon so."

"When do you start to school again in the fall?"

"The first of October."

"You will be a very busy boy then, won't you?"

"Yessum, I will that, and night will be fallin' early then. But I'll come up Saturdays and holidays whenever I can."

Carrie's hands stopped working and sank into her lap. She looked up at the sky, passed one hand nervously over her forehead and shook her head vigorously.

AND presently, standing up, Paul said: "Well, good-by. Good-by, Miss Carrie." She said "Good-by" without calling his name; and he went slowly around the house to the front gate, looking back several times and smiling shyly, his dimple dancing in his cheek. And when she heard the front gate slam to she ran into her kitchen and watched him until he could be seen no more.

Whenever Carrie now phoned downtown for groceries or meat she insisted that they be brought before noon; she wanted no delivery wagon man blundering into her yard on any afternoon, because Paul might possibly be there, and she knew that then he would be reported to his father.

Occasionally, while he was paying one of his visits, her front doorbell rang, but she ran, with a great rustling of starched skirts, around the house, easily got rid of her caller and came back to her rocking chair.

One day, coming out of the house, she found Paul on his box, holding in his lap an extremely unprepossessing little black kitten with a head shaped like a mule's.

"I found him all hunkered up in the alley by the Methodist Church, and he was cryin' to beat the band. I reckon he's starvin', don't you, Miss Carrie?"

Carrie had no pets, and she loathed cats. Besides, old maids kept cats. She stood studying the situation in perplexity, tapping at her white teeth with the nail of her right forefinger. Then, suddenly, she threw out her hands in front of her with a gesture of defeat, her great, generous mouth smiled and she took the battered kitten in her arms.

"Then we'd better feed him, hadn't we, Paul? We'll give him the feast of his young life. What, now, is to be his name?"

"Let's call him John the Baptist, Miss Carrie. I had that name in my lesson last Sunday, and I kinda liked it."

And John the Baptist ate and drank mightily, and purred in Paul's lap, and played a little with his fingers after a while; she sitting by smiling radiantly, while she patched a blouse, for Carrie was something over 30 and besides she had become suddenly almost a miser.

"You will keep him, won't you, Miss Carrie?" Paul asked when he was ready to leave. "Somebody's kicked him out. He'll die if you don't. I'm afraid to take him home—they would only fuss at me."

"Yes, I'll keep him."

Paul looked hard at her for a moment. "You're awfully good, anyhow. Well, good-by, I've got to go. Good-by, John the Baptist."

ALONG about the middle of August Paul's visits to his friend on the cemetery road stopped without warning. When he had not come for two weeks Carrie began questioning the iceman and the several delivery boys who came to her house. How was Paul Darnell getting on? She pretended she had heard that he was very sick. No, he wasn't sick; they had all seen him playing at home and near it.

Then Carrie knew that someone had betrayed Paul to his parents; she was certain that he had not forgotten her.

Every afternoon now Carrie worked in her garden, whether it needed cultivation or not, waiting. When he came she wanted to be just as she was that first day when she had turned around and seen him sitting under the chinaberry tree. A leaf falling, the well-house creaking under a change of temperature, the tiniest noises made her turn around eagerly. But the days went by and never did she see him sitting under the great fan-topped chinaberry tree.

Late in September Carrie decided to make daily trips by the Darnell house. She might see him out on the sidewalk. Would she let him speak to her? She did not know, did not know. "I will," she said many times. "I will not," she said oftener. "I might get him in Dutch worse than he is."

The first day that she decided to walk about the streets in the neighborhood of Paul's house she started to dress elaborately as for one of her downtown trips. But somehow that did not seem the thing to do. So early one Saturday afternoon, wearing a sunbonnet and a brown gingham dress, she set out for Paul's neighborhood. She walked around his block, detoured two blocks, came back, walked away again, and so contrived to spend an hour very near her friend's house. She ran across several groups of boys, but he was not among them. She could see him nowhere, not even in his own yard. And finally, discouraged, she walked slowly back home and found him sitting on his box under the chinaberry tree, a dejected little figure, with his head in his hands.

Carrie ran toward him with her arms held out, halted suddenly, dropped her hands to her side.

"Did they whip you, Paul?" Her voice was furious.

"Yessum."

"Did it hurt?"

"Gee, but it did hurt, Miss Carrie. Papa did it this time. He's awful, but he was worse'n ever this time, I tell you." Paul grinned with an effort.

"Did you promise not to come up here any more, Paul?"

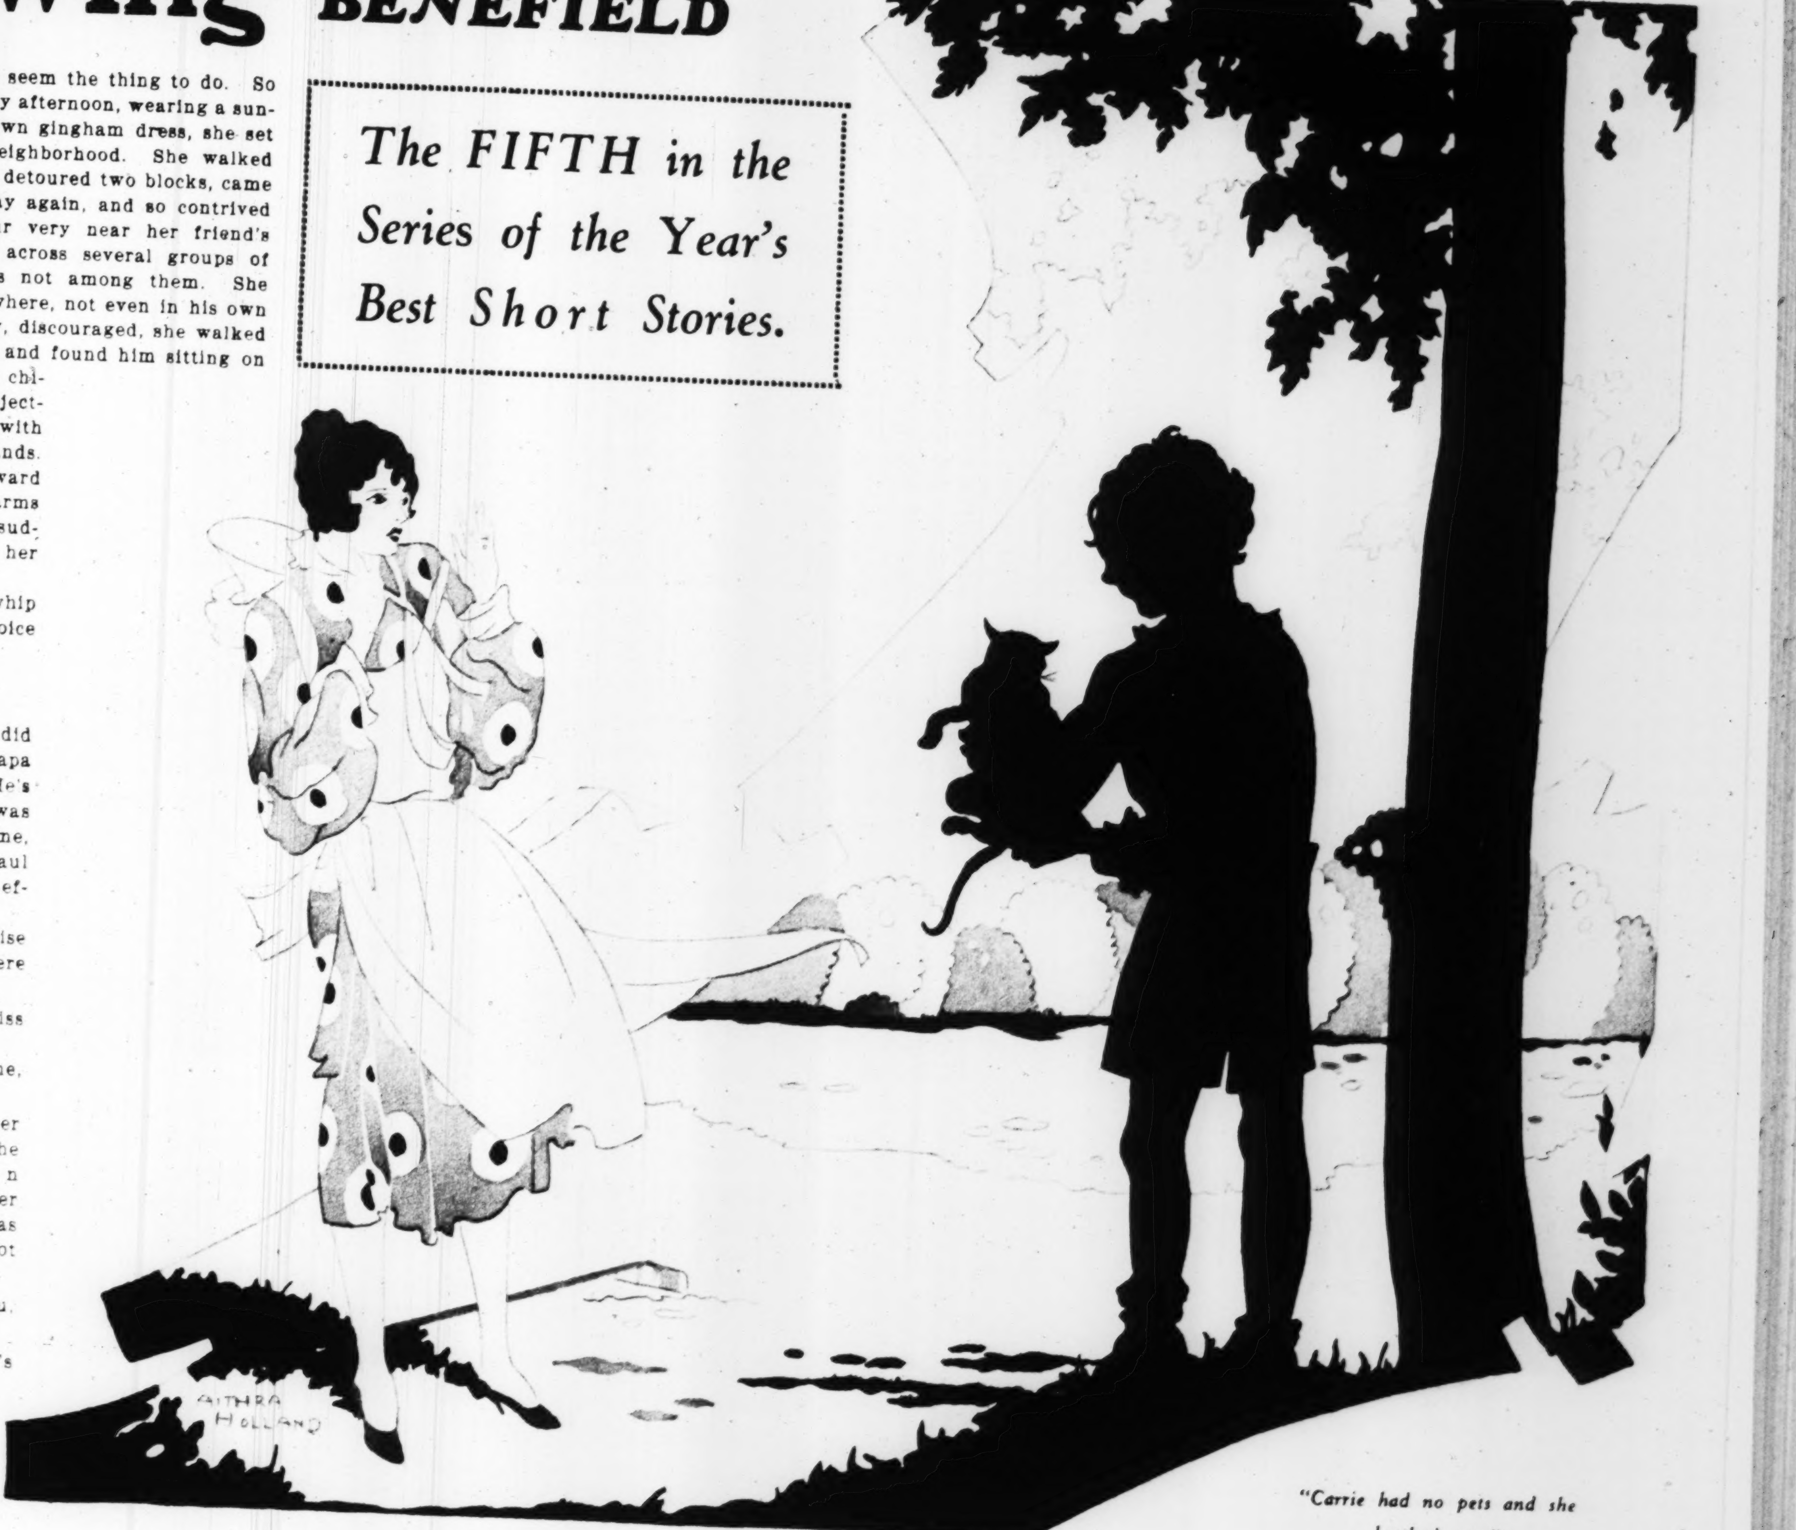
"Yessum, I did, Miss Carrie."

"But you did come, didn't you, Paul?"

He looked at her sharply. That was the foolishest question Miss Carrie had ever asked him. He was surprised. He did not answer.

"Who told on you, Paul?"

"Aunt Julia — she's our cook. She passes here almost every day, but sometimes she goes on the other road by the shoe factory. But she saw me come out of your front gate one day, so she told on me."



"Carrie had no pets and she loathed cats."

TOO excited to sit down, Carrie had been standing in front of the visitor. But now there seemed nothing more to say.

Carrie rushed away to bring the treasure chest he had given her to keep so that he could see that all was well within it. He looked gravely over its contents, pulled a fresh, plump buckeye from his pocket and dropped it into the box, and then handed it back to her, with the remark that a buckeye carried in the left pants pocket was a cure for rheumatism.

"And so then you're cured, I see." Miss Carrie beat her hands together and laughed very loudly. Paul looked at her suspiciously.

"Must I keep the box on, Paul?" She stood leaning toward him, hanging on his answer.

"Yessum, I wish you would. It's the only safe place."

She set up the sewing table, very near him this time, and played solitaire while she reported on all the things in the garden that he had ever asked a question about.

The sun slid down toward the top of the pines on Cemetery Ridge. Paul romped with John the Baptist, and Carrie laughed and talked and hummed gay little tunes for a long time.

But her face was not calm nor her eyes untroubled, though the battle that had been raging in her mind for two hours now was over. A clear-cut decision had been achieved. And Carrie Snyder was not happy about the decision.

"Paul," she said, looking sternly in front of her, "come here."

His head lifted in amazement at the tone of her voice, and he noted wonderingly the new hardness of it.

"What's the matter, Miss Carrie? You look so funny."

"Never mind that. Stand in front of my chair there. Now listen."

"Well, I'm listenin', Miss Carrie. You make me afraid, the way you look and talk and everything."

"Paul, I don't want you to come here any more, hanging around and getting in my way and bothering me. I won't have it, I say, I won't have it."

SHE had been looking straight ahead of her. Now, without bending her head, she looked down into his eyes; the brown of them was deepened by the standing tears. He gazed piercingly into her eyes a moment, then he shook his head several times and smiled wistfully.

"Shucks, Miss Carrie, you're just funnin' with me. Ain't you, now, Miss Carrie, just funnin' with me? You're not mad, are you? But I wish you wouldn't fun with me like that. It—it kinda hurts, Miss Carrie."

"Yes, I am mad, too. Go away, and don't come here any more.

"And go out the back gate, too; don't you dare use my front gate. Go on, now; I won't have you here. Go!"

She heard him moving away down through the garden toward the back gate. She knew that he stopped now and then and looked appealingly at her. She knew that he was sobbing. She kept her eyes on the blackening tips of the distant pine trees. And, at last, she heard the gate open and, after an age, softly close.

Instantly Carrie was running into the house. She stood at the kitchen window staring out along the road where she knew he should now be walking. But her eyes could not see him.

AFTER a while, feeling her way along as if she were blind, she groped back outside and sat on Paul's box under the chinaberry tree. A locust wheezed drearily up in the tree. A dog howled far up over the hill in the Negro settlement. John the Baptist came purring about her feet. Reaching down to pick him up, she touched Paul's forgotten cap—and snatched her hand away.

The doorbell rang.

"Paul Darnell!" she said aloud. She caressed the words, they were sweet on her tongue. She waited a moment. "Paul Darnell! Paul Darnell!" She raised her voice. "Paul Darnell!"

"Yessum, Miss Carrie?"

She sat perfectly still.

"Yessum, I'm here, Miss Carrie! You're not mad at me now, are you? I can tell the way you say my name you're not mad any more."

Carrie clenched her eyes shut and held her breath. She felt a warm body against her shoulder. A hand went slowly nudging its way around behind her head, where it now pressed hard against the tree.

"I been hangin' around out there, Miss Carrie, till I could stop cryin' an' come back and get my cap so I could go home, and I heard you call my name that way. I like you a whole lot, Miss Carrie. Don't you like me at all any more, Miss Carrie, not a teeny little bit?"

And then, suddenly tightening his arm around her neck, he laid his face against hers and kissed her softly, fearfully, on the cheek.

"Now," said Carrie in a slow, deliberate voice, as if she were delivering an ultimatum to some third person, "now, so help me, I have done my best—I can do no more."

And then she swept him to her, and cried, and laughed, and kissed him, and patted his cheek, and sang, and kissed him again and again.

On one of those splendid silver days that sometimes come to the South late in November, Lon Old's cab, looking older and grayer and wickeder than ever in the sharply cutting sunlight, moved out along the main street of Crebillon until it came to the railroad track that touches the edge of town at the station and then swings half around and plunges down a straight grade into a white hole in the black forest a mile away. At the deserted crossing the cab stopped, and Carrie Snyder got out carrying a good-sized black handbag. In the circle of Lon's sparse gray whiskers there sat the superior smile of a masculine ancient musing over the incomprehensible vagaries of woman.

Paying Lon and saying nothing, Carrie started to walk with brisk, eager steps down the middle of the track, looking around presently to note that Lon and his vehicle had disappeared.

A half-mile down from the crossing the track ran upon a trestle that stepped across Barthou's Bayou, and at this end of it Carrie waited and looked around. A little figure came tearing out of a clump of trees near the track, scrambled up the embankment and hurled himself into her arms. Then he stood off and looked at her.

"Oo, Miss Carrie, you're all dressed up like you was goin' away on the train."

She bent her eyes upon him sharply; and then, while he danced about in the ecstasy of overflowing vitality, she stooped down to tighten his red string necktie, to fix his cap firm and straight on his head with a tender, motherly gesture, and to place a finger caressingly on his dimple.

"What did you tell your mother, Paul?"

"Said I was goin' to spend the day at Cousin Emma's." He achieved a fascinatingly wicked grin.

"Has your cousin Emma a phone?"

"No'm, and she lives two miles out of town."

"GOOD! Your mother will know better some day, but by that time she won't mind. Now we must be getting on."

Holding his hand, she went with swift little steps, from one cross-tie to the next, rapidly across the trestle. Arrived at the edge of the woods, she left the track and plunged down among the trees.

Along about noon they came to the bayou that wandered about as aimlessly as they. Choosing a high place on the bank of it, Carrie gave notice of lunch and Paul yelled, "Three cheers for lunch!"

"Now, Paul, I have in this bag a chicken all ready to be barbecued, but you must help me do it. I will mark off on the ground here a place for a barbecue pit. That you must dig out at least a foot deep. Here is a knife to cut with and a big spoon to lift out the earth with. Now dig."

And while he excavated, Carrie gathered dry pine straw and fallen limbs and started a fire near by, so that when the pit was ready there were live coals to fill it half up. Laying the split chicken on a grill of green hickory twigs, she opened a jar of basting sauce of vinegar, salt and pepper, wrapped a piece of cotton around a short stick, and from time to time turned the chicken and sopped it with the sauce.

"Now, Paul, this chicken has just got to cook slow. We've simply got to wait. So let's take it easy."

When the chicken was brown and the air maddening with the scent of it, and a white cloth was spread and garnished with bread-and-butter sandwiches, pickles, apples, celery, cake and hard-boiled eggs, Paul sat down.

WHEN the lunch was over and the black bag had taken back what was to go home, Carrie and Paul built up the fire to offset the chill of inactivity and full stomachs. She sat against her pine tree and Paul lay down with his head in her lap.

The yellow flames of the fire now dying into red coals, crackling as it settled itself against the earth. Some wild bees had discovered many scraps of cake icing on the ground and were busily carrying it away.

Above the tree tops it was brilliant day; under the trees it was dusk except where here and there little white streams of sunlight sluiced down through holes in the foliage to the ground. The bayou murmured through the branches of a new-fallen tree and gurgled drowsily around the end of an old black log.

Paul yawned. "Sing that song about the fisher maiden and the fairies, please, Miss Carrie." He covered his face with his cap; she sang a little and was silent, for she knew he was already asleep.

After a while Paul's cap slipped off his face, and he lay looking up at her.

"Get up now," she said, with defensive severity. "We must be moving back toward Crebillon."

When they came to the edge of the woods again, Carrie stooped down. "Here we must tell each other good-by, Paul, where nobody can see us."

He put his arms around her neck, and she kissed him gravely once.

At the other side of the trestle they halted, she merely touched his shoulder, and he drifted off toward town by a short dirt road, looking back frequently and waving his hand. Carrie stood watching him for a few moments, waving her handkerchief at him gayly; and then, lifting herself out of her high, old-fashioned corset, she strode rapidly up the track, somehow bravely as with banners blowing.

The next morning Aunt Julia called Paul into the kitchen after breakfast. She handed him his treasure chest, and pointed to a lusty black kitten lapping milk from a saucer by the stove.

"It's John the Baptist!" Paul looked piercingly at the old brown woman, then he rushed from the kitchen and from the house.

Entering the rear gate he knew so well now, he ran to the back door. He tapped. Then he beat on it with his fists. His box still lay under the chinaberry tree. He set it beneath a window of the house, tiptoed himself to his full height, and looked in.

"Miss Carrie, Miss Carrie, Miss Carrie!" he called, running around to the front porch. "Oh, Miss Carrie! Miss Carrie!"

In one of the front windows was a sign: "Sold to Blanchard & Blanchard."

Paul went, now slowly, back around to the chinaberry tree and laid his head against it. His shoulders shook and a little boy mourned the loss of a friend more loyal than he knew.

Being Herself.

"ARTIE, dear," I said, "I'll have to have a new dress and a facial massage. Do you realize that on Wednesday night people in New York, California and Alaska are going to hear me talk for fifteen minutes?"

He appeared to be totally unimpressed. "I can hear you talk for fifteen minutes any time," he said carelessly.

"You don't appreciate what you're getting," I informed him. "Just think, Artie, those people pay perhaps a hundred dollars or so for their radio set and as much in a year getting new appliances for it and keeping it in shape. And think how much it costs to keep a station going, then you'll realize how much it costs other people to hear me talk. Think what you're getting for nothing!"

"I am not getting it for nothing," he insisted, "I have to pay every time you open your mouth. It's hats, dresses, shoes, in every one of your fifteen-minute lectures. And don't you realize that those people aren't going to see you."

"You aren't looking at this in the proper light at all, Artie," I said earnestly. "Think of all those people in Ohio, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Maine and Michigan who are going to listen to me! even though they can't see me do you think it would be fair for me to stand before the microphone looking perfectly horrid and letting them imagine I looked nice! That would be deceiving the public and I am nothing, if not conscientious! And then, too, I have read the testimonies of famous women the world over who say they owe their chance and their success in life to the use of the proper face creams, I must have in addition to a massage a permanent wave perhaps."

"And how about your speech?" he suggested.

"Oh that," I said. "I have written down some notes and I think, anyway, I'll be inspired when I face that audience of millions."

But somehow, I didn't feel quite as I had thought I would the night Artie escorted me, in my new clothes, to the broadcasting station. Not that I was worried of course! Though I don't like to flatter myself I must say that I am nothing if not self-possessed. But for some reason or other when I ascended the steps to the studio my heart began to flutter strangely.

These symptoms increased when I was introduced to the studio manager and he led me down a silent corridor and, ushering me into a crypt, left me there alone.

IT LOOKED something like the tomb where Juliet lay when Romeo found her and they both took poison and got into such a horrible mess. A soft, dull, soundless rug covered the floor and dim, gray velvet hangings obscured the walls. The only two things in the room were a metal disc on a standard and deep silence—which grew deeper every minute.

A dreadful fit of trembling seized upon me, I shivered oddly and a curious numbness stole over me. I felt like a person condemned to death who has but a short time left.

"Three minutes," whispered a voice and turning I saw the announcer standing there smiling in a kindly manner as though he understood, but was going to be cheerful about it.

"Stand about a yard from the microphone," he said and softly closed the door.

I looked at that little metal disc and suddenly my throat became bone-dry. I tried to swallow, but my muscles seemed to need oiling. Somehow, my new clothes weren't a bit of comfort to me.

I took the paper with notes on it out of my handbag, but I couldn't manage to read it for it wouldn't keep still, but kept shaking and rattling in my hand.

And then the heavy silence was broken by a voice from somewhere speaking my name! "Our next number will be Mrs. Dumbly, who will give a monologue."

I looked the microphone straight in the eye, drew a deep breath, opened my mouth, but not a sound came forth. My lips were dry and stuck to my teeth when I tried to talk.

I swallowed three or four times again and looked at my notes. They read "one-half pound round steak, onions, butter, head lettuce, tomatoes, olive oil, cornmeal.

I recalled how often Artie had told me that I ought to straighten up the things in my handbag.

I searched through it again and drew out another paper. It read "Dress $75—hat $25—shoes $12."

Never have I hated clothes as I did then.

And then Artie came and forgetting myself completely I talked to him—just as I do at home—for fifteen minutes.

A number of letters have come to the station. They say they have enjoyed hearing my "funny voice." They say I impersonate "a dumbbell" perfectly. And even Artie said, "Sophie, I didn't know you had it in you! You certainly were perfectly natural over the radio! How did it happen to occur to you to impersonate yourself!"

As for myself—I have no comments to make.

The Dear Past.
The Mah Jongg Craze.
Chinese Reap a Harvest.
Making Guest Toothpicks.

To the Editor:

AS HAS been our custom in the past the writer will sometimes answer questions in these columns provided we feel like the answers is of gen. int. Like for inst. we will take occasion today to reply to a query recd. from a admirer during the past wk.

"Will you kindly advice me," writes J. H. M. "if they was ever a game called mah jong or mah jongg or something and if so please give a few details in regards to same."

When we first read the above it did not strike no cord in our memory and we was about to cast the letter to 1 side as the works of a boob when all of a sudden a flash of recollections flashed across my mind and I recalled a xmas time 2 or 3 years ago when I did not have no idear what to get for the madam as usual and 1 of my girl friends says to get her a mah jongg set which was all the rage and she says she knew where she could get a hold of one that was a little damaged for a measley $45.00 which it would bruise you to extent of $60.00 if you tried to buy it new.

So I give this gal the commission to buy the set and the madam acted tickled to death with it and had company in once or twice a wk. to play mah jongg and admire the set and they was a couple times when they was shy a player and dragged me in and tried to learn me the game and got sore as a boil when I said it was a good deal like rummy.

A high class $60.00 mah jongg set was made up of a lot of little pieces of wood and 5 or 6 dice about the size of caviar and a wooden chest of drawers that was always cracked in several places when you got it. They charged $9.00 or 10.00 extra for 4 long pieces of wood that was called walls for no reason. And I guess they must of also charged extra for spelling it with 2 gs.

I won't make no effort to try and tell how the game was played as no 2 people was even close to a agreement regarding same and many a life long friendship was smashed to he—ll and gone on acct. of one of the partys saying chow mein when she should of said eggs fo yung.

I give up the game one night when they added up my total for a hand and found it was 40,000 and one of the gals in the game had 2000 and they said that made her and I tied.

It didn't take nowheres near as long to play mah jongg as it did to get ready and getting ready was the sole of brevity compared to the time spent in brawls. Games like hockey and chicken fighting that use to be considered tough was looked on as only fit for hopeless cripples after mah jongg was introduced.

THEY'S been big rewards offered for the arrest or conviction of the goop or goops that brought mah jongg to America, who ever done it is keeping their mouth shut as they realize that everybody would join with the Ku Kluxers and see that they got justice. A good many think it was the same people that brought the Democratic convention to New York.

The game was suppose to of started over in China but wile most Chinemens looks silly I never seen one yet that looked silly enough to of originated mah jongg. However the chinks was not slow to take advantage and hundreds of them is now living in the lapse of luxury and eating imported rats as a result of $25.00 a hr. mah jongg lessons.

It must give a chinkie a hearty laugh to think of the money we spend sending missionaries to China to enlighten the natives and try and develop their mind, and then think of mah jongg in all its branches.

Amongst the beneficiarys of the mah jongg epidemic in this country was the boys known as experts at auction bridge. The fact that I can run a typewriter at a fair rate of speed don't qualify me as a teacher of kelly pool but the fellows that had been writing and teaching bridge in our best circles soon added mah jongg to their repertory and would of cleaned up even more handsome than they did if they had of wore yellow masks and slanted their eyebrows and hung a chinese lantern on their ear.

They was many a hot newspaper controversy as to this and that feature of the new game indulged in by old masters of 2 days experience and it is pathetic to ponder the amount of white space wasted on mah jongg lectures that might of been used for pictures of Gloria Swanson and Mrs. Coolidge.

What to do with your mah jongg set is a question that is now bothering many a former addict. For a brief time they was a movement a foot to try and get other countrys interested in the game and unload our outfits on them, but for some reason another you hate to even sell stuff that ain't worth nothing to people that ain't going to pay nothing for it. Personly we have found that the chests or boxes makes very good kindling, wile the tiles can be used as confetti and the wooden money as guest toothpicks.

A Vienna Beauty Claims the Right to Kill

Mme. Grosavescu, Charged With the Murder of Her Tenor Husband, Says She "Punished Him Because He Belonged to Every Woman."

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

VIENNA.

TWO weeks before their adventurous marital romance had come to a tragic climax, Mr. and Mrs. Traian Grosavescu gave one of those famous midnight receptions which were always outstanding social events of Vienna's gay world of arts. The host was the famous tenor of the Vienna opera, favorite singer of the Austrian capital and hero of feminine hearts. The hostess was one of the most beautiful women in Vienna, whose dark, fiery eyes marked her Oriental birthright. The guests represented the elite of Vienna's artistic and literary world.

It was a brilliant party, which came to its climax around 2 o'clock, when the great tenor stepped to the piano and sang his favorite piece, the famous aria of Cavaradossi from the first act of "Tosca." There was a peculiar fervor in Grosavescu's voice, a deep passion in his singing, and when the last strains of the music ceased the guests enthusiastically applauded the singer and congratulated his beautiful wife.

"Yes, he sings this aria beautifully," said Mme. Grosavescu. "This same aria started our romance. It was in the role of Cavaradossi, when I saw him the first time. Since then I have found out what love is."

Suddenly she turned to one of her guests, a well-known criminal lawyer, and asked him, half-jokingly, half-seriously:

"Tell me, please, what happens to a woman who kills her husband because he has deceived her? Isn't it true that Austrian courts usually acquit women who have killed their unfaithful husbands?"

The lawyer, as he later told the investigating authorities, delivered a detailed lecture on the woman's right to kill. He spoke of the unwritten law, quoted precedents and explained every detail of the interesting question. He also said later that he noticed a strange, mysterious smile playing around the lips of Mme. Grosavescu while she listened to his words.

Had Mme. Grosavescu not betrayed such a peculiar interest in the fate of women who kill their unfaithful husbands, she probably would not have been accused of first-degree murder two weeks after this memorable discussion, when she killed Traian Grosavescu with his own revolver, thus putting a tragic finale to one of the most sensational love dramas of recent years.

THE fervid and passionate romance of the great tenor and his beautiful wife started four years ago under rather strange circumstances. The future Mme. Grosavescu was at that time the wife of a Rumanian army officer, Major Pavel Caltun, who married the attractive Nelly Koevesdy immediately after the war, following a short and hectic courtship. The couple lived in Vienna, Major Caltun having resigned from the army to accept an offer from an Austrian export firm. They lived on a rather showy scale, spent money lavishly and had a "leased box" in the Volksoper every second evening. Mme. Caltun loved music and she never missed an important performance in the opera during the season.

It was about that time that the Volksoper engaged a gifted and very promising young Rumanian tenor, Traian Grosavescu, whose first appearance in "Tosca" was awaited with high-pitched expectation by the audience as well as by the management of the theater.

Grosavescu sang the role of Cavaradossi, and Mme. Caltun, who sat in her box listening dreamily to the fervid melodies, was fascinated by the "bewitching and demoniac" voice of the new singer. He was tall, manly, with intelligent, youthful features and deep, poetic eyes. It seemed to Mme. Caltun for the moment as if the young man on the stage were something more than a singer; he was a young god of song, whose voice rose victoriously above the fortissimos of the orchestra.

After the first act Mme. Caltun stood up and, while the audience applauded madly, she waved her handkerchief. Her box was next to the proscenium, and the singer must have noticed the slender, beautiful figure of Mme. Caltun, as he made a deep bow directly to her. In the same moment Mme. Caltun, as if carried away by the general enthusiasm, took the red rose which she wore on her black gown and threw it to Grosavescu, who caught it, and made another bow in the direction of Mme. Caltun's box.

During the second and third acts of the opera Mme. Caltun, as she has so often since told her friends, had the distinct feeling that Grosavescu was singing exclusively to her and for her—as if the audience had disappeared, and only two people remained, herself and the tenor, flirting with their eyes and telling a passionate story of a new conquering love, which came suddenly and with as unbridled a force as the sandstorm of the Sahara.

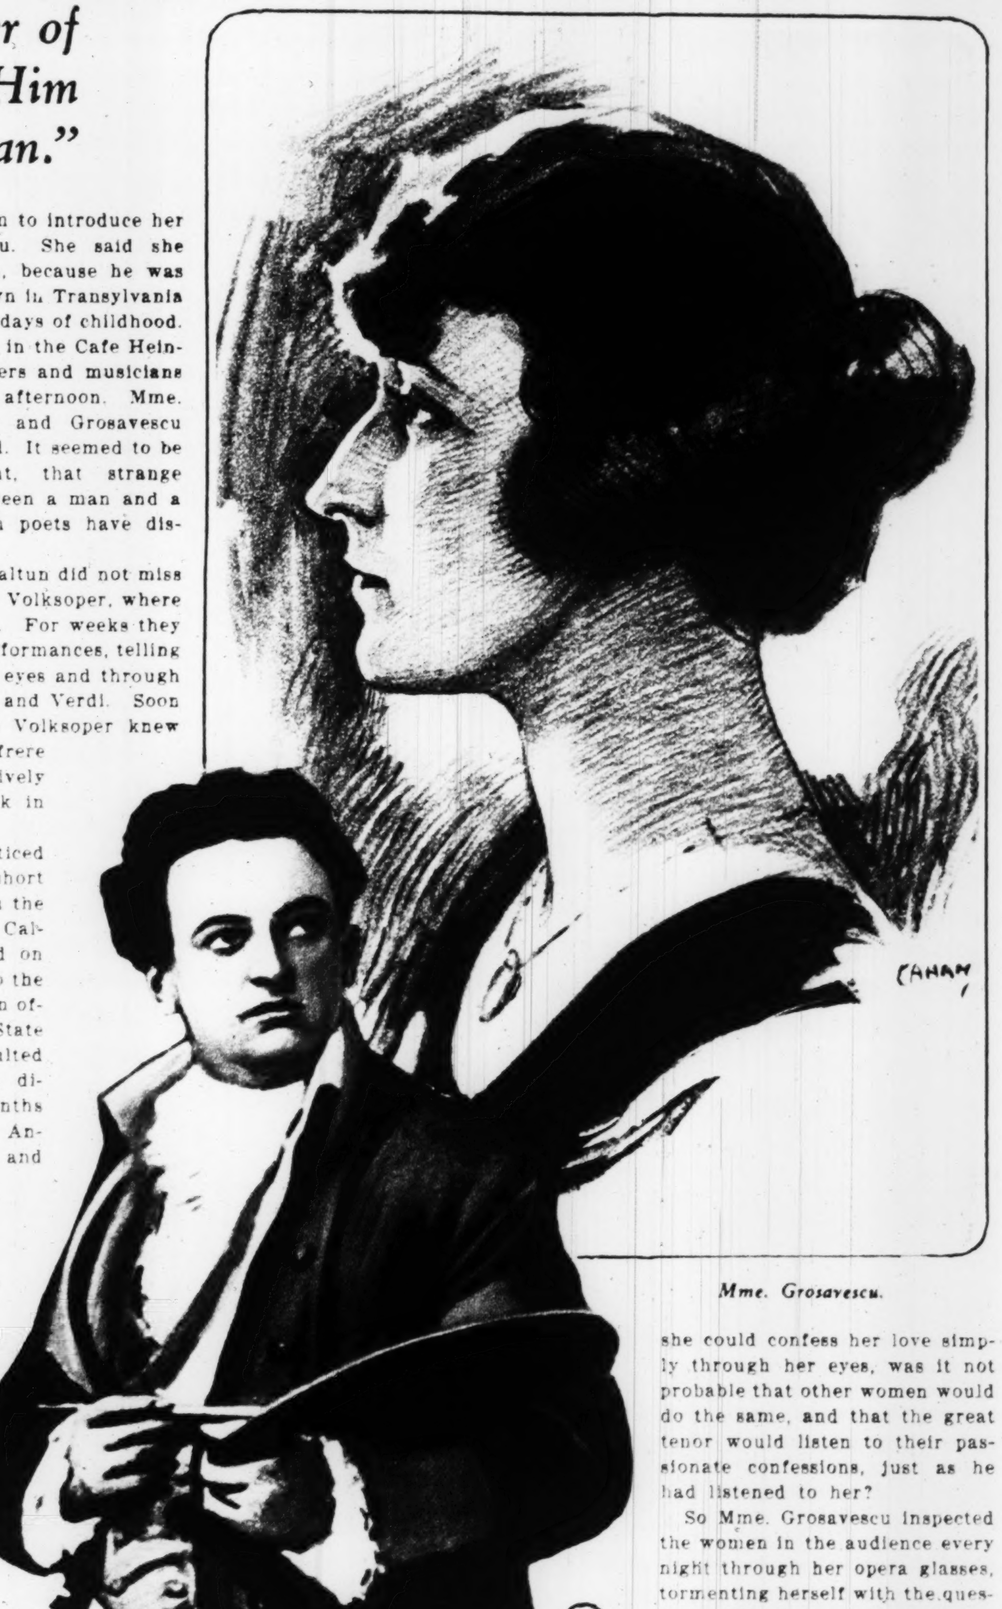
That same night Mme. Caltun called up one of her friends, a Vienna journalist, and asked him to introduce her to Traian Grosavescu. She said she wished to meet him, because he was born in the same town in Transylvania where she spent her days of childhood.

Next day they met in the Cafe Heinrichshof, where singers and musicians used to gather every afternoon. Mme. Caltun was charmed and Grosavescu apparently fascinated. It seemed to be love at first sight, that strange electric contact between a man and a woman, about which poets have discoursed.

For weeks Mme. Caltun did not miss a performance in the Volksoper, where Grosavescu appeared. For weeks they flirted during the performances, telling their love with their eyes and through the music of Puccini and Verdi. Soon the members of the Volksoper knew that their young confrere was singing exclusively for the lady in black in Box No. 2.

Major Caltun noticed it, too. There was a short but dramatic scene in the Caltun home. Mme. Caltun left her husband on the same day, went to the home of her father, an officer of the Austrian State Railways—and consulted her lawyer about a divorce suit. Three months later she was free. Another month passed and Mme Caltun became the wife of Traian Grosavescu, who in the meantime, was engaged by the State Opera and rose to European fame.

The higher Traian Grosavescu ascended on the ladder of fame, the more the love of Mme. Grosavescu seemed transformed into a continuous fit of jealousy. Every night, when her husband sang the leading role of some Italian opera, Mme. Grosavescu would sit there in her box, but instead of listening to his singing or throwing him enamored looks, she inspected the boxes and the parterre with the keenness of a connoisseur, trying to locate women who were falling in love with the tenor, and who—as she did once—attempted to catch a glance of his fiery eyes and—again like herself—flirt with him.



Mme. Grosavescu.

Traian Grosavescu as Cavaradossi in "Tosca."

Of course, she knew what it meant to be a popular tenor. She knew that her husband received bunches of love letters, that flappers pursued him, that hysterical women awaited him at the stage door after the performance. But it was something else which awoke her jealousy. It was the remembrance of her own romance which tormented her. It was the memory of her own great and fascinating adventure with her husband which provoked the first doubt in her heart. If he could literally hypnotize her on that first memorable performance of the "Tosca," if she could confess her love simply through her eyes, was it not probable that other women would do the same, and that the great tenor would listen to their passionate confessions, just as he had listened to her?

So Mme. Grosavescu inspected the women in the audience every night through her opera glasses, tormenting herself with the question: Which one is she? Which one of these distinguished, elegantly dressed women is flirting with Traian Grosavescu, and to which one does he now sing that fervid aria of Mario Cavaradossi?

ONE night she saw a woman in a parterre box, near to the stage, smiling in a peculiarly intimate way to Grosavescu. She knew her—a famous beauty, the wife of a Vienna architect. She saw how she threw a kiss with her hand to him, when she thought that nobody would notice it. She saw how after the first act he made a deep bow toward her—just as he had bowed toward his own present wife three years ago. Mme. Grosavescu noticed the same woman in the same box three days later, when the famous tenor appeared in another role. And then every night she saw her in the same box, opposite to her own—every night the same play with eyes, the same flirtation going on between the stage and the parterre—it was so clear to her that she could almost hear the words which those fiery glances conveyed, those passionate and amorous words which one might distinguish in the midst of a crowd of 3000 people.

There were scenes between the tenor and his wife, terrible scenes. She accused him of making love to every woman. He laughed at the accusations, and then became nervous, bored. And these painful, tormenting nerve-wrecking scenes became more and more frequent, until one day the fateful words fell from the lips of Mme. Grosavescu:

"Be careful. I am not the kind of woman whom one can deceive without punishment—I avenge myself, and—I might kill you some day!"

AFTER the last reception they gave in their home, Mme. Grosavescu seemed changed. She was more calm, taciturn and less openly jealous. Grosavescu was glad, and the only thing which disturbed him during the last week of his life was the mysterious disappearance of his revolver, which he was accustomed to keep in the drawer of his writing table. But he soon forgot it and prepared for a trip to Berlin, where he was to sing the tenor roles in "Tosca" and "Rigoletto."

His train was scheduled to leave at 7 o'clock in the evening, and he returned to his home about 4 to pack his luggage. He was surprised to learn that his wife had already packed it.

"Yes, I've fixed up everything," said Mme. Grosavescu. "I am going with you."

The singer was unpleasantly surprised. He insisted that his wife should not accompany him.

"But I will," she said. "I want to see that woman with whom you are traveling. It is settled."

Grosavescu jumped to his feet and flung out the clothes of his wife from the trunk. They wrestled, he trying to push her into the bedroom, she laughing and crying hysterically. It was a comedy battle, but embittered and furious.

The maid ran to the telephone and called up Mme. Grosavescu's father. She also tried to separate the pair, but it was impossible. The furious struggle went on, until at last the singer pushed his wife into the bedroom, threw her on the floor and then came back. At the same moment the maid heard a revolver shot. The bullet struck Grosavescu from behind, in the head. When Mme. Grosavescu's father arrived, the singer was dead.

THE prosecution charges Mme. Traian Grosavescu with the premeditated killing of her husband. She cannot be acquitted on the ground of the "unwritten law," because she murdered Grosavescu after she had learned that she probably would be acquitted. Her lawyers plead that she committed the murder in a hysterical outbreak of jealousy. The jurists of Vienna declare this to be one of the most interesting cases in the criminal history of Austria.

There is, perhaps, only one woman in the Austrian capital who does not voice her opinion in the famous Grosavescu case. That one woman is Mme. Grosavescu herself. She said, when first questioned after the murder:

"I killed him because he deceived me. When I married him he swore that he would belong to me, only to me, to the end of his life. And he belonged to everybody. To every woman in the theater, to hundreds of women. He made love with his eyes, with his voice, with his gestures. Every night he sang he deceived me with hundreds of women, and I punished him!"

A CROSS-COUNTRY RACE WITH DIAMONDS AS PRIZES

GRASFONTEIN, the scene recently of what was probably the last great scramble for alluvial diamond claims in South Africa, is a farm of over 6000 acres, situated in the Lichtenburg district, Western Transvaal. As agricultral land the farm was worth only a few shillings an acre, as, like most of the alluvial diamond fields in this country, it is dry and stony. But lying a few inches under the surface there is, it is stated, a layer of gravel containing within the area of the farm hundreds of thousands—possibly millions—of pounds' worth of diamonds.

So rich is this new diamond field claimed to be that the owners of the farm have already received over £200,000 from purchasers of only parts of the farm, and owners' claims, and from sales of diamonds recovered during the preliminary prospecting. In some of the prospected parts of Grasfontein where "potholes" have been formed by the rains of centuries the diamonds are found in unusually large numbers—it is stated that as much as £40,000 worth of gems has been taken out of one of these "potholes" on the adjoining farm known as "Treasure Trove," which is now practically worked out and resembles a shell-riddled battlefield.

This was the lure which brought to Grasfontein 27,000 men, boys, and even girls to take part in one of the most remarkable contests ever known.

According to the London Times, the whole district was awake long before sunrise and thousands took part in a wild rush for the diggings. From every point of the compass they came, streaming across the veldt in motor-cars, horse-drawn carriages, donkey wagons, and ox wagons. Including sightseers, who came from all parts of the Transvaal, well over 50,000 people must have been present long before the proclamation was read.

At 7 o'clock a long pole from which the Union Jack fluttered was planted 200 yards from the line at a height at which the flag could be seen by every one of the runners, who arrived an hour or so later. Armed mounted policemen took up their posts and kept the runners in line. Grouped round the flagstaff were Government officials, reporters, photographers and cinematograph men. Memory of the fiasco of the previous week, when an illegal rush occurred, made every pulse beat high as the time approached for reading the proclamation.

At half-past 11 the police again searched the ground which was about to be proclaimed, and found about 50 men in hiding places. The men were arrested. Some of them had pegs in their possession, and one had pegged a claim.

THERE were many anxious moments in the half-hour before the flag was lowered, to denote that the ground was open for pegging. Mr. C. M. Jack, the Mining Commissioner, repeatedly swept the two-mile line of men, boys and girls with his field glasses. At 11:45 he again glanced along the line. "This is where they broke away last time," he said. There was no untoward incident this time, however, and a few minutes later the Commissioner drove in a blue motor-car flying a blue flag to a point about 150 yards from the middle of the line and opened the proclamation.

Quickly the singing and shouting gave way to silence as the runners, with eyes fixed on the Commissioner, made their final preparations for the race of two miles across the boulder-strewn veld. Two of the three cords holding the flagstaff in position were cut by one of the officials. The proclamation was read. The last cord was cut, and the flag dropped to the ground. The rush had begun.

IT WAS a spectacle which those who saw it will never forget. A great roar rose from thousands of throats, and then was heard the patter of many feet. There were old men and young men and boys in all manner of clothing and young girls in shorts and shirts. Some of the men wore pajamas and others were in bathing costumes. The sight was so strange as to be almost like a dream. Many of the runners wore white shirts, and in their forward sweep they appeared like a tremendous sea wave rolling towards the diggings. On the far extremities of the line the runners seemed spread out and from the distance looked like a great swarm of locusts.

In a few minutes it seemed as though the veldt as far as the eye could reach was swarming with diggers. They kept together in a dense mass for the first mile, and then the trained men ran ahead. Among the runners were many students from the Witwatersrand University, members of leading football teams, "crack" lawn tennis players, boxers, and two professional long-distance runners who had come all the way from Australia to take part in the race.

Exciting battles for claims took place between the leaders, many of whom planted their pegs and then rolled over exhausted on the ground. But there were few disputes, and these were soon settled by the authorities.

CHILDREN CRY FOR Fletcher's CASTORIA

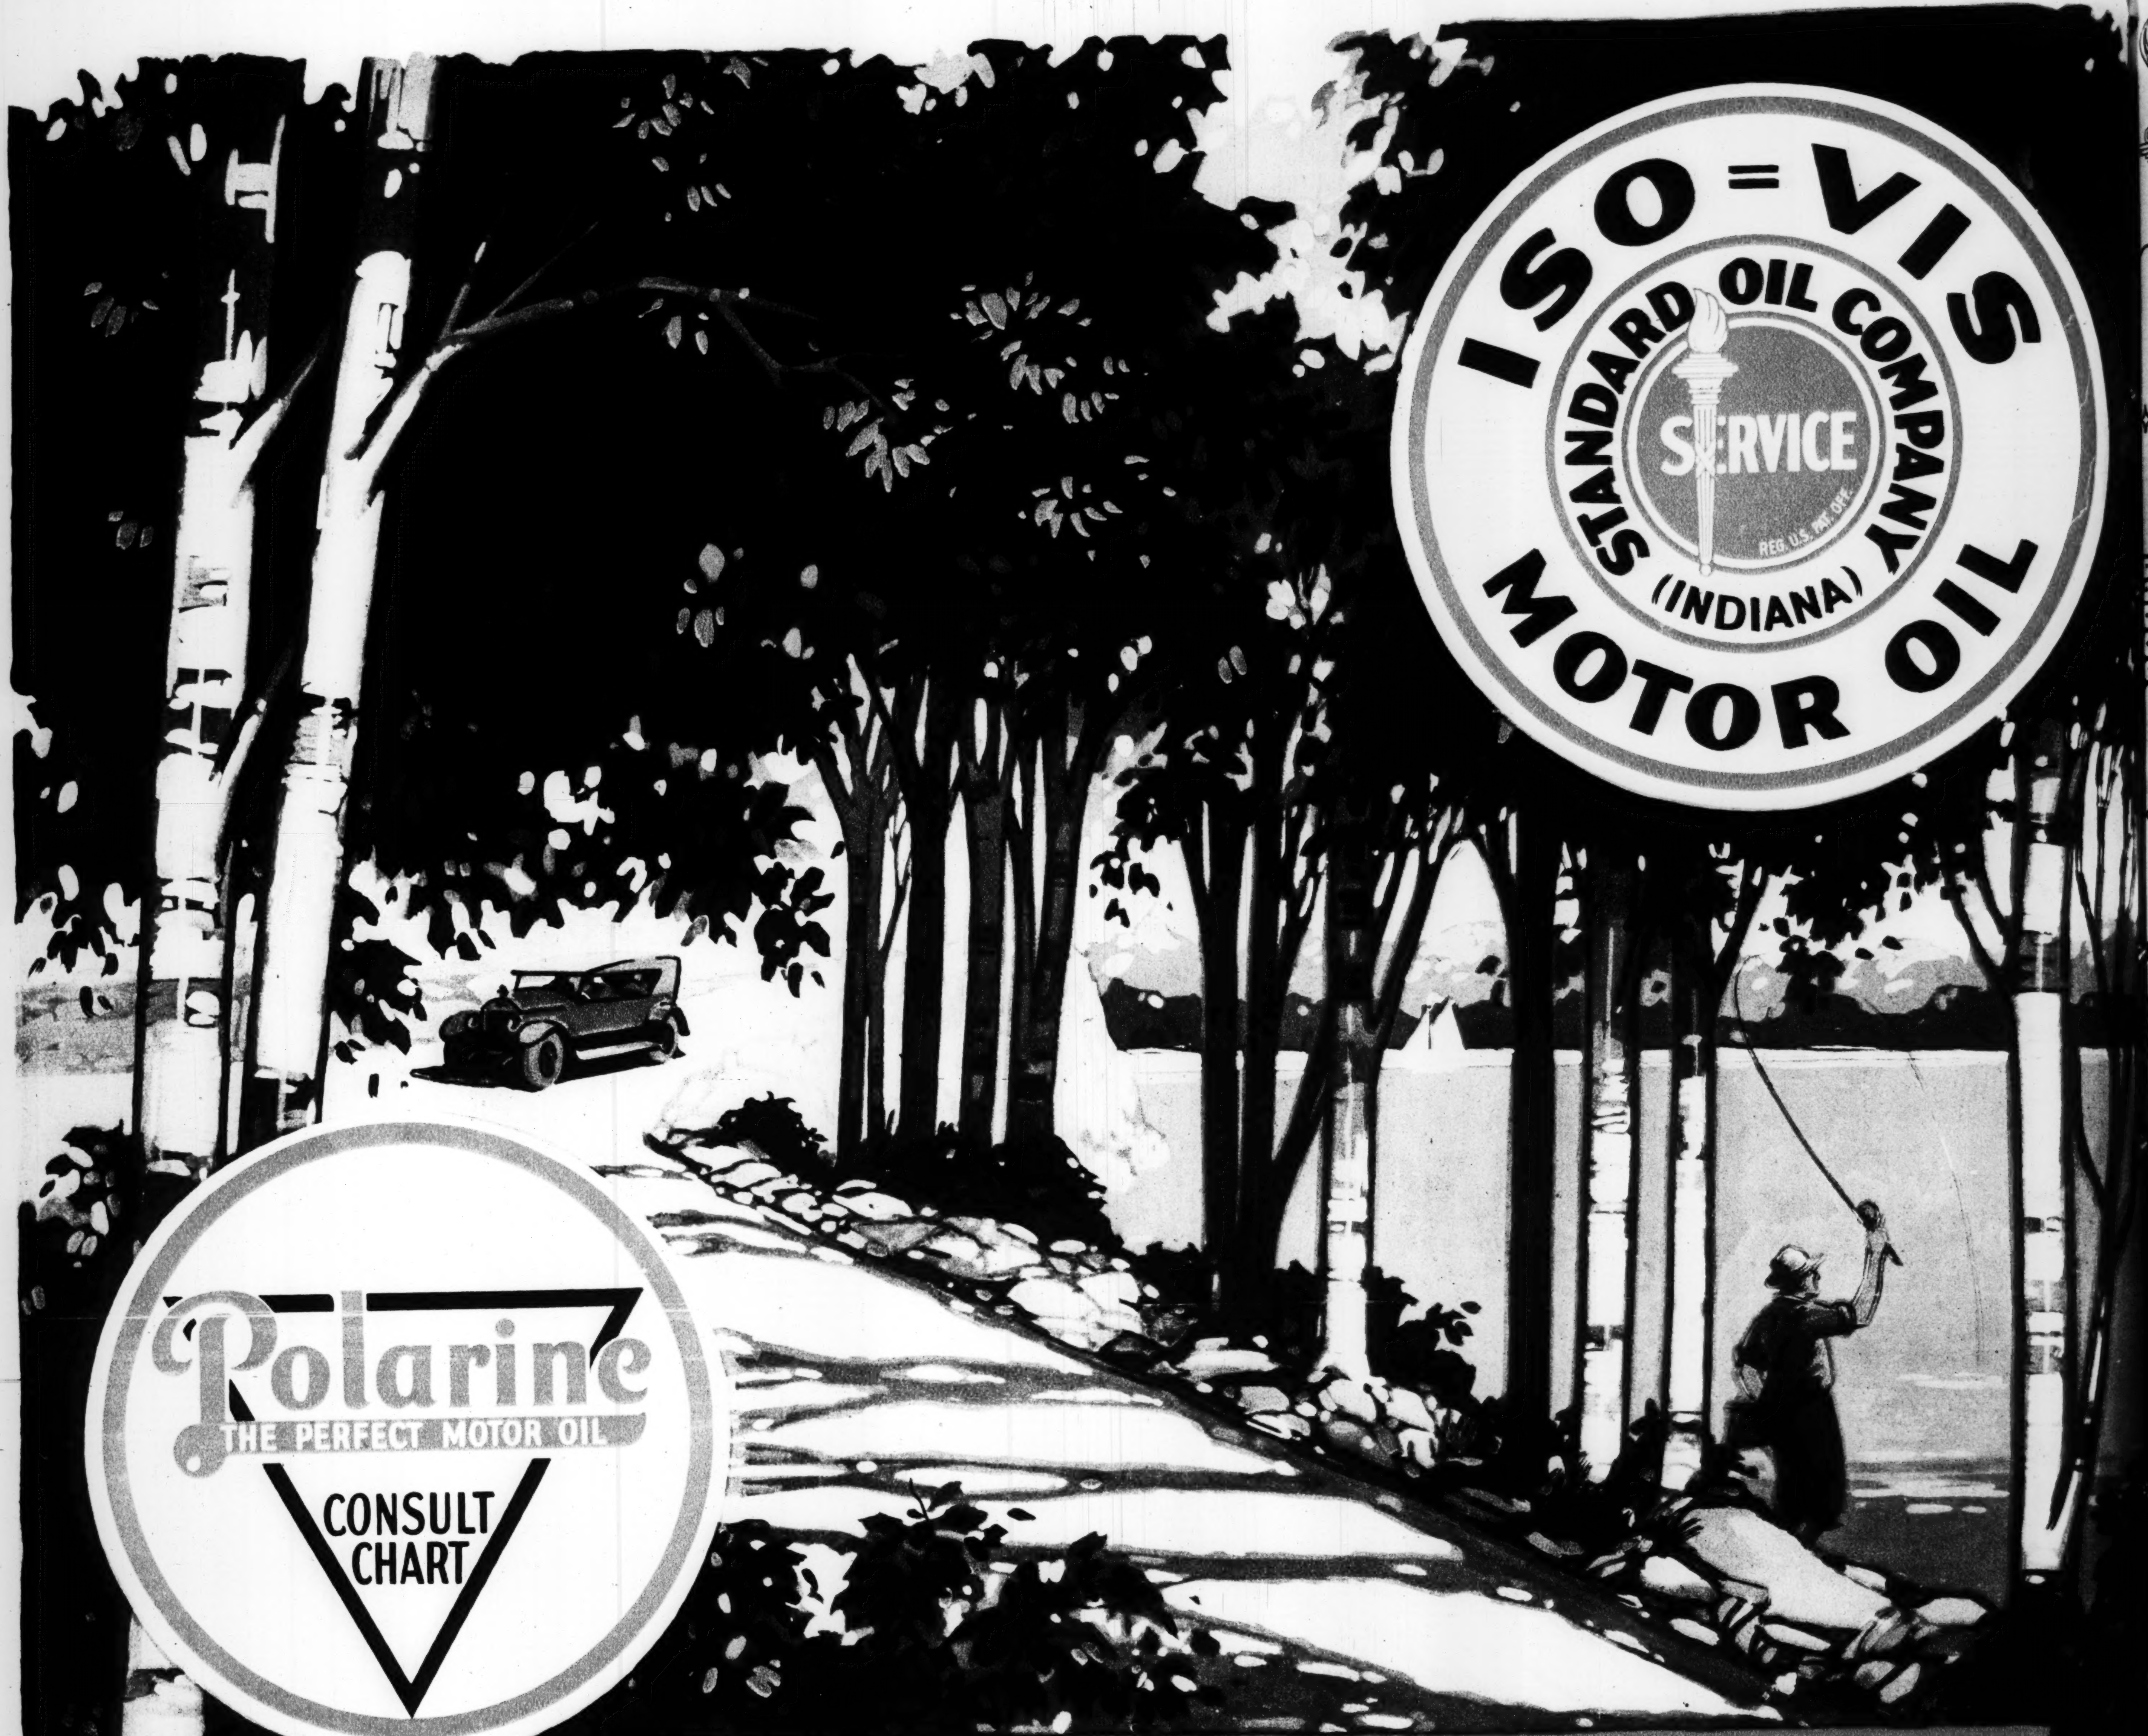
The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of Chas H Fletcher
Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.



ISO=VIS

New Pleasure in Every Motoring Mile

Iso-Vis, the new motor oil of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) puts new pleasure in every mile of motoring. Iso-Vis lubricates the engine with new efficiency. Oil of the past became diluted—thinned out—lost its efficiency. Iso-Vis never thins out! It maintains constant viscosity. Iso-Vis lubricates the engine thoroughly from start to finish—the moment the engine whirs into action—the last lap of a thousand mile trip.

Iso-Vis protects the engine—saves repair bills—puts new smoothness and new pleasure in every mile of motoring! It pays its price—30c per quart! Iso-Vis "F" for Fords.

If you want maximum lubrication at a minimum expense and can control the dilution factor, use Polarine. You can depend on Polarine to do a complete job of lubrication, reaching every frictional surface. Consult the chart for the grade made expressly for your car—25c per quart.

Fat Lost

Joy Gained

There are countless people who can tell you an easy, pleasant way to reduce. Perhaps your own friends are among them. There are now so many that excess fat is not nearly so common as it was.

That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. It is based on many years of scientific research. People have used it for 19 years, and every circle shows the fine results.

Users have shown others, told others the effects. And the use has grown in this way to very large proportions.

Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet. One simply takes four tablets daily, to correct the cause of excess fat, until weight comes down to normal. And users find other benefits galore.

You should try Marmola. Any help which has done, for 19 years, what Marmola has done, must be efficient and helpful. That is the way to easy, scientific reduction. Try it, for your own sake—now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Make it a RAINLESS Vacation

THIS Summer--

HERE is a land that you've always wanted to see, and there's no better time to enjoy it than this summer. In this great Summerland, you can be sure that not one rainy day will spoil your precious vacation holiday. And you can be sure, too, of delightful days of warm sunshine, with cool nights.

The 50-year average mean temperature in a central city here is 66 degrees for June, 70 for July, 71 for August, and 69 for Sepember (U. S. Weather Bureau figures)

Humidity is always low.

High mountains, picturesque canyons, broad beaches, the blue Pacific, Old Missions, and a strange desert make this a scenic wonderland. And here for you every day are golf, tennis, horseback riding, hiking, camping, fishing, surf bathing and scores of other sports.

You will marvel at the varied industry of Los Angeles County, one of the richest agricultural communities in the world. Five thousand miles of paved motor roads lead you through vistas of orange, fig and olive groves, palms, eucalyptus, pepper trees and other semi-tropic vegetation.

Come this summer via Los Angeles and San Diego, return by way of Santa Barbara, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane. See the Great Pacific Coast in one memorable trip.

"I AM A STUDENT. I have always had very good health—until a short time ago, when, as mother said, I seemed to be constantly complaining. I had frequent headaches, felt languid and listless, and had pains and aches all over my body. I seemed, too, to be losing out in my studies, and to make matters worse a fine eruption appeared under the skin on my face . . . Mother, having had an experience where Fleischmann's Yeast worked wonders for her, immediately started me on three cakes a day, spread on crackers. In about five weeks my skin had cleared and my other troubles seemed to fade away, too. Now, whenever mother or I do not feel as we should, we go on our Yeast diet."

"I was slowly but surely drifting towards a breakdown"

"SOME MONTHS AGO I had an experience that I simply can't keep to myself.

"After every meal I was troubled with that heavy, overfed feeling, and nausea. No matter how carefully I chose my food I was positively unable to assimilate it properly.

"Coincident with these disturbances constipation set in—that insidious modern enemy of health. My nerves became frayed. I began to lose weight—I found I was slowly drifting towards a general breakdown.

"This was my plight when a friend recommended Yeast to me. He persuaded me to give it a fair trial, claiming it had rid him of constipation.

"Today I am a different man! My health is good. My constipation is a thing of the past. My complexion has cleared—all due to my perseverance in eating Fleischmann's Yeast." WILSON F. BOUTON, Oakland, Calif.

DAY by day Fleischmann's Yeast removes the causes of constipation—corrects indigestion—clears the skin—fills the whole body with new life and energy.

That is because Fleischmann's Yeast does two things. It keeps the system internally clean. And it keeps it healthily active.

Yeast is not a medicine. It is a fresh corrective food—a living plant, rich in the health-giving nutrients that abound in the malt and grain in which it is grown. The countless tiny yeast plants in every cake have the peculiar power when passing through the digestive tract, to cleanse it and to help prevent the absorption of poisons by the body. They also stimulate and strengthen the intestinal muscles, aiding the processes of elimination.

Start today: make Fleischmann's Yeast a part of your regular diet. Your digestion will become healthy, pimples and boils will disappear—before you know it you will be your old, vigorous self again!

All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Buy two or three days' supply at a time and keep in a cool, dry place. Write for a free copy of the latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. N-933, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington St., New York City.

"DURING THE GREAT WAR I filled various military appointments of a confidential nature and returned with an organism completely unstrung. I finally had to go to the Maine woods for a complete rest. While there I ate by mistake a small bowl of homemade Yeast which the guide had prepared for baking. The next day I felt fine—whether it was the Yeast or not I can't say. At any rate, on my return I decided to try eating Fleischmann's Yeast. I began eating two cakes a day, with the result that in three months I was able to take up my old duties as a structural engineer and never felt better in my life. For three years now I have eaten two cakes of Yeast a day. It has contributed to giving me the cool head and clear mind so much needed in building operations."

Raymond M. Hutchins, Methuen, Mass.

Health · Vigor · Happiness
you can easily make them yours

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one before each meal: just plain in small pieces, or on crackers, in fruit juice, milk or water. For constipation physicians say it is best to dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before meals and at bedtime. (Be sure that a regular time for evacuation is made habitual.) Dangerous cathartics will gradually become unnecessary.

One person in every third American family is eating Fleischmann's Yeast today. The health they have found can be yours! Learn for yourself how easy and simple is this new way to feel yourself again.

"AT TIMES I could hardly drag myself around, I felt so weak and miserable. For years I had suffered from the worst kind of indigestion—my stomach was in a terrible condition. I tried just about everything, but didn't seem to get any better... One day a friend of mine told me I ought to try Fleischmann's Yeast. I shall never forget her. After eating three cakes of Yeast every day for four months I can honestly say that I am completely well. Fleischmann's Yeast cakes can never be too much praised."
